Odd Cures For Seasickness.

Among curious remedies for seasickness is that which is popular among the mariners in the levant—the daily swallowing of iron rust, which is obtained by the simple process of scrapping it off the anchor or anchor chain. But this is only part of the treatment, for a small pouch containing roasted salt and flowers of thyme must be tied upon the abdomen as firmly as can be borne, this being considered to counteract the effect of the internal disturbance caused by the rolling of the vessel. Known to the ancient Greeks as "thymian salt," the preparation has at least the authority of old age, while its efficacy is not without modern testimony. And the belt is better than salt and faith better than the belt.

A Martyr.

"When we were married you said there was nothing you wouldn't do for me," said the spoiled darling.

"Well, my dear," answered her husband patiently. "I was thinking the matter over the other day, and it seemed to me there was nothing you hadn't asked me to do for you, but if there is any little thing on your mind you haven't mentioned yet speak, and I will do the best I can." — Chicago News.

Instinct of Blackbirds.

While residing in the country some years ago and walking out one evening, I found a nest of young blackbirds. The young birds were almost fledged. Taking them home with me, I put them in a cage and the next morning hung them out under a tree, and in about an hour I saw the old birds at the cage, evidently delighted to find their young. The old birds came regularly every two hours and fed them with worms and grubs. This continued for two days, the old birds trying all in their power to get the young ones out. On the third day I noticed the old birds bring a berry, which they gave the young ones, two of which died that evening and the rest next day. The old birds then left off coming. The berries on examination proved to be the seeds of the Atropa belladonna or deadly nightshade. This convinced me of what I had heard about these birds destroying their young if allowed to feed them in imprisonment. I am told that other birds have the same instinct. —Liverpool Post.

Sincerity In Art.

Only an honest book can live; only absolute sincerity can stand the test of time. Any selfish or secondary motive vitiates a work of art, as it vitiates a religious life. Indeed, I doubt if we fully appreciate the literary value of the stable, fundamental human virtues and qualities—probity, directness, simplicity, sincerity, love. There are just as much room and need for the exercise of these qualities in the making of a book as in the building of a house or in a business career. How conspicuous they are in all the enduring books—in Bunyan, in Walton, in Defoe, in the Bible! It is they that keep alive such a book as "Two Years Before the Mast," which Stevenson pronounced the best sea story in the language, as it undoubtedly is.—John Burroughs.

How to Soften the Elbows.

Sometimes a woman who has a pretty arm is troubled with dark, rough elbows and coarse skin on the back of the arm just above the elbow. In either case it will take some time to restore the original soft white flesh. Purchase some liquid green soap, which is really yellow in color, make a good lather with it and rub it well into the skin. Leave it on for about five minutes, then rub it off thoroughly with warm water and dry very carefully. Careless drying of this part of the arms is the usual cause of the roughened skin. After the cleansing apply a skin food, rubbing it in well.

If the harsh surface does not yield readily rub the rough place with a pumice stone, then treat as described. —Woman's World.

"HIAWATHA"

Longfellow's beautiful Hiawatha was never given in Tecumseh as graphically as that of the movie at the Bradley Friday. All the actors were Indians as was also the lady who accompanied the film and read the poem as the scenes were presented on the screen. It was most beautiful and we left the house with a totally different idea of the great old poem, and the times which it depicted. Over 400 school children witnessed the afternoon exhibition and the house was full again in the evening.

How Prussia Was Reforested.

There was no need of celebrating Arbor day in Prussia in the days when Friedrich Wilhelm I. was king, for that monarch had a plan all his own by which he replenished the forests and kept the country well supplied with fruit trees.

According to Das Buch fur Alle, the king, having observed that there was a great dearth of fruit and oak trees in Prussia and not being willing to undertake the tremendous expense of reforesting the country himself issued an order to all clergymen that, after June 21, 1720, they should refuse to perform any marriage ceremony unless the groom could produce evidence that he had just planted six fruit trees and an equal number of oaks. If it was in winter or in the middle of a dry summer, when plants would not grow, the groom had to produce and lay aside a sum of money sufficient to cover the cost of the trees and promise to plant the required number when fall or spring came.

The edict worked wonders. The next generation in Prussia had no lack of fruit and oak trees.

Naming a Novel.

"The thing to do," said the literary man, "is to call your novel after the name of the leading character."

"Why?" asked the youngest novelist.

"Because the best and the most successful novels always have such names," the other replied. "Take the great novelists. The greatest book of each gets its title from the leading character's name.

"Instances are easy to give. What is the best novel of Dickens? It is 'David Copperfield.' What is the best novel of Thackeray? It is 'Henry Esmond.' What is the best novel of Scott? It is 'Ivanhoe.' What is the best novel of Thomas Hardy? 'Tess of the D'Urbervilles.' Of George Meredith? 'The Ordeal of Richard Feverel.' Of Rider Haggard? 'Allan Quatermain.' Of Tolstoy? 'Anna Karenina.'" —New York Post.

Only One Athens Now.

There is and has been for many centuries only one Athens. But antiquity knew no fewer than nine cities or towns of that name in various parts of Greece, and even in the time of Plautus it was sometimes felt necessary to distinguish the great one as "Attic Athens." It was natural that Greek cities should take their name from Athena, the goddess of wisdom, warlike prowess and skill in the arts of life, who, according to some legends, herself founded the City of the Violent Crown. Others ascribed the naming of the city to Theseus or other mythical kings. The "s" of the termination is a real plural, for the city was given a plural name (Athenai), as being made up of several constitutent parts.—London Chronicle.

Courting In Spain.

In sunny Spain etiquette is so very restrictive in the matter of courtship that it is a wonder that young people ever manage to get married at all. Even when, after many difficulties, the engagement is accomplished, the parents have a deciding voice in fixing the date, and, as they prefer long engagements, the wedding day is usually fixed somewhere in the dim future.

The best man and maid of honor are expected not only to fulfill the usual duties, but to contribute—sometimes very substantially—to the expenses of the wedding feast. Wedding cake is unknown, but instead packets of sugared almonds are distributed among the guests and sent by post to those who are unable to be present.—Kansas City Star.

A Tiger Story.

There is a story current at Kuloang, central China, about a tiger which gave trouble in that quarter. A missionary and his wife had been worried by the tiger prowling nightly around their home. They determined to be rid of it and one night tied a cow up in the back yard and a dog at the front of the house. Then they armed themselves with guns and kept watch. The tiger appeared. The missionary fired and killed the cow. The wife rushed to see what had happened, and in her absence the tiger ate the dog.—Exchange.

A SUDDEN CALL.

Sabbath morning dawned bright and clear, and the church bells pealed forth their call to the people. Among those who responded early, was Miss Mina Young, who went to the Methodist church and took the accustomed place among the worshippers. Of a quiet unassuming nature her coming and going was hardly noticeable, only that she was always present. Suddenly those who sat in the choir noticed a change come over her face, and her head dropping backward. They hastened to her assistance but the silent messenger of death had been before them, and she passed over to the better country while yet they strove to revive her.

For a number of years she has lived alone, as one by one her friends were taken from her, and, it seemed a blessed thing that she should die in the church which she loved so well, and in the company of those who meet to worship God in His holy temple listening to the still small voice, she answered the call without a sigh

A prayer at the home at 8:30 Tuesday a. m. by her pastor Rev. G W. Jennings and all that was mortal of Mina Young was taken to Oak Grove for burial, accompanied by two nieces.

The Pythian Sisters will hold their regular meeting Wednesday evening January 26. Pot luck supper at 6:30 followed by installation of officers.

We are in receipt of the Annual Mid-Winter Number of the Los Angeles Times, a paper of some 200 pages which sets forth the glories of that city and the beautiful state of California. It is full of this western spirit which is doing so much to push this state to the front. To quote, "Come to the charming 'Land of Heart's Desire'" A little of this western spirit in Michigan would help wonderfully. Michigan has as much to brag about as California, but the trouble with us is that we don't advertise as they do. We are indebted to the Slayton's for this number of the Times.

Skeletons.

Skeletons are used in cemeteries, laboratories and museums. After battles they are frequently bleached before being stored away for the winter.

Everybody has a skeleton, without which one would fall around like a jellyfish, and instead of going to bed at night we would have to be hung over a clotheshorse. Indeed, life without a skeleton would be one long, dreary flop.

Skeletons come in a lot of assorted bones, which are more or less securely fastened together by the department store clerk who fastened them together before they went out of the shop. When the first skeleton was constructed one of its bones got away and has caused much trouble ever since.

Some wear clothes over their skeletons.—Life.

Appearances.

It is the appearances that fill the scene, and we pause not to ask of what realities they are the proxies. When the actor of Athens moved all hearts as he clasped the burial urn and burst into broken sobs how few then knew that it held the ashes of his son! —Bulwer-Lytton.

"I asked you if you could let me have $100, and you smiled and said, 'Yes, dearest.'"—Life.

GOODFELLOW AT HOME

Mr. Goodfellow had dined out six nights in succession. On the seventh he turned up at home for the evening meal. When he was seated Mrs. Goodfellow rose in her seat and, addressing the other occupants of the table said:

"Children, we have with us tonight a guest of whom you have all heard, even if you do not personally know him. He is a man who has a reputation for conviviality and cheer in every club and cafe in the city, and this evening we are to have the honor and pleasure of being numbered among the admirers of his brilliant and entertaining qualities. Therefore, it is with great pleasure that I present to you—your papa."

OUR NEW HIGH SCHOOL.

There has been much said of late about a new high school for Tecumseh. That one is needed in Tecumseh, few will deny Our opinions differ on the way it should be built, where to build it and how much to pay for it.

It is high time that we should think seriously about this matter and we feel sure that you have been thinking. You have ideas and so have your friends We would like to hear from every one who is interested in a new school house for Tecumseh and what their opinions are as to the three points mentioned above. See us personally or write a letter to be published, so that we may be able to put the whole subject before the people.

If you do not wish us to publish your letters we will, of course, follow your wishes, but write anyway.

MRS. R. M. YOUNG

Mrs. R. M. Young passed away at her home in Holly, Mich., Wednesday about midnight,

Mrs. Young passed her 83rd birthday last August and had been in failing health for the past year, being under constant care of a trained nurse.

Mrs. Young lived in Tecumseh a few years ago with her daughter Rev. Blanch Young who was at that time pastor of the Universalist church.

CONFIRMATION AT ST. PETERS EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

Class of 22 receive the laying on of hands by Bishop C B. Williams of Detroit, Sunday January 23.

A large audience was present at St Peters church Sunday at 11 a. m. when a class of 22 received the rite of confirmation from Bishop Williams. There were ten men, nine women and three boys in the class One of the candidates was confined to her home by illness, and the Bishop administered the rite there later.

The bishop gave a simple helpful sermon to an appreciative audience. During the previous week Rev. Hewitt bestowed the rite of baptism on seven candidates in town and eight in Clinton.

At the men's class at 3 o'clock Bishop Williams gave an address on the topic, "A parson's notions of preparedness" The parish house was filled to capacity every seat being taken. The bishop then went to Clinton, where a class of thirteen were confirmed, two at their homes.

It might be of interest to note that during the pastorate of Rev. Hewitt in Tecumseh, which will be four years in June, the membership of St Peters church has nearly doubled, and great interest is manifested in every department.

GRANGE MEETING

A regular meeting of Tecumseh Grange was held last Saturday with a good attendance and a pot-luck dinner. Worthy Master A. W. Mills was absent because of illness and Ex Master John T. Boyce presided.

The first degree was conferred upon Messrs. and Mesdames John Carson and Wm McClelland. The work was done by Ex-Master John T. Boyce assisted by Ex-Master Harrie A. Smith.

The program was in charge of the worthy lecturer. Dr. W. B. Hartzog.

A debate was held on the subject, "Resolved. That the United States should enter upon an extensive program of military preparedness." Affirmative speakers were O. H. Snedecor, Mrs. A. O. Howard and W. E. Wilson. The negative was very ably sustained by Brothers L. H. McConnell, A. O. Howard and J. T Boyce who all made good arguments for their side of the question.

The question was decided by vote of the audience and the affirmative won out by a majority of four votes. It was really Mrs. Howard's logical paper and keen wit that saved the day for the affirmative. It was a close shave but the country is saved again. President Woodrow can now go ahead with his program of preparedness with the assurance that Tecumseh Grange is behind him to the last man.

BISHOP WILLIAMS SAID LAST SUNDAY

Speaking of Tecumseh,

"You have one of the prettiest towns in the state, with one of the finest cemeteries and one of the poorest schoolhouses."

Well, we all know that, but did you ever look at it just that way before?

We take fine care of our citizens at the end of life, when everything is over; what about the beginning?

BIG SALE OF FURS

Brown & Co. Close a Great Deal.

Brown & Co. have just made a great sale of skins and furs, at their place of business on West Chicago St. They sold to Victor Slesinger & Sons of Detroit 3500 lb. of furs, for the sum of $10,000. This is the largest shipment of furs from any one dealer in the state, and consisted of 3000 skunks 10,000 muskrats, and a large quantity of mink, coon and fox.

Brown & Co. have been for two months collecting these skins, the largest quantity coming from this locality. They recently purchased quite an amount from northern Ohio.

After the furs were ready for shipment, a picture was taken of the load, with the proprietors. This picture will be used with an article in a journal published for the trade.

Brown & Co. have for a number of years been doing a large business in this line George Hines, one of the firm, being considered one of the best judges of fur in this part of the country.

Last week in Clinton he won 19 prizes on 23 birds. Here he also exhibited Buff Leghorns. He is sending his pens to the Detroit show this week. Judge Wise of Lansing says Mr. Campbell has the best pen of Campines he ever saw. The latter are a Belgian bird and unusual in this vicinity.

Here is a minister who appreciates the editor. At a recent editorial convention he offered the following toast: "To save an editor from starvation, take his paper and pay for it promptly. To save him from bankruptcy, advertise in his paper liberally. To save him from despair, send him every item of news of which you can get hold. To save him from profanity write your correspondence plainly on one side of the sheet and send it in as early as possible. To save him from mistakes, bury him. WINTER OATS.

Winter oats supply a cover crop for the land, furnish winter and early spring pasture and produce a very desirable feed for work stock at a time when it is most needed. They usually produce at least double the yield obtained from spring oats in the same locality. Winter oats are much less hardy than winter wheat or winter rye, the northern limit of the successful production of this crop being marked approximately by the Potomac and Ohio rivers, extending thence southwesterly across southern Missouri and central Oklahoma.

NORTHERN GROWN CORN.

Two Varieties of Corn on State Farm Succeed Where Others Fail.

Two varieties of corn of rather doubtful origin, but of proved good quality, have by slow but sure steps won favor in the corn testing work of the Washington Experiment Station. At the present time no doubt remains as to their superiority over all kinds that have been tried. These have been many. In fact, in its search for a type of corn hardy enough to endure the cool climate of Washington uplands the State College has tried out practically every well known type of corn on the American continent. None of the so called "northern" type met the requirements. Many of them failed even to reach the silage stage ahead of the fall frosts, by which they were seriously nipped.

One of the varieties is called Windus White Dent. The other is Thayer Yellow Dent.

Oddly enough, Thayer and Windus Dent were found thriving in the immediate neighborhood of the State Farm many years ago. Nearly a quarter of a century ago both the yellow and white corn were introduced from an eastern source now unknown. The persons who brought the corn in are now either dead or moved away. White Dent Corn was secured from W. V. Windus and since has been named for him. The yellow corn was secured from C. H. Thayer, now dead.

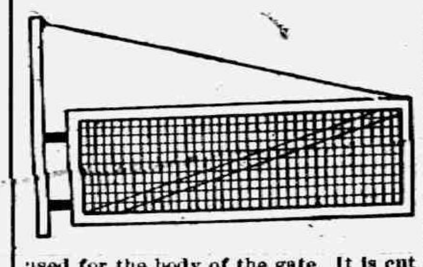
Grown under average upland or lowland conditions of Washington, where rainfall is moderately ample and the soil well tilled and fertile, the Thayer and Windus corn each quite invariably is ready for silage ahead of the fall frosts and except on "frosty" spots matures the ears. It has succeeded in both eastern and western Washington. Yields of from thirty to forty bushels of shelled per acre have been secured.

Wheat Flour Cheaper Without Potatoes.

A recently made computation by the chemist of the Washington Experiment Station gives light on the feasibility of using potatoes in breadmaking as a means of economizing in the use of high priced flour. Flour is figured at $8.40 a barrel of 196 pounds. Potatoes are figured at $1 a hundred. Figured on the basis of dry matter contained in potatoes and in flour, it is seen that the use of potatoes in breadmaking is actually uneconomical. A barrel of flour of the weight mentioned contains 176 pounds of dry matter, worth, as figured, $8.40. To secure 176 pounds of dry matter from potatoes 880 pounds of them are required, valued at $8.80. By these figures wheat flour is given an advantage over potatoes of 40 cents.

An Up to Date Gate.

The frame of this gate is made from boards six inches wide and an inch thick. Of course, the gate frame is cut to any size the maker desires. One brace is placed cornerways across between the frames. Field fencing is used for the body of the gate. It is cut the right size with wire nippers and attached to the frame with small staples. The gate is suspended from a long pole set solid in the ground. To make this post solid set it in concrete. The gate is fastened to the pole with large hinges; then a wire cable or small chain holds the weight of the gate up to the top of the pole.—Farm Progress.



TIMELY GARDEN HINTS.

Get busy in the garden right now, is the advice of Albert Dickens, professor of horticulture in the Kansas State Agricultural college.

By careful preparation of the soil now one can have vegetables a week or ten days earlier than if all the spading or plowing is done in the spring.

Clear off the ground and pile and burn dead pea and tomato vines, lettuce and other remains of vegetation in order to destroy insects and their eggs harboring there.

Scatter well rotted stable manure over the garden. It would be hard to use too much manure. Twenty-five loads may be used to the acre before plowing and twenty-five more after plowing.

Plow deep, nine or ten inches. Plowing under manure has the desirable effect of promoting soil ventilation. Leave the ground rough, so that there will be greater surface on which frost may operate.

A Complete Job.

"Do you love me with all your soul?" breathed the temperamental maiden as she peered through the orchids with which the table was decked at the lucky fellow whose joys and sorrows she had agreed to share.

The l. f. paused for a moment while he inspected the supper check, just handed him by an obsequious menial.

"Yes, and with all my roll," he said fervently.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Christening Boats.

The modern custom of christening vessels is without doubt an adaptation of an ancient custom, just as so many of our other customs and habits have been adapted from ancient ones. The ancients used to place the image of a titular deity at the stern of their vessels, in the tutela, or shrine. Do you remember that the boat mentioned in the twenty-eighth chapter of the Acts, the boat that carried Paul from Malta to Rome, was "under the sign of Castor and Pollux?" It was, so says Acts.

The ceremony of breaking a bottle of wine on the bow of a new vessel as it is launched is another ancient adapted custom, for the ancients offered a libation to Neptune or Poseidon, who ruled the seas, as they launched their boats.—Exchange.

When Gasoline Runs Low.

In Farm and Fireside is an ingenious suggestion for autoists whose gasoline has run so low that they have trouble in hill climbing.

One sometimes is caught out with a low supply of gasoline through having to make long detours to avoid bad roads or from other causes. The supply can be made to stretch over this emergency by adding denatured alcohol or kerosene. Occasionally there is sufficient gasoline for the ordinary level road, but not enough for an unexpected hill.

In this case the principle of pressure feed can be applied. Screw the cap down tight on the gasoline tank and then sharpen a match to fit the ventilating hole in the cap. Blow into this hole as hard as possible and immediately plug with a sharpened match. Usually this will enable the driver to make the hill without further trouble. But if not he can turn the car around and back uphill.

Doctors' Bills.

Your doctor's bill, as a general rule, reads, "For professional services rendered." That means that you are to pay for work done and not for miracles performed. If you hire a doctor to attend you in sickness you enter a contract to pay for his expert services, whether he succeeds in curing you or not. It would be unfortunate for both parties in the contract if the terms were otherwise.

Two things are not yet clearly understood by some people—first, a doctor's fee is collectable, and, second, a doctor is not legally bound to attend any one under any circumstances unless he wants to. You can't make a doctor work for a contingent fee, and you can't make him work at all if he chooses to refuse his services.—Chicago News.

One of Nature's Show Places.

Ogden canyon, a deep cleft through the towering Wasatch mountains, overlooking the Great Salt lake, is one of nature's show places, cut in the solid rock by the river which runs through it, the rushing water, from prehistoric times, carrying quantities of sand and gravel which simply filed out the present wonderful canyon. Ogden river was flowing west along its present course before the lofty Wasatch mountains came into existence. The raising of the mountains went on slowly for ages, so slowly that the river kept its place by cutting down its ever rising bed. In no other way can scientists rationally account for a river rising on one side of the range and flowing directly across it.—Argonaut.

Magnetic Storms.

Contrary to the general belief, magnetic disturbances do not begin at the same moment all over the globe. Instead of that they progress around the earth. In the case of abrupt disturbances, which are usually comparatively minute in their effect on the compass needle, the complete passage around the earth requires from three to four minutes. For the bigger effects or for the greater magnetic storms the rate of progression is slower, so that it would take them half an hour or more to pass around the earth completely.

Festival of Minerva.

The most notable festival at Athens was in honor of Minerva. All classes of citizens on this day marched in procession. The oldest went first, then the young men, the children, the young women, the matrons and the people of the lower orders. The most prominent object in the parade was a ship propelled by hidden machinery and bearing at its masthead the sacred banner of the goddess.

Playing Safe.

"I'm surprised to see you riding in the suburban smoker every day. You never use tobacco in any form, do you?"

"No, but if I ride in one of the other cars my wife expects me to be able to tell her what every lady on the train was wearing and whether it was becoming or not, and if I tell her she accuses me of taking too much interest in other women. If I can't tell her she says I'm too stupid for any kind of use."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

WOULD NOT TAKE $150 FOR TANLAC

Coopersville Man Now Sleeps All Night Since He Has Used Medicine.

Fred Lillie, a widely known Coopersville farmer, recently made this statement:

"I have used three bottles of this Tanlac and wish to say right here that I wouldn't take $150 for the benefits I have received from the medicine."

"Tanlac has built up my run-down system and has made it possible for me to sleep all night through. This is something that has been impossible for me for the past three years."

"The medicine has given me an appetite that is worth a lot. I can also digest anything I eat and never suffer from stomach disorders."

"I don't know what I should have done if I had not found the great medicine and don't know how I did without it so long. I am glad to give it my indorsement."

CHARMING GIFTS FOR YOUNG GIRLS

Things That Are Pretty For Her Christmas Stocking.

THE dainty brassiere shown is made of finest linen, hand embroidered with an eyelet pattern. The edges are finished with an exquisite linen torchon lace.

Another gift the college girl always revels in is quantities of handkerchiefs.

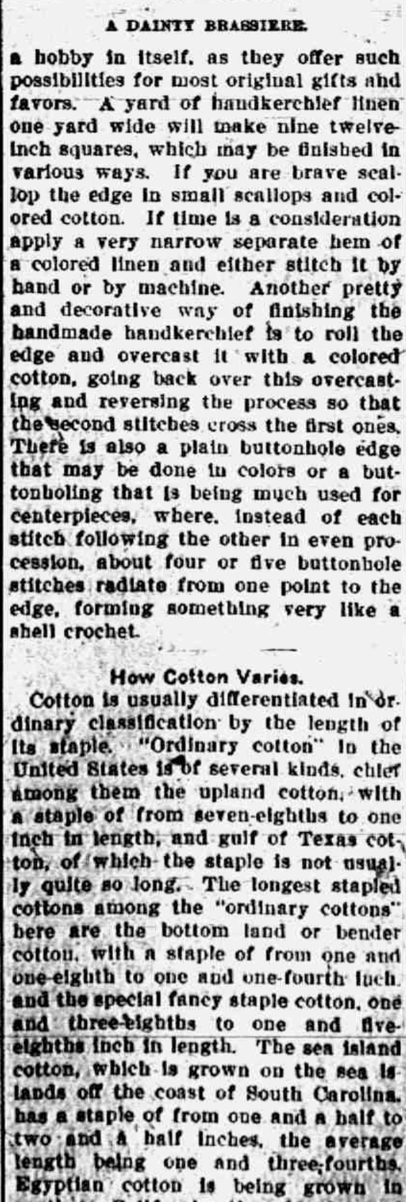
The very newest and at the same time the only really smart and elegant handkerchief is made of a very fine linen in white or any delicate color. It is hemmed by hand, the hem not more than an eighth of an inch wide, in the corner of which is embroidered the monogram or crest in color or white, preferably white.

If you want to be up to the minute make some of them of fine voile.

One style of handkerchief is of solid pale pink voile and is bound with a narrow white hem. Blue, lavender and green voiles are used in the same way. A number of the handkerchiefs have a very wide border of white around a solid portion of color.

Golfing, tennis, riding, dancing, walking, photography, butterfly chasing, wild flower collecting, crocheting, embroidery, swimming, dogs, chafing dish suppers, music—any possible hobby may have its symbol embroidered in colors in the corner of the newest handkerchief. Just think how the girl who is "simply wild about autoing" will appreciate a half dozen fine linen handkerchiefs showing a little red machine ready to run about the hemstitched edge, but securely embroidered in place!

The making of these very attractive little accessories might very well prove a hobby in itself, as they offer such possibilities for most original gifts and favors. A yard of handkerchief linen one yard wide will make nine twelve-inch squares, which may be finished in various ways. If you are brave scallop the edge in small scallops and colored cotton. If time is a consideration apply a very narrow separate hem of a colored linen and either stitch it by hand or by machine. Another pretty and decorative way of finishing the handmade handkerchief is to roll the edge and overcast it with a colored cotton, going back over this overcasting and reversing the process so that the second stitches cross the first ones. There is also a plain buttonhole edge that may be done in colors or a buttonholing that is being much used for centerpieces, where, instead of each stitch following the other in even procession, about four or five buttonhole stitches radiate from one point to the edge, forming something very like a shell crochet.



A DAINTY BRASSIERE.

How Cotton Varies.

Cotton is usually differentiated in ordinary classification by the length of its staple. "Ordinary cotton" in the United States is of several kinds, chief among them the upland cotton, with a staple of from seven-eighths to one inch in length, and gulf of Texas cotton, of which the staple is not usually quite so long. The longest stapled cottons among the "ordinary cottons" here are the bottom land or bender cotton, with a staple of from one and one-eighth to one and one-fourth inch, and the special fancy staple cotton, one and three-eighths to one and five-eighths inch in length. The sea island cotton, which is grown on the sea islands off the coast of South Carolina, has a staple of from one and a half to two and a half inches, the average length being one and three-fourths. Egyptian cotton is being grown in southern California, New Mexico and Arizona. Its staple is not so long as the sea island cotton, but compares rather with the upland cotton here.

It is the greatest pain killer ever discovered. Simply laid on the skin—no rubbing required—it drives the pain away. It is really wonderful.

Mervin H. Soister, Berkeley, Cal., writes: "Last Saturday, after tramping around the Panama Exposition with wet feet, I came home with my neck so stiff that I couldn't turn. MEXICO HAS CAUGHT THE DEMANDING IDEA

Wants U. S. Soldiers Who Fired Over Border Punished.

EL PASO, TEX. — Execution of the two Duran brothers in Juarez Sunday for the killing of Bert Akers, an American was followed by a demand from General Gavieria, commander of the Carranza military in Juarez, that General Pershing punish the American troopers who fired on several Mexican citizens on the international line Saturday afternoon.

General Gavieria alleges that while attempting to drive some horses back across the international line Saturday afternoon Alejandro Solo, a Mexican citizen, was shot by two American troopers. He says Solo was on Mexican soil when shot. General Pershing replied that the two American soldiers who did the shooting, Privates Harrison and Long, have been locked in the guard house at Fort Bliss and that their case is being investigated.

GERMAN AIRMAN SCARES BRITAIN

Third Raid in Two Days Made in England.

DOVER PLACE OF NEW ATTACK

British Guns Fire on Invader—Fliers Chase It at Naval Base—Berlin Says Sunday's Bombs Hit Barracks and Docks at Port and Hangars at Hougham.

LONDON, ENG.—A German aeroplane passed over Dover at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

A British official announcement says it was engaged by all the anti-aircraft guns and pursued by two British machines.

Following the German raid of Sunday, this new attack by an air invader sent a thrill of alarm throughout England. The officials have not yet revealed the names of the places raided earlier.

Dover has extensive docks and naval establishments, and a large garrison. It is used as a base in the transfer of men and supplies to Calais.

Bombs Hit Dover Barracks.

"A German naval aeroplane during the night of Jan. 22-23 dropped bombs on the station, barracks and docks of Dover."

CONSCRIPTION BILL IS SURE OF PASSAGE

Draft Measure Wins in Commons—Up to Lords.

LONDON — The military compulsory service bill passed the house of commons on its third reading by a vote of 383 to 36. The bill is now in the house of lords where it had its first reading today. The present plan is to prorogue parliament on Friday.

While fewer persons voted on the bill than at the second reading the proportion in favor of conscription was practically the same. It indicates that the labor vote, which opposed the bill, is still fighting its passage.

The measure is expected to receive even stronger support in the house of lords. Its passage is assured.

COURT UPHOLDS INCOME TAX LAW

Highest Tribunal Certifies to Act's Validity.

DECISION WITHOUT DISSENT

Measure Now Produces Revenue of $80,000,000 Per Year—Prospect of Much Larger Returns in Time—All Attacks on Law Fail—Justice White Delivers Opinion.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The federal income tax law was declared constitutional in the supreme court. The decision was unanimous.

Chief Justice White gave the court's decision sweeping aside all the many objections to its constitutionality in whole or in part. Most of his opinion was directed toward overruling the contention that the law provided a hitherto unknown power of taxation. Going far into the history of income tax legislation, the chief justice concluded the argument was without merit.

Argument Against Law Fails.

The argument that the law was unconstitutional because labor, agricultural and horticultural organizations and such were exempt, the chief justice held, was answered by decisions under the corporation tax law. He said the point was only another illustration of an erroneous assumption that the tax was imposed under a new power conferred upon the government by the sixteenth amendment, whereas it was a power recognized to exist from the beginning of the government and thus decisions defining the taxing power previously rendered were applicable to it.

Then grouping a number of other contentions against the law, all based on the clause of the constitution requiring uniformity in taxation, Chief Justice White pronounced them all lacking in merit, because of previous decisions which determined that the clause exacted only a geographical uniformity.

Produces $80,000,000 Yearly.

The income tax law has produced approximately $80,000,000 a year for the federal treasury. It allies only to incomes about $3,000, and grants many other exemptions. It was attacked when passed by congress, following the adoption of the federal constitutional amendment providing for the levying of such a tax.

The collection from corporations of the tax on incomes derived from bond investments, which made tax dodging difficult, has been contested.

KAYSER SLAYING RECALLED

Body of Man With Throat Cut Found at Gary, Ind.

GARY, IND. — A second murder mystery resembling closely the death of Rev. Edmund Kayser was revealed at Gary, when two boys found the body of a man, about forty-five years old, at the foot of a tree not fifty feet from where the former pastor's body was found. His throat had been cut and six stab wounds were found in his chest.

Chief of Police Heintz of Gary declared that the mystery might have some connection with the murder of Rev. Kayser, who took a lively interest in the Teutonic cause and who tried to generate sentiment against the manufacture of war munitions.

VILLA ROBS HEARST RANCH

A GENERAL SURVEY OF THE WAR.

Thursday, Jan. 20.—Reports that the entente allies have delivered an ultimatum to Greece demanding that the central allied envoys be dismissed is strengthened by a report from Sofia, which also says the envoys are moving their effects to Macedonia. Other reports say the ultimatum expired Wednesday.

An interview given out for the American press by the Greek king has caused indignation among the entente. The king criticises the Anglo-French expedition for infringing Greek neutrality and destroying a bridge on his frontier.

King Nicholas is again in the war on the side of the entente, having officially rejected terms offered by Austria.

British relief troops are within seven miles of the garrison trapped by Turks at Kut-el-Amar.

Friday, Jan. 21.—The Russians have swept south in the Caucasus along the River Karun and captured the city Sultanabad, only 50 miles from the Persian gulf. The Russians are approaching a junction with the British forces around Kut-el-Amara, which would have the result of establishing an allied front from the Black sea to the Persian gulf. If this juncture is made the Turks will be completely cut off.

London and Petrograd report the Turks in headlong flight and short of ammunition.

The Austrians continue to advance in Montenegro. The fleeing Montenegrins are retiring in the direction of Scutari. Essad Pasha, provisional president of Albania, is at Scutari with 20,000 men to aid the oMntenegrins.

Saturday, Jan. 22.—Renewing hostilities in Montenegro, a dispatch from San Giavanni di Medua reports, the Austrians were defeated by General Martinovitch at Barane on the Lim river, a detachment being annihilated.

Vienna denies breaking with Montenegrins. Foreign reports that peace negotiations between the countries have been broken off, are untrue, an official statement from the government press bureau asserts.

The Cologne Gazette, says a Reuter dispatch from Amsterdam, suggests that starvation may assist in deciding the Montenegrins to capitulate.

The military authorities at Petrograd attach great importance to the defeat of the center of the Turkish army along the 60-mile front between Lake Tortum and Gella river and Shariansou, with the resultant capture of the fortifications of Keupril Keui, which was defended by nearly an army corps. The important of Keupri Keui is due to the fact that it is the last natural stronghold on the road to Erzerum, 30 miles to the west, to which the Turks are retiring.

Sunday, Jan. 23.—London was again bombarded from the air, not by Zeppelins, but by aeroplanes. One man was killed and two men, a woman and three children were injured. A second attack was repulsed by British airmen without loss.

The Russians continue to make progress in the Caucasus. The Slavs, originally in a limited area, are now pushing through Armenia and are now attacking Erzerum, 100 miles from the Black sea.

A Rome dispatch says the Germans are concentrating 3,000 automobiles at Constantinople for a dash toward Bagdad.

An Amsterdam dispatch reports that Turkey is about to publish a statement to the effect that a Turkish submarine sank the Persia on which U. S. Consul McNeely lost his life.

TO THE TAX PAYERS OF SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 7

In response to our invitation to the public for communications touching upon the school question, we have received and print in this issue a letter written by a tax-payer and resident of this district. We are anxious for others to submit their opinions for or against, so that this matter may be brought fully before the public.

Write down your views, sign your letters and send them to us Don't be afraid to sign your name, but if you wish the name withheld, we will follow your wishes, only we must know who is the author of the article This is your chance to express your self, make use of it EDITOR

SOMETHING ABUOT OUR HIGH SCHOOL AND THOSE OF OUR NEIGHBORS

Sixty-two years ago the people of Tecumseh and the school district, realizing the needs of a central school began to agitate the question and in those days, as at present, some questioned the expediency of building, but the friends of the movement pressed the matter and won out Prior to this date high school had been kept in the court house and was a private enterprise.

At a public meeting $2,000.00 was voted for this purpose. In 1855 a site was purchased; $6,000.00 more was voted and bonds were issued against the district for this amount. The following year, 1856, the building was completed at a total cost of $16,000.00.

This is the building that still stands built 60 years ago The good men and women who built it have long ago passed over the Great Divide. Their children, many of them, have fellowed them, but still the old school stands.

Now, what have our neighbors been doing? Morenci built a new school six or seven years ago, Blissfield about seven years ago. Adrian built a new high school seven years ago. Cadmus, with a population of about 100, lately built a new one; Clayton, new about seven years ago; Hudson, new about two years ago; Onsted, a one story building three or four years ago: Addison, one story building about 10 years ago; Britton, within the last 20 years and last year they built an addition to this building which about doubled its size. Clinton built a new building about seven years ago

The people of this district have no reason to find fault about our high school building. They have had their value received. A note, if allowed to run too long without renewing, becomes outlawed—now we are in danger of letting our high school outlaw. What are we going to do about it?

To Make Copper Oxide.

An excellent way to make copper oxide for use in batteries is as follows: Take a quantity of copper filings or fine copper shavings and heat them in a cast iron container or in a crucible till they are red hot. Stir them with an iron rod, and while still stirring sprinkle a little water over the filings until they become ocher red. You will then have a good quality of copper oxide.

Copper oxide plates may be made as follows: Mix the granulated or coarse copper oxide with 5 per cent or 10 per cent of magnesium chloride and heat the heavy mass in forms made of iron sheeting, the forms being of the size of the wanted plate. The more chloride of magnesium used the more porous the plates will be The coarser the copper oxide the better will be the results.—Popular Science Monthly and World's Advance.

The Dog Rose.

The "dog rose" has provoked as much ingenious explanation of its name as the "horse chestnut" One solution is that the "dog" is really "dagga."—a dagger, in allusion to the prickles, a drawback from which the Alexandra Day rose is free Unfortunately for this explanation the flower bears a similar name in countries where it will not apply The Germans, for instance, have "Hundsrose" and Pliny tells how a Roman mother was moved in a dream to send some [illegible] of the wild rose to her soldier son in Spain They arrived just after he had been bitten by a mad dog. He took them and was preserved from hydrophobia, as were others who adopted the same treatment And from that time the wild rose became the "dog rose."—London Chronicle.

Gates In Norway.

A curious feature to travelers in the highroads of Norway is the great number of gates—upward of 10,000 in the whole country—which have to be opened. These gates, which either mark the boundaries of the farms or separate the home fields from the waste lands, constitute a considerable inconvenience and delay to the traveler, who has to stop his vehicle and get down to open them.

Magnet the Thief of Time.

The magnet is responsible for a great deal of trouble with watches, as any jeweler will tell you Never go near a dynamo with a watch in your pocket unless you are sure that it is made of nonmagnetic material This applies especially to the hair spring.—Farm and Fireside.

A Blessed Barrier.

"How did you like that interior setting?" asked the realistic producer. "For a real room, except that it had only three walls, could you beat it?"

"Well," said the morose critic, "I'd have been more contented during the play if you had added the fourth wall."—Judge.

Big Guns Not New.

Modern howitzers and siege guns are giants of destructiveness, yet, making allowance for time and exxperience, we must still admire the good old burghers of Ghent, who 500 years and more ago turned out an iron "bombarde" that weighed thirteen tons. This prototype of the up to date siege gun had a bore twenty-five inches in diameter. Out of it was projected a granite ball that weighed 700 pounds.

Bronze guns as big were cast half a century later at Constantinople. And when only a little over 100 years since an earlier British fleet was fighting its way into the Dardanelles these big guns crippled six of the English men-of-war and killed or wounded 126 of those on board. One gun of this type weighed eighteen and three-quarter tons, had a twenty-five inch bore and fired a 672 pound stone shot.—New York World.

Origin of the Gypsies.

When the gypsies first appeared in England in the fifteenth century the name gypsy was given to them by the English people, who believed them to have come from Egypt. The French, by a similar mistake, called them Bohemians. But a careful study of this race, and especially of their language, shows that they came originally from India. The gypsy language is derived from the Sanskrit, as are the other Aryan languages of India. A similar error was made by the English when they called a distinctively American bird a turkey, under the impression that it was an importation from the Ottoman empire, and by the French when they called the same bird coq d'Inde, believing that it came from India.—Christian Herald.

"Dear Old Ladies" and Other Kinds.

There are as many kinds of old ladies as there are girls, men, automobiles, books and remedies for a cold. There are kindly old ladies, ill natured old ladies, sharp old ladies, witty old ladies, stupid old ladies, musty-fusty old ladies, dainty old ladies, wise old ladies, silly old ladies, Whistler's mother old ladies, Betsy Trotwood old ladies, white spatted old ladies, churchy old ladies, sit-by-the-fire old ladies, tangoing old ladies and old ladies who don't wish to be called old ladies at all.

Nowadays most of them are so busy working in public causes that they have not time to protect their own interests as they should. But let us hope that after awhile they will organize a new association, to be called the Society For the Promotion of Distinctive Characterizations For Old Ladies, and that it will have displayed prominently on its banners the slogan "Down With the Word 'Dear!'"—Scribner's.

Celts Discovered Soap.

Soap appears to have been discovered by the Celts, for the name is derived from the Celtic word "sebon." It seems strange that such early wanderers should have been familiar with soap, but if they had the name they must certainly have had the article it stood for. Moreover, it is quite conceivable that nomads using wood fires could accidentally discover soap. All woods have a certain amount of mineral salts, chiefly those of potash, in their fibers. After burning these are left in the form of carbonate, which a heavy shower of rain would dissolve into a liquid lye, wanting only the grease from an overturned caldron of broth to form soap. A dash of natural curiosity on the part of the woman who cleaned up the mess would reveal the cleansing properties of the new substance.—London Mail.

AGENT ZIEHR GETS A "THANK YOU"

Our friend Ziehr out at the N. Y. Central ticket office is a hard working chap and has not been doing much travelling of late himself but has made it as easy as possible for others to enjoy the pleasures which have been denied him.

A short time ago he arranged quite a trip for a friend; sold her one of those beautiful long green tickets which we all like to show so well when going abroad. So good a job did he do and so well pleased was the owner of the ticket that when she arrived at her destination she set right down and wrote Geo. telling him how nicely he provided for her every want and made the trip so easy for her that she arrived on time and had no trouble at all on the trip. Naturally George likes once in a while to have people say "Thank You" and a lot of this kind of work is done for the dear public without this "Thank You." Arranging a long trip as cheaply as possible with all of the possible comforts and without waits is quite a task and we are glad that we have an agent here in Tecumseh who is equal to the task.

Cromwell's Way.

In the days when Oliver Cromwell was lord protector of England there was no fine discrimination to favor members of an embassy. When such members committed crimes against the law of the land they were held to the same accountability as though they had been natives. So it was that on July 10, 1653, Don Pantaleon Sa, a Portuguese nobleman, brother of the ambassador from that country to England and a knight of Malta, was beheaded on Tower hill. He had killed an Englishman, mistaking him for another. The Portuguese took refuge with his brother, the ambassador, who claimed that by the law of nations his house was an inviolable sanctuary for all his countrymen. Cromwell sent a messenger to state that if the criminal was not given up to the civil authorities the soldiers would be withdrawn from guarding the embassy and the mob left to do as it pleased. Every effort was made by the Portuguese and other ambassadors to save Don Pantaleon's life, but without avail. Cromwell made no other reply than, "Blood has been shed, and justice must be satisfied."—Indianapolis News.

Thackeray at Oxford.

An old story of Oxford and Thackeray is recalled by Thomas Plowman, who vouches in the Cornhill Magazine for the accuracy of his version. Thackeray had to apply to the vice chancellor for permission to lecture and found that gentleman ignorant alike of his name and fame.

Still, he had a trump card left, which he had been accustomed to consider would carry all before it wherever the English language was spoken. So, with a quiet smile of supreme confidence, he simply ejaculated, "'Vanity Fair,' you know!" Then at last, to his relief, a look of awakened intelligence manifested itself upon the vice chancellor's countenance, and Thackeray awaited the effusive outburst which would make amends for all. It came in the words, "Yes, yes, I have heard of 'Vanity Fair,' of course; it is mentioned in the 'Pilgrim's Progress.'"—Westminster Gazette.

How to Tell Parcel Post Charges.

If you know the zone in which is located the postoffice to which you desire to send a parcel post parcel you may figure out the postage required by a simple method.

If the office is in zone No. 1 or No. 2 add to the figure or figures representing the weight the numeral 4. If the weight is ten pounds the postage will be 14 cents, if it is five pounds the postage will be 9 cents, and if it is one pound the postage will be 5 cents.

If the office is in zone No. 3 multiply the weight by 2 and add 4.

If in zone No. 4 multiply by 4 and add 3.

If in zone No. 5 multiply by 6 and add 2.

If in zone No. 6 multiply by 8 and add 1.

If in zone No. 7 multiply by 10 and add 1.

If in zone No. 8 multiply by 12.

COMMUNICATIONS

EDITOR HERALD:

As you invite correspondence on the schoolhouse question, will you permit a country subscriber to suggest some things which Tecumseh needs?

The promoters of the schoolhouse scheme have already called down the [illegible] of the governor on our ancient temple of learning, though we suspect he doesn't know any more about that schoolhouse than he does about Wm Alden Smith's candidacy for the presidency, though he expresses himself without restraint on both subjects. And now they are making poor Bishop Williams the goat to carry out the project when the bishop must have troubles enough of his own.

If these promoters had just driven "The Bishop's Carriage" up Chicago street toward that beautiful cemetery he speaks of, he would very likely have noticed that this is the only town of its size in his whole domain which has not a block of payement in its limits. We have a beautiful place to lay them when they are dead and fine scenery and surroundings to open their eyes on when they first arrive, but along in the middle of the journey we are quite oblivious of their comfort. It is the older people and us country folks who suffer inconvenience from the mud The school children don't mind, they are all on rollers. If you haven't noticed it, Mr. Editor, just go into the postoffice some night just as school is out and try to get your mail, unless you have your skates on

By all means let us pull up our archaic hitching posts and pave our streets so that some of our older citizens can take to the "middle of the road" when we see the kids coming.

Then, another thing we need is a "slogan." I am not quite clear what a "slogan" is, but I infer that it is something suggestive of the main industries of the town. Jackson paid fifteen dollars for hers, offering a prize for the best one suggested. They publish theirs right at the top of each issue of their paper above all the other headlines, "The World Takes What Jackson Makes."

Of course we don't make much of anything which "the world takes" unless it is Uncle Sam's macaroni, but we need a "slogan" (every town has 'em) and a pavement I don't know what we can do about the pavement, but for the "slogan" we could use "We Have Got the Dough," which would help advertise our leading industry and also reassure any alarmed taxpayers who are not quite sure where they stand on the Schoolhouse Question.

Very truly yours,
PUBLIC WELFARE.

KIDNEY DISORDERS QUICKLY RELIEVED

C. A. Wright & Son the popular druggists, have established a new record in the sale of medicines he says they don't believe any medicine ought to be paid for unless it does the user some good and they have adopted the plan of selling Solvax, the standard kidney remedy, under a positive guarantee of quick relief from all kidney or bladder misery, or money back without a question. This speaks eloquently for the virtues of the remedy that already has created such a widespread demand in Tecumseh. Solvax is not just merely a kidney treatment it is a medicine that puts the entire, pain-racked body into normal condition and gives vigorous health after the many painful disorders caused directly or indirectly by sick kidneys. A change for the better will be seen after the first few doses of Solvax and its continued use will soon tone up the entire system of improperly working organs and give you the desire to live and enjoy life to its fullest.

Solvax is sold under a positive guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure. Ask C. A. Wright & Son about it.

Curious Manx Custom.

On July 5 every year all the officials of the Isle of Man, including the clergy in their surplices, walk to the top of Tynwald hill, and from the top of it the laws made during the year are promulgated in Manx and English. This promulgation of the laws on Tynwald hill is as necessary as the royal assent to the validity of all laws passed by the Manx legislature. This is one of the many relics which the old Norsemen left behind, and it dates so far back that its origin is lost in the mists of antiquity. — Liverpool Mercury.

Naming a Town.

An interesting story is told as to the origin of the name "Moosejaw" as applied to a town in Canada. Some fifty years ago, so the story runs, a pioneer, with his team of oxen and "prairie schooner," passing along the banks of the river, was obliged to camp at this point in Saskatchewan on account of an accident to his cart.

A spoke had fallen out during the day, and the wheel was falling apart. He looked about for something to insert for a temporary brace for the wheel, while his wife busied herself with the evening meal.

The pioneer's child, while romping around, found the jawbone of a moose, which she held up to her father, who by this time almost despaired of finding anything with which to repair his cart. He was delighted to find that the jawbone exactly fitted the place of the missing spoke. The Indians thereafter named this district the "Place Where the White Man Found the Moosejaw." This, it is said, accounts for the town's queer name.—Washington Star.

Message of a Banknote.

Writing on a banknote once freed an English slave. The note came into the hands of a Liverpool merchant's cashier. He examined it, noticed some red marks on the back and by the lavish use of time and ingenuity deciphered the message. It ran: "If this note should fall into the hands of John Dean of Longhill, near Carlisle, he will learn thereby that his brother is languishing a prisoner in Algiers." John Dean was found, and he applied to the government and interested the prime minister, who stirred the foreign secretary into action. Inquiries were made, and the dey, by golden arguments, was persuaded to release him. For eleven years he had been a galley slave, and he had written the message in blood with a splinter of wood. His release came in time to allow him to die at home.—London Telegraph.

Scolds Gagged With Iron.

In the seventeenth century erring inhabitants of Newcastle used to undergo far more trying ordeals than that of the drunkard's cloak.

Ralph Gardner in a work entitled "England's Grievance In Relation to the Coal Trade," published 1655, records having seen "in Newcastle six months ago one Ann Bridlestone drove through the streets by an officer of the same corporation holding a rope in his hand, the other end fastened to an engine called the branks, which is like a crown, it being of iron, which was muzzled over the head and face, with a great gag of iron forced into her mouth, which forced the blood out, and that is the punishment which the magistrates do inflict upon chiding and scolding women."—London Express.

Everybody's Opportunity.

How many people we meet who are living narrow lives, complaining of their lack of opportunity!

Take the woman who feels helplessly that she does not know how to think—she has had no chance to study or to meet people of great interests and great purposes. Yet there are libraries—city libraries, country libraries, loan and traveling libraries, with all the wealth of the world's thought and experience, all hers for the taking. She may not know how to think great thoughts herself—comparatively few people do—but through a book she may live with some master mind until his thoughts become a part of her very life. It is not the mere reading of many chapters that starts the life growing.—Youth's Companion.

Epsom Salts as a Dimmer.

Five cents' worth of Epsom salts dissolved in a teacupful of water provides the neatest and most efficient "headlight dimmer" for automobiles so far proposed, according to the Scientific American. The solution is used on the inside of the headlight glass, where it is allowed to evaporate. The result is a beautifully frosted lens, the frosting on which lasts for several months.

Six-year-old had Croup
"I have a little girl six years old who has a good deal of trouble with croup," writes W. E. Curry, Evansville, Ind. "I have used Foley's Honey and Tar, obtaining instant relief for her. My wife and I also use it and will say it is the best cure for a bad cold, cough, throat trouble and croup that I ever saw" Sold everywhere in Tecumseh. adv

Exploding Ice.

To make a piece of ice explode the first step is to put on a plate a lump of clear ice about as large as your fist. Then with a reading glass or the lens of a magnifying glass focus the sun's rays so that the bright spot of light is exactly in the center of the lump. In a little time the ice will begin to melt from the inside, and after a few moments a small cavity will appear, for the ice [illegible] will not take up so much room when melted. The cavity, being entirely surrounded by ice, will be a partial vacuum, filed with a watery vapor of very low pressure. When you have melted a large cavity lay the glass aside and let the ice melt in the sun. Turn it occasionally so that it will be sure to melt evenly round the cavity. After awhile the cavity will be surrounded by a thin shell of ice. Then, because of the great pressure on the outside (about fifteen pounds to the square inch), the thin walls will suddenly collapse, and the ice will fly in all directions.—Youth's Companion.

The Colder Hemisphere.

Dr. George C. Simpson of the Indian meteorological service at Simla, in India, who asserted that the southern hemisphere is much colder than the northern, gives in the Scientific American the reasons on which he bases his opinion. The air is warmed not by the rays of the sun, which simply pass through it, but by the earth, which absorbs the rays. Now, in the northern hemisphere there is much land to absorb the energy of the sun and to give heat to the air. In the southern hemisphere there is much less land, and all the land within the antarctic circle is permanently covered with ice, which forms a virtually perfect reflector and which sends back into space most of the solar energy that falls upon it. Five million square miles of the earth's surface in the southern hemisphere reflect into space a large part of the energy received from the sun—a fact that in itself is enough to account for a considerable difference in temperature.

A Painter's Broken Arm.

A friend once entered the studio of George Inness, the American landscape painter, while he was at work and remarked that the picture on the easel seemed to him much better than certain former works of the artist. "Right!" said Inness. "This is going to be one of my best things, and the reason is that I have had the good luck to break my right arm and am obliged to paint with my left hand. You see," he added, showing his right hand in a sling, "this hand had become so darned clever that I could not catch up with it, and it painted away without me, while this hand"—showing the left, with which he held his brush—"is awkward and can do nothing without me."

Building a Small House.

When the prospective owner of a small house determines at last to build the home to which he has been aspiring for, perhaps, many years, he faces the consideration with the realization of a complex problem—the necessity of harmonizing the ideal that has formed in his years of anticipation with the stern realities of the actual building. Concisely stated, his problem is this: To combine the five desirables—space, charm, distinction, utility and comfort—with the sixth, economy, within the apparently limited allowance of the small house. Sometimes he succeeds in this. Generally he yields to the difficulties presented and sacrifices one or more of the desirable qualities, thankful to get a finished house after all the dissension ensuant with building progress. When, however, a home builder succeeds in the combining of all these qualities in the construction of his house the achievement is worthy of record.—Raymond Comstock in Countryside Magazine.

Never Eat What You Dislike.

I am constrained to protest against the advice given mothers to oblige their children to eat food which they dislike. Most grown people have their likes and dislikes, and if it were punishment to them to eat a despised article how much more so it is to a child to whom small troubles loom as tragedies! The child's distaste should not be discussed, simply ignored until he has forgotten how much he hated a certain article. There are so many good and nourishing things that if one is at all disliked how much better to substitute something else, thereby avoiding issues and friction, which every one knows are harmful to a child's nerves and health and disposition as well. And, as for letting a child go without his needed nourishment till next meal if he refuses one article, the injustice of it is too apparent to need comment.—Woman's Home Companion.

MARINES CHECK FLOOD LOOTING

"Worst I've Ever Seen," Says Admiral Fullam.

DEATH TOLL IS EXAGGERATED

Twenty-nine Bodies Recovered—Loss of Life in Otay Valley Estimated at Fifty—San Luis Rey Valley Deaths Not Over Ten—Visits Scene by Air.

San Diego, Cal., Jan. 31.—Twenty-nine bodies have been recovered from the Otay Valley flood, the loss of life there being conservatively estimated at fifty. In the San Luis Rey Valley it is believed that the death toll would not be more than ten, instead of fifty, as first reported.

Views Flood Ravage by Air.

Los Angeles, Jan. 31.—First news of the flood disaster in Otay Valley was brought to San Diego by Colonel Max Fleischmann, Cincinnati millionaire, who flew over the devasted region in an aeroplane.

When portions of houses and other debris began floating into San Diego Bay, Mr. Fleischmann, accompanied an aviator instructor on a trip inland to investigate reports that a disaster had occurred. They flew over the valley, made one landing and learned the first meager details of the bursting of the lower Otay dam.

Upon their return to San Diego Colonel Fleischmann stated that he had seen several bodies and that the upper portion of the valley had been swept clean of all buildings and improvements.

Marines Guard District.

San Diego, Cal., Jan. 31.—Rear Admiral William F. Fullam, commander in chief of the Pacific reserve fleet, dispatched a detachment of marines to the flooded Otay Valley to suppress reported looting by Mexicans.

United States cavalry detachments are patrolling the Coronado Strand, a narrow strip of beach land running south from Coronado through the bay to the mainland in the vicinity of the Otay district, and are turning back hundreds of persons eager to reach the devastated district.

The Morena dam is reported to have broken. It is the uppermost of three storage units of the San Diego system and empties its overflow into Tia Juana river.

Residents of Imperial Beach, a hamlet on the beach north of the mouth of the Tia Juana, were ordered to flee for their lives.

Eight Bodies Recovered.

The total number of bodies recovered from the Otay district is now placed at eight.

MRS. PATTERSON A SPENDER

"Unlucky" Daughter of "Lucky" Baldwin Denied Credit.

Larchmont, N. Y., Jan. 31.—The following advertisement which appeared in a morning newspaper caused tongues to wag among the exclusive set at Larchmond on the sound: "Larchmond Gardens, Larchmond, N. Y., Jan. 29. I hereby declare that from this date inclusive I am not responsible for any debts contracted in my name. H. V. Patterson, Baron De Patterson)."

It was learned that the Baron's wife is a daughter of the "unlucky" widow of "Lucky" Baldwin. The couple have been married about a year. It is reported there were numerous quarrels and that the police were called in several times to quiet matters. Once it was said a trunk came flying out of a second story window.

INDIANS HONOR MRS. WILSON

Princess Gowahheahdoongwa Presents President's Wife With Basket.

Cleveland, Jan. 31.—The President's only visitors here were a party of Indians including Chief Thundering Water, who lives here; Chief Lewis Colomon and Princess Gowahheahdoongwa, of the St. Regis reservation in New York. The Indians presented a hand woven backet of sweet grass to Mrs. Wilson, who is said to be a descendant of Princess Pocohontas.

Mrs. Wilson thanked them for the gift and smilingly loaned it to them a minute later in order that they might be photographed with it by the movie men in the hotel lobby.

FEAR SUICIDE FROM GRIEF

John F. Avery, Chicago Manufacurer, Hints Self-Destruction in Note.

Chicago, Jan. 31.—John F. Avery, vice president of the Chicago Embroidery company, has disappeared from the Kelshore hotel, a family hotel, and it is feared he has ended his life. He had been grieving over the death of his five year old son.

Lemuel Owen of 1617 Ridge avenue, Evanston, also received a special delivery letter, and in it was one sentence that stood out: "Take care of my affairs for my wife. I am going to join my little son in death."

POLICE AND PETER BOY NEXT

Former Accused in Bank Robbery—Latter Skips With $1,500.

Chicago, Jan. 31.—The city civil service commission has begun an investigation of the charges of graft made against fifteen members of the police department by "Eddie" Mack, self-acknowledged leader of the automobile bandits who looted the Washington Park National bank of $15,162.

When interviewed by newspapermen, Mack said that a safeblower, whom he terms a "peter boy," received $1,500 of the money taken from the bank for having "located" the bank for Mack and the other four men under arrest for committing the actual robbery. "That peter boy is on his way to Europe by this time, I suppose," Mack said. "We spent about $300 and the police recovered the rest."

WEST'S CHEERS PLEASE WILSON

President Gratified With Reception of Defense Plans.

IN ILLINOIS AND WISCONSIN

Chief Magistrate Speaks at Wheaton, Waukegan, Kenosha and Racine in Morning, Milwaukee in Afternoon and Chicago at Night—Presents His Side on Preparedness With Force.

Chicago, Jan. 31.—President Wilson's campaign to inform the country of the grave dangers it must face unless the army and navy are strengthened adequately was continued today with renewed energy.

His schedule for today calls for five speeches in Illinois and Wisconsin, states where the so-called hyphenated sentiment denounced by him in his last message to congress abounds.

The President spoke from the observation end of his private car at Waukegan, Ill., and Kenosha, and Racine in the morning. He delivered a set speech in an auditorium at Milwaukee in the afternoon and in the evening will make another in the auditorium at Chicago.

Speeches as vigorous and frank as those which aroused the feelings of the Cleveland audience to such a pitch were followed up but he did not antagonize the German-Americans.

Praises Foreign Born Citizens.

The President has made public a telegram that he sent to Senator Ollie James read at a meeting of Hungarians in New York which is accepted as a keynote of the conciliatory attitude he is to take in addressing the "hyphenated" audiences he is facing in the west. In it the President expressed his confidence that the great body of foreign born citibens in the [illegible] divided [illegible] loyalty. Here is the President's telegram:

"Cleveland, Jan. 30, 1916.
"Honorable Ollie James,
"The St. Regis, New York.

"May I not send my warmest greetings to the meeting and will you not express for me very deep and sincere confidence in the entire loyalty and patriotism of the great body of our fellow citizens who have strengthened and enriched America by adding their energy to our own out of the nations which have joined their stocks to make a great America?

Sign "WOODROW WILSON."

Wilson Confident.

The President is said to feel that he can appeal with confidence to the foreign born citizens as a body for the support of the measures he advocates as critically necessary to guard against a great national danger. It was pointed out further that his tour on the stump is designed to awaken the country to the needs for preparedness in all its aspects, just as his last address to congress was designed to do—an intention denoted in his discussion of the shipping problem—but his remarks in Wisconsin and Illinois are much less antagonistic to the foreign born than was his address to congress.

President Is Gratified.

Mr. Wilson is said to feel that his stumping tour has begun most auspiciously. His private secretary, Joseph Tumulty, and every other member of the party as well is openly enthusiastic at the manner in which the President has thrown aside the barriers standing in the way of his freedom of speech.

From the start the President's friends have felt that his biggest battle would be with himself in the effort to bring himself to make the sensational statement regarding our foreign relations which might be regarded as certain to make the desired impression on the country. Ever since he has been president Mr. Wilson has been prevailed upon to go as far as he has done in telling his side of a political controversy.

Will Cling to Non-Partisanship.

It is stated authoritatively that the President intends to adhere in his purpose of making a strictly non-partisan appeal to the country. The regret he has expressed that the issue of preparedness has to be passed upon in a campaign year are being reiterated and the president is making it clearer as the days go by that he welcomes help from every sanctionable quarter in awakening the sections of the country which are indifferent to preparedness to a full sense of its high importance.

ZEPPELIN RAID ON PARIS FAILS

Second Air Attack on City Is Driven Off.

52 DIE IN FIRST SKY ASSAULT

Germans Gain Mile in Drive on Paris—Attack South of Somme Results in Advance on Front of Two and Third Miles—1,770 French Taken Prisoners.

Paris, Jan. 31.—An alarm was sounded at 9:45 at night that another fleet of Zeppelins was approaching Paris.

The populace was warned to evacuate the upper floors of their homes, and the streets were ordered cleared.

All eyes one more were strained skyward for the first sight of the returning raiders, and the giant searchlights streaked the sky on all sides.

The sounding of the alarm was believed to indicate that the Zeppelins had been sighted over the suburbs of Paris.

Twenty-four Killed Saturday.

The city has not yet recovered from Saturday's raid, in which it is announced that fifty-two persons were killed. While much praise was given to the minister of aviation for the success of the air fleet in driving off the Zeppelins, there was much criticism because the aviators could not defeat the German flyers before they drew near enough to drop bombs on Paris.

Germans Gain Over Two Miles.

London, Jan. 31.—The German drive south of the Somme, which is believed here to be preliminary to a final desperate attempt to reach Paris, has resulted in a gain of twow-thirds of a mile for the Germans across a front two and one-third miles wide, according to an official statement received from Berlin.

Berlin announces that 1,270 soldiers and seventeen officers were made prisoners in this attack, among them being a number of English soldiers. In point of territory this is the most important advance of the winter on the western front, where the possession of a mere ten or fifteen yards of trenches has been the object of many a bloody engagement.

This claim is not denied by the afternoon's French official statement, which shows that the Germans have made a slight advance by reporting an attack on the French line opposite Dompierre, a little to the south of the scene of Friday's engagement.

Germans Repulsed Twice.

The French report says:

"Last evening the Germans delivered an attack against our positions south of the Somme, opposite Dompierre. Their infantry were twice repulsed by our rifle fire. On the remainder of the front nothing of importance has occurred."

The German announcement that the French have begun a counter offensive in the region of Pont-a-Mousson, in the Woevre region, may indicate that General Joffre has taken advantage of the concentration of German troops for the drive in Artois by attempting an advance toward Metz, which is northeast and almost within shelling distance of Pont-a-Mousson.

Claims French Repulsed.

The French, according to the Berlin statement, directed a lively fire against the German front east of Pont-a-Mousson, which was followed by an advance of the French infantry. Berlin reports that the attack was repulsed.

The battle in Artois, north of Arras, continues with unusual fury, the French having launched an attack which Berlin says was rebulsed on the road from Vimy to Neuville.

COL. HOUSE QUITS GERMANY

Wilson's Personal Friend Leaves Good Impression at Berlin.

Berlin, Jan. 31.—Colonel Edward M. House, personal representative of President Wilson, has departed for Switzerland.

He appeared to be pleased with the result of his visit to Berlin. Gottlieb von Jagow, secretary of foreign affairs, said he was impressed with Colonel House's sympathetic manner and charm and his friendly feeling for Germany, but excused himself from commenting on the results of the visit on the ground that the colonel was the bearer of a confidential mission from the President.

Accuses Administration of Cringing to Germany.

New York, Jan. 31.—The three thousand persons who crowded into the Academy of Music in Brooklyn to hear Colonel Theodore Roosevelt speak before the Institute of Arts and Science on the topic of "Promise and Performance in International Relations" expected strong language from the Colonel and were not disappointed. There were sentences of his long speech that hammered into the ears of his audience like the beat of a drum. Concerning the attitude of the Wilson administration toward the Germanic powers he said:

"We are asked to kiss the bloody hands of the murderers of our women and children and to serve as the tool of these men against these nations which have behaved more valiantly and righteously than we have."

He accused the administration of cowardice, straight out, saying: "Unfortunately it is evident that many of our public men are afraid of Germany, afraid of the pressional German American vote and are willing to sacrifice the honor of this country to their fears."

THE SCHOOL QUESTION

That there may be no doubt as to where the Herald stands on the High School question, we wish to state that we are most emphatically in favor of a new High School for Tecumseh.

We favor a building big enough to take care of all of the grades from the primary up to and including the 12th grade so that it will not be necessary to use the present East Branch School nor what is known as the North Branch School.

We believe that such a building would better serve this school district and do it more economically than by using three seperate buildings. It would take only one heating plant where now we are using three, only one janitor would be needed and most of all it would centralize the plant under one roof with the Superintendent in charge of the building.

In our Village the greatest distance from our present High School building is not so far that it would be a hardship for any pupil to walk to and from the school. The greatest distance is from the southwest portion of the Village, which measures 1.10 miles and from the most northern portion of Brownville it measures less than a mile. The southwest portion would be served with the present West Branch School, so that the smaller pupils would not have the longer walk until they had finished the 4th grade.

We have a building large enough to take care of the 12 grades mentioned, to provide for the present needs, to for a future growth and to make our High School second to none in this State. We favor a building that will stand as an ornament to the Village of Tecumseh, by this we do not mean an extravagant building with a lot of frills on the outside and inside, with marble corridors and staircases, but a substantial building, one that will take care of our needs and stand for years to come. It should be modern in every respect, equipted with a modern heating plant, ventilating system and properly lighted. The lower floors could be used for the grades and the upper floors for the high school. The upper floor should have an auditorium large enough to seat all of the high school pupils and to provide a place for lectures and high school entertainments. It should have class rooms rooms where the sciences could be taught, rooms for the bookkeeping department etc. Toilet rooms should be provided on each floor for both sexes.

We favor the present site with Monument Park between the school and the railroad.

We favor a fixed sum to be placed as a limit so that the people will know just what they are expected to pay. Let us have an up-to-date building which would put our Tecumseh Schools just where they should be, "on top."

Our schools are today like Sonny's trousers. Mother has looked them over and says. "Well, they look pretty bad, might be patched up a bit, but I can't see anything to sew the patches to, so I guess we had better throw them away and get new ones and as it doesn't pay to get cheap ones, we had better buy a good pair." So it is with our schools they won't stand the patching, we had better tear them down and build a new one, a good one one that will stand the test.

DISCUSS THE SCHOOL QUESTION

The school question is warming up. Everyone is discussing it. We earnestly invite all of our friends to use the columns of the Herald so that the matter may be fully discussed. A few have already contributed under the head of "Communications." These articles are from the people, not from the editor nor anyone connected with the movement, and remember, it makes no difference to us whether you are for or against the movement, your article will get the same attention.

Our only criticism is that those who have written, seem a little modest about signing their names. Send in your article and don't be afraid to sign your name—it will make the campaign far more interesting.

COMMUNICATIONS

EDITOR HERALD:

I have just read "Public Welfare's" interesting contribution to the literature of our school house question. I am sorry she wastes so much good sympathy on the Governor and Bishop Williams. From all I have heard of those worthies they are [illegible] look out for themselves.

Mrs. Public Welfare, if you are a woman with a slender purse, did you ever go shopping some bright October morning to get a good sensible blue serge dress? And were you ever met by a smiling clerk who insisted on showing you "our new line of silks" and displayed such fascinating patterns that temptation was to much for you, you forgot the blue serge and took home the new silk? No, you didn't need it; you wore it just four times that winter, and you had to patch and remodel your dress of two seasons before for ordinary occasions.

Mrs. Public Welfare reminds me of that same smiling clerk. Our School Board and people are planning for a sensible thing which we all see the need of, and she comes forward to suggest an unnecessary luxury like pavements; something very nice, to be sure (so was your silk dress) but we can't have both. If we don't build a new school house, we shall have a great deal of patching and remodeling to do on our old one in the next few years, if we hold our own in the educational line.

Now I have lots of sympathy for people who can't dodge the "kids" on "rollers," but dear Mrs. Public Welfare, when you stepped out on the pavements to avoid those troublesome "kids," would you find it any easier to dodge the passing automobile once our reliable old hitching posts were gone.

And as for the country people, they would be more inconvenienced than they now are by the mud, if they did not find those same old posts standing ready when they drive up.

As for a slogan, we thought we had one, and are very sorry that one of our citizens had never heard it. Are we not the "BIGGEST LITTLE TOWN ON EARTH?" A bit boastful perhaps, but not more so than Jack[illegible]

There are some of our people who say," I have no children or grandchildren. Why should I be taxed to educate other people's children? Ten twenty, thirty, forty years ago you went to school. Who paid for your education? Why, all the hard-worked spinsters who had to support themselves all the crusty old bachelors who didn't like children, and all the childless old couples who found the neighbor's darlings a nuisance (and were right half the time.) They didn't like it, but you were there, and for the good of the community you had to have an education. And if you got it in Tecumseh twenty years ago, or more, it was a good one in the best building they knew how to build in those days. You never can repay those old people, but you can pay your debt to the new generation by cheerfully helping us to give them what you had, the best school building and the best education we know of in the year of 1916

Now for one reason why we need a new schoolbuilding.

Did you ever think what would happen in the case of a fire in our present building? How quickly the flames would eat up those old wooden stairways, dry as tinder with the years. You say, "we have fire-escapes."

Some day stroll pass the schoolhouse look up at those same fire-escapes and imagine yourself a frightened child in the third story window the bell ringing the fire-alarm, the wooden stairs inside ablaze, thirty or forty panic children behind you urging you on, and those iron flights below you. We have all read what happens in such panics and how powerless the teachers are to controll the frenzied children. How many do you think would reach the ground safely? Remember, our youngest pupils are in that third story.

Don't say because we never had a fire, we never will. If you are sure of that, why is our school building insured?

If someone had told the manager of the Iroquois theatre the day before his theatre burned that its doors should swing outward and red lights be kept burning over the exists, he would have laughed at this. Today those rules are observed in every little five-cent theater, but does that bring back those who died in the Iroquois disaster.

The captain of the Eastland would not have listened if you had told him his boat was overloaded that fatal morning Because she always had sailed safely, he thought he could go on taking risks indefinitely Such an accident for the same causes will not happen on our lakes again, but does that bring back the dead who left a whole city in mourning?

Shall we wait for such a lesson before we build a one-story or two-story building as nearly fireproof as may be for our children?

FOR CONGRESS 1916

MARK R. BACON

PROSPECTS? FIGURE FOR Yourself.

Here is the official vote for congressman, cast by the Republican party in the Second District, at the Primary Election held August 25, 1914.

Counties	Bacon	Larwill	Reese	Total
Jackson	1095	375	1875	3345
Lenawee	220	1173	42	1435
Monroe	1336	204	190	1730
Washtenaw	1136	320	394	1850
Wayne	2151	173	178	2502

If you will take the total vote of Wayne county 3502, from the total Bacon vote 5938, you will still find Bacon ahead by 3436 votes.

Or you may take the combined total vote of MONROE, Washtenaw, and Lenawee counties, from Bacon's total vote 5938, and you will find him ahead by 923 votes.

Yes, you may take the combined total vote of MONROE, LENAWEE and WAYNE counties, from Bacon's total vote 5938, and you will still find him ahead by 271 votes.

You may combine Jackson and Wayne, or make a combination of any two counties in the District, and take it away from the Bacon vote of 5938, and you will still find him ahead.

The 1914 vote was the largest ever cast in the 2nd district as a primary election.

You cannot reasonably say that he received many Democrat votes, as they had a contest on for the congressional nomination among themselves, and no votes to throw away.

Now, with his campaign last year, his acquaintance over the district, with justice in his claim for the nomination; with his appealing directly to the people and not to the politicians:—being one of Lincoln's "plain people" himself; being a business man:— born to labor, and on a farm; and with his known energy in a campaign; can you reasonably believe his chances for the nomination are not really better than either of the several candidates now seeking the nomination?

And you will not find him asleep at the switch in 1916. adv

How can any Tecumseh sufferer longer doubt the evidence?

When some one told me that Doan's Kidney Pills were good in such cases, I got a supply at supply at Wright & Son's Drug Store. They helped me immediately and I continued using them until well." Industrial Courts.

As long ago as 1806 France created industrial courts, and the example has been followed by Germany, Switzerland, Italy and Belgium. A president, who represents the public, and an equal number of workers and employers sit as a jury rather than as a court. Lawyers are barred. The parties to the dispute take turns relating grievance and defense, and in consequence of this simplicity 90 per cent of the cases are adjusted without formal hearings. In event of threatened strikes or lockouts the courts have the power to sit as boards of arbitration, and it is only in rare cases that satisfactory agreements are not reached.

Compare the simplicity of this procedure with the American method of frequent trials, frequent appeals, reversed decisions, remanded cases, court costs, lawyers' fees and months of delay, a gantlet that no poor man dares to run. The dollar out of which an alien is cheated may mean to him the difference between a bed or a park bench, and certainly his sense of injustice will not inspire him with respect for democratic institutions—George Creel in Century.

A Thief's Answer.

The secretary of the New York Prison association tells of the answer a thief gave to the question, "Is honesty the best policy?" It was in the Elmira reformatory, where a class was undergoing instruction. A young man asked permission to answer the question. "I believe honesty is the best policy," said he, "because of a case where I knew it to work that way. See? There was two young fellows in New York, and they was crooked. See? And they didn't succeed. They went to Philadelphia, and they turned over a new leaf and agreed to be square and honest. They opened a clothing store. See? And they prospered. They got everybody's confidence, and they borrowed $100,000 to enlarge their business, and then they failed and got away with every cent of the money, which they never could have done if they hadn't been honest. See?"

One Misery of Anglo-Indian Life.

Every night at dinner the Anglo-Indian holds a kind of levee. The insects which attend dance gayly round the lamp, and one has to watch one's plate and glass carefully lest some of the insects should dance into them. There is one insect—a little, flat, brown, shining creature—which emits the worst odor in the world. If one of these touches your food the whole is tainted and rendered inedible. You dare not kill these pests, for if one be squashed the whole room becomes filled with its disgusting smell and is uninhabitable for the next half hour. So these abominable insects fly about with impunity, while the poor Anglo-Indian must perforce look helplessly on and inwardly sigh "spero meliora." —London Saturday Review.

AL. H. WILSON AND COMPANY

A brilliant attraction that has proven its merit for cleverness and enjoyment for several years past and its worth as a drawing power is golden voiced singer Al H. Wilson and Company who is presenting on his tour a new periodic comedy song play entitled "As Years Roll on."

There is considerable philosophy underlying the endeavors of this genuine comedian and consists of a commendable desire to [illegible] friends with the public and establish himself at once in the hearts of new audiences while retaining the affections of the vast number who are already his devoted admirers—one would as willingly speak critically of a meadow lark or of a beautiful flower garden as of the Wilson Art and singing—who with his uneffected gifts enters largely into the success of his pleasing plays. He is the possessor of a soothing and musical voice of a peculiar sympathetic quality which is wholly his own and which is noticeable when he speaks just as it is when he sings.

To realize the strong personality of this excellent artist one has but to look over his audiences to behold—gentle faced old ladies or men of the world and quick sensed children who listen with shining eyes when Mr. Wilson sings or speaks—and therefore being so wonderfully gifted, he commands a following of such proportions that crowd the theatre when his appearance is announced.

Of his company and play "As Years Roll On" both have a very satisfying appeal the former for talent and the latter for novelty which makes an attractive combination to please

The play is periodic in theme, the first act being laid in Holland and the other two acts in New York City. And the story exploits the adventures of John Van Zam (Mr. Wilson) from the age of youth to that turning point in life's journey thus affording an opportunity for character acting heretofore not seen in his former rolls. There is considerable comedy of the jolly kind that keeps ripples of laughter bubbling almost constantly. And there are the songs, all new-all catchy and all worth while. "Yesterday" is one that touches the heart with its subtle appeal and is a bit of the overwhelming kind. Then there is "As Years Roll On" whose very title suggests a melody of a haunting nature—"Mother Mine" is a home-song of lingering beauty that must be heard to be appreciated

"She left me [illegible]" is a character song of quaint humor and lively lilt that sets the feet tripping and then a syncopated air of the modern type. "Rag Time In Germany" is irresistable. For diversified entertainment Al. H Wilson and company present in comedy and song, one of the best performances before the public.

Although this is Mr. Wilson's first visit to Tecumseh we are safe in saying that a packed house will greet him when he presents "As Years Roll On" at the Bradley Opera House, Thursday February 10th. Mr. Wilson is supported by a big company and an enormous scenic production and people will be as well pleased as with Fiske O'Hara in Kilkenney."

Fire Versus Life Insurance.

Of the 12,000,000 or so dwellings in the United States 96 per cent are protected—at least to some extent—by fire insurance. But of our 100,000,000 inhabitants only 18 per cent have taken out life insurance policies. Men seem to be more uneasy over the mere possibility of the burning of their houses than over the stern certainty that death will some day overtake them. This is a strange contradiction in human nature. To safeguard the nation's material possessions is well, but how much more valuable than the homes are the human lives of the country! In this age, when the principles of life insurance are so well understood, there should be no such discrepancy between the number of homes and of lives insured. In many instances the former could not be saved from foreclosure were the earners of incomes to pass away leaving the families unprovided for. It is as much the duty of every man to insure his life as to insure his property, and if he has no insurable property there is all the more reason for insuring his life.—Leslie's.

How to Ride.

In riding sit erect and don't slouch along. Don't try to be a cowboy if you are not. We have the real simon pure cowpunchers and broncho busters; also we have the tin horn variety of the same species. Steer clear of the latter; also be careful not to get into this category yourself.

Remember that a horse is only flesh and blood and not a machine. He gets tired, hungry and thirsty, and for goodness' sake, treat him accordingly. Because he is a lively horse and you are paying his hire, treat him white just the same. Remember that some one else rode him yesterday, and another will probably do so tomorrow. Give your horse the same kind of a deal you yourself would demand if you were in its place. Even a broncho has feelings and will appreciate your thoughtfulness.—Outing.

If a Naturalist Painted.

If I were to paint the short days of winter I should paint two towering icebergs approaching each other like promontories, for morning and evening, with cavernous recesses and a solitary traveler wrapping his cloak about him and bent forward against the driving storm, just entering the narrow pass. I would paint the light of a taper at midday, seen through a cottage window, half buried in snow and frost. In the foreground should be seen the sowers in the fields and other evidences of spring. On the right and left of the approaching icebergs the heavens should be shaded off from the light of midday to midnight with its stars, the sun being low in the sky.—Henry David Thoreau.

The Lyre Bird.

The fully developed male lyre bird is one of the most handsome and notable of the forms of bird life of Queensland. The contour of the bird, with its long neck and stout gallinaceous feet, is by no means unlike that of a peacock, and the wonderful tail, possessed only by the male birds, fulfills a corresponding role of vain display. The bird executes antics for a train of female admirers on a raised earthen mound. For a short period of the year, about January, the lyre bird loses its characteristic plumes and has to be content with the sober plumage of its mate.

Internal Portraiture.

An art patroness was gushing over a portrait in the presence of the artist.

"I do not know how it is," she said, "but when you paint a portrait you seem to put more into it than any one else can see."

"Madam," he exclaimel in a rhapsody, "it is not faces alone that I paint; it is souls!"

"Oh," she replied cuttingly, for his enthusiasm was too warm, "you do interiors, do you?"—Exchange.

PERSONAL

Effective March 1, the price of the Chalmers Six-40 will be $1,450 f. o. b. Detroit. This is an increase of $100 over the present price. It is made necessary by the sharp rise in cost of raw materials.

Aluminum which sold for 19 cents a pound only a few months ago now brings 58 cents.

Copper has risen from 14 cents to 24 cents.

Vanadium Steel a year ago brought $1.85 a pound. Now it sells for $8.50.

High-Speed Steel formerly at a $1.05 a pound now is worth $3.35.

Leather formerly 20 cents a foot now brings 33 cents. And so on.

All told, it costs $118.22 more in raw material to build the Six-40 than it did some months ago. As this amount is considerably in excess of our net profit per car, only two courses were open to us.

One was to raise the price.

The other was to lower the quality.

To follow the latter course meant a "one-year" car. This kind of an automobile Chalmers has never built and never will build.

Therefore, a rise in price was the only procedure possible.

We regret that an increase in price is necessary, but we feel that other manufactures of automobiles will be forced either to increase the price or use a lower grade of materials.

For it is not possible to buy superior products in the open market at any less price than Chalmers pays.

We think it only fair to those who have planned to purchase the Six-40, and have been quoted the $1350 price, to take this opportunity of saying that we will accept orders at that price up to midnight February 29. Thereafter the price of $1450 f. o. b. Detroit will prevail.

MONDAY CLUB

Regular meeting of Monday Club Monday afternoon with a large attendance with Mrs. J. J. Freeman leader. A paper by Mrs. N. A Howland was read on John Singer Sargent and James McNeil Whistler. Mrs. J. F. Hicks followed with a paper on Eminent Women prior to 1865.

Mrs. Shull, the president then called for the ideas of the ladies on the new school which is proposed for the village. They responded as follows:

Mrs. Hicks advised a walk over to the school building and look for yourself.

Mrs. Turner advocated more light in all the buildings and said the time had come for us to have a new school.

Mrs. F. B. Wood, even grandmothers must keep abreast of the times. Should have modern school. For every $1,000 valuation the new school will tax us $4.50, for the $75,000 the first year and less as time rolls by.

Mrs. G. R. Gillespie—Great danger from fire as twisting stairways lead from basement to roof in old building

Mrs T. C. Harris—Tecumseh can and has supported a league team but can't give her children good schools Chemistry teacher had to dismiss class because equipment was frozen. Taxes on school will be partially paid by children who receive benefit

Mrs. Burridge—Get together and find out out what kind of school we want. Cheaper to build all at once. At the other election the voters had not properly studied up on the question. Rest rooms not for teachers to loaf in.

Mrs. Wright—We certainly need a new school and make it large enough. Our poor schools is reason no more people come here but send their children to Adrian and elsewhere.

Mrs. H R. Brewer—The light and ventilation in all the buildings are very poor Children repeatedly come home with headache.

Miss Hanford—Have school for our needs and larger than we now need to permit growth. We need the rest room for the country children to eat their lunches in.

Mrs. Shull—Present school a disgrace. Contractors say it would take $15,000 to fix up the old building

Mrs Rosacrans—For health of our children we ought to do away with 3rd story and we do need the gymnasium.

Mrs. Reed—Blissfield has already outgrown her $25,000 school.

Mrs. Freeman—Was choked out by the smoke some 35 years ago. Don't know what it must be now.

Mrs. R. B. Gillespie—The voters must be assured of a stipulated sum before the school is assured.

REV. DUNNING GOES TO KALAMAZOO

The following clipped from the Kalamazoo Gazette will be of interest to the many friends of Rev J Wirt Dunning who was pastor of the Presbyterian church in Tecumseh a few years ago:

Rev. John Wirt Dunning, for the past six years pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Portsmouth, O, has accepted a call from the First Presbyterian church of Kalamazoo and will soon come here to make his home He succeeds Rev. H. W. Gelston, who recently resigned.

Rev. Dunning was born in Corunna, Mich., and is the son of Rev. H. B. Dunning, pastor of several Michigan churches for thirty years, but now retired, residing at Corunna.

Rev. Dunning received his preparatory education in Corunna high school and Alma academy. He is a graduate of Alma college of the class of 1904 and in college was a member of the baseball team for four years, captain and coach of the scrub football team two years, editor of the "Almanian," a college paper for two years and a member of the debating team.

In 1904-5 Rev. Dunning took a post-graduate course at Princeton and graduated from the McCormick seminary at Chicago in 1907.

His first pastorate was at the Presbyterian church in Tecumseh, Mich., going from there to Portsmouth where he has done considerable to build up the church.

Rev. Dunning is author of a book of essays, "The Eternal Riddle," and a booklet, "Presbyterianism, Its History, Its Teaching, Its Call." He has contributed frequently to church and ministers' magazines.

RALPH S. CUMMINGS

Ralph S. Cummings, better known as "Dick" among his friends, passed away at his home on East Chicago St., at 2:30 a. m. Saturday after a lingering illness, at the age of 84 years A widow and seven children survive him, Mrs. Ervin Clark, Mrs. Al. L. Brooks, Mrs John Sherman and Mrs. Will VanAntwerp, Ralph and Will Cummings of Tecumseh and Mrs Clark Bailey of Norvell.

Mr. Cummings has been a resident of Tecumseh for nearly 60 years was teamster for the old Globe mill now the Hayden Milling Co. for 30 years. The funeral was held at the home of John Sherman this afternoon at 2:30 with burial in Brookside cemetery.

"BRINGING UP FATHER"

At the opera house Friday night was a scream from the first raising of the curtain until its final fall. Those cartoons of George McManus were presented to the life only "more so." The story was founded on the cartoons, and the breaking into society of Mrs. Mahoney and her subsequent troubles with her Jiggs, 'Fawther,' would have made a mummy emit shrieks of laughter.

The company was one of the best [illegible] to play here—and [illegible] play such a small town usually They came here from Ann Arbor and their next stop was Chatham, Ont., so apparently "The Biggest Little Town" and our Mr. Mark are known among the best show agencies

The chorus could dance and sing, really! and the costumes were splendid Every one of the musical numbers were good, several old Irish songs being special favorites. Jiggs Mahoney in "When I was Twenty-one" was another good one when he and some of the girls attired in the old-time costumes gave some old dances—the minuet, polka and waltz.

But poor Jiggs certainly did have some trouble getting away from his Maggie to go over to Dinty Moore's, Woman like she was always on the job and especially was she solicitous that her daughters marry "up in G." But all turned out well and the last we saw of Jiggs he had succeeded in getting his bucket of "suds"

WHERE WE ARE THE LOSERS

Up to the last few years we have been proud of the large number of foreign pupils attracted to Tecumseh by the excellent reputation of our schools. They have been among our best pupils, their tuition has helped pay our school bills and directly and indirectly their trade has helped our merchants.

Investigate if you like, the percentage of foreign pupils in our school fifteen years ago, ten years, five years and now. You will be surprised at the steady falling off. They have gone to other towns with up-to-date buildings and modern equipment.

Some morning take the early train passing through Raisin Center and Lenawee Junction and watch the young people getting on at those stations on their way to the Adrian Schools.

WHO PAYS

By Dist. Supt. Ray P Snyder, New York Mills, N. Y.

Mr. Snyder has the first Supervisory District in New York State. For the benefit of the entire district he issues "occasionally" the School Herald, which is a great awakener for the taxpayers as the citizens of the little town of Capron can testify, for in place of a miserable old school-house, used from time immemorial, they now have a beautiful building, inside toilets, properly lighted and best of ventilation.

This is one of Mr. Snyder's appeals to the people of his district:

Who pays? Sometimes when asked to better school conditions, taxpayers complain of high taxes and inquire "Who pays for this anyway?"

Yes, "Who pays?" when ventilation is poor, when light is bad, when seats are uncomfortable, when proper provision is not made to protect the morals of children, when the school conditions are bad generally?

Yes, indeed, "Who pays?" The child with weak lungs, with impaired eyesight, with crooked spine, with an unnatural taste for things indecent, with loss of interest and lack of scholarship, with a shortened life.

The parent pays with regret that his children have not had proper educational opportunity He pays for their moral and physical suffering.

Society pays because all are not contributing their full share to the world's efficiency. We all pay for poor school conditions.

The child pays. The parent pays, Society pays.

Experience.

"Experience would be a wonderful asset but for one thing."
"What's that?"

IF THIS IS TRUE OF ONE WHY NOT OF OTHERS?

It was recently suggested to a prominent physician in this county that there would soon be a desirable opportunity for him to locate in Tecumseh. He replies that he would much like to come and believed that it would be a good move for him to make, but he could not consider it because the educational opportunities for his children in Tecumseh would not compare with those of his present location.

HAD NEARLY LOST USE OF HIS ARMS

Otsego Man took Tanlac and Now is Relieved of Rheumatism.

W. P. Rubert, of Otsego, says:

"When I first began to use Tanlac I was in a very bad state of health. I had suffered so much from rheumatism that I had nearly lost the use of my arms. My hands were all crippled up and I used them only with difficulty

"My stomach was out of condition and I was very nervous. I suffered from severe pains in my limbs. I slept badly. My appetite was poor and my digestion worse.

"Since using Tanlac my rheumatism is very much better and my general health has improved. I have a good appetite, plenty of energy, and my nerves are in good condition, enabling me to sleep well. I think Tanlac is a splendid remedy."

Farm and Garden

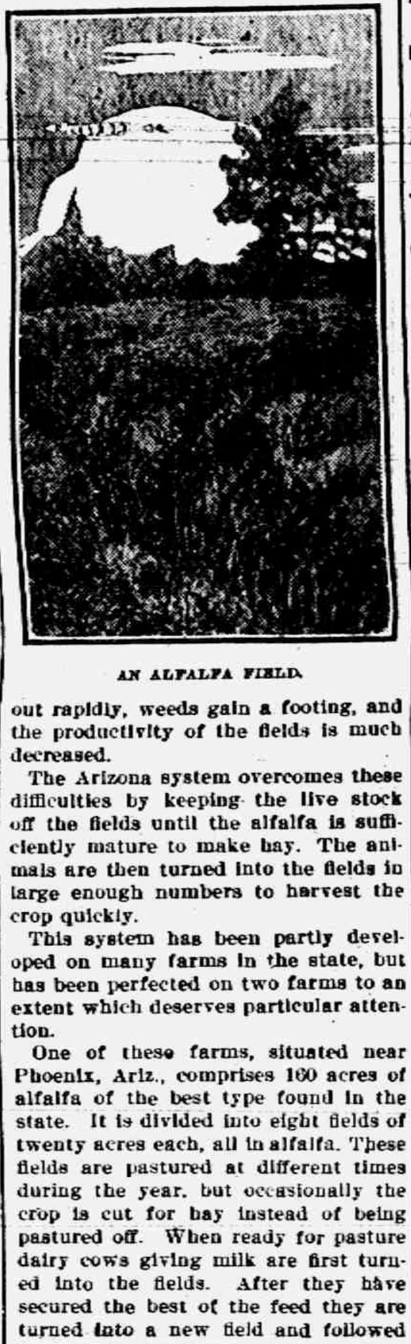
ALFALFA PASTURES.

System of Rotation Now Being Developed For Irrigated Lands.

[Prepared by United States department of agriculture.]

A system of rotation pasturing is being adopted in Arizona which, in the opinion of specialists in the department, offers great possibilities to alfalfa raisers in the southwest. Farmers who pasture alfalfa frequently have difficulty in maintaining the stand. This problem is especially acute in the irrigation sections of the southwest, where the season is long and live stock kept on the fields practically the entire year.

Continuous close pasturing starves the roots of the plants, and the tramping of the wet soil does further damage. In consequence the stand thins out rapidly, weeds gain a footing, and the productivity of the fields is much decreased.



AN ALFALFA FIELD.

The Arizona system overcomes these difficulties by keeping the live stock off the fields until the alfalfa is sufficiently mature to make hay. The animals are then turned into the fields in large enough numbers to harvest the crop quickly.

This system has been partly developed on many farms in the state, but has been perfected on two farms to an extent which deserves particular attention.

One of these farms, situated near Phoenix, Ariz., comprises 160 acres of alfalfa of the best type found in the state. It is divided into eight fields of twenty acres each, all in alfalfa. These fields are pastured at different times during the year, but occasionally the crop is cut for hay instead of being pastured off. When ready for pasture dairy cows giving milk are first turned into the fields. After they have secured the best of the feed they are turned into a new field and followed by dry cows and young stock. These clean up the field and are in turn transferred to another, the first field being watered and left to mature another crop. In the case of those fields which are cut for hay, after the crop has been put up with a hay loader, dry cows and young stock are utilized to clean up the waste hay before the field is watered.

The obvious advantage of this system is that the milch cows are constantly supplied with the best feed on the farm. Maximum returns from them are thus secured, while the second class feed is quite good enough to keep the dry cows and the young stock in condition. Under this system the equivalent of 168 full grown cattle were kept on the farm for twelve months and 360 tons of surplus feed produced in addition. The stand of alfalfa has been maintained in excellent condition for ten years now.

Another farm near Yuma maintained on 140 acres the equivalent of 141 full grown animals for twelve months and produced in addition surplus alfalfa hay and seed to the value of $1,860. This farm was divided into five fields—two of eighteen acres each, two of forty acres each, and one of twenty-four acres. Under the rotation system one field was pastured five times and cut for hay once, one field was pastured six times and cut for hay once, two fields were pastured off four times and cut for hay twice, and the fifth field was pastured twice, cut for hay once and cut for seed once. Not only does this system result in maintaining the stand of alfalfa and eliminating obnoxious weeds, but losses from bloat are reported as being greatly reduced.

Cutting Out Blight.

When old bearing trees are badly infected winter is the best time to cut out the blight. The cuts on large branches or in the trunk should be brushed with a disinfectant and when dry protected by painting with white lead in linseed oil. In cutting blight in the growing season it is important to wipe the pruning instrument after each cut on a cloth or sponge wet with either carbolic acid, concentrated lime-sulphur, 5 per cent formalin or other disinfectant to prevent reinfection of the next cut. Cut twigs several inches below where the blight shows, as in spring the germs extend much farther in than they show on the outside.

The Liberty Boys.

The name of Liberty Boys is the name by which the Sons of Liberty of the American Revolution were familiarly known. They were the men who fought the first battles of the colonists, who opposed the stamp act and participated in the Boston tea party. A flag hoisted upon the flagstaff that stood beside Liberty tree, in Hanover square, Boston, was the signal at which they assembled.

A Giant English Oak.

In the Same Boat.

Sam had come home from school, hungry, as usual. Tossing his spelling book on the kitchen table, he hastened to the pantry and began an investigation of cake box, cupboards and cooky jar.

Suddenly the back doorbell rang Leaving his unprofitable search, Samuel went to answer. On the steps stood an unshaven, long haired man whose clothes needed a tailor and a laundry worker.

"I'm hungry," began the stranger in a low, aggrieved tone, "and should like somethin' to eat."

"Well, so'm I," confided the boy, "but you know I've been a-huntin' for ten minutes an' hain't found a thing!" —Judge.

Too Late.

After the guests had waited for half an hour in a Berkshire church for the bride to arrive messengers were dispatched to the livery stable to try to discover what had happened. The liveryman, made to understand that he had omitted to send a carriage to her house, acknowledged that all the blame rested on him and apologized in manly fashion, but when they suggested that he should proceed to remedy the delay he failed to see the point.

"What'll be the use o' fetchin' 'er now?" he argued. "The service 'll be 'arf over."—London Globe.

Those Who Ride.

In all situations of life into which I have looked I have found mankind divided into two grand parties, those who ride and those who are ridden. The great struggle in life seems to be which shall keep in the saddle. This, it appears to me, is the fundamental principle of politics, whether in great or little life.—From "The Young Man of Great Expectations," by Washington Irving.

Convicted Lorimer Banker Is Given Single Private Cell at Morris, Ill.

Morris, Ill., Jan. 31.—Charles B. Munday, former first vice president of the La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank of Chicago, of which William Lorimer was president, was placed in jail at Morris Saturday night. He was sentenced to five years in the Joliet penitentiary late in the afternoon by Circuit Judge S. C. Stough, before whom he was convicted on Nov. 19 of conspiracy in connection with the wrecking of the bank.

After the passing of sentence he was given into the custody of Sheriff Henry L. Hendrickson, who immediately took him to the little county jail, where he was given the only private cell, one used for women or single violent prisoners.

Neighbors.

Occasionally a writer makes a big hit by a very simple device. He discovers his neighbors. Most of us live next door to people for years and visit with them on the front porch and once in awhile call on them. But we rarely get really acquainted.

And then a McCutcheon comes along, or a Webster, or a Briggs, or a George Ade, or a Fatty Lewis and finds out that a neighbor is a human being. It is revealed that he gets peevish when the buttons aren't sewed on, and that his children have the croup, and that the baby keeps the family awake all night, and that in general he is a romantic character.

It is possible that your own neighbors might be as interesting as those of the gentlemen just mentioned if you would take the pains to know them.—Kansas City Star.

Chateaubriand a Lover of Cats.

Many famous men have loved cats—Cardinal Richelieu and Victor Hugo among others—but probably the animals' most eloquent defender was Chateaubriand, the French writer.

"I love in the cat," he said, "that independent and almost ungrateful temper which prevents it from attaching itself to any one, the indifference with which it passes from the salon to the housetop. The cat lives alone, has no need of society, does not obey except when it likes, pretends to sleep that it may see more clearly and scratches everything it can scratch."

And the great writer on another occasion went so far as to express a hope that by long comradeship with cats he was acquiring some of their characteristics!"—London Times.

Pasteur's Gift to Society.

The normal death rate of civilized countries before the days of Pasteur was about thirty to a thousand of the population. Today it is about fifteen to a thousand in the more progressive nations. Think what a saving of fifteen lives a year for every thousand of population means when applied to half the earth! It means the averting of 12,000,000 untimely deaths annually. It means more than 25,000,000 cases of illness avoided. It means health and happiness in 20,000,000 homes rather than disease and distress.—Bulletin of National Geographic Society.

War Upon Pain!

Pain is a visitor to every home and usually it comes quite unexpectedly. But you are prepared for every emergency if you keep a small bottle of Sloan's Liniment handy. It is the greatest pain killer ever discovered. Simply laid on the skin—no rubbing required—it drives the pain away. It is really wonderful.

Mervin H. Soister, Berkeley, Cal., writes: "Last Saturday, after tramping around the Panama Exposition with wet feet, I came home with my neck so stiff that I couldn't turn. I applied Sloan's Liniment freely and went to bed. To my surprise, next morning the stiffness had almost disappeared, four hours after the second application I was as good as new."

A GENERAL SURVEY OF THE WAR.

Thursday, Jan. 27.—Unofficial reports at London are that Erzerum, the principal city in Armenia, has been occupied by the Russians. If this proves true it is the greatest victory by the allies in Asia Minor since the war began. The city was fortified along modern lines, and is of great strategic, commercial and political importance.

On the other hand a Cairo dispatch to a Berlin paper reports that 15,000 British were killed and 20,000 wounded in the campaign in lower Arabia up to December 30. It reports 20,000 British at Aden, the Gibraltar of the Red sea. It reports that 250,000 kilometers of territory held by the British at the beginning of the war have been lost, and that Arabs, armed by British, are using these guns against them.

The fall of Durazzo to the Austrians is expected daily, London hears. It is not expected the Italians at Avlona will make a defense of this Albanian port against a further Austrian advance.

Friday, Jan. 28.—A neutral diplomatist is quoted in a dispatch from Rome as predicting that King Constantine of Greece will soon be passing through Rome on his way to France. This diplomatist hints that the king's permitting German submarines to base on his islands, the proof of which the entente allies have established, he says, and his efforts to declare Greece in a state of seige, have alienated support of members of his new cabinet, who threaten to resign. A move to restore Venizelos, the friend of the entente, to power is seen in this.

Berlin publishes what purports to be a treaty between Austria and Montenegro by the terms of which the latter country makes such concessions to its conqueror as to become its ally.

Air battles over Germany and the British channel without result are reported.

British union men, by overwhelming vote, urged their representatives to remain in the coalition cabinet.

Saturday, Jan. 29.—The greatest German offensive on the western front since the drive against Ypres last May is going on from the sea to the Vosges to a rush of furious fighting.

The French are making charge after charge in counter attacks in the Artois region and along the Somme river. The British are delivering thrusts against the Teuton positions around Loos.

The German war office announces capture of the village of Frise, 75 miles northeast of Paris, on the south bank of the river Somme.

Berlin announced the capture of a mile of French trenches, northeast of Neuville, and east of Souches, and the taking of 1,000 yards of French positions around Frise.

Paris reports that the French counter attacked successfully west of Hill 140, southeast of Givenchy, and reconquered a portion of a trench taken by the Germans.

Sunday, Jan. 30.—A second aerial attack on Paris was threatened about 9:45 at night. Alarms were given and aeroplanes drove the hostile Zeppelins away, pursuing them for many miles. Announcement is made that 24 persons were killed in Saturday's raid.

The German drive south of the Somme netted them a gain on a front of two and a third miles of depth of two-thirds of a mile and the capture of 1,287 prisoners. This is the greatest German gain on the western front for over a year. Paris and Berlin dispatches indicate that the drive has been checked.

The Russians report further captures of Turks at Erzerum and that 80,000 Turks have been cut off.

The sensational search of a Bay City woman for her sixteen-year-old daughter led to the finding of the girl early in the morning in a Flint resort conducted by Margaret Parsons.

Business men of Muskegon will have a convention hall with a seating capacity of 5,000 and to cost $150,000 before the end of the present year, announces the Muskegon Chamber of Commerce.

When her husband offered her $10 to cease living with him, Mrs. Minnie Raymond jumped at the bargain, she told the circuit court at Detroit. The court accepted her view of the case and granted a divorce.

While they were doctoring a sick horse Dr. Fred W. Main, veterinarian, of Albion, and Charles Alexander, the owner, were suddenly attacked by another animal and were kicked into insensibility before help could reach them.

Rev. Newlin, holding the revival meetings at Coldwater with eleven assistants, completed reading the entire Bible between 9 o'clock at night and 5 o'clock the following evening. A large thermometer on Chicago street constantly indicated the progress of the reading.

In an attempt in a saloon to murder Joseph Golatka, who recently completed a seventy-five day sentence in jail on the charge of non-support, Thorwald Johnson shot and painfully wounded George Rydback, John Jarka and Edwin T. Peterson. Golatka escaped unscathed.

William Sears, Owosso, was put in jail awaiting a hearing as to his sanity after attempting to cut his throat.

While hunting near Mayville a muzzle loading gun exploded when Sam Richards tried to shoot a rabbit. A large hole was torn nearly through the arm just above the elbow.

The elusive Mr. J. E. Foster, secretary of the United Retail Merchants' association, charged with using the mails to defraud and having swindled merchants throughout Michigan, was convicted by a jury in federal court and was sentenced to serve five years in Leavenworth prison and to pay a fine of $1,000.

A teacher's flat refusal to take off her white silk hat when requested to do so by H. R. Pattengill, of Lansing, state institute conductor, led to the hissing of the former Bull Moose candidate for governor at the beginning of his address on "America First" at the institute at Port Huron and nearly wrecked the session.

PREPAREDNESS FOES WILL FOLLOW WILSON

William J. Bryan to Be One of Speakers.

WASHINGTON — The peace and anti-preparedness advocates headed by William J. Bryan, are preparing to follow the President's example by bringing their cause to the attention of the public in speech making expeditions, according to Representative Bailey of Pennsylvania, a member of the group.

Although it is asserted that this speech making activity on the part of Mr. Bryan and others is not to be regarded as trailing the President, the President's trail will be crossed. The anti-preparedness advocates probably will speak in some of the cities at least in which the President has sought to arouse the public to a realization of the necessity for national defense.

"I understand," said Mr. Bailey, "that Mr. Bryan will leave Miami about the middle of next month and will go through the west delivering speeches in opposition to the preparedness or militarist program. It is not proposed to use a special train, as reported, but it is quite possible that Mr. Bryan will touch some of the cities visited by the President. He could not hardly miss them."

UNANIMOUS ON ONE POINT

Neither Germany Nor Great Britain Favors Lansing's Submarine Note.

LONDON, ENG. — The summary of Secretary Lansing's circular note to the powers suggesting rules for submarine warfare meets with favor neither in the German nor the English press, in both of which it is extensively discussed.

The Daily Telegraph says that the note sounds as if it had been signed by Count von Bernstorff and the Tagelische Rundschau says it could just as well have been signed by Sir Edward Grey, "so carefully is everything unpleasant or uncomfortable for the British avoided, so exclusively is every restriction proposed therein directed towards rendering submarine warfare impossible."

MINERS' AMENDMENT BEATEN

Guardsmen and Constabulary May Belong to Organzation.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.—After a long and earnest discussion, the United Mine Workers of America, in convention here, defeated a resolution to amend the constitution of the organization so as to exclude from its membership national guardsmen and the state constabulary.

MISSISSIPPI IS SWEEPING SOUTH

Many Towns Along River in Grave Danger.

THOUSANDS MADE HOMELESS

Levees Breaking and People Are Fleeing—Families Live in Trees in Arkansas—Many Indiana Cities Threatened by Water—Government Says Floods May Continue Long.

MEMPHIS, TENN.—Levees on the Mississippi river have broken at two points and six towns in Mississippi have been inundated. Thousands of families have been rendered homeless on account of the flood, which threatens every farm along the Mississippi in Mississippi and Arkansas.

United States Weather Forecaster S. C. Emery issued a river bulletin warning people in the valley that the Mississippi would rise to a stage of forty-five feet within ten days and might go higher. The highest water known was in 1913, when the river went to forty-six and a half feet. The highest levees are built to hold forty-five feet.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Warnings of further floods in the Ohio, Mississippi and Arkansas valleys, and a forecast that they will be long continued, were issued by the weather bureau.

25,000 Acres Flooded.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK. — Twenty-five thousand acres of the finest plantation farms were flooded when the Fourche river dam broke under the pressure of the waters. A strip of land covering fifty square miles were inundated. Six hundred farmers and share croppers fled to safety. Eighty convicts of the Pulaski county farm are marooned on a ridge.

Two hundred persons are facing death by drowning and are hemmed in behind the Red Fork levee between Little Rock and Pine Bluff. Unless aid reaches them within a few hours all will doubtless perish.

A report received from Jacksonport said that the main levee protecting that towns cannot hold out. Inhabitants are leaving the place and business stores are placing stocks of goods in second and third stories. The water at noon was pouring over the levee tops and crews of men are only checking it to given women and children an opportunity to escape. The White river is higher than ever known and still rising.

The captain of the steamer Kate Adams reports relief parties in Arkansas cannot reach those living in tops of trees because of a swift current.

The steamer picked up a man, his wife and two year old girl that had been drifting about with nothing to eat since Thursday.

SIX AIRSHIPS RAID BRITAIN

Berlin Explains Two Zeppelin Attacks on Paris.

LONDON, ENG.—The war office officially announces that a Zeppelin raid was made Monday night by six or seven airships over the eastern and northeastern midland counties. A number of bombs were dropped. Up to the present, says the war office statement, inconsiderable damage has been reported.

BERLIN — The Zeppelin raids upon Paris on Saturday and Sunday nights were in reprisal for a French air raid upon the open German town of Freiburg. The results were "satisfactory" to the war office.

ANN ARBOR, MICH.—Dr. James B. Angell, president emeritus of the University of Michigan, is confined to his home and is reported to be in a seriously weakened condition as the result of overexertion in attempting to reply personally to several hundred congratulatory letters received on his eighty-seventh birthday, Jan. 7.

The work on his correspondence proved too severe a strain on his failing sight and the aged educator is now said to be unable to use his eyes. His physicians, however, say he may recover his sight and that his illness is not critical at this time.

WILSON WARNS OF WAR PERILS

"None Can Say If U. S. Shall Be Drawn In War."

CHICAGO GIVES WARM GREETING

"Cruel Misjudgment of This Nation's Efforts to Remain Neutral Is Prevalent in Europe," Says President in Speech—"We Have Not Held Off From Selfish Motives."

CHICAGO, ILL.—Thirty-seven hundred men and women, including the public officials of the state, county and city, greeted President Wilson as he stepped on the flag-draped and flower-bedecked platform of the big Auditorium theater soon after 8 o'clock. The notes of the national anthem swept up from the orchestra pit, the audience, standing on its feet, gave cheer after cheer for the Chief Executive.

Prominent Men on Stage.

The President, his face tinged a ruddy brown, smiled as he looked over the big theater, its every seat occupied and its boxes and balconies a sea of red, white and blue colors.

The President spoke with unusual energy, and it was plainly apparent that his message to the Chicago audience was one in which his aims and ambitions are closely wrapped, and held close to his heart.

Keynote of Speech.

The keynote of the President's Auditorium speech was: "No man can say the United States will not be drawn into the war. Because of this condition I believe it necessary to take counsel from the people."

The President also said many persons are so deeply interested in the war that they cannot look upon the conflict with calm judgment.

"The United States is looked to by the world to uphold the standard of relations of the nations to each other," he declared.

For U. S. Munition Manufacture.

Government manufacture of the instrumentalities of war was appended. Four other features on the same general topic were given by the President on his trip from Chicago to Milwaukee during the day.

President Sounds Warning.

President Wilson solemnly warned the audience in the Auditorium that "No man can competently say whether the United States will be drawn into the war."

The vast hall was as quiet as a death chamber when he made the dramatic statement. The President later stirred the assemblage to vigorous applause by declaring that "this war was brought on by rulers and not by people."

The applause lasted for several seconds. When it subsided the President continued vigorously:

"And I thank God there is no man in America who can bring war on without the consent of the people."

This stirred the crowd again to vigorous applause.

"No man can confidently say whether the United States shall be drawn into the struggle or not."

"Cruel misjudgment of this country's efforts to remain neutral is prevalent in Europe," he declared.

"We have not held off from selfish motives," he said.

Handclapping and a few scattered shouts greeted the following:

"When I see some of my fellow citizens spread tinder where the sparks are falling, I wonder what their ideal of American citizenship is."

Milwaukeeans Pleased.

MILWAUKEE — Milwaukee people turned out in great numbers to do the President honor and seemed intent in advance to justify the confidence which he expressed in their unity of spirit. It was noted, however, that the heaviest applause greeted his declaration that what the country is counting upon him most of all to do is to keep it out of war, and not his complimentary assertions regarding their loyalty.

Springs Surprise at Racine.

RACINE, WIS. — In Racine President Wilson sprang the big surprise of his present "swing around the circle" by coming out in open advocacy of government ownership of plants manufacturing munitions of war so that prices may thus be controlled.

THE HAGUE — Governor L. B. Hanna of North Dakota who came abroad with the Ford peace party and was taken ill in Copenhagen has arrived here. He will sail for America on Saturday.

WHAT WOODROW WILSON THINKS

We have been accused of drawing Governor Ferris and Bishop Williams into a discussion of our school question. We will go a step further and show you what President Wilson thinks a school house should be to the community.

"We have had a great deal to say recently, and it has been very profitably said, about the school as a social centre; about making the house which in the daytime is used for the children, a place which their parents may use in the evenings and other disengaged times for the meeting of the community, where they are privileged to come together and talk about anything that is of common interest and talk about it with the utmost freedom. Some people have opposed it because there are some things they do not want talked about. Talk is a very dangerous thing, community comparisons of views are a very dangerous thing to the men who are doing the wrong thing; but I, for my part, believe in making the school the social centre, the place that the community can use for any kind of co ordinating that it wants to do in its life."

Howard and Prison Fever.

Typhus, which under the name of "prison fever" was once rampant in England, held no terrors for John Howard, the prison reformer. While in a cell he would hold to his nose a vial of aromatic vinegar and on going home would wash and change his clothes, though even these precautions he later abandoned. People thought his powers bordered on the magical, pressed him for his secret and refused to believe his explanations that his immunity was due to fearlessness, cleanliness and temperance. He ate no flesh and very little of anything; he drank neither wine nor spirits and went to bed early and rose early. And his asceticism enabled him to let light into the most noisome dungeons and to live to the age of sixty-four.—London Graphic.

Deal In Trousers.

The village innkeeper had been persuaded to lend a customer a pair of black trousers for funeral solemnities. The sad occasion was long gone, weeks had passed away, and still Mr. J. looked in vain for the return of his garments. They became urgently necessary, and he sent a messenger to demand them back again.

Said the messenger to the wrongful detainer of the goods: "Mr. J. must have 'em. He's going to a funeral."

"They won't do for a funeral," was the reply. "I've been workin' at the quarry in 'em."

"What will Mr. J. do, then?" asked the messenger.

"Why, borrow a pair," replied the other, "same as what I did."—London Tit-Bits.

Largest Hydraulic Lift Lock.

The largest hydraulic lift lock in the world is at Peterborough, Canada. It consists of two great steel boxes or pontoons, moving up and down between guiding towers. When a boat moves into one of the two pontoons the lock gates are closed behind it, and water is pumped into the other pontoon until it becomes heavier than that containing the boat, which then, being overweighted, rises bodily into the air until it reaches the level of the upper canal. The boats are lifted a total distance of sixty-five feet, the gates and capstans being operated entirely by hydraulic power. The time of lockage for boats is about twelve minutes, the actual time of the vertical lift being one and one-half minutes.—St. Nicholas.

Not Necessarily.

"You say this motorist took you to a hospital after he ran you down?"

"Yes."

"Nothing could be kinder."

"Maybe not, but he didn't have to run me down, did he, just to show me he had a kind heart?"—Birmingham Age-Herald.

The Arabic Language.

The Arabic used in the Koran differs as much from the Arabic used in ordinary conversation and intercourse in the east as Latin differs from Italian. The Koran Arabic is that of the literary classes; colloquial Arabic is that of the common people.

EDITOR HERALD:

Availing ourselves of your kind invitation to use the columns of your paper for discussion of the school house question, we wish to ask a few questions for our enlightenment before we are called upon to vote.

I am glad to be called an old fogy because there are so FEW of us left that it has become rather a distinction than a reproach, and I am just old-fashioned enough to notice that in all this avalanche of "new ideas" so called, with which we are being deluged, the one most prominent is that "other towns have this" thing that we want, consequently WE MUST have it—a sort of a "Keeping up with Lizzie" idea. This seems to be the prevailing motive in all our activities as well as in educational matters and "The race is not to the (mentally) swift, nor the battle to the (financially) strong" always, for often the financially weak get into the vanguard and end in ruin from the "new idea" of "keeping up." If this is true of individuals, could it not be true of corporations and villages and school boards? Other towns have up-to-date school houses, we are told. Hence we must follow whether we have inquired into the financial conditions prevailing in those towns or not. Possibly they are not in debt and can afford some up-to-date things which would be unwise for a debt laden community.

It is said that our population is decreasing. Would farmers and doctors and others move in here any quicker if we had a new school building than they would if our taxes were not higher than in some places.

Some of the objections to the old building seem particularly funny to us old people. One is that on these winter mornings the rooms are so dark that there is not much use of the children going to school as they can't SEE. Are the winter mornings any darker than they were 50 years ago? Is the light of the heavens so changed that it hurts the eyes of these youngsters more than it injured the eyes of all the brilliant alumni who received their education those years ago. And none of them wore spectacles at that time either. Now they put them on quite often in the third grade. The trouble must be with the eyes and the present way of living rather than in the subdued light of the winter mornings and the old building which has sheltered so many.

Then they tell us the present conditions are a "menace to their morals." However that can be is not quite clear, but we have never heard of any moral perverts being graduated from there. On the contrary the alumni of our school reflect great credit upon us. We hear of them everywhere from Maine to California, and as they all read the Herald, if any of them had turned out very badly, it seems as if we would know of it. And those who remained in the old building LONGEST seem to be making the best records.

Then they tell us the building is not CLEAN. How long would it take the NEW building to become dirty unless the janitor did his duty? We must not blame the building for the dirt; dirt is everywhere and of this condition is true it is a problem which we would respectfully submit to our Town and Civic Improvement Society for their thoughtful consideration.

Then there is the danger from fire. THIS may be a real one. This building has been there since '56 they say, (we can prove that it never burned down) and if it is as cold there always as they say it is, there is no danger of fire in the next 60 years to come.

A few years ago the Town Federation of Women's Clubs asked the authorities to put in fire escapes to lessen this danger. There was a protest from the school board that they "could not afford the money," but a consultation of the state law informed them that this guarantee for safety was required by law. A committee was appointed by the president of the village council to look into the matter and the result was the fire escapes were erected. Before this the school board thought we must do without them on account of the cost. Now on account of the "danger from fire" and other accounts they think we should afford a new building.

They surely "have met with a change" for which we are thankful, and if they will make it clear to us just WHAT they want us to buy, how MUCH it will cost and WHERE they intend to get it, we will all promise to vote for it.

But the most discouraging thing about the whole proposition seems to be to know today what will be demanded tomorrow. The West Branch, the newest of our school buildings and remodeled and added to about four years ago, is said to be the WORST of any as far as ventilation and healthful conditions are concerned. If the NEWEST one is the WORST these "improvements" must work in an inverse ratio and we are building with less knowledge and efficiency each time.

We have 15 years in which to pay for this new building, should we erect it, but before this 15 years has elapsed, the kindergarten children of today will be the high school children or the young voters of that day, who will rise up in some great Monday Club of the future and proclaim that the school house which we build today, is a joke, and they are covered with mortification when they look at it. These young persons will be so improved by these extra facilities for an education which we are giving them that they will despise our best efforts of today before the thing is paid for.

And after all, is it the BUILDING and fixtures which make great and brilliant scholars or is it capable teachers and the ability on the part of the pupils to absorb and assimilate the instruction received? Answer us these, Ye Village Fathers, and we will vote as you instruct us.

SOMETHING ABOUT THE STAR

"Unaffected Music-Lovers Will Readily Agree That Al. H Wilson Has the Most Abundantly Musical Voice Before the Public To-day."

The admirers of Al H. Wilson are many and the list is being vastly augmented on each succeeding appearance and whenever his coming is announced they are ready to greet him enthusiastically for the sake of the enjoyment to be derived from his delightful personality which is not excelled by any comedian and singer now before the public.

This gifted artist has won his way into the hearts of theatregoers by individual achievements that have brought him [illegible] and he is yet able to maintain his proud position for the reason that his voice still retains its golden tones and his methods of creating bubbling humor are as refreshing as of yore.

The American public appreciate good stage entertainers and Mr. Wilson's ability to enthrall his auditors with his high baritone vocal equipment and bring risabilities explosively to the surface have been proven so often that the certainty of always witnessing an unique and thoroughly pleasing performance is assured whenever his appearance is announced. He is one of America's actors who "Makes Good" and will continue to do so.

If you, dear reader, have not already made his stage acquaintance be advised and avail yourself of that pleasure on the first chance and you will happily resolve thereafter to enroll the event in the date book of your memory as a red letter occasion.

And there are the songs—It is a fact that never before has this glorious singer such a budget of captivating melodies, and being himself the composer, they naturally suit the rare qualities of his wonderful voice.

Mr. Wilson and his excellent company will come here direct from the Valentine theatre, Toledo, with his complete car load of special scenery and all stage effects. Mr. Wilson will be at the Bradley Opera House, next Thursday, February 10, and to see and hear him is one of the rare treats of the present season.

VALUE OF A GOOD SCHOOL BUILDING.

There are countless instances on record in almost every community in which a wisely chosen location for school purposes not only increase in its own value, but caused an increase in the value of every residence or building lot in the neighborhood because of the nearness of a good school.

Not only that:—

The whole town profits by a good school. It is the most common experience for real estate dealers in progressive communities to advertize good schools among the attractions of certain localities. When a family, a business, or a professional man considers moving to a town, one of the first questions asked is, "Have they good schools in ——?" A town grows and profits by the number of people it can attract as residents, as customers for its business men or as investors in its property. Directly or indirectly a good school building and a good system help in all these ways.

KIDNEY TROUBLE LEADS TO TERRIBLE TORTURES

Hundreds of sufferers from pains in the back and sides, bladder and urinary disorders, lumbago, rheumatism, dizziness, puffy swellings under the eyes or in the feet and ankles, nervous, tired or worn-out or headachy feeling, don't seem to realize that the greater part of all sickness today can be avoided by keeping the kidneys working properly. If you suffer from any of the many agonies that accompany weak, clogged-up or diseased kidneys you should not neglect yourself another day and run the risk of serious complications. Secure a package of Solvax, the wonderful new kidney remedy, which is very inexpensive yet acts quickly and surely on the seat of the trouble. You'll be surprised how entirely different you'll feel in a very short time.

It doesn't matter how long you have suffered how old you are, or what you have used. The very principle of Solvax is such that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without beneficial results. Solvax has been so uniformly successful that C. A. Wright will in future sell it under a positive guarantee of relief or refund the money.

WIDER USE OF SCHOOL.

It is no longer possible, in any wide-awake community, to have the school house dark and cold and empty all but five hours of five days each week for nine months of the year. The people have determined to come into possession of their own. And so school plants are being built upon entirely new lines, and are being made to serve the people in unheard of ways. The only surprise seems to be that this was not thought of sooner.

No melon cutting of a corporation, no extra dividend has caused more delight to stockholders than have the unusual returns to the citizenship of America where the school plant has been widely used. That this, the most dearly loved of our institutions, should be the one of all others to sense the newer needs of American life has brought as keen delight to the members of many communities as have the creditable achievements of a favorite child.

Once the idea of a newer and broader service was started even the best posted citizens found difficulty in keeping up with its progress. Broader courses began to supplement the conventional curriculum. The child that loves action and the delight of doing something worth while was given a chance, as well as the one who cares for book-learning. Evening schools, both elementary and high, increased. Schools for adults were established. There seemed to be a new renaissance of learning, but this time a rebirth of learning for all the people, instead of for the chosen few. The school house has become in truth the place to which any person can go to learn anything.

The Founding of Frankfort.

The beautiful German commercial city of Frankfort on the Main is said to have had a curious origin.

When the Emperor Charlemagne contended with the Saxons the fortunes of war were often against him. On one occasion he was forced to retire along the banks of the Main. At the time there was a thick fog, and he was unable to find his ship or any place where his army could cross.

He was almost in despair when a doe, carrying a young one, sprang from a thicket in alarm, leaped into the stream and swam over. Charlemagne followed the example and crossed at the same place. The fog concealed the army, which escaped detection.

When the emperor reached the shore he stuck his spear into the earth and exclaimed:

"Here shall a city arise, to be called Frankenford!"

In consequence of crossing the stream he overthrew the Saxons. He then built the town, which afterward became the scene of imperial coronations and later of great commercial importance.—London Answers.

BUSINESS CHANGE

Miss Grace Gillespie has purchased the millinery business of Miss Nettie Pierce and will take up the spring work. Miss Pierce has conducted the business for the past 17 years and has gained the love and esteem of a host of friends who will regret to lose her from our midst. She expects to take up a different work which she will announce later. She says for our comfort that no matter where she goes or what she may do in the future the Herald must follow her, as it will be like a home letter twice a week

We bespeak for Miss Gillespie a generous share of patronage and encouragement in her new venture.

This is not new work for her as she learned the trade sometime ago and a successful business woman she has proven herself in her work in insurance field.

WORK THAT TELLS

Plenty of It Has Been Done Right Here In Tecumseh

To throughly know the virtues of a medicine you must investigate its work. Doan's Kidney Pills stand this test, and plenty of proof exists right here in Tecumseh. People who testified years ago to relief from backache, kidney and urinary disorders, now give confirmed testimony—declare the results have lasted. How can any Tecumseh sufferer longer doubt the evidence?

Mrs. Sarah E. Austin, Pearl St., Tecumseh, says: "I suffered from distressing symptoms of kidney complaint for more than a year. When some one told me that Doan's Kidney Pills were good in such cases, I got a supply at supply at Wright & Son's Drug Store. They helped me immediately and I continued using them until well." NO KIDNEY TROUBLE SINCE, OVER TWO YEARS, LATER. Mrs. Austin added: "I have had no need of Doan's Kidney Pills or any other kidney medicine since giving my former endorsement. I can still recommend this medicine highly."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills the same that Mrs Austin had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props. Buffalo. N. Y. adv

Jefferson's Letter.

A few lines written by Jefferson to a friend in a foreign country ruined the warm friendship which had existed between him and Washington. The letter is known historically as "Jefferson's letter."

Jefferson sent a letter to Philip Mazzei, an Italian, in April, 1796. Mazzei published an Italian translation of it in Florence the next year. It was retranslated into French and published in French newspapers, from which it found its way into the British papers and to America.

In this letter Jefferson opposed the Jay treaty and commented freely against Washington and his administration as Anglican, monarchical and aristocratic. This letter destroyed Washington's faith in Jefferson.

Italy's Marriage Brokers.

Marriage brokers are a regular institution in Italy. In Genoa there are several marriage brokers who have pocketbooks filled with the names of the marriageable girls of the different classes, with notes of their figures, personal attractions, fortunes and other circumstances. These brokers go about endeavoring to arrange matrimonial alliances in the same offhand mercantile manner which they would bring to bear upon a purely business transaction, and when they succeed they get a commission of 2 or 3 per cent upon the dowry and sometimes a bonus as well.

Fussiness In Architecture.

A great vice that is creeping into American architecture of interiors today is an exaggeration of tiny details. Moldings are multiplied until they become liney and disturbing. Every little plain surface is paneled in most tiresome fashion. It is as if draftsmen had come to hate a white spot on a piece of paper or a blank space on a wall and to feel obliged to cover every bit of their drawings with something, preferably mere lines. As a result the architecture as executed is endlessly tricked out, fussy and finicky—mere virtuosity.—Architectural Record.

China, Japan and Religion.

The religion of China is Confucianism, an ethical system founded by Confucius about 550 B. C. Another religion which has a large following is Taoism, and a form of Buddhism is followed by many.

In Japan the chief religion is that of Buddha, which is, however, comparatively modern. Another and older faith exists, called Shinto or Shinsyd. The word shinto is equivalent to spirit worship.

Beautiful Land of Alsace.

This land of Alsace is in many respects the most beautiful that I have ever seen. Strung along the horizon, like sentinels wrapped in mantles of green, the peaks of the Vosges loom against the sky. On the slopes of the ridges, massed in their black battalions, stand forests of spruce and pine. Through peaceful valleys silver streams meander leisurely, and in the meadows which border them cattle stand knee deep amid the lush green grass. The villages, their tortuous, cobble paved streets, lined on either side by dim arcades, and the old, old houses, with their turrets and balconies and steep pitched pottery roofs, give you the feeling that they are not real, but that they are scenery on a stage, and this illusion is heightened by the men in their jaunty berets and wooden sabots, and the women whose huge black silk headdresses accentuate the freshness of their complexions. It is at once a region of ruggedness and majesty and grandeur, of quaintness and simplicity and charm.—F. Alexander Powell in Scribner's Magazine.

Japan's Dragon Lamps.

Japan abounds with sacred places—Shintoist and Buddhist—formerly reputed for the appearances of the so called "dragon's lamp." This is a mysterious light that comes out of a pond, lake or sea and alights on a certain tree, mostly on a certain night. It was held that the light was dedicated by a dragon dwelling in the water to a god whose shrine stood near the trees. For example, the famous Ryuto of the temple of Avalokitesvara on Nagusa hill, province of Kii, made its annual ascent from the sea to a pine tree in the precincts every ninth night of the seventh moon. At the midnight of the 16th of every month a Ryuto came from the northeast offing to the so called "dragon's lamp pine," near the shrine of Mandjusri at Kiredo, province of Tango, whereas on the same tree another light, named "Celestial lamp," made its descent from the heavens every sixteenth night of the first, fifth and ninth months.—Exchange.

Last Chance.

"It is said," he remarked reflectively, "that women's hands are growing larger."

"Well?" she returned inquiringly.

"Yes," he asserted. "And the worst of it is that there is every likelihood that this tendency will continue."

"Yes?" she said in the same inquiring tone.

"Yes," he repeated. "You see, driving and golf and tennis and other sports that women have recently taken up are responsible for it."

"In that case," she said, with a glance at her own dainty hands, "you'd better speak quick if you want a small one."

He realized that it was the opportunity of a lifetime, and he spoke promptly.—Chicago Herald.

Leaping Treason.

King William III. of England was passionately fond of the chase and made it a point never to be outdone in any leap, however perilous. A Mr. Cherry, who was devoted to the exiled Stuarts, took advantage of this to plan the most remarkable design which was ever formed against a king's life. He regularly joined the royal hounds, put himself foremost and took the most desperate leaps in the hope that William might break his neck in following him. One day, however, he accomplished one so imminently dangerous that the king when he came to the spot shook his head and drew back. It is said that Mr. Cherry at length broke his own neck and thereby relieved the king from further hazard.

His Drawback.

"Girl, ain't you making a mistake in marrying a football hero?"

"But, auntie, consider how he is admired on all sides."

"I do, and I should think that would make it very difficult to reduce him to a point of humility desirable in a good husband."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Cinnamon Bark.

It is a seeming paradox that the best flavored cinnamon bark is produced on poor, white, sandy soil. It must, however, have an abundance of moisture, the choicest growing in a temperature of 85 degrees, where the rainfall is about one inch for every degree of temperature.

She Will Recover

So her doctor said. Her friends and neighbors felt sure of it too. They have used Peruna themselves and know of its merits. That old cough that had worried her for years and years, for which she had taken all sorts of cough medicines, has disappeared. Peruna is doing the work. She will recover. Indeed, she has recovered.

Her name is Mrs. William Hohmann, 2744 Lincoln Ave., Chicago, Ills. She had suffered with catarrh of the bronchial tubes and had a terrible cough ever since a child. As she got older she grew worse. She coughed both winter and summer. Had to sit up at night. Could not sleep. "But all that has left me now. Peruna has cured me."

There are others, and there is a reason.

Be Prepared.

Daniel Webster once told a friend that his great speech in reply to Hayne, which is the high water mark of modern eloquence, but which at the time was supposed to have been delivered without preparation, had been substantially prepared long before. When called upon suddenly to reply to the fiery Carolinian's attacks, which so alarmed the New Englanders at the capital, he was entirely at ease and ready for the fray, for, as he said, he had "only to turn to his notes tucked away in a pigeonhole" and refresh his recollection. "If Hayne," he said, "had tried to make a speech to fit my notes he could not have hit them better. No man is inspired by the occasion. I never was."

The Grand Teton.

The view of the Teton peaks from Ashton, Ida., is superb and doubtless has been the inducement for many a tourist and sportsman to leave the main line for the Teton range and the Jackson Hole country in pursuit of elk, sheep, trout and unsurpassed mountain scenery. Owen Wister's "Virginian" was glad to get out of these mountains because, as he explained, "they're most too big."

The average American, who has only a vague conception of the natural beauties of the Rocky mountains and imagines that real alpine forms are found only in Switzerland, must be surprised when he first sees the lofty peaks of the Tetons. Even a man who has climbed the Matterhorn would think twice before daring to try Grand Teton. According to local report, this peak has been ascended only twice, in 1872 and 1894. As the snowclad mountains along the Alaskan archipelago, rising to cloud reaching heights, stand with their feet bathed in the ocean, so from a viewpoint near Ashton the Tetons, towering to the sky, rise from the billowy surface of a sea of golden grain.—Geological Survey Bulletin.

GERMANY TAKES FOOD OF POLAND

Premier Asquith Blames Teutons In Reply to Chicagoans.

AMERICAN RELIEF IS HELD UP

Sir Edward Grey Hints Food Sent to Poland Would Only Mean Heavier Requisitions by Germany—Urges That Some Organization Be Formed in Poland.

London, Feb. 7.—The foreign office made public the correspondence exchanged relative to a proposed scheme of relief for Poland. Replying to Chairman Hoover of the Belgian Relief commission, Sir Edward Grey states that in the face of the accumulating evidence of German and Austrian requisitions in Poland, the foreign secretary fears it will be impossible to enter into any arrangement with regard to any scheme of relief until the German and Austrian governments shall have prohibited the export of foodstuffs from Russian Poland, and shall have guaranteed that the native stocks will not be drawn upon to maintain the armies of occupation.

Asked by 4,000,000 Poles in U. S.

A cablegram was sent to Premier Asquith from Chicago on behalf of organizations numbering 500,000 American citizens and representing 4,000,000 Polish-speaking residents of the United States. This telegram requested that the government raise the blockade against ships carrying provisions and clothing to the war-stricken districts of Poland.

England and France Consider It.

Premier Asquith, replying, says that the government is considering the question in consultation with the French government, but they face accumulating shortage in the necessaries of life in Poland, due to the systematic confiscation and export of native stocks by the occupying armies, but, notwithstanding the deplorable condition of the country, the process of spoliation continues."

Advises Organization in Poland.

The prime minister continues, saying that it is impossible to resist the conclusion that the stoppage of such exports and the restitution of the stocks seized by Germany and Austria would remove the danger of starvation, and that little, if any, importation from overseas would be necessary. He adds that the first step in the interests of Poland should be the establishment of an organization on the spot to control the remaining stocks, and obtain from the German and Austrian governments a guarantee of a daily ration for the population equivalent to the foodstuffs seized in the past.

DRIVE GERMANS OUT OF KAMERUN COLONY

Madrid, Feb. 7.—Franco-British troops operating in Kamerun, the German colony in western Africa, have driven 14,900 German troops across the frontier to Spanish Guinea, probably ending the entente campaign for this important German territorial possession.

Word was received in Madrid that the German troops had been disarmed and interned as soon as they crossed the border. Only 900 of the German troops were regulars. The others were colonial troops recruited from the African tribes in the colony.

Madrid, Feb. 7.—The following official statement was issued by the Spanish government:

"Nine hundred German Europeans and 14,000 German natives have crossed the border into Spanish Guinea where they have been interned."

EASTLAND CASE IS IN HANDS OF JUDGE

Defendants Soon to Know Their Future Status.

Grand Rapids, Feb. 7.—Within the next week or ten days the six defendants in the Eastland hearing, which has occupied the attention of the United States district court at Grand Rapids for the last three weeks, will learn whether they are to be given their liberty or compelled to return to Chicago to stand trial in the United States district court of the northern district of Illinois on charges of conspiracy, criminal neglect, and manslaughter in connection with the loss of more than 800 lives when the steamer Eastland turned over in the Chicago river last July.

Judge Sessions has taken under advisement a great mass of testimony. He gave permission to the six defendants to return to their respective homes, and they will be notified by the United States marshal when to appear in court to hear the decision.

Attorney Clarence Darrow representing Engineer Joseph Erickson, closed the arguments in the case. He made an eloquent plea for the liberty of his client and the other defendants.

ONE RAILWAY FOR $100,000

Heirs of Bay City Millionaire Seek Damages for His Death.

Bay City, Feb. 7.—Mrs. Elizabeth Foss, her daughter, Miss Edith Foss, and her sons, Walter I. and Edgar B. Foss, filed suit for $100,000 against the Michigan Central railroad for damages resulting in the death of their husband and father, the late Edgar B. Foss, millionaire lumber and coal operator, who was killed by a train November 26.

The ground on which damages will be asked is that the men in charge of the train which backed into Mr. Foss's auto saw his danger, but made no effort to stop. This is the largest suit for damages in an action of the kind ever brought here.

PROTESTS SALE OF FALLS

People of Bessemer See Plot of Power Interests at Washington.

Bessemer, Feb. 7.—A movement is under way to petition the government not to dispose of the Michigan side of the falls near the mouth of the Montreal river except at public sale.

Gogebic county has started a road to the valuable water power site. The Gogebic and Iron County Electric Railway and Power company is credited with being behind the proposed sale, as the company is understood to own the opposite side of the falls in Wisconsin and would thus obtain full control of water and flowage rights.

Checkers.

The German name for the game of checkers or draughts is "damenbrett"—ladies' board—probably "damen" for short. Some form of "dame" is used in almost every country where the game is played, except the English speaking countries, and the Scots still speak of the "dambrod." "Dames" was the name in England for a time, and we find it in an English book toward the end of Elizabeth's reign. The first use of the word draughts in existing literature is about 1400. At a later day "checkers" became another name, and this went to America with the early English emigrants and there became the usual name. In England in the sixteenth century the game had three names—"dames," "draughts" and "checkers." At an earlier period "checkerie," "chekar," etc., had been English names for chess.—London Mirror.

FEAR BOMB PLOT TO HIT U. S. SHIP

Police Guard Bridges Over Path of Washington.

REAR ADMIRAL USHER ASKS IT

Brooklyn Structure Is Patroled to Prevent Dropping Bombs on Cruiser Returning from Haitian Trip—Mystery Seen in Action—Infernal Machine on British Ship.

New York, Feb. 7.—Extra police guards were stationed on the Brooklyn and Manhattan bridges at the request of Rear Admiral Usher, commandant of the New York navy yard, it was announced at Brooklyn police headquarters, to safeguard the passage under the structures of the United States cruiser Washington, which arrived at noon from Haiti.

The police said Rear Admiral Usher explained to them that he desires the extra guards as a precautionary measure against the possible dropping of bombs on the cruiser as it passed under the bridges.

Mystery Over Action.

The action of the rear admiral was clouded in mystery at the navy yard. Commander Frank B. Upham, aid to the rear admiral, declared there was no reason to suspect that any one contemplated hurling bombs on the Washington, and that no request had been made of the police for additional guards on the bridges.

The cruiser Washington, which will be relieved by the Tennessee in Haitien waters, will depart from here today for Portsmouth, N. H., where it will be used as a training ship.

The Washington has a displacement of 14,500 tons and is armed with four ten-inch and sixteen six-inch guns. The vessel is 602 feet long and has a beam [illegible] feet 10 inches, with a maximum draft of 25 feet.

Find Bomb on British Ship.

Bordeaux, Feb. 7.—A small metal tube supposed to be a bomb has been found on the British steamship Hannington, which arrived here Friday, flour laden, from New York.

The tube was concealed among some sacks of flour, where it is thought to have been placed after the steamer left New York. An investigation is being made.

PREPARING SALONIKI DRIVE

Mackensen to Command Teutons, Von Gallwitz Turks and Bulgars.

Rome, Feb. 7.—Field Marshal von Mackensen has assumed command of the Austro-German army destined to attack the allied expedition at Saloniki. He has established his headquarters at Monastir.

Meanwhile General Gallwitz has gone to Sofia where he is inspecting the defenses and the entrenched camp surrounding the Bulgarian capital. He is also looking over the Bulgarian capital. He is also looking over the Bulgarian fortifications along the Danube and on the Aegean sea. It is considered probable that General von Gallwitz will command the Turco-Bulgarian forces that are to co-operate with the northern armies in the drive on Saloniki.

ARMED ITALIAN LINER HERE

Stampalia Carries Two Guns on After Deck as Submarine Defense.

New York, Feb. 7.—The Italian steamship Stampalia of the La Velose line in from the Mediterranean, carries on her after deck mounted and ready for business two quick firing Armstrong guns for use in case of submarine attack. Nearly all the other passenger carriers of the several Italian lines will be similarly equipped within a month or so. The United States sanctions the armament for defensive purposes only. So far none of the armed Italian ships has encountered submarines. The Tampalia saw none in the Mediterranean nor the Atlantic.

ITALIAN CONSUL IS PERILED

Bomb Explodes at His Door in Milwaukee Apartment.

Milwaukee, Feb. 7.—Armine Conte, Italian consular agent for Milwaukee, was imperiled by an exploding bomb at the door of his apartment on the seventh flood of a fashionable East Side apartment building. He escaped unhurt.

A second bomb, the fuse of which evidently had been extinguished after being lighted, was found near an entrance on the ground floor. Both missiles were covered with black oilcloth, and in the opinion of the police were composed of composite explosives. No metal was used in their construction.

Believed War Cruiser at Large.

Norfolk, Feb. 7.—The possibility that a still more formidable German sea raider than has been reported—the fast German cruiser Roon—is at large in the Atlantic and the report that the Roon in fact was nearby and directed the operations of the raider called the Moewe, which sunk six ships and captured the Appam, is believed.

Salt in Roumania.

Veritable mountains of salt are to be seen in some sections of Roumania, for the salt deposits cover an enormous area and have a thickness varying from 600 even to 800 feet. At Sarat there is a mountain of salt, and steam shovels can be used to load the waiting cars. In other cases the gallery system is employed, and electrically driven machines turn out blocks a cubic yard in size, like great pieces of granite.

Russian Wolfhounds.

The swiftest dog in the world, the borzoi, or Russian wolfhound, has made record runs that show seventy-five feet in a second, while the gazelle has shown measured speed of more than eighty feet a second, which would give it a speed of 4,800 feet in a minute if the pace could be kept up.

MRS. MOHR IS FREED, FIND NEGROES GUILTY

California Judge Hits "Feeble-minded" Acquitting Jurors.

Providence, R. I., Feb. 7.—Mrs. Elizabeth F. Mohr was acquitted by a jury in the superior court of a charge of having instigated the murder of her husband, Dr. C. Franklin Mohr. C. Victor Brown and Henry H. Spellman, negroes, who were accused of the actual killing were found guilty. Mrs. Mohr swooned while the foreman was announcing the verdict.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 7.—"Shooting some of our feeble-minded jurymen" was suggested as a remedy for too frequent acquittals of women charged with shooting men, by Judge Frank P. Dunne, when a jury in the superior court freed Mrs. Malcena Dyott, a Los Angeles real estate dealer. Judge Dunne recognized among the jurors several who recently acquitted in his court, Mrs. Mary Pamias, charged with killing Michael Weinstein, a crippled peddler who sought to renew relations with her.

"If some of those feeble-minded women who go around shooting men would turn their weapons upon some of our feeble-minded jurymen, the world would be better off." he said when he received the verdict.

Movie Actor's Fourth Wife Gets Information He Can't.

New York, Feb. 7.—The papers in an application in the supreme court by Mrs. Sadie Van Velzer for alimony pending a suit for separation from Roland F. Van Velzer, a moving picture actor, contain allegations that Van Velzer has had four wives and has been divorced from none.

The actor told Justice Donnelly that he did not think he [illegible] of bigamy because he believed that his first wife was dead when he married the second. He said when he took each of his other wives he thought that the previous wife was dead.

BLAST WRECKS BIG AUSTRIAN GUN PLANT

Place Where Cannon Used at Liege Are Made Destroyed.

Rome, Feb. 7.—Austria's arms factory, the Skoda works at Pilsen, Bohemia, has been partly destroyed as the result of an explosion, according to a dispatch from Bucharest, Roumania, to the Messaggero.

The Skoda plant is Austria's largest arms factory. The Skoda gun, which has become known throughout the world with the last ten years, is a rival of the 42-centimeter Krupp cannon and is credited with having demolished the forts at Liege and Namur at the beginning of the present European war.

When the war broke out it was admitted that Germany, despite great preparations, lacked big guns for siege purposes. A large number of Skodoa ten-inch cannon and Austrian mountain batteries were hastily sent to the western front.

NOT BOMBS, PETTY THEFTS

Police Deny Stopping People With Bundles Was Fear of Plot.

New York, Feb. 7.—Police officials were unanimous in denying that the unusual stationing of uniformed patrolmen at subway and tube entrances all over the city on Saturday night, had anything to do with bomb plotting. It was a dragnet for thieves, was the police explanation.

The order resulted in many bundle-carrying persons being stopped during the watches of Saturday night and asked where they were coming from, where they were going and what they had in the package they were carrying. In some cases the packages were searched, but in many others they were not. The order was to head off an unusual amount of petty thieving that has been going on.

BANK CLERK IN COLLAPSE

He Hires Rich Client to Clean Off His Sidewalk for Quarter.

Missouri Valley, Ia., Feb. 7.—"Hey, there! Don't you want to earn a quarter by shoveling the snow from the sidewalk?" said one of the young bank clerks to a moderately dressed stranger in front of the bank as the bank opened. "Yes," said the stranger, and he took the shovel and did a fine job of it.

Then he went into the bank, and was given the quarter, after which he laid down $2,600 in crisp bills to pay off a note not yet due. The farmer remarked that he had no use for the money just now, and would like to meet his obligations a little in advance. The bank clerk collapsed.

THE EVOLUTION OF THE AMERICAN HIGH SCHOOL

By E. V. Laughlin, Hopkinton, Ia.

The American high school is distinctly an American creation. It is an outgrowth of the desire to crystalize the latent forces so manifest in American youth, and to direct them into useful and productive channels. Unlike its cousins across the water it is founded upon a decidly utilitarian basis. The French and German schools are rather transition periods between the grades and the university, leaving the latter the task of shaping vocational ideas. The English school is a rather exclusive affair, patronized very little by the common people, and consequently exercising very little influence in shaping the lives of the mass of the youth.

The old time Latin school, itself rather exclusive and catering to law and the ministry, was the forerunner of the present high school. In such schools Latin and Greek dominated the curricula. Other subjects such as science and mathematics, received little favor and were offered only as incidental electives. The opening up of American resources demanded a training and knowledge in which the dead languages played little part. As a consequence there arose a demand for practical science and mathematics. mining, railroad building, city construction and the like did not call for men who could read Virgil, but for men who could analyze ores and plan bridges. For awhile private schools took care of this demand. Academies and technical schools became quite numerous. Latin and Greek, while still required, were not so very much in evidence. The Latin school as a consequence fell into disfavor and many schools closed their doors.

The academies in nearly all cases were tuition institutions. By the year 1840 many people were beginning to demand that the instruction be free. The result of this clamor was that many districts purchased academies already in their midst or else erected schools similar to them. In order to distinguish between these schools and the academies the name high school gradually came into existence. The course of study was quite the same as the curriculum of the academy except that denominational subjects were always omitted. By 1860 as many as forty of these public high schools had been established in the United States.

While the people generally approved of the high school the tax payers did not always express much pleasure. It was the old question of the public school over again the right of one man to be taxed to educate the children of another. In this case, however, the struggle was even more strenuous, many tax payers perfectly reconciled to the grade school declaring that taxation for higher education was confiscation, and therefore illegal. To vote a high school upon the district in the 60's, 70's and 80's required strenuous fighting on the part of its adherents. Never-the-less the number of schools steadily increased. In 1880 there were over 2500; in 1890 the number had increased to 6005; and at the present time there are more than 11,000 high schools in the United States and its insular possessions.

The attendance in these schools is more than one million, the girls being about one hundred thousand in the lead. The percent of attendance compared with population is much higher in the newer portions of the country than in the older, due no doubt, to the rather more democratic conditions prevailing. In such recent cities as Seattle and Los Angeles the attendance averages nearly two per cent. of the population, very high when compared with New York's less than one per cent. This does not mean necessarily that education is not as general in New York as in the western cities, but that the exclusive boarding schools and military academies are drawing their constituents from the high schools.

The average subject line up in the high schools of thirty years ago was as follows: Ancient languages, four years history; literature, particularly that of mediaeval English times; mathematics for the discipline afforded and general culture; a smattering of science for looks sake, and because it looked well in the course of study.

About twenty years ago the progressive educators began to question the usefulness of the average high school course. They pointed out that graduates were ill prepared to tackle the tasks of life that the four years of training were practically thrown away as far as making the student a bread earner. The advocates of the old regime were vigorous in their defense claiming that the high school in its function was cultural not vocational.

Many things contributed to the success of the progressive element. Chemistry was becoming an established fixture in the colleges and universities, and was beginning to ask a place in the high schools. Botany and zoology were being found to be of real value in their relation to agriculture and stock raising. The great influx of French and Germans, particularly the latter, made a knowledge of those languages useful. The result was that these practical subjects were crowded to the front and took rank with the classics. Out of this troubled and uncertain state of affairs the high school has emerged with its course of study pretty well balanced.

The result is that the high schools today exercise a very large influence in pointing the way to college and university. There has grown up as a consequence a system of standardizing high schools that seeks to put their work on a par. This is known officially as accrediting. Almost every state maintains such a system. A high school inspector is appointed who periodically inspects the schools and passes upon the quality of the work.

All schools are mearured up to a fixed standard which admit their graduates to the state university without examination a consideration much prized by young aspirants.

Without doubt the accrediting system has proved a great boon to high schools. It has brought the university to every high school town. The teachers are invariably college or university graduates, fitted with zeal and possessing high ideals, and in close touch with the latest developments in arts and sciences. That stagnation and lethargy that comes from isolation are thus guarded against. Superintendents and principals realize that there must be continual progress if they are to keep pace with their neighbors. To be stricken from the accredited list is a disgrace little desired by any town, and which when it happens always invariably means a change of teaching force.

There is a growing demand that high schools shall become more practical in their work and shall include industrial and prossessional subjects in their curriculum. The advocates of this belief have already greatly increased the range of subjects that may be taught. Manual training domestic science, agriculture, pedagogy are established features in many schools. In Iowa, for instance domestic science and agriculture may be taught and state aid secured. Other states, usually one in which teachers are scarce, make special provision for work in pedagogy, and recognize by certificate or otherwise, the work done.

It is a far cry from the high school of fifty years ago to the many sided institution of the present day. Then it was narrow, restricted in its work, looking with disfavor upon things manual and industrial, in fact reactionary in the extreme. Today it is progressive, commercial, seeking to be a real force in the life of the people alive to its opportunities. And the end is not yet.

EDUCATION FOR MARCH 1915

CIVIC AND TOWN IMPROVEMENT SOCIETY

The Civic and Town Improvement society met at Grange Hall Saturday afternoon with a good attendance Mrs. Andrew Wilson presiding. A business meeting was held and Mrs. A. B. McLachlin was elected treasurer to fill vacancy made by the resignation of Mrs. J. J. Belcher. A talk by Rev. W. B. Hartzog on the Associated Charities, was followed by a general discussion of the school house question and a vote taken on the question of a new school building. There was not a dissenting voice. The question was discussed quite freely by the members of the club and the general opinion was, that we needed a new school house fully equipped.

A member thought that plans and an estimate of cost should be submitted to the people. Others that a rest room and gymnasium should be added to the plan. Some of the ladies were so enthusiastic that they expressed themselves as willing to hustle and raise money to assist those taxpayers not able to stand the extra tax. There were about 35 present at the meeting. The following was the program.

Address—	Mrs. Jennie C. Hardy.
Piano Duet—	Camilla Hayden and Burton Garlinghouse
Vocal Solo—	Edna Taylor.
Talk—	Mrs. J. J. Belcher.
Piano Solo—	Miss Fern Hanford

The first week in March will be "Better Baby Week". Pamphlets relative to the care and feeding of babies, will be distributed by the ladies.

Euclid's Lost Books.

"I was very much amused at the comment of a young friend who recently went up against the board of examiners for the naval service," said a Philadelphia man. "Speaking of the questions in geometry which were propounded to the boys, this youngster said in a dry way:

"'History tells us that the old discoverer of the science of geometry, Euclid, who lived 300 years before Christ, wrote something like twenty books, which he called "Elements," and that of this number seven were lost. The examining board of the marine corps has found those books, for the questions it put to us two weeks ago clearly demonstrated that it dug up some theorems which had not been seen in the last 2,000 years.'"—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Repelling Fire With a Drum.

A fire of a strange nature appeared in Wales in 1693. According to the most intelligible account concerning it now in existence, it came up from the sea near Harlech. At several places near that place and all over Merionethshire it did much damage, burning hay, houses, barns, etc. A person writing of it said: "The grass over which it moves kills all manner of cattle that feed upon it. But what is most remarkable is that any great noise, such as the beating of a drum or sounding a horn, effectually repels it from any house."

Three Clocks.

The best three clocks in the world are at the naval observatory at Washington and the observatories at Greenwich and Berlin. The former two are the best and show a mean deviation of fifteen one-thousandths of a second a day.

Scene from "As Years Roll On" with Al. H. Wilson, at the Bradley Opera House next Thursday, February 10.

AL. H. WILSON

At the Bradley Opera House, Next Thursday, February.

In the coming engagement of Mr. Al H. Wilson and company in his new comedy drama, "As Years Roll On" which comes to the Bradley Opera House, next Thursday, February 10, Tecumseh people will have their first opportunity of seeing this noted star. While this is Mr. Wilson's first visit to Tecumseh still he is so well known from his yearly visits in both Toledo and Detroit, where he always plays to capacity business, that a capacity house should greet him here.

The first act is laid in Holland and an especially fine stage is used in this act showing a typical Holland scene, the balance of the play takes place in America. A special 60 foot baggage car is required for the production.

Novelty is the key note in the entertainment given by golden voiced singer Al H Wilson and company in a new periodic comedy song play "As Years Roll On." The performance is as diversified as the colors of a rainbow and blend as beautifully. There is the dramatic interest the comedy element, the musical numbers. The characteristic scenery, the talented actors and all headed by a Star comedian and singer whose reputation is of the highest class. Those who have already felt the charm of Mr Wilson's unique personality still continue to flock to his standard wherever his appearance is announced, while those who have yet to enjoy his performance can anticipate a maximum of delight with a minimum of cost for the price of admission. To once see him act and hear him sing makes you immediately his admirer for the average theatregoer applauds cleverness in any form and Mr. Wilson certainly possesses this gift to a remarkable degree.

This seasons' offering both dramatically and musically has been pronounced the best he has ever presented and will add greatly to his already wide pop[illegible] course the important feature of the good things promised is his singing of new melodies composed by himself and they are the most singiest and catchiest of any of his former successes. Different in theme and melody from each other as day is from night they run the gamut of tempo and style that gives great play to his glorious voice.

During the action of the play Mr. Wilson sings "Yesterday"; "As the Years Roll On"; "She Left Me for a Teddy Bear"; "Mother Mine" and "My Old Pipe" and after hearing him render these beautiful pieces you will readily understand why he has the world wide title of "the golden voiced singer."

Mr Wilson and his excellent company come here direct from the Valentine theatre, Toledo, where he is playing six performances. The Adrian orchestra will be secured to furnish the music.

CLAM DINNER.

Last week Monday Fred Chorman entertained a few friends with a clam dinner at 7 o'clock p. m. Covers were laid for R. N. Lowe, J. J. Freeman, Floyd Heesen, John Gaston, Chas. and Leon Williamson, John Snow, Harold Tribolet, Leon Rosacrans, Will Eccles and brother John of Belle Fourche, S. Dakota, Henry Karcher of Macon, and Ernest and Fred Daisher.

GOOD FOR THE WOMEN

From the expression of the women taken recently at the Monday Club and Civic and Town Improvement Society, it would indicate that the ladies of Tecumseh are nearly a unit for a new school. This feeling prevailing among the women is very gratifying to those who are working for this needed improvement.

We believe this sentiment for a new building is spreading and that people feel that now is the time to act. We also believe that if the women of Tecumseh had this question to decide today, it would carry with a big majority.

Now let us hear from some of our men on this subject. Get behind this movement which means so much to this school district and the Village of Tecumseh and boost. Talk it over and help this community to do its duty. A letter published in the Herald would help. We invite a full and unbiased discussion of the question.

Islands.

There are about 100,000 islands, large and small, scattered over the oceans. America alone has 5,500 around its coasts. There are 365 in the bay of Rio Janeiro, 16,000 between Madagascar and India and some 1,200 off the eastern coast of Australia between its mainland and New Guinea.

Legal Snags.

"Seems to me that the lawyers have it easy in life."

"Why so?"

"The rest of us have to surmount our own obstacles, but if a lawyer strikes one he applies to some judge and has it set aside."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Four Great Sauces.

A French epicure has declared that "man has created the culinary art; he does not feed like an animal—he breakfasts, dines and sups."

The French are particularly eloquent on the subject of sauces. Among their famous chefs are recognized four great sauces, Spanish, veloute, bechamel and German. The Spanish and veloute were known as far back as the seventeenth century. In the eighteenth they were modified by the masters of cookery, particularly by Careme, who was called "the Raphael of the kitchen."

The Spanish sauce is composed of juices extracted from a mixture of ham, veal, chicken and pheasant. Veloute is similar, but is not colored. Bechamel is veloute to which cream has been added, and the German sauce is veloute plus the yolks of eggs.

He Proved His Case.

"Human nature is mighty queer, isn't it?" he observed to the other man on the rear platform of the street car.

"Yes, I suppose so," replied the other.

"People are too sensitive—altogether too sensitive."

"I don't know about that."

"Well, I do. For instance, now, you have a red nose. You are not to blame for it perhaps, but you are so sensitive that if I should offer you a remedy for it you"—

"You old loafer, I've a good mind to knock your head off!" hissed the red nosed man as he squared off.

"Told you so," replied the other as he dropped off. "Human nature is the queerest durned thing on earth, and some folks are so sensitive that they'd swallow their false teeth rather than let any one know they had 'em."—Detroit Free Press.

Excusable.

TO THE "ROOF OF AMERICA" (GLACIER NATIONAL PARK)
with LYMAN H. HOWE
TO BE SEEN HERE IN A FEW DAYS

Through the medium of Lyman H. Howe's Travel Festival, audiences may look, as from a car window, at glistening, sunlit, snowclad Alpine peaks; magnificent vistas and never-to-be forgotten scenes in Glacier National Park; the rivers of France; the unique Firth of Forth bridge, Scotland; picturesque Madeira; the charm of pastoral Holland and logging in Italy. Then, too, there will be a ride in an aeroplane affording the real sensation of a trip in cloudland; stirring scenes of a torpedo boat which is submerged almost totally time and again during a terrific gale on the high seas; the curious crystallization of metals and much relaxation contributed by Howe's comedy cartoon artists who freely indulge their fantastic fancies in satirizing and burlesquing many of more dignified scenes.

The semi-annual engagement of Howe's Travel Festival is booked for Wednesday, February 16, at the Bradley Opera House, Tecumseh, when an entirely new program will be presented comprising some amazing demonstrations of the untold possibilities of motion photography. Among them may be mentioned the very latest cinematographic process showing the movements of animals which ordinarily are so agile they elude the eye. However, movements that are entirely too swift for the human eye to note in detail, are here reproduced 8 times slower than normal. Another curiosity of filmdom which is weirdly beautiful shows the crystallization of various metals, and the world of industry also contibutes a film showing in a most comprehensive way every phase of making an automobile at the immense plant of the Willys-Overland Company Toledo.

UNUSUAL LINCOLN RELIC IS FOUND IN WASHINGTON

Brief Note Written the Day Before President Was Assassinated.

Washington, Feb. 4.— [Special.]—Assistant Attorney General Warren in examining some old records in the Department of Justice found an interesting old Lincoln document. It was a small note, all in the President's hand writing, on unruled, old-fashioned note paper, as follows:

Executive Mansion, April 13, 1865.

The Attorney General.

Dear: Sir: Send me a commission for W. P Kellogg to be a judge in Nebraska in place of William Kellogg, resigned. Yours truly, A. Lincoln.

This note was written the day before Lincoln's assassination. The indorsements on the back of it show that the appointment was a chief justice for Nebraska Territory. The fact was that the William Kellogg, who resigned, and the W. P. Kellogg, who was appointed, were one and the same person. Kellogg now lives in Washington.

JUDGE B. L. HART

Speaks Before the Men's Class at the Presbyterian Church Sunday Morning.

Judge B. L. Hart of Adrain gave a very interesting talk before the Men's Brotherhood class, Sunday morning. The class room was well filled over fifty being present.

Judge Hart took for his subject "Higher Manhood," and asked, "Are we as individuals doing our part in our community to bring about a higher type of manhood and womanhood?" If more fathers would give as much attention to bringing up their boys, as mothers have done in bringing up their girls, the young men of today would be better off. He says, 'the father of today is too busy chasing the almighty dollar, to give much time to his boy. He should enter into his sports, direct his habits, and know where the boy is spending his time evenings when not at home.

He spoke well of the work the Y. M. C. A. was doing, and thought that in towns where the Y. M. C. A was not practicable, the churchs should take its place, setting aside a room, providing it with games, pool tables and other amusements which could be enjoyed by the young boys, under the control of some responsible person. It was his idea that if such places were provided, it would have a tendency to attract the boy from places of a cheaper nature.

He spoke of his work with young men who had come before him in his capacity as judge. The majority of whom had got into trouble owing to their lack of home training.

There has been some criticism as to the plan of probating these young men but in dealing with them he had tried to give them the benefit of probation in hopes that they might make good.

While in Tecumseh Judge Hart was the guest of Atty. F. B. Wood.

Told Almost All.

Here is a story told by one of our women lawyers:

"I told my client to tell me everything just as it had occurred—to hold back nothing—and then, being perfectly familiar with all the facts, I might be able to help him. After the story had come to an end I asked him if that were all.

"'Everything—'cept where I hid th' money!' was the answer."—Buffalo News.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Lord Dunraven in his younger days, when he was known as Lord Adare, speculated in theatrical enterprises, but his success in this direction was not unfortunately equal to his enthusiasm. One day a certain well known wit was asked to give a title to one of his lordship's plays.

"Well," he answered, "why not call it Robin Adair?"

Snails Are Queer Creatures.

The snail is found everywhere, over 8,000 species being known. Some of the large tropical snails, as bulimas, form nests of leaves, their eggs being as large as a pigeon's. The snail is extremely skillful in mending its shell, and some curious experiments may be made with them. Thus I have seen a helix of a yellow species attached to another shell of a reddish hue by cutting off the top whorl of the latter, when the snail will proceed to weld the two shells together and occupy both, using the addition as a door and possibly wondering at this sudden extension of its house. In the winter some of the snails hibernate or lie dormant until warm weather. A snail of the Philippine Islands has a faculty of throwing off its tail when seized. This is also true of a West Indian variety, stenophus.—London Telegraph.

JESSE A. CASE
Dept 643 Brockton, Mass.

WHY IT SUCCEEDS

Because It's For One Thing Only and Tecumseh People Appreciate This.

Nothing can be good for everything. Doing one thing well brings success. Doan's Kidney Pills are for one thing only.

For weak or disordered kidneys.

Here is Tecumseh's evidence to prove their worth.

E. C. Brisbin, farmer, N. Democrat St., Tecumseh, says: I began to suffer from kidney complaint twenty years ago and the medicine I took brought me only temporary relief. Often my back ached intensely and the secretions from my kidneys were irregular in passage and highly colored. Doan's Kidney Pills went to the seat of the trouble and did me much good." NEARLY THREE YEARS LATER, Mr. Brisbin said: "You may continue to use my name as a reference for the merit of Doan's Kidney Pills. Whenever I feel in need of a kidney medicine, I take this remedy and it acts promptly and effectivly."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills the same that Mr. Brisbin had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props. Buffalo, N. Y. adv

Wills in Argentina.

In Argentina the laws provide that a father must leave his children four-fifths of his fortune and a husband if he has no children has to leave all of his property to his wife. An unmarried son is compelled to leave his parents two-thirds of his property, and only unmarried persons without parents or descendants can make wills disposing of their possessions as they see fit.

BUTCHER WAS IN BAD CONDITION

Took Tanlac and all his Stomach ills vanished at once.

"Until I started taking Tanlac," said H J. Knowles, a butcher, living on Powell avenue, Hampton Township, near Bay City, "I knew no relief from the worst sort of stomach trouble. Often I would feel as if I would fall over while at my work and finally had to give up work altogether. I got so I couldn't eat a thing without having gas form on my stomach. I suffered from indigestion I could not eat greasy foods. I grew nervous and got low in spirits. I was out of sorts most of the time and did not feel like doing anything. I began to sleep badly and was in about as bad shape as any man could be.

"I tried many remedies but nothing helped me and I was badly worried. I hardly knew what to do until one day I heard of the good work being done by Tanlac, I got a bottle and started taking it. Tanlac soon proved its worth for I began to improve immediately, Soon I was feeling better than I had since I was a boy. I took up my work again and can do more work now than I could before I got sick I am a strong booster for Tanlac because I think it is really good."

Tanlac may be obtained here at the store of B. J. Pulver. adv

JUDGE LANDIS

[illegible]

Suit Dismissed by Agreement.

A GENERAL SURVEY OF THE WAR.

Thursday, Feb. 3.—The German admiralty officially announced the capture of a British liner of 12,000 tons by an Austrian submarine in the Adriatic sea. The prize was towed into the port at Bache di Cattaro. It is the first case on record in submarine warfare where a submarine actually made a prize of a passenger ship.

The captured liner is the Koenig Albert, a North German Lloyd steamer which was seized by the British shortly after the outbreak of the war and impressed into the British service. Later the vessel was placed at the disposal of Italy. At the time of the capture it was flying the Italian flag and carried 300 Serbian refugees.

A Zeppelin sunk the British collier Frank Fisher and killed thirteen of its crew. The collier was seized by the British from Germany at the beginning of the war.

Friday, Feb. 4.—Following the capture of the British liner Appam by a German sea raider, an Austrian submarine has eclipsed all other exploits of this character of the war. It captured and held until a destroyer could reach the locality and tow it to port, the 12,000 ton liner, the Koenig Albert. The vessel was seized by England at the beginning of the war, its owners being the North German Lloyd company of Hamburg, Germany. Great Britain had turned the vessel over to Italy. When captured the vessel had aboard 300 Serbian soldiers.

A Zeppelin airship sank the British collier Frank Fisher, killing thirteen of its crew. The airship is supposed to have been one that dropped bombs on England Monday night.

A Zeppelin is reported to have been passed by a British trawler in the North sea. The airship was helpless, and owing to the crew being armed and greatly outnumbering the trawler crew, the captain of the latter was afraid to take the airmen on board, and they perished.

Saturday, Feb. 5.—London reports indicate the Teutonic allies are prepared for an offensive against the allied lines in Belgium and France and the allied positions at Saloniki.

Sunday, Feb. 6.—The Anglo-French campaign against the German Kamerun colony in Africa has practically ended by driving the German forces of 14,900 over into Spanish Guinea, where they have been interned. These forces consisted of 900 Germans and 14,000 natives, and their retirement is taken to mean that the 900,000 square miles of German possessions have been wrested from the kaiser's empire.

FED LEAGUE SUIT IS DISMISSED BY LANDIS

Rival Circuits Agree to End Costly Controversy.

CHICAGO, ILL. — Judge Landis of the United States district court acted favorably on the motion of the litigants to withdraw the suit for dissolution of organized baseball brought by the Federal league, thus closing the last chapter in the costly baseball war that for two years played havoc with the game. The Baltimore Federal league club was represented by Stuart S. Janney, who informed the court that his client interposed no objection to the withdrawal of the suit. The American and National leagues were represented by S. L. Swarts of St. Louis and Harold F. Weber of Chicago.

In giving his decision Judge Landis said he had withheld his decision for the good of the game and incidentally paid a high tribute to the national pastime. He said there was no evidence impugning the honesty of the game and players, despite the fact that the United States had been literally combed by both sides for testimony and facts that would blacken or weaken the opposition.

HOUSE PASSES DEFENSE BILL

$600,000 Is Appropriated for Two Navy Yards.

INCREASE ANNAPOLIS CADETS

Speaker Clark Joins Forces for Preparedness—Foes of Increased Armaments Remain Silent—Leader Kitchin Fails to Oppose Passage of Measures—Declines Even to Vote.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Two national defense bills, the first of the session —were passed in the house without the formality of a roll call.

For some unexplained reason pacificist members took to their heels when the question of preparedness came up in concrete form, and interposed no opposition to the two measures designed to pave the way for the big building program to be carried by the naval appropriation bill.

One of the bills passed carried appropriations to equip the New York and Mare Island navy yards to build superdreadnaughts. The other provided for an addition to the corps of midshipmen at the Annapolis naval academy.

The navy yard bill, which is regarded as very important by the administration, was passed by a viva voce vote. The other was put through by a vote of 153 to 0.

Kitchin Keeps Silent.

All the big guns in the house with the exception of Democratic Leader Kitchin took part in the debate and all declared themselves in favor of adequate national defense. Speaker Clark, former Speaker Cannon, Republican Leader Mann, Chairman Padgett and many others who are advocating preparedness made addresses while the pacificists held their peace.

Clark for Preparedness.

The debate was notable for many reasons. In the first place Speaker Clark proclaimed his belief in preparedness, and announced that he would discuss the subject at length later in the session. Mr. Kitchin, true to his promise to the President that he would oppose the program only in his personal capacity, remained silent and all the "little navy" members remained in their seats when the vote was called on the midshipmen bill, and Speaker Clark said he hoped no member of the house would vote against it.

CONCESSIONS IN LUSITANIA CASE

Controversy Practically Settled, Says Stone.

NO INSISTENCE ON WORDS

U. S. Waives Demand for "Illegal"—Germany Agrees That Reprisals Shall Strike Only Enemy—Promises to Refrain from Imperiling Neutrals —Believe Matter Ended.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Chairman Stone of the senate foreign relations committee said after conferences with administration officials that it was his impression that the Lusitania case was "practically settled." He did not go into details, but indicated that some announcement might be given out for publication within the next few days.

Administration officials let it be known that a mere choice of words will not be permitted to stand in the way of success of the Lusitania negotiations, and that the United States will not insist on the use of the word "illegal" or "disavowal."

Germany has agreed that reprisals must not be directed against any other than subjects of an enemy. The expression is offered by Germany to take the place of the phrase containing the word "illegal," in the draft of the Lusitania agreement now under consideration.

Wants U. S. Aid for Free Seas.

It also became known that Germany expressed the hope that it may have the opportunity to co-operate with the United States in some action looking toward the freedom of the seas before the end of the war. This statement is taken in high diplomatic circles to imply that the Berlin government sees no occasion to await the cessation of hostilities before settling that issue.

Furthermore the German government refers to the British blockade of Germany as being inhumane, calls attention to the fact that neutral vessels have been affected by the efforts of the British governmen to starve Germany and puts forth the contention that the German retaliation in the war zone around the British isles is justified by the actions of Great Britain. There is no assertion that the reprisals are legal.

As has been previously stated, Germany says in the communication that the killing of citizens of the United States was without intent and that the method of conducting warfare in the war zone around the British isles has been changed out of regard for the long standing friendship between the United States and Germany, and because American lives were lost.

No New Demands, Says Lansing.

Secretary Lansing denied that new demands had been made in the Lusitania case at a time when the German government considered the negotiations virtually at an end. He was speaking of the Berlin dispatches quoting references by Dr. Zimmerman, German undersecretary of foreign affairs, to "new demands."

THE FOLLOWING IS A LETTER PASSED IN BY ONE OF OUR BEST BUSINESS MEN

A Business View

Now that the question of a new school building for Tecumseh is again being discussed, numerous thoughts of many minds are semi weekly being brought to light. Yet it would seem that the stable ideas of a sane and conservative community are what must govern us in the final decision

That the present central high school building is unsanitary and is in its dotage is conceeded on all sides. That there is NEED for a new building is a fact so self evident that it stands practically without contradiction.

What obstacle is there then, or objection, to this District building an adequate and modern equipped school. To be sure there are as there will be differences of opinion over the details of any proposed structure These minor differences ought however to be easily adjusted.

The only real objection when it comes down as the boys say "to brass tacks" is that it will take some money out of e[illegible] to do this.

Should we spend money in this way? Can we afford it?

The preceeding two questions are questions that each one of us outside of school matter—must ask ourselves many times during life's journey and generally the answering decision to these or similar questions is made upon a business basis.

And so perhaps in considering the school question it would be well to lay aside sentiment, civic pride, or any sympathetic feeling for the welfare of the growing child and consider the matter only in the light of a cold BUSINESS proposition.

Would there be a proportionate return to the community on such an investment?

What are the prime principles for a successful business? What, in fact is the one fundamental requirement for any particular degree of business success? Is it not a certain alertness to the wants of the times—a certain up-to dateness in your methods and equipment that brings you trade? Old and shop worn goods are gotten rid of at half the original price, old fixtures are thrown away and replaced by modern ones.

Now school districts also are business institutions in which all property holders have an interest and a voice

When a school district is losing trade every year which rightfully belongs to it, then it is time for the stockholders to get together and determine what is wrong and do whatever is necessary to restore lost prestige and plan in some way to retain not only the natural trade but through modern buildings, equipment and methods, draw customers from a distance. That is what a private corporation would do.

In these days of easy motor transportation when nearly every farmer either has or will have his car it is no difficult matter for a foreign pupil to go some distance from his home in order to obtain the advantages of a modern school.

When the district loses the trade of the scholar in the school, then the business man loses the trade of the parent in the community.

There is another principle upon which modern corporations put the greatest stress and that is "centralization" and its consequent economy of management. Under our present system of schooling this district is under the expense of financing and keeping in repair four distinct buildings when one centralized building would and should serve for all—or at least three of them.

This would mean a considerable saving to this District every year in fuel, in janitors, in up keep, and last but not least in supervision

A corporation would see this economic point quickly? Why not a district?

Is it not advisable now, therefore, speaking as a business community to lend our utmost efforts toward the establishment of a school building that will take care under one roof of what at present is represented by these separate units? Centralization means curtailed expense all along the line and this is, as we well know, the watchward of all modern business institutions.

Our village has exhibited a wise business policy in the past in its investment in a sewerage system for sanitation and water works to protect us from fire and make the garden crops grow.

Does not our business intuition warn us that the time has arrived for sanitation for our school going children and adequate protection from fire in a building that must house the most valuable and important crop we grow? Let us, by all means, have a meeting of the stockholders to devise ways and means not of "keeping up with Liz", as one writer suggests, but in keeping up with the age in which we live and without ideals in the BUSINESS of education as expressed in a house of modern construction.

LETTER FROM AN OLD TECUMSEH BOY

The following is a letter written in by an old Tecumseh boy who is now prominent in his line of work in one of our progressive western cities

I have received the two copies of the Herald and read the discussions with regard to the High School, and [illegible] much interested in the plan to build a new school. Our city has built several new High Schools and against very little if any opposition.

Our new Central High is a wonder as well as is the new Manual Training High School.

If we do not progress we stand still and satisfaction with the present conditions does nothing for the citizen of tomorrow. We need a better citizenship and the public high school seems a most appropriate medium for the development of a better sense of citizenship. The weakness of the past in our high schools has been the failure to grasp the every day requirements of the rising generation. There has been an adherence to old plans of education, and when the student came out of school he had no understanding of the practical requirements of every day life. The result has been that of those entering the grades only about 10 per cent have progressed to the High Schools and of those entering the high schools only about 5 per cent graduate and progress to higher fields of learning. This raises at once the question, why should not some effort be made to give the 90 per cent that drop out in the grades and the 95 per cent that drop out in our High Schools, a fair run for the investment. The question is also raised as to what becomes of those that fall by the wayside The answer is easy, they become a burden on the commercial and industrial community to educate and develop into citizenship. I say burden because the educational process after leaving school is an over head burden that must be paid for by the ultimate consumer. Were these children taught thrift and practical things we could reduce some phases of the high cost of living.

Ours is a democratic and co-operative form of government, therefore without a true sense of co-operation and a building for the future we cannot do our full duty by ourselves or our fellow men.

I have been intensely interested in the subject of practical education for many years.

A BUSINESS MAN'S IDEA.

A business man stated within the past few days why should we spend $75,000 for a new school-house? The branch school houses are good enough. We cannot afford to spend this much money as our taxes are high enough at present.

Have you noticed the new refregators and meat cutters in our different groceries and markets lately? Why were they purchased?

Have you noticed the front of our different stores in the past four years? Why was this money spent. was it foolish or not? Let us have more answers to these questions.

MASS MEETING PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH SUNDAY AT 7 P. M.

Social Service Expert.

The Rev. H. W. Wells of Detroit will address a gathering of all the churches of Tecumseh and people of vicinity at the Presbyterian church 7 p. m. Sunday evening on social service work, and in particular the work of the Associated Charities

Mr. Wells has had experience in work in small towns, and will come to Tecumseh Saturday morning to confer with people here, and look over the ground.

Mr Wells is a delightful man, business like and attracts men to him wherever he goes All the people of Tecumseh should hear him. He will bring a valuable message to us. Tecumseh desires to keep abreast of the times, and social service is the topic of the American love of action.

Mr. C. Patterson will preside at the meeting The service will be very short, as most of the time will be given up to the speaker of the evening. All the twenty-one members of the committee apointed to consider the matter of an associated charities for Tecumseh, and who represent the various lodges, charitable societies and churches are particularly urged to be at the gathering. All the ministers are joining in this work together. Associated Charities isn't merely a work of surface charity it aims at getting at the root cause of poverty and helping the men and women and children who for one reason and another are having somewhat of a struggle to get on in life. It's a vital and broad subject. Don't judge the matter until you have heard the speaker and the explanations, There will be an open meeting for questions and answers right after the address.

Pepys at a Feast.

Pepys' account of the lord mayor's banquet which he attended in 1663 illustrates the earliness of the proceedings at that time. He made his way to the Guildhall at noon, "went up and down to see the tables" and then had a drink, refusing wine in consequence of a vow, but persuading his conscience that he might indulge in hippocras, a compound of wine and spices. Soon after 1 o'clock came the lord mayor, "and so all to dinner." Afterward Pepys strolled about the ladies' room, but could not discern one handsome face there and, "being wearied with looking upon a company of ugly women." went off to Cheapside to see the pageants, "which were very silly." Thus the lord mayor's show in those days came after dinner.—London Standard.

No, He Wasn't Sick.

The ocean liner was rolling like a chip; but, as usual in such instances, one passenger was aggressively, disgustingly healthy. "Sick, eh?" he remarked to a pale green person who was leaning on the rail. The pale green person regarded the healthy one with all the scorn he could muster. "Sick nothing!" he snorted weakly. "I'm just hanging over the front of the boat to see how the captain cranks it!"—Argonaut.

"SEEING AMERICA FIRST"
with LYMAN H. HOWE
VIA GLACIER NATIONAL PARK
TO BE SEEN HERE SOON.

TRAVELING A MILE-A-SECOND WITH LYMAN H. HOWE

Few people fully realize what an attraction like Lyman H. Howe's Travel Festival which comes to the Bradley Opera House, next Wednesday, Febru[illegible] an entire new program really means. Some regard it almost as a dream journey of childhood days when trips to legendary lands were made via the magic carpet The more matter-of-fact persons regard it more for what it really is—a miracle of science more amazing than Aladdin could ever conjure up by rubbing his fairy lamp. It is an entertainment that is distinctly typical of this—the swiftest epoch of the world's progress. With Mr. Howe one can travel a mile-a-second in a mile-a-minute age

Those among us who can't get away once or twice a year on an extended tour, will find a splendid substitute in Lyman H. Howe's Travel Festival It condenses thousands of miles and years of time in a brief two hours. Dramatic or operatic attractions costing from $2.00 to $5.00 a seat are not a genuinely entertaining and enjoyable to everybody as that offered by Mr. Howe for 50 cents or less. To any one seeing it for the first time the perfection of Mr Howe's entertainment may well make the spectator pause in amazement.

Lyman H. Howe's Travel Festival is inimitable not only because of the scenes themselves, but also because of the way they are presented Mr. Howe links the sense of sound with the sense of sight so precisely and yet so naturally that the effect is hypnotic in its compelling power. He knows how to imbue the mere lights and shadows of electric rays with a vitality that is akin to life itself. Hidden corners of the earth, life and customs in strange climes, and the scenic spots of earth are all produced in picture form that is perfection. It teaches without dryness and imparts a certain knowledge which no books or lecturer could

Hundreds of sufferers from pains in the back and sides, bladder and urinary disorders, lumbago, rheumatism, dizziness, puffy swellings under the eyes or in the feet and ankles, nervous, tired or worn-out or headachy feeling, don't seem to realize that the greater part of all sickness today can be avoided by keeping the kidneys working properly. If you suffer from any of the many agonies that accompany weak, clogged-up or diseased kidneys you should not neglect yourself another day and run the risk of serious complications Secure a package of Solvax, the wonderful new kidney remedy, which is very inexpensive yet acts quickly and surely on the seat of the trouble. You'll be surprised how entirely different you'll feel in a very short time.

It doesn't matter how long you have suffered how old you are, or what you have used. The very principle of Solvax is such that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without beneficial results. Solvax has been so uniformly successful that C A. Wright will in future sell it under a postitive guarantee of relief or refund the money.

BRODERICK & CLARK

AL. H. WILSON

Al. H. Wilson in his comedy song play, "As Years Roll On" made his first appearance before a Tecumseh audience Thursday evening at Bradleys.

"As Years Roll On" is a three act play and pictures the home life of a Dutch family. First in Holland and later in the second and third act in New York. The plot is based on a love affair and the Holland governments conscription act and is full of comedy and pathos.

Mr. Wilson, as John Van Zam, a young Dutch miller who later in American prospered until he became a delicatessen magnate showed his unusual ability as an actor and won instant favor in the several songs which he sang. He has a rich tennor voice which he filled with melody. His songs "Mother Mine," "As Years Roll On," "She Left Me For a Teddy Bear," "Yesterday," and "My Old Pipe" were greeted with rounds of applause. In the latter song he was cleverly assisted by his dog.

Mr. Wilson was supported by an excellent cast. The work of Hans J. Fischer as Heinreich Geesgang a near inventor was a big hit.

Al. H. Wilson should have played to a packed house. Tecumseh people were very fortunate to have had the opportunity of seeing and hearing Mr. Wilson and his high class company.

RESEARCH CIRCLE

The Research Circle was very pleasantly entertained by Mesdames James and Earl Updyke at their home on West Chicago St. Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Fred Aylesworth was leader for the day. The following program was given.

Paper, "The Panama Canal in Construction"—Mrs. Wm. Raymond

Paper, "United States Mints"—Mrs. J. O. Eaton.

Paper, "The Effects of the Panama Canal on North and South America" —Miss Mary Whitlock.

Paper, Making the Best of Things" —Mrs. Fred Aylesworth.

An animated discussion on the new school building then followed and it was the general opinion of the ladies that we must have a new building.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday at Grange hall. Meeting called at 2:30 p. m. A pot luck supper will be a feature of this meeting.

WIT AND WISDOM

The Wit and Wisdom club met with Prof. and Mrs. Reed Monday evening with a fine atttendance, Mrs. Reed acting as leader.

The topic of the evening was "The Fish Industries of the West."

Music by an orchestra composed of Miss Hazel Roberts and Leon McLachlin, violinists, with Mrs. A. B. McLachlin at the piano.

Prof. Reed gave a very interesting paper on the Fish Industries of the West-Salmon, Halibut and Tuna.

Orchestra, with Leon McLachlin playing the cello.

Song, Ernest Church, accompanied by Miss Edna Taylor.

Roll call, called out some unusual experiences among the fishers, especially one by the clergy. Had he not have been a representative of truth and righteousness his wonderful story might have been doubted.

Refreshments were served carrying out the fish idea with oyster patties. A fish pond was also provided and the members each tried their hand at the sport.

Speaking of the Weather

February and March bring weather conditions very trying to most people.

Colds, coughs, sore throat, tonsilitis, catarrh, bronchitis, pneumonia, are all prevalent.

These are all catarrhal conditions. All dependent upon the same cause, climatic changes. Sloppy weather underfoot. High winds, chilling blasts, changing from day to day. Thermometer dancing a jig. Barometer following suit.

All of the acute catarrhal conditions above referred to, call for

PE-RU-NA

They call loudly, too. If Peruna is neglected these catarrhal conditions are liable to become chronic. One bottle of Peruna used at the right time will save months, even years, of suffering and sickness.

WHY IT SUCCEEDS

Because It's For One Thing Only and Tecumseh People Appreciate This.

Nothing can be good for everything. Doing one thing well brings success.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for one thing only.

For weak or disordered kidneys.

Here is Tecumseh's evidence to prove their worth.

E. C. Brisbin, farmer, N. Democrat St., Tecumseh, says: I began to suffer from kidney complaint twenty years ago and the medicine I took brought me only temporary relief. Often my back ached intensely and the secretions from my kidneys were irregular in passage and highly colored. Doan's Kidney Pills went to the seat of the trouble and did me much good." NEARLY THREE YEARS LATER, Mr. Brisbin said: "You may continue to use my name as a reference for the merit of Doan's Kidney Pills. Whenever I feel in need of a kidney medicine, I take this remedy and it acts promptly and effectivly."

Humors of Indexing.

Quite as bad as the cryptic alphabetical headings under which important subjects are sometimes hidden in an index are the delusive cross references that lead to nothing. The present writer, looking up the subject of silver plate in an index, read "silver plate, see gold plate," then "gold plate, see plate," then "plate, see hallmarking," then "hallmarking, see plate marks," and finally "plate marks, see silver plate," which brought him back to where he had started. The most curious freak of indexing in my experience, writes a correspondent, was detected in the course of revising and arranging a collection of obituary articles which had been neglected. I searched in vain for Queen Victoria in that index, though it was certain that her majesty's life was included in the collection. But neither under "Q" nor under "V" was it to be found. Finally it was discovered accidentally under "T"—"The Queen!"—London Chronicle.

The Soft Answer.

"Yes, I'll take Jim's note for a hundred any time," said a banker when an offer to sell a note to the bank was made.

"I want to warn you, though," said the man in whose favor the note had been drawn, "that Jim is a good promiser, but a poor payer. I don't want you to have anything against me because of this note."

"Jim's honest, and I'll take his note for a reasonable amount any time," said the banker. "I had some trouble with him once over an overdraft, and it turned out that the bank was at fault and that he had not actually overdrawn. I'll admit I was pretty nasty in my talk to him about it, because I was so sure the bank was right. The average man under those conditions would have 'cussed' me out at least, but all Jim said, although he was madder than thunder, was, 'I don't see why your wife ever married you!'"—Indianapolis News.

How the Milliner Got Even.

A local business man, who has a friend in a nearby town who is a milliner, told a story of how the latter once got "even" with one of the leading social lights of the place after she had tried to be unfair with him. The husband of the woman in question had had a bit of hard financial sledding, and during the "reconstruction" period she had to go light on clothes. So one day she had the milliner send up some of his best hats on approval, which he did. She sent them all back, but in a few days appeared on the street with a duplicate of the most expensive one of all, which she had evidently made herself. In that town there is a middle aged woman of uncertain mental qualities and unquestionable poverty who is more or less of a town character. To her the milliner gave the original of the duplicated hat, much to the discomfort of the social queen, who apparently saw the point.—New York Times.

Hot Milk In Mashed Potatoes.

"The reason that really good mashed white potatoes are such a rarity in this bitter world is that the milk isn't heated before it is put into them," said the domestic science teacher.

"And yet," said the pupil pensively, "I have seen wonderful cooks put in cold milk."

"But that was while the potatoes were burning hot and on the stove," insisted the advocate of the hot milk dressing. "The potatoes were so awfuly hot that they heated the milk. The safest way is to heat the milk and to use also plenty of butter, pepper and salt. Then beat and beat them with a fork. Never use a spoon. You can't beat them too much for their own good."—New York Herald.

Lakeport, N. H.—"Our little girl 8 years of age was in a debilitated, run-down condition and had a stubborn cough so she was weak and ailing all the time. Nothing helped her until we tried Vinol. This is because Vinol contains the tissue building, strengthening cod liver elements and the tonic iron which a weak and run-down system needs.

Get Rid of My Corns With Magic "Gets-It"

Simplest Corn Cure in the World—No Pain, No Fuss. New, Sure Way.

When corns make you almost "die with your boots on," when you've soaked them and picked them and sliced them, when corn-swelling salves, and tapes, bandages, and plasters that make corns pop-eyed have only made your corns grow faster, just hold your heart a moment and figure this: Put two drops of "Gets-It" on the corn. It dries at once. You can put your shoe and stocking on right over it. The corn is doomed. It makes the corn come off clear and clean. It's the new, easy way. Nothing to stick or press on the corn. You can wear smaller shoes. You'll be a joy-walker. No pain, no trouble. Accept no substitutes. "Gets-It" is sold by druggists everywhere, 25c a bottle, or sent direct by E. Going Home to Mother.

Just what is meant by going home to one's mother, in its larger sense, is perhaps a little difficult to define. Yet, surely, it must be a very universal experience. Have we not all at some time—often following a period of confusion and stress of circumstances—suddenly experienced that deep sense of finding ourselves where we belonged? A sense of restfulness, of home coming, of general rightness and well doing? It is a sloughing off of the non essential and the trivial and a shifting of the spirit into deeper and simpler channels; a pause, when in the midst of all this mad dance of time and circumstances one gets a sudden, enlarging glimpse of truth and of eternity.—Atlantic Monthly.

ACCUSES MAIL FIRMS OF TRICKS IN TRADE

Iowa Grocers' Body Complains of Chicago Concerns.

Dubuque, Ia., Feb. 14.—John A. Dunningham, secretary of the Dubuque Retail Grocers' association, made public copies of a complaint against certain mail order houses which he has sent to the federal trade commission at Washington for formal investigation.

The complaint says Sears, Roebuck & Co. offered 22 1-3 pounds of sugar for $1 with each $10 worth of groceries during several months of 1915. During this same time the refiners' price for sugar f. o. b. in Chicago was said to be about 5.49 cents per pound. Another mail order concern is also named.

The Dubuque grocers' complaint said: "This method of soliciting trade is a subterfuge, a temptation or trick plan, as the offer was contingent upon the sale of other articles of quality or market value of which the purchasers were commonly ignorant."

CHEMISTRY STUDENT SAW GIRL POISONED

William H. Orpet Held in Marian Lambert Tragedy.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—William H. Orpet, University of Wisconsin junior, who is said to have left Marian Frances Lambert, whom he jilted, to die of poison in Helm's woods at Lake Forest, a suburb, was charged with murder and held in the Waukegan jail.

Orpet, who is twenty years old, is said by Ralph J. Dady, state's attorney at Waukegan, to have admitted to him that he had been intimate with the girl who was but eighteen years old. He is said to have stated further that Miss Lambert had feared for four months that she was to become a mother despite drugs which Orpet purchased for her, and which made her ill.

Orpet, it is charged, made a secret trip from Madison to Lake Forest last Tuesday night, it is said he called the girl on the telephone and made an appointment which was kept in the woods next morning. At this interview Orpet said that he told her he was to marry a Miss Celestia Youker. It is said that she then took a quick acting poison and that Orpet saw her die. Frightened, he rushed away and caught a train back to Madison. The next day, Thursday, the body was found.

CORNELL HAS $400,000 FIRE

Morse Hall, Home of Chemistry Department, Is Destroyed.

Ithaca, Feb. 14.—More Hall, home of the chemistry department at Cornell university, was practically destroyed by fire, entailing a loss of more than $400,000, wiping out research work whose value can never be estimated, and ruining one of the most complete chemical laboratories in the country.

The fire broke out in the photographic rooms of J. P. Troy, on the third floor of the building. By the time the fire department reached the scene the entire third floor was a roaring furnace. Zero weather and snow chilled and retarded the firemen in fighting the flames and when they arrived they found the water pressure not strong enough to force a stream to the second floor. The university pumps were slow to get into operation and even when working they failed to relieve the situation. As a result the building was doomed from the outset.

Right, but Wrong.

The late Professor Thomas R. Lounsbury of Yale, speaking at Cambridge, England, on the proper use of English, according to the Philadelphia Bulletin, said:

"But precision can be carried too far. The ultra precise, even when logically right, are really wrong.

"An ultra precise professor went into a hardware shop and said, 'Show me a shears, please.'

"'You mean a pair of shears, don't you?' said the dealer.

"'No,' said the professor; 'I mean what I say. I mean a shears.'

"The dealer took down a box of shears.

"'Look here, professor,' he said, 'aren't there two blades here? And don't two make a pair?'

"'Well, you've got two legs. Does that make you a pair of men?' And the professor smiled at the dealer triumphantly through his spectacles.

"He was logically right," said Professor Lounsbury, "but really he was wrong."

FURIOUS FIGHT ON WEST FRONT

Germans Pierce Allies' Line in Five Places.

DRIVEN BACK AT THREE POINTS

700-Yard Gain in Champagne and Advance Against British in Flanders Is Held—Paris Says Five Attacks by Teutons Were Driven Back With Great Loss.

London, Feb. 14.—The Germans, attacking along the whole line from Flanders to Champagne, penetrated the allies' lines at five different points, according to official reports received. At three points the attackers were again expelled, but at one point in Flanders and at another in Champagne they have maintained their gains.

All reports indicate terrific and repeated attacks with the Germans mainly on the offensive in the infantry actions.

The most vicious fighting occurred around Hill 140, in Artois. West of this height the Germans launched five desperate attacks. The final assault carried the Germans through the French first line defenses. The French immediately launched a counter attack which drove the Germans out with heavy losse in dead and wounded.

Germans Capture Line.

Five successive counter attacks also were made by the Germans in an effort to retrieve the trenches lost to the French northeast of Butte du Mesnl, in Champagne. All were repulsed, according to the Paris report. The Berlin statement on fighting in this sector says that the Germans stormed the French front over 700 yards south of St. Marie-a-Py, capturing more than 200 o[illegible] and men.

Fighting around Vimy up to last Wednesday netted nearly 700 prisoners to the Germans, besides twenty-five machine guns and other material, according to the Berlin statement.

London, Feb. 14.—The Reuter agency sends out the following as a semi-official statement issued in Berlin: "The following resolution was passed by a large majority of the budget committee of the Prussian diet on February and was published today:

Captor of Dietz Dies Pauper.

Milwaukee, Feb. 14.—Fred Thorbahn, former deputy sheriff, who captured Dietz, "defender of Cameron dam," and who once was wealthy, is dead in Montana, a pauper, according to dispatches from there.

Jupiter's Moons.

The statement that Jupiter's moons can occasionally be seen without optical aid by keen sighted persons needs some qualification. Within the last quarter of a century the space penetrating power of the camera, combined with the world's giant telescopes, has added no fewer than five Jovian satellites to the four which Galilei discovered 300 years ago. Four of the five new moons were "netted" at the famous Lick observatory, on Mount Hamilton, California, and the fifth is to the credit of Greenwich observatory. But all of the new discoveries are so small and, with one exception, so distant from Jupiter that they are beyond the range of naked eye vision, even from Jupiter itself, unless an observer on the planet had better eyesight than we terrestrials. Indeed, to see Satellite IX (the latest addition to Jupiter's family of moons) a hypothetical observer on Jupiter would need eyesight capable of seeing a star 300 times fainter than the faintest visible to human eyesight.—London Chronicle.

The Frugal Breton.

"As I watched the fishermen unloading their cargoes I had a striking illustration of Breton frugality," writes Herbert Adams Gibbons in an article on "The Sardine Industry of Brittany," in Harper's Magazine. "So many sardines come into the port of Douarnenez that their white, flecky scales cover the sand in mounds, washed up by the tides. Some of the boats have their decks covered several inches deep with the catch. But the fishermen actually count every sardine and send them ashore in baskets of exactly 200 each.

"There is no guesswork, no approximation by weighing. Since at low tide the boats are fifteen feet below the mole, the porters let down ropes to fishermen in the boats. The baskets are drawn up one at a time. If a single fish happens to fall overboard they go after it with a hand net and make really strenuous efforts to recover it. These are fishermen to whom the admonition to gather up the fragments would not have been necessary."

The Superior Humorist.

It is the mark of the superior humorist that he arouses thought as well as laughter, and George Meredith held this to be the test of true comedy of the loftier type.—Brander Matthews in Harper's Magazine.

ARSENIC TO KILL 200 PUT IN SOUP

Startling Disclosure in Mundelein Banquet Poisoning.

EXTRA GUESTS BALKED PLOT

Covers First Announced as 200, Which Led Poisoner to Use 480 Grains, Sufficient to Slay That Number—Each Diner Swallowed Nearly Enough to Kill Him.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—Four hundred and eighty grains of arsenic were in the soup with which, the police believe, Jean Crones tried to poison the guests at the banquet given at the University club to 300 prominent Chicagoans in honor of Archbishop G. W. Mundelein.

Dr. Frederick O. Tonney, director of the city laboratory, completed his quantitative analysis of the soup and found the poison averaged one and one-half grains to each three ounces of soup. The portion served each guest at the banquet was between three and four ounces, so that each diner who consumed all his soup swallowed between one and one-half grains of arsenic.

Two Grains Minimum to Kill.

"Numerous tests have proved that two grains is the minimum amount of arsenic that will kill a human being," said Dr. John Dill Robertson, Commissioner of Health, to whom Dr. Tonney made his report. "It would seem therefore that Crones, if he put the arsenic in the soup, underestimated a little.

"This might be explained by the fact that advance press notices of the banquet said that there would be 200 guests, while when the covers were actually laid there were 307.

"A pint of soup weighs sixteen ounces. A pint, according to the portions served at the banquet, would be enough for four guests. The quantitative analysis by Tonney showed 2 7-10 grains of arsenic to each pint of soup. That works out to the allotment of one and one-half grains per guest.

Cups Cut Down Portion.

"Then, too, the soup was served in consomme cups, and this cut down the amount perhaps to lower than that what Crones estimated.

"The arsenic bottle found in Crones' room was empty. It was a one-ounce bottle, or contained, when full, 480 grains, in the form of white oxide of arsenic.

"Dr. Tonney also is making an analysis of the oysters, cavier, fish and wine that were eaten before the general illness attacked the guests. So far there has been no indication of any other virulent poison than arsenic, but it will take a week or more to go through all the tests for known poisons. Small quantities of copper poisoning were found, but merely traves, and not enough, by the widest stretch of imagination, to have caused the illness that existed among the guests."

BRITISH FORCE IS IN PERIL

Turk Report Says "Hostile Telegraph Lines" Were Destroyed.

London, Feb. 14.—Fear lest the Turks have succeeded in interrupting telegraphic communication between General Charles V. Townsend, commander in chief of the main British Mesopatamia army surrounded at Kut-el-Amara, and the relief forces under General Aylmer, twenty-three miles below the Kut position, was caused here owing to the receipt of an official Turkish statement.

This statement says that a Turkish reconnoitering column advancing toward Sheik Said "destroyed hostile telegraph lines." Sheik Said is the point on the Tigris about twenty-five miles below Kut-el-Amara, where a large Turkish force has been blocking General Aylmer's force ever since it had reached that position on its way from Ismi-Ali-Gherbi to Kut.

New York Presidential Candidate Leaves Primary Open to Sherman.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—Illinois representatives of Henry D. Estabrook of New York, who is making a fight for the Republican nomination for president at the primaries in several states, notably Minnesota and Nebraska, have decided not to enter the primary in this state on April 11. This decision, it is said, was helped by the fact that all factions of the Republican party in Illinois appear to be steadfast for Senator Sherman, whom the Estabrook people do not care to antagonize, because, they say, they do not fear him outside of this state.

The Capitol Dome.

The capitol dome at Washington is the only considerable dome of iron in the world. It is a vast hollow sphere weighing 8,000,300 pounds. How much is that? More than 4,000 tons, or almost the weight of 70,000 full grown persons, or about equal to 1,000 laden coal cars of four tons each, which, if strung out one behind the other, would occupy a mile and a half of track. On the very top of the dome the allegorical figure "America," weighing 18,-985 pounds, lifts its proud head high in the air. The pressure of this dome and figure upon the piers and pillars is 14,-477 pounds to the square foot. It would, however, require a pressure of 755,280 pounds to the square foot to crush the supports.

PARIS FEARS SHIP IS SUNK BY SUBMARINE

Admiral Charner Has Been Missing Since Feb. 4.

Paris, Feb. 14.—The ministry of marine gave out the following official statement:

"The ministry of marine is uneasy over the lack of news of the 4,000-ton cruiser Admiral Charner, which was cruising off the Syrian coast, which was not been heard from since February 8, on which date German telegrams mentioned the sinking of a French warship by a German submarine."

Great Fuss About It, and He's a Man, Too.

Cadillac, Feb. 14.—That L. S. Riehm, principal of the Sherman school, posed in the nude for kodak pictures and that he appears with other persons in obscene photographs is charged by the school board of Sherman.

Charges of immorality have been filed by the board with County School Commissioner Roy Noteware, who is asked to remve Riehm n the ground that he is "unfit for the position."

Several Mesick boys and young men are said to be involved and a dozen subpenaes have been served in an effort to obtain more evidence against Riehm. More serious charges may follow the hearing.

Riehm is six feet tall, handsome, twenty-three years old. He was exceedingly popular with young women of Sherman and nearby towns. He is an excellent dancer, and taught the village boys and girls the latest steps. Riehm coached all school athletic teams, which have been very successful, and he is said to be an athlete of ability. He attended college in Kalamazoo but is not a college graduate. He taught in St. Joseph county last year, and expected to continue college next fall with money earned in two years.

HOW ABOUT THIS DEBT LADEN COMMUNITY?

I wonder how many people living in Tecumseh know what the bonded indebtedness of the village is.

In a letter published in these columns a few days ago written by one of our citizens the statement was made that "this was a debt laden community."

According to the last assessment roles the assessed valuation of this village is $1,670,350. The whole bonded indebtedness against the village is $37,000 and is divided as follows:

$8,000 balance due on Water Bonds, last payment being due in 1920. These bonds are being matured at the rate of $2,000 per year.

$29,000 in Sewer Bonds which began to mature in September 1920. These bonds are matured at $1,000 per year from 1920 to 1929, $2,000 per year from 1930 to 1938 and the last bond of $1,000 in 1939.

The school district has no bonded indebtedness and according to the last assessment role had a valuation of $1,847,050 There are few school districts today in live commuities that are not carrying a bonded indebtedness.

Do the above facts indicate that this village is a "debt laden community"? Look about you and find out what bonded indebtedness other towns and villages are carrying.

Living on Schedule.

The man who is living this life on schedule time deserves to be an object of pity. I know of one creature who is so precise in his appointments that he is actually living a month in advance of himself You say to him "Whatchergonado tomorrow noon Bill?" and he'll consult his little vest pocket engagement book and inform you that he is filled up as far as next Wednesday at 10 p m (meaning engagements, of course). Then you say "I wanted you to lunch with me tomorrow at 12." "Let me see," says he; "I have a fifteen minute canceled engagement at that time, so I'll accept your invitation. Meanwhile you'll excuse me, dear boy, for I have a directors' meeting on at 4:22 and leave for Goplunk, N. J., at 5:48, but I'll be on hand at 12 sharp.' And he records it in his book. This schedule crank has everything prearranged except his funeral, and if he happens to have a previous engagement I'll wager he'll disappoint the mourners by postponing that.—Cartoons Magazine.

Using the Expression "I Think."

A man was referred to as one who in his conversation never says "I think" so and so. The "think" is a mere expletive. A positive, clear headed man says what he thinks without saying he thinks. Besides, when a person premises with an "I think" it weakens his assertion because thinking is by no means an assurance of truth If one should say "I think it will rain tomorrow" the very expression carries a doubt because mere opinion is a lame matter, and the world is chock full of opinions. If, however, he should say "It will rain tomorrow" it carries some assurance even if it is, after all, an opinion So the man referred to in the first place doesn't say "I think," for it is entirely superfluous, and he adds force and dignity to what he says in omitting it entirely. And then when one looks at the situation calmly he will conclude that "think" is much under a cloud since very few people think exactly alike. There are ten thousand instances of this character.—Ohio State Journal.

Beauty In the Mexican's Voice.

Next to the love of dress, I was most struck with the fineness of the voice and the beauty of intonations of both sexes (of the Mexicans). It is a pleasure simply to listen to the sound of the language before I could attach any meaning to it. They have a good deal of the creole drawl, but it is varied, with an occasional extreme rapidity of utterance, in which they seem to skip from consonant to consonant until, lighting upon a broad open vowel, they rest upon that to restore the balance of sound. A common bullock driver delivering a message seemed to speak like an ambassador at an audience. In fact, they sometimes appeared to me to be a people on whom a curse had fallen and stripped them of everything but their pride, their manner and their voices.—"Three Years Before the Mast," by R. H. Dana

Curious Golf Shot.

The late lord chief justice, Lord Alverstone, being one of the judges at the Birmingham assizes, in the intervals of business had several rounds of golf on the Edgbaston links On one of these occasions he was playing with the local professional and got rather badly bunkered at the second hole.

It was necessary, in order to get the ball out, to make it rise almost perpendicularly into the air, and for this purpose Lord Alverstone, or Sir Richard Webster, as he then was, took his niblick and made a mighty stroke. No conjurer on earth could have done a trick more neatly. The ball not only leaped into the air, but dropped as clean as a whistle into the judge's baggy right hand pocket!—London Mail.

The Luxury of Disdain.

"What is your dog's pedigree?"

"He hasn't any," replied Mr. Growcher. "That's why I keep him around. I'm shy on distinguished ancestry myself, and I enjoy having a creature at hand whom I can contemplate with supercilious superiority."—Washington Star.

A Good Plan.

"We should strive to turn our troubles into successes."

"That's what. I know an actor who did that. When people threw vegetables he caught 'em on a fork and made it the hit of the performance."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

MASS MEETING

At Presbyterian Church Sunday Evening in the interest of Associated Charities.

The Mass meeting at the Presbyterian church Sunday evening was largely attended. Special music was furnished by the Presbyterian orchestra and male quartette. The pastors of the several churches were present.

The speaker of the evening Rev. H. Wells was introduced by Chairman C. F. Patterson,

Rev. Wells is considered an expert in associated charity work and is working under the auspices of the Episcopal church. He arrived in town Saturday and spent the time in visiting the factories, the business section of our town and some of the homes to discover the conditions prevailing in Tecumseh.

In his talk he advocated the establishment of a central bureau with a paid competent person in charge to study, the work to be done in Tecumseh and to list that which is being cared for by our charitable organizations, our lodges, and our churches, the object being to cut out duplications.

He lauded the work that is being done by those various organizations, and would have nothing done to tear down their work but would rather aid them.

He then discussed constructive charity, spoke on the conditions of numerous scholars who are attending high school as set forth by Supt. Reed who are afflicted with defective eyesight poor hearing, adenoids, throat trouble etc., which would naturally retard the students' ability to assimilate the work giving them

The conditions found in some of the homes are uncleanliness and ignorance in the proper preparation of food, to secure the best amount of nutrition necessary for the support of the body.

The question whether those who were earning the support were earning enough to support the family properly were also thoroughly discussed.

In closing Rev. Well complimented Tecumseh very highly and said that if Tecumseh did establish Associated Charities she would place her self in the fore front of cities who had adopted the movement.

At the close of the address J. H. Smith chairman of the original committee to start this movement called the meeting to order and a motion was made that we adopt a program such as was outlined by Rev. Wells and that the matter of Associated Charities be taken from the original committee and placed with the committee of 21 representatives from the churches, lodges and charitable organizations with power to act, Motion carried.

C, F, Patterson, chairman of this committee, made a few remarks and stated that a meeting of this committee would be called in the near future,

Refining Tapioca.

This elegant and delicate starch is the product of a plant that is cultivated very extensively in the Malay peninsula, where its culture is almost entirely in the hands of the Chinese. The tubers of the plant (Manihot utilissima), which weigh on an average from ten to twenty-five pounds, are first scraped and then carefully washed, after which they are reduced to a pulp by being passed between rollers. This pulp is carefully washed and shaken up with abundance of water until the fecula separates and passes through a very fine sieve into a tub placed beneath. The flour so obtained is repeatedly washed and then placed on mats and bleached by exposure to the sun and air. It is finally converted into the pearl tapioca of commerce by being placed in a crude shaped frame covered with canvas. It is slightly moistened and subjected to a rotary motion, by which means it is granulated. It is next dried in the sun and finally over the fire in an iron pan greased with vegetable tallow and is then ready for the market.

Brides In India.

A bride in India never sees her husband until after the marriage ceremony. The parents choose the wife for the son of the house without consulting either party. Sometimes the bride is as young as fourteen. The child is gorgeously dressed and placed on a dais behind a sheet, the women of the family being in attendance.

On the other side of the sheet are the bridegroom and many of his young men friends. The groom keeps throwing over jewels attached to flowers, which the women on the bride's side remove and place in her lap or on her person.

This first ceremony is called the shadee, and, although a man is allowed four wives, no other ever holds the same position as the first chosen for him. The others are of little importance, living their lives more or less as servants to the first wife. As the first wife gets to middle age she is known as the begum.—Pearson's Weekly.

Mystery of a Diplomat.

Of disappearances most mysterious was the case of Benjamin Bathurst, who vanished Nov. 25, 1809, while engaged on a secret mission for the foreign office. Vienna was the young diplomatist's objective, and, with his friend and valet, in a post chaise, Perleberg, a small posting town in north Germany, had been reached. Here Bathurst supped and slept, awaiting the arrival of fresh horses. Waking, he asked were the horses ready and passed out of the door to make inquiries. Eight people saw him go out, but none ever set eyes on him again. Various theories were set afoot—Napoleon's spies, robbers, illness. In 1912 in the forest near Perleberg a skeleton was discovered with a hole in the skull as from a heavy blunt instrument. Was it that of "the English lord," as Perleberg people surmised?

ANNUAL LINCOLN BANQUET

Given by the Men's Brotherhood Class of the Presbyterian Church

The Lincoln banquet given Friday night by the Men's Class of the Presbyterian church was a success in every particular. The committee which had charge of the supper and the service did its work almost to perfection, and the committee which had charge of the program gave just as good satisfaction

The music of the evening was furnished by the Presbyterian Quartette, Messrs. Dickinson, Lowry, Dickinson and Juckett They gave the usual satisfaction and responded to encores in a pleasing way.

Only two speakers were invited to appear on the program and yet there was as much variety as at an old time "variety show."

C. L. Cuthbert, president of the class, introduced the toast master of the evening, Mr Fred B Wood. It appeared a difficult undertaking for the toast master to introduce a fellow attorney and Democrat at a Lincoln banquet, but the job was well handled and Mr. B. E. Barlow of Coldwater, Mich., the first speaker of the evening was presented.

Mr. Barlow spoke on the subject of "Preparedness" He is a keen student of international affairs and is well acquainted with the history and policy of foreign governments. He also saw service in the Spanish war and has the acquaintance of foreign diplomats in Washington. He was thus qualified to handle his subject in a manner different than is generally the case by speakers upon this popular subject. His strongest argument was perhaps that in which he demonstrated that not only are we unprepared, but also that we have been in this condition for many years. We need more men and more ships, to be sure, but our most serious need is more brains to handle what equipment we have His speech of an hour was serious, thoughtful and presented in the fashion and style of an attorney

The second speaker of the evening was Mr. E. Diamond of Galion, Ohio. He had been recommended to the committee as "The Second Harry Lauder," but after the show was over it was [illegible] whether he or the original Harry belonged in second place. That he was a diamond was the verdict of the crowd. The greatness of the speaker was revealed by his introductory remarks in which he said that he was an elder in the Presbyterian church, a Sunday-school superintendent and a teacher in his own school, a business man and an apostle of good cheer which he proceeded to bring to his hearers. Few there are indeed who are able to serve the philosophy of life and practical religion in such a palatable manner as Mr. Diamond in his Scotch songs and stories. Even the walls of the staid old Presbyterian church shook with laughter and, if this "doeth good like a medicine" as the Bible says, there was a lot of medicine taken in one hour Friday night. If Mr. Diamond does not play a return visit to Tecumseh, it will be because of his own choice.

On account of lack of room the invitations to the banquet had to be limited to the men of the congregation. Nearly fifty of the ladies were present to hear the program. Over one hundred men were present.

Girls In Korea.

Girls in Korea have no names or what would be considered names in the western world. There are no Marys or Mabels or Ruths. The little ones are given pet names at their birth, and these they bear until they are ten years old, after which they are no longer used. After her tenth birthday the young woman is known as "Mr. Kim's daughter" or "Mr. Kim's girl baby." The latter title is considered the more honorable.

If there are several daughters in the family they are distinguished by such words as "big" (for the eldest), "second," "third," "fourth," etc. After marriage they are known by their husband's name and title, with the word "house" affixed. They may also be distinguished by the name of the place from which they came when marrying, as "Mrs. of the House of Kim, the young lady who came from Kong Jo."

Investment Bargains.

The investor who picks up desirable property when everybody is selling and no one buying will have to wait only a reasonable time to secure his reward. I recall when real estate in several large cities was a drug on the market. Everybody seemed anxious to sell and no one to buy, but the buyers in those periods have realized enormous profits, far greater than one can get in the Stock Exchange.

The man who has money, even if it is but a small amount, can always turn it over to advantage if he will wait for the opportunity. Don't go with the crowd when every one is wild to buy something, but quietly abide an opportunity when everybody is anxious to unload and buyers are few. At such a time the bargain counter opens. —Leslie's.

The Spit of Ceremony.

Among the Akikuyu of East Africa, described by Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Routledge in "With a Prehistoric People," to spit upon a person or thing indicates good will. "The blacksmith spits upon the sword he has forged before handing it over to the owner. So, too, courtesy demands that a man should spit in his hand before offering it to a friend, and the female visitors spit upon the newly arrived youngster as a sign of welcome." Even in England there are relics of the same custom in the habit among the lower classes of spitting on a coin.

No Favors to Beauties.

A beautiful young lady approached the ticket window at a Pennsylvania country station and in a voice like the rippling of a brook asked the agent, "What is the fare to the fair?"

To which the thick headed agent replied, "Same as to the homely, madam." —Argonaut.

Teaches a Lesson.

Money is never spent to so much advantage as when you have been cheated out of it, for at one stroke you have purchased prudence.—Schopenhauer.

LYMAN H. HOWE

Wednesday. February 16.

At the Bradley Opera House next Wednesday (tomorrow) February 16, Lyman H Howe will present a belated discovery of America which surpasses anything else within our borders—Glacier National Park. In size, beauty, grandeur and scientific interest it literally staggers the imagination. As a scenic wonderland it is remarkable in the unbelievable manner in which so many great features have been brought together by the prodigal hand of nature and set down in one mountain fastness It is a bewildering maze of thundering peaks, plunging valley, mirror lakes, fascinating glaciers, roaring streams and beautiful waterfalls. Set down in cold figures the map area of the park "as the crow flies is 1500 square miles; but measured up and down "as the mountain goat climbs" it is at least double that. Into this region Howe's photographers penetrated several months ago in search of "big game," though not of the kind usually implied by the term, but rather of conquest of a new world with their cameras, and through much assistance extended by officials of the Great Northern Railway, came back with a filmization of such surpassing interest that spectators are held in tense amazement at the realities of nature which are portrayed.

As a characteristic of Mr. Howe's popular exhibition a great variety of other scenes will be presented among which he promises a distinct novelty and the latest discovery of the possibilities of motion photography—the movements of animals photographed at eight times the "normal" speed of which film is exposed. The result shows just how a kangaroo, goat, dog, etc., runs and leaps but shows it so slowly that at times they seem suspended in the air. It is a most weird and curious yet instructive nature study on films which show more than the human eye with its much slower vision could ever detect. Then, too, there will be pictorial pilgrimages to Madeira, Southern France, Friesland (Holland), Swiss Alps and through an immense automobile plant the Willys-Overland; also a flight in an aeroplane above the clouds; curious chemical formations; logging in Italy; and a torpedo boat plunging through a stormy sea Besides, the wholesome humor of Howe's cartoons will contribute their ever welcome fun by way of contrast to the more dignified scenes.

MORE EFFICIENCY IN OUR HIGHSCHOOL COURSES

There are three classes of children who are attending our grammar and high school grades. The parents of these three classes pay the taxes.

One class is made up of children whose parents are able to send them to college probably to become lawyers, physicians, clergymen teachers or to take up some special course. Another class do not intend to go to college. They have spent four pleasant years in high school and taken up studies valuable for general information. If they are thoughtful they wonder why some of these pleasant days in high school were not used to teach them something of practical value. Another class do not graduate at all, leave school between the sixth and the eighth grades or as soon as the law will permit them to leave. Some have no aptitude for study and are glad to escape the restraint of school. They know the three r's and possibly a little more. They fill the ranks of the incompetent, unskilled workers This class consists of about 90 per cent of all school children.

The curriculum of our high school as well as many others is so arranged as to instruct those who wish to graduate only.

The newer ideas of education ,tend to better instruct the 90 per cent who drop out. Schools which have adopted this new system have been very successful and have doubled the attendance of those who have been formerly dropping out of our high schools.

The new school building and system proposed is not merely a building to cost so much money but an economic establishment to better teach the 90 per cent of our boys and girls who drop out of school

Life Struggle of the Trees.

An interesting light is thrown on the longevity of the trees that grow along the timber line of the Rocky mountains by Mr Enos A. Mills in his "Rocky Mountain Wonderland." He says:

A few timber line trees live a thousand years, but half this time is a ripe old age for most of the timber line veterans. The age of these trees cannot be judged by their size or by their general appearance. There may be centuries of difference in the ages of two arm in arm trees of similar size I examined two trees that were growing within a few yards of each other in the shelter of a crag. One was fourteen feet high and sixteen inches in diameter and had 337 annual rings. The other was seven feet high and five inches in diameter and had lived 492 years.

One day by the sunny and sheltered side of a bowlder I found a tiny seed bearer at an altitude of 11,800 feet. How splendidly unconscious it was of its size and its utterly wild surroundings! This brave pine bore a dainty cone, yet a drinking glass would have completely housed both the tree and its fruit.

Conversing With "Ghosts."

Some scientists of real eminence have accepted the postulate of the individuality and self consciousness of the soul after the death of the body and have attempted to demonstrate their belief by asserting communication with these disembodied spirits. Sir William Crookes, a profound delver in chemistry pertaining to radio-activity, asserted years ago that he had communication with souls of dead friends, but for several years he has been silent anent this matter. Camille Flammarion, a rather speculative and sensational astronomer, declares that he has seen and conversed with the "ghosts" of dead friends. Professor William James, brother of Henry James, the novelist, promised before he died that if possible he would communicate with his friend Professor Hyslop, both eminent psychologists, but at last accounts the soul of Professor James had not spoken.—Exchange.

Curious Dwarf Oaks.

Known to ranchmen as chinnery, the dwarf oak of the southwest presents a curious instance of the devious and inscrutable ways of nature. There the lilliputian of the great oak family covers a great area in the plains of Texas bordering on New Mexico. The trees, it is said, rarely attain a height of twenty inches and are replicas of their giant brothers in other parts of the country. The acorns which they bear are as large as those of the [illegible] burr oak and present a grotesque appearance hanging from the little limbs of the low growing shrub or tree. The annual crop of mast is used for fattening hogs. When the acorns are ripe many wild animals and birds flock into the miniature forest to feast on the nuts.—Argonaut

BEAVERTON MAN REGAINS HEALTH

Finly Ferguson tells of Benefits he got from Tanlac

Finley Ferguson, a Beaverton, Michigan, farmer, gives the following strong indorsement to Tanlac, the new medicine:

"For the past few years I have been almost a constant sufferer from rheumatism. This caused my whole system to become run-down and my general health was impaired. I lost all energy and ambition and never felt just right. My stomach, too, was in a disordered condition. I had no appetite.

"I began to take Tanlac a short time ago and I find that I can enjoy better sleep than I have for a year. The medicine has given me a good appetite. My rheumatism has been completely relieved. My general health is better and I feel better in every way than I have for two years."

Tanlac may be obtained here at the store of B. J. Pulver.

A. E. LERCHE

"If you ever get the blues," he said, "it is well to know the simplest and best way to get rid of them. Crankiness, nervousness and general upset condition preceding the blues usually are due to the relentless grip of constipation on the nervous system. The simplest way to meet this condition is to have a box of Rexall Orderlies in your pocket and the best way is to take one when you feel the attack coming on. It is the finest laxative for men, women and children I know of, and is a regular antidote for the blues —the best ever."

Why It Burns.

There are a number of chemical substances which when applied to the skin will cause a burning sensation, and mustard is one of these. It acts on the tongue and other sensitive parts of the body as an irritant. It causes the blood vessels to swell and discharge some of their contents. If it is left on the skin long enough it will blister. That is what happens when a mustard plaster is applied. Under the mustard plaster we find a red patch produced by the swelling of blood vessels. This causes pressure on the nerves that produce the sensation we call burning.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

The experience of all spreader building has been taken in consideration and combined in the new steel

Cloverleaf

It is the correct width to enter any barn or shed without crowding. It is all steel, built like a neat but strong bridge. The axle has no holes to break out but is key seated. Even the beater staves are built of steel.

It will spread from 6 to 12 feet wide. You can top dress as light as you wish or put on as heavy as you desire.

It will spread anything in the line of manure and will tear it up finer than any other spreader built.

It is the lightest draft spreader of its size, three horses can work easy with no side draft.

So constructed that the manure is thrown down, therefore the driver is never covered in windy times.

Over two carload sold with some breakage on only one machine. A record never before heard of.

There is a reason, "they are built right." Examine and you will readily see the reason.

DIAMONDS GOING UP

The British government has declared its intent to place an expert duty of 10 per cent. on all diamonds, to be effective immediately. This, with the 9 per cent. raise on rough made by the London syndicate since January 1, will advance the price of diamonds at least 20 per cent. We have anticipated this by making very heavy and advantageous purchases, enabling us to continue selling you diamonds at last year's low prices.

MACON

The Tecumseh Seniors will give a play entitled "Mr. Bob" at the Macon Grange Hall instead of the M. E. church Friday evening Feb 18. They will bring with them a male quartette.

"TWIN BEDS"

"Twin Beds," as given at the Bradley last night was about the funniest thing presented here in many moons, but played to a mighty slim house, much to the regret of Manager Mark for he is trying to bring first class attractions to Tecumseh

This dainty comedy was one laugh-provoking scene after another. Truly the command to "Tie a Tin Can to Trouble" was obeyed easily by the witnesses of the performance. Aileen Poe, who played the leading role of Mrs. Hawkins, had played here before as Valerie West in "The Common Law," but in her present role cannot be beaten.

The story goes on to show the troubles of Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins and other dwellers in the same apartment house and it all came from twin beds. An Italian tenor and his big American wife who was a former cabaret dancer, were all the time getting in wrong with the Hawkins through the tenor's failing of falling in love with ever pretty woman he saw. And that wife of the tenor was some actress.

"Twin Beds" was thoroughly appreciated by those who heard it and the cares and troubles of life were forgotten for one evening at least.

THE UNITED STATES NAVY BY ONE WHO HAS BEEN THERE

On Sunday at 5 p. m. Feb. 27 the men's class of the Baptist church will offer the public something very unusual. They have secured Galen S. Ross to give his lecture on "Life in the U. S. Navy." He will give his views on preparedness and tell of Christian work with the Blue Jackets as the navy men are called.

He knows where of he speaks. His lecture will answer all manner of questions about our floating forts.

He stands before the audience in the garb of a Navyman. At Battle Creek recently a thousand people listened to this lecture. The Battle Creek Journal said, Mr. Ross formerly lived in our city. All who were there were pleased and proud of Mr. Ross."

The Men's Class have arranged it so the lecture will be given free. The offering will be given the speaker.

Strenuous Admiralty Law.

It was the early days of boat travel on the Ohio river when even passenger steamers stopped at landings on islands and mainlands for freight. We had made an island landing, and a wealthy passenger had left the boat to buy cigars at the island's tiny store. He bought $5 worth and presented a hundred dollar bill in payment, whereupon the storekeeper offered him $5 in change, asserting that he had received only $10. The customer returned to the boat and related his tale of woe to the captain, who at once went ashore and informed the storekeeper that unless the change was at once forthcoming he would hitch a cable around the store and drag it into the river.

The storekeeper still refused, and the captain departed for his boat. A cable was quickly passed around the little building, hitched to the vessel and full steam ordered. When the shack tottered upon its foundations, the frightened storekeeper appeared, the missing bills fluttering in his hand!—New York Post.

WOULD CONNECT CHICAGO WITH NEW YORK.

The Type Used in One Year to Publish Endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills.

Of the many kidney remedies on the market to-day, none other is recommended like Doan's Kidney Pills. Thirty five thousand benefited people gladly testify in the newspapers of their own towns. Forty five hundred American newspapers pulish this home proof of Doan's merit. The type used in one year to tell this wonderful story would make a solid column of metal twice as high as the world's highest mountain Placed end to end the lines of type would reach from New York to Chicago. These miles of good words told by 36,000 tongues sound glad tidings to any Tecumseh sufferer who wants relief from kidney and bladder ills. Here's a Tecumseh case. Don't experiment. Use the remedy endorsed by people you know.

Henry Kempf, carpenter, Kilbuck St., Tecumseh, says: "My kidneys were not doing their work as they should and I was suffering from a lame and aching back. I got a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills at Wright & Son's Drug Store and it did not take them long to remove the trouble.

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills the same that Mr. Kempf had. Foster-Milburn Co, Props. Buffalo, N. Y. adv

Patti and Her Partners.

The novel manner in which the famous prima donna Patti on one occasion chose her partners at a dance is related by Mr. Leslie Ward in his reminiscences. Mr. Ward went to a certain dance at Lancaster Gate "Patti," he says, "was sitting in the middle of the room looking angelic and surrounded by a host of admiring men We were each given a miniature bugle Patti had one also, on which she sounded a note, and whoever repeated it exactly was to gain her as a partner in the dance. The men advanced in turn. Some blew too high and others too low until one and all gave up in disgust. At last my turn came. I was trembling with eagerness and excitement and determined to dance with Patti or die. I hit the note and gained my waltz, and the applause was great as I carried off my prize."

Jefferson Was a "Sloppy" Dresser.

In dress President Jefferson was governed by comfort rather than by elegance. "Pride costs more than hunger, thirst and cold," he used to say, and as he lived in an epoch that witnessed a mighty revolution in men's clothing as well as in men's government, monarchy's cues and velvets giving way to short hair and the useful, ungainly pantaloon, only the watchfulness of his body servant saved him from unbelievable anachronisms of costume. Indeed, in later life, at Monticello, where this democrat ruled absolute king, he often wore the garments of several different periods together, like superimposed geologic strata or the historic remains in the Roman Forum.—Helen Nicolay in Century Magazine.

The Soft Answer.

The saving sense of humor! "I am filled with disgust and indignation!" began an angry caller on a business man.

"Well, well," interrupted the business man, "sit down and we'll talk it over. You will be just as full seated and a lot more comfortable." How could disgust and indignation continue in the face of such a greeting?—Youth's Companion.

His Excuse.

"Uncle Mose, your first wife tells me that you are three months behind with your alimony."

"Yes, jedge, Ah reckon dat am so. But, yo' see, it's jes' dis way: Dat second wife of mine ain't turned out t' be the worker that Ah thought she was gwine t' be."—Detroit Free Press.

Edison's Incandescent.

According to a friend, Thomas A. Edison is of the opinion that it was anger that first turned him toward inventing the incandescent light, reports the Newark News. How it happened is related by the friend, who says:

"That was, of course, in the early days, and Mr. Edison was then quite the inventor that one reads of—poor, enthusiasic, never sleeping. He lived in a small house, innocent of anything approaching a laboratory. Scientific devices were in every room, and all the money went for experiments. Then one day came the crisis in the guise of the collector for the gas company. He had been in the house often, but Edison, hardly heeding his calls, had waved him away, saying. 'Don't bother me!'

"On this last call the collector's instructions were peremptory. He must turn off the gas. He did so, and that act started Edison on the road to the incandescent light."

Nothing but an American.

When I look back on the shifting scenes of my life, if I am not that altogether deplorable creature, a man without a country, I am, when it comes to pull and prestige, almost equally bereft, as I am a man without a state. I was born in Indiana, I grew up in Illinois, I was educated in Rhode Island and it is no blame to that scholarly community that I know so little. I learned my law in Springfield and my politics in Washington, my diplomacy in Europe, Asia and Africa. I have a farm in New Hampshire and desk room in the District of Columbia.

When I look to the springs from which my blood descends the first ancestors I ever heard of were a Scotchman who was half English and a German woman who was half French. Of my immediate progenitors my mother was from New England and my father was from the south. In this bewilderment of origin and experience I can only put on an aspect of deep humility in any gathering of favorite sons and confess that I am nothing but an American.—From "The Life and Letters of John Hay" in Harper's Magazine.

Asphalt Paving.

Asphalt as paving is the commonest commercial use of the mineral today, and yet its successful employment in the field of road making is of comparatively recent date. The first compressed rock asphalt roadway was laid in Paris in 1854, while it was 1876 before the first similar type of road making was used on Pennsylvania avenue, in Washington.

SAINT CYR GIVEN MILLION, IS REPORT

Alleged Former Newsboy and Rich Wife Apart, Rumor.

PHILADELPHIA — Jean Harold Edward Saint Cyr suddenly left the city for Washington. His wife, who was the widow of "Silent" Smith, from whom she inherited $3,000,000, remains at the Bellevue-Stratford hotel.

It is said that Mrs. Saint Cyr has agreed upon terms of separation which will make Saint Cyr $1,000,000 richer.

Saint Cyr was accompanied to Washington by his bosm friend, Rovert von Schwem, and a third man, whose identity is unknown.

There have been reports that Saint Cyr and Mrs. Saint Cyr would separate following the publication of statements that Saint Cyr was not a member of a distinguished French family, but "Jack" Thompson of Waco, Texas.

Under the will of his first wife, who was Mrs. Caroline P. Redfield of Yonkers, N. Y., Saint Cyr receives about $280,000. This was decided last week in New York state, as Mr. Levy issued a statement in which he said reports attacking Saint Cyr's ancestry were without foundation.

Formally Authorizes Use of His Name as Presidential Candidate.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — President Wilson formally gave his consent that his name be used as a candidate for renomination. The President made known his position in order to comply with the Ohio primary law, which requires candidates for delegates to the party conventions to make known their first and second choices before Feb. 25 and also requires that the candidates for delegates have the consent of their choices to make use of their names.

RUSS TAKE ERZERUM FORT

War Office Announces Turk Backset In Armenia.

LONDON, ENG.—The Russians who have been besieging for more than a month the Armenian fortress of Erzerum have taken one of the forts. A Russian war office report says the fort was taken after an explosion caused by the Russian artillery, and with it numerous prisoners, six guns and much ammunition fell into Russian hands. At last accounts the Russians after vain attempts to take Erzerum by storm from the east had begun a movement to the north of the fortress, presumably with the object to attack it from that direction or possibly to surround it completely.

Erzerum is a fortress of considerable strategical value, closing the roads of Oltia and other parts of the frontier.

SOUP PLOT HUNT IS NATION WIDE

Italian Reds, Police Think, Are Involved in Conspiracy.

INTIMATE OF BRESCI IS HELD

John Allegrini, Roommate of Crones, Poisoner of Bouillon at Mundelein Banquet, Active Anarchist—Present When King Humbert's Assassin Was Chosen—Aided Widow.

CHICAGO, ILL. — Chief of Detectives Hunt announced that John Allegrini, 2408 Calumet avenue, would be charged with conspiracy to commit murder. Letters connecting Allegrini with Jean Crones, wanted by the police as the man who attempted to poison Archbishop Mundelein and 300 guests at the University club, and with other anarchists, caused the detective chief to make his statement.

"We have evidence which will make the charge hold water in court," said Captain Hunt. "I can't say in detail what this evidence is. But Allegrini is a close friend of Crones, who, we believe, put the arsenic in the banquet soup, and Allegrini has been identified as the man who held a long conference with Crones in his rooms at 2201 Prairie avenue the Sunday evening previous to the banquet. He is an anarchist by his own admissions, and the letters found addressed to him and written by him to other anarchists show his activity in anti-government agitation."

Has International Aspects.

The international aspect of Crones' activity and his close companionship with Allegrini was strengthened during the day by the revelation that Crones was a close friend of Mrs. Sophie Bresci, a widow of Guaetano Bresci, who killed King Humbert of Italy in 1900.

Mrs. Bresci Is Sought.

Letters showed that Crones stayed at the home of Mrs. Bresci at Sholto street and Vernon avenue for days at a time before she went to St. Paul several weeks ago. The widow of King Humbert's slayer is fifteen to twenty years older than the suspected poisoner of the University Club soup so, the police reason, the only attachment was the call of clan of anarchy. Just after January 1, when Assistant Chief Schuettler began his investigation of anarchistic activity in Chicago, Mrs. Bresci left the city and was later heard of in St. Paul. This fact led the Chicago police to telegraph the Minnesota police to apprehend Mrs. Bresci and to keep a sharp lookout for Crones.

Allegrini Aided Mrs. Bresci.

Allegrini was dragged into the international tangle when it became known that he personally solicited subscriptions for a relief fund for Mrs. Bresci, and that he was in Patterson, N. J., in 1900, when the "Black Hundred" in secret council drew lots to designate the man who should go to Monsa and kill the King of Italy. Bresci drew the fatal lot.

Seven persons fatally hurt and thirty-three injured resulted from the careless use of gasoline and kerosene during January, according to the monthly report of State Fire Marshal Flint's record pay day, when shops paid more than a half million dollars in wages for the last half of January, was followed by a busy night for pickpockets, hold-ups, handbag snatchers and petty thieves.

On writs issued by Circuit Judge Nelson Sharp Prosecuting Attorney Albert W. The Navarre club in Flint, stamping ground for politicians for the last few months, is alleged to be a gambling place, according to information received by the police, which resulted in the arrest of Henry McParland, former Fourth ward alderman, proprietor, and Robert Holbert, his assistant, on charges of violating the state gambling law.

MINE DISABLES BRITISH CRUISER

Arethusa, That Sunk Bluecher, May Be Total Loss.

TOOK PART IN TWO SEA FIGHTS

British Admiralty Reports That Ten of Crew Lost Lives—Reported Destruction of French Cruiser Amiral Charner by Explosion Off Coast of Syria Is Confirmed.

LONDON, ENG.—The British cruiser Arethusa struck a mine off the east coast of England, according to a statement issued by the British official press bureau. About ten men were lost. It is feared, the statement adds, the vessel will be a total wreck.

The text of the official statement says: "His majesty's ship Arethusa, Commodore Reginald Y. Tyrwhitt, has struck a mine off the east coast. It is feared she will become a total wreck. About ten men were lost."

Arethusa Sank the Bluecher.

The Arethusa was a light cruiser, displacing 3,600 tons. It was 410 feet long, 39 feet beam and had a mean draft of 14 feet. The vessel was built at Chatham in 1913-14. The cruiser was armed with two 6-inch guns fore and aft and six 4-inch guns on the broadside. It also was equipped with four 21-inch torpedo tubes. The cruiser had not been forty-eight hours out of the hands of its builders before it took part in one of the most important naval battles in the North sea since the war began—the engagement off Helgoland Aug. 28, 1914. In this battle three German cruisers, the Mainz, the Koeln and the Ariadne and two German torpedo boat destroyers were sunk. The Arethusa was rather severely damaged and after the battle had to be taken in tow.

It was a torpedo from the Arethusa which struck the battered German cruiser Bluecher and sent that vessel to the bottom in the great North sea battle between British and German squadrons Jan. 24, 1915.

Loss of French Cruiser Confirmed.

PARIS — Reports of the loss of the French cruiser Amiral Charner, which was reported to have been sunk by a submarine which was patroling the Syrian coast, were confirmed.

According to information received at the French ministery of marine, a raft bearing one live sailor and the bodies of fourteen of his companions has been picked up off the coast of Syria.

No Time to Use Lifeboats.

The rescued man said the Amiral Charner was sunk on the morning of Feb. 8. He declared there was no time to use the lifeboats.

Germans Gain More Trenches.

LONDON, ENG. — Throughout the last twenty-four hours the huge battle front in the west, from the Belgian coast to the Vosges, witnessed a stubborn continuance of the violent local attacks by the Germans which began nearly a week ago and which are apparently aimed at "feeling out" the weak and strong points in the allied line.

Berlin claimed in the afternoon's official report the penetration of the British positions at Poperinghe and the storming of French positions in the Champagne extending over a front of 700 metres, and a gain of 400 yards in the Vosges.

PRUSSIAN DIET DEFIES U. S.

Committee Warns Germany Not to Restrict Use of Submarines.

LONDON, ENG. — The Reuter agency sends out the following as a semi-official statement issued in Berlin: "The following resolution was passed by a large majority of the budget committee of the Prussian diet on February and was published today:

"'The committee would consider it injurious if the attitude of the government in regard to the United States should result in the restriction of our freedom to revive at an opportune time an unlimited and fully effective submarine war against England.'"

Mrs. Walter Farwell In Danger from Air Raids at Monastir.

ATHENS — Mrs. Walter Farwell, prominent Chicago woman, who is virtually held prisoner by the Bulgarians at Monastir, Serbia, is left entirely unprotected by the expulsion of all neutral consuls from the city.

Anglo-French air squadrons are making frequent raids upon Monastir, raining bombs at Bulgarian camps and upon buildings housing army officers, increasing the danger of Mrs. Farwell's position.

Operators' Strike Threatened.

FRANKFORT, IND. — That the 145 telegraph operators employed on the T., St. L. & W. Railway between St. Louis, Mo., and Toledo, O., will leave their keys and walk out within the next few days unless they are granted an increase in wages, was the statement of P. A. Wenrich of St. Louis, Mo., who arrived in Frankfort to take over the management of the proposed strike of Clover Leaf operators.

THINK SUSPECT IS SLAYER

Police Character Identified Partly as Bror Johnson Murderer.

CHICAGO, ILL. — Frank Kelly, alias King, a well known police character, arrested in connection with numerous robberies in Chicago, was partially identified as the robber who held up the Thomas Cook & Son tourist agency in Jackson boulevard and killed Traffic Policeman Bror Johnson.

The identification was made by employes in the Cook agency. The prisoner was confronted by the men.

Two Battle Creek deaths from cerebrospinal meningitis occurred in one day.

Mrs. Abner Wilcox aged 81 of Thornapple, who broke her hip recently, is dead.

A GENERAL SURVEY OF THE WAR.

Thursday, Feb. 10.—The center of activity in the western front is in the region between Neuville, St. Vaast and Vimy, where the fighting continues with growing intensity. The French are counter attacking fiercely.

In the Artois region big guns opened the way for a small German gain west of Vimy. A similar effort made to the south of Hill 140 in the same neighborhood was repulsed. South of the Somme, Berlin reports, the French entered a small section of German trench. Between Soissons and Rheims they drove the Teutons from a minor post.

In the east the Russians have captured Uscieszko, on the Dniester, near the Bukowina frontier and crossed the river.

Friday, Feb. 12.—Berlin reports the sinking of a British cruiser, the Arabis, on the Dogger banks in the North sea and the torpedoing of another one. London denies the report, but says the boat sunk was a mine sweeper, and that three others of the boats attacked have returned to port. The admiralty records show no cruiser named the Arabis.

Petrograd claims a great gain in a renewed Slav offensive in the Stripa region between Rovno and Lutsk. Positions commanding the district through which runs the Chodorov and Stry rives have been captured. These positions were so firmly fortified by the Germans as to check the Russian drive last month, but the new success has been obtained, it is claimed by the new big guns of the czar, which have shown marked improvement on all fronts.

The Germans in Galicia, surprised by the fierceness of the Russ onslaught, are reported to have retired to their second-line trenches.

In two days' fighting Paris claims the French won back all ground lost at Frise south of the Somme in the late German drive.

Saturday, Feb. 12.—The most important infantry operations on the western front occurred in the Champagne, where a French attack was carried through after prolonged artillery preparation and according to Paris some 300 yards of German trenches were taken. Berlin concedes a French gain in this territory, northeast of Massiges, but places the extent of the captured position at 200 yards.

Petrograd unofficially reports the Teutonic forces on the defensive on three important streams along which much of the recent fighting in Galicia and nearby fronts have been conducted—the Sereth, the Pruth and the Dneister. Several breaches are declared to have been made in the lines of the Teutonic allies.

Admitting that the immediate strategic results so far have not been important, the Petrograd advices record a belief that the Russian offensive has at least relieved pressure on the entente forces along other fronts.

Sunday, Feb. 13.—Athens reports, which are without official confirmation, reiterate that Bulgaria has made separate overtures to the entente allies for a separate peace, that having obtained from the remnants of Servia all she has fought for in the Balkan wars of the past, she is willing to rest upon her laurels and quit the fray.

The great battle between the French and the Germans in Champagne is in its sixth day, and although the Teutons again have assumed the offensive the French troops still hold the quarter of a mile of trenches which they took after four days of intensive fighting last week. After having been driven back four times by the Germans last Friday, the French captured 300 yards of trenches Saturday and are busy holding them. Five successive infantry attacks were launched by the Germans against the works but, according to Paris, all of the assaults were repulsed.

Worry over being a witness in an assault and battery case, in which he had hired another to whip his son, caused Joseph Steber, fifty-four years old and well known grocer, to hang himself at Menominee.

Warren S. Carpenter, of Menominee, receives $45,000 by the terms of the will of Sarah A. Carpenter, who died in Milwaukee. Mrs. Carpenter had been ill for fifteen years and four nurses, who have cared for her were remembered with $19,000.

Two big mining companies at Calumet have posted notices to their employes of a 10 per cent bonus to be paid February 29 on wages for January. These companies have been paying 5 per cent bonuses since July Fourteen hundred men are affected.

Mrs. Mary Campau, member of the well known Campau family of Michigan, mother of F. D. Campau and D. S. Campau, a leading criminal attorney and architect, respectively, of Grand Rapids, was found in her apartment at Detroit strangled by a strip of bed sheet.

Wm. T. Mitchell, aged 93, United States consul at Quebec during the administration of President Cleveland, died at his home at Port Huron. For many years he was judge of the circuit court there and is said to have been the oldest Masonic pastmaster in the United States.

A cross between the coyote and the timber wolf, is increasing in such numbers in the upper peninsula of Michigan that unless some measures are taken to exterminate it, it will soon outnumbered the deer, is the prediction of Paul Opitz, veteran hunter and trapper, who lives near Hanley

"Let every one keep away from patent medicines—and see a doctor." That in a nutshell is the advice to Michigan people afflicted with tuberculosis by Secretary John L. Burkart, of the state board of health, to prevent a recurrence of the Battle Creek episode in which the seller of a consumption nostrum was arrested.

Joseph Shaver, who ran away in 1914, with Edith Shaver, the then fourteen-year-old daughter of his first cousin, asknowledged his sin and threw himself upon the mercy of the superior court at Grand Rapids in a desperate effort to save his home and his child wife and their eighteen-month-old baby from a future without hope.

DEADLY DRUGS FOUND IN HOME OF STUDENT

Drug Clerk Found Who Sold Suspect a Bottle.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Four startling developments in the investigation of the mysterious poisoning of Marian Lambert, the Lake Forest high school girl, whose body was found in the woods, have occurred:

The purchase of a drug bottle by William H. Orpet, the collegian accused of the murder, just before he left Madison to keep the death tryst with the girl, was revealed. It was obtained from a clerk in a Madison store.

A handful of potassium cyanide—enough to kill 100 men—was found in an ash heap back of the Orpet home on the Cyrus McCormick estate.

Further arrests—for apparent attempts to conceal this evidence of crime—were declared possible by Attorney Ralph J. Dady.

Finding of a brown jug containing sulphuric acid in basement at greenhouse on Cyrus McCormick estate, where Orpet's father is employed as custodian.

The poisons on the McCormick estate could be explained, however, by the fact that they are among chemicals used in large quantities for spraying trees.

LYMAN H. HOWE

Lyman Howe's popular pictures were shown again at the Opera House Wednesday evening. The pictures were called a belated discovery of America or the Glacier National Park. The entertainment was something wonderful and fascinating. Many other pictures were shown showing the great possibilities of motion photography.

The immense automobile plant of the Willys—Overland was most interesting to all autoists. No matter how often Howe's pictures are shown in Tecumseh they are appreciated by the picture loving public.

No More Backache No More Misery

If you suffer with pains in your back and sides or have any signs of kidney or bladder trouble such as rheumatic pains, puffy swellings under the eyes or in the feet and ankles, if you are nervous, tired and run down, or bothered with urinary disorders, Solvax will quickly and surely relieve you of your misery.

Solvax is the most potent remedy yet devised for ridding the system of uric acid and driving out all the poisonous impurities which cause such troubles. It neutralizes, dissolves and makes the kidneys sift out all the uric acid and poisons left by the blood and renders the kidneys and urinary organs clean, vigorous and healthy.

C. A. Wright & Son, the popular druggists, says that no medicine ought to be paid for unless it does the user some good. They therefore sell Solvax under a positive guarantee to quickly relieve the worst cases of kidney trouble or refund the money. Try Solvax today and if you cannot see and feel a decided change for the better just go to C. A. Wright & Son and tell them you want your money back and they will return it without question. This is the strongest argument that can be offered in behalf of any medicine.

Greenwich Hill.

Probably no hill in the world has had so strangely varied a history or played so important a part in the affairs of men as that at Greenwich. The granite line across the footpath on its summit is the meridian from which the longitude on every British map and chart is calculated.

Caviare.

As a matter of fact, not all caviare comes from the sturgeon, since, like other foods, it is woefully adulterated with the roe of inferior fishes prepared in similar fashion. True caviare, however, is only the eggs of the sturgeon.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. MERRY-GO ROUND CLUB

The members of the Merry go-round club were very pleasantly entertained at the Barrett House tea rooms Monday night, Messrs and Mesdames Thomas McCann, Henry McClure and L. B. Schneider being hosts and hostesses for the occasion.

Dainty tables were spread and refreshments were served. Nine tables of players enjoyed the game of 500. A very merry time was the report of those present.

Inexpensive to Run and Easy to Drive—the New 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers

The mist of gasoline that whirls through the tiny perforation in the carburetor jet of the 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers, rushes into action that has changed the whole aspect of automobile engineering.

The conditions surrounding the manner in which its dormant energy is awakened, brought to life, and compelled to perform, explain the strange ability of this new car.

The six cylinders of its engine are small—3¼ by 4½ inches. The small area from which heat can be thrown away by radiation, reinforced by the incredibly short cooling process between the swift succession of its explosions, create maximum energy with minimum waste.

"Make her perform," said Hugh Chalmers to his engineers. "Get acceleration, long mileage on gas, activity."

The result—18 miles for every gallon of gas, anything up to 60 miles an hour, and supremacy of pick-up.

3400 revolutions per minute means that every gram of energy is wrung from every drop of gasoline that is inhaled by the powerful suction of the motor pistons.

It means that when, at the point of highest pressure, a spark from the distributor ignites the oxygen of the air with the carbon of the gasoline, every mechanical condition is such that loss of energy is cut down to the lowest possible degree.

It means that the 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers gets twice the mileage on gas that many another high-speed engine will deliver.

The speed of its uncanny carburetion makes flight satin-smooth by bringing the explosions of gas so close together that you are unconscious of anything but an uninterrupted stream of might.

Unlike cars of superfluous might, the 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers has a pick-up so flexible that it's the first to make its get-away at the crossings, and the last to take another car's exhaust.

It's a cheap car to run and an easy car to drive.

FRANK G. KNEELAND JOINS GREAT MAJORITY.

Formerly Lived in Tecumseh.

Frank Gilbert Kneeland, a prominent business man of St. Louis, Mich passed away at his home in that city Monday morning, February the 7 after an illness of several months. The cause of his death due to anemia.

Frank G. Kneeland was born Nov. 13, 1852 at Tecumseh and spent his boyhood life in this town. After finishing his courses in the High School here he worked for two years in the Tecumseh Post Office and then went to Germany, completing his studies in one of the German universities.

After his return from Germany he worked two years in his fathers flouring mills in Tecumseh and then went to St. Louis, Michigan in the fall of 1876, taking a position in one of the Banks. This position he held until 1885, when he retired and entered a private banking business of his own until 1893 when on account of ill health he closed out that business and went into the real estate business, from that time doing nothing else.

His real estate holdings so increased that for years he has been one of the heaviest land owners in that part of the state.

Mr. Kneeland married Miss Helen L. Dodge of Ionia in 1882, who still survives him together with three children, Henry Tracy Kneeland, Miss Helen Kneeland and Dorothea (Mrs. Frank W. Tufts) of Detroit. A son, John, died at the age of six years.

Twice Mr. Kneeland, without opposition, was elected City Treasurer of St. Louis. He served many years as Junior Warden of the Episcopal church in St. Louis and showed himself to be a faithful and helpful church man. He was a high mason and belonged to several other lodges.

Mr Kneeland was not only an active business man but a diligent student of great literary acquirement and left one of the best libraries in the state. The funeral was held from his late home Wednesday February 9.

Thomas Tracy Kneeland, his father was one of Tecumseh's earliest settlers coming from New York in 1833 operating a foundry and plow factory and later building the first grist mill in Tecumseh. The family was well known in Lenawee County and older residents will be interested in this notice.

PLEASANT MEETING OF THE WESTMINSTER GUILD

Tuesday evening Miss Jennie Gillespie was hostess at a session of the Westminster Guild. The meeting was called to order by Mrs Rex the president, and after a short business session the program was turned over to Mrs. Robert Stuckey the leader and the study of their new book "The King's Highway" taken up. It proved very interesting.

Later dainty refreshments were served the decorations of red hearts and the same in the little cakes making the affair quite festive.

A climax was reached when a big three layer birthday cake covered with lighted candles, to numerous to count, was brought in and presented to Mrs. Duaine Service. She was told to cut the same which she did by taking off the cover and inside she found many small packages she proceeded to untie amid the jokes of the crowd.

Before adjournment the ladies decided to follow up the rummage sale now being run by Miss Kyle's class with such a sale of their own in the same place.

DANIEL SOPER HEARD FROM

A paper received from Daniel Soper of Chattanooga, Tenn, states that his son Ellis Soper, has been granted a leave of absence to go to Cuba, where he will take up the duties of designing and construction engineer for a syndicate of New York capitalists who are taking up large industrial enterprises on the island.

Theodore King, chairman of the bridge commission, states: "I regret to see Mr. Soper go. He has done excellent work. The position offered him, however, offers a salary of more than twice that which he is drawing here, and I cannot blame him for accepting it. In the event he finds it impossible to give his time to the work here in March, when the spring work will commence in earnest, we shall see that a competent man is put on the work."

Mr. Soper's salary has been $300 a month. It is said his salary in Cuba will be $7,500

The experience of all spreader building has been taken in consideration and combined in the new steel

Cloverleaf

It is the correct width to enter any barn or shed without crowding. It is all steel, built like, a neat but strong bridge. The axle has no holes to break out but is key seated. Even the beater staves are built of steel.

It will spread from 6 to 12 feet wide. You can top dress as light as you wish or put on as heavy as you desire.

It will spread anything in the line of manure and will tear it up finer than any other spreader built.

It is the lightest draft spreader of its size, three horses can work easy with no side draft.

So constructed that the manure is thrown down, therefore the driver is never covered in windy times.

Over two carload sold with some breakage on only one machine. A record never before heard of.

There is a reason, "they are built right." Examine and you will readily see the reason.

Scene from "The Funniest Show in the World" (Henpecked Henry) which comes to the Bradley next Thursday, February 24th.

"HENPECKED HENRY"

Halton Powell's "Henpecked Henry" a musical comedy of the merriest sort, is booked as the next attraction at the Bradley Opera House. The comedy is broad but the lines are so cleverly written that the humor never borders on mere burlesque. The story deals with a muchly married man, whose wife is inclined to rule the home with an iron hand. Her tyranny leads to many funny experiences. Domestic life is always a splendid subject for stage treatment and there is no play that handles it in such an amusing way as does "Henpecked Henry."

"Henpecked Henry" is one of the kind of shows one takes pleasure in recommending to their friends. Mr Hill, manager of the "Mutt & Jeff" company that played here some time ago, said in speaking of "Henpecked Henry" that Mr. Powell had as nice and as clean a musical comedy as he had met on the road in years not a vulgar word or line in the entire piece.

"Henpecked Henry" is a jolly musical comedy, built for laughing purposes only and those who like a hearty laugh, some excellent musical numbers and a chorus who can and do sing and dance will certainly enjoy the entire performance. The "Funniest Show of the World" is what "The Milwaukee Sentinel" says of it.

"Henpecked Henry" comes to the Bradley next Thursday evening, February 24th and at prices "you can afford to pay!" The entire gallery 25c, first floor 50c, 75c and $1.00. The seat sale opens at Hay's next Wednesday morning.

SALA-BROWN MEEKER CONCERT

The second number of the C. W. Best Artists' series was given Thursday evening at the Presbyterian church. This was the second appearance of Antonio Sala the Spanish violoncellist before a Tecumseh audience and this fact did not lessen the enthusiasm with which he was received.

His wonderful work called forth hearty applause and he was forced to respond to encores repeated. His technic was perfect and he handled the violincello as only an artist can.

He was supported by Mignonne Meeker, soprano and Lois Brown pianist. The soprano sang with a beautiful clear voice and came in for her share of appreciation but the work of Lois Brown pianist was enthusiasticly received.

This series of concerts is being given under the auspices of the Westminster Guild and the good attendance of last night is much appreciated by them.

MRS. MELTON'S LETTER
To Tired Worn-out Mothers

Jackson, Miss.—"I shall feel repaid for writing this letter if I can help any tired, worn-out mother or housekeeper to find health and strength as I have.

"I have a family of five, sew, cook and do my housework and I became very much run-down in health. A friend asked me to try Vinol. I did so and now I am well and strong and my old time energy has been restored. Vinol has no superior as a tonic for worn-out, run-down, tired mothers or housekeepers." —Mrs. J. N. MELTON, Jackson, Miss.

Fangs of a Snake.

Examine the finest cambric needle under a high power microscope and its point will look rough and blunt. A snake's fang similarly inspected appears perfectly smooth and sharp. In each fang is a groove which connects by a tube with a sort of bag—the poison gland—just beneath the eye. When the snake strikes a muscular contraction simultaneously forces the venom out of the bag through the tube and along the groove into the flesh of the person attacked. Snake poison, generally speaking, has two distinct effects. It destroys in some mysterious way the fibrin of the blood, thereby causing the latter to behave as if diluted and to filter through the walls of the veins and arteries. In addition, it paralyzes the nerve centers and so affects the heart, sometimes bringing death by suffocation.

Pantomime Performances.

Most pantomime characters were originally borrowed from the Italians. The first real English pantomime was produced at a theater in Lincoln's Inn Fields in 1720. It was called "Harlequin Executed," and its subtitle was "A New Italian Comic Scene Between a Scaramouche, a Harlequin, a Country Farmer, His Wife and Others." The performance was very successful. About the middle of the eighteenth century the character of pantomime performances was completely altered chiefly because of the genius of the famous Grimaldi, who made the clown the first figure in the pantomime. Grimaldi first appeared at Sadler's Wells theater, where he played the part of a monkey. He was actively engaged on the stage for forty-nine years.

Odor of Iodoform.

It is said that the odor of iodoform can be removed from the hands and utensils by mustard. While the hands are wet (moisten them with cold water) place a small quantity of dry mustard powder in the palm and rub it well over the hands and then wash off with soap and water. For utensils the mustard must be made like a paste and allowed to remain spread on them for several hours.

Cultivate the Mind.

It is the mind that makes the body rich; and as the sun breaks through the darkest clouds, so honor peereth in the meanest habit.—Shakespeare.

Effect of Familiarity.

"What we see constantly we cease to see vividly. The faces we notice least are those we know—and perhaps really love—best. Our eyes are a bit jaded by following the familiar lines.

"The same is true of pure color," says a writer in the Atlantic Monthly. "Water and sky are very beautiful, and you may suppose that you are duly [illegible] a chance to look at them with your head in an unaccustomed position—sideways and upside down—and note how the colors flare out upon your vision.

"Or stay indoors for a few weeks in a room where you do not get much outlook and then go out. You will be blinded by the glory of the world, but not for long. The glory, alas, fades quickly, and habit settles upon you once more!

"With our friends' faces somewhat the same thing happens. When we first meet them they pique us pleasantly with their unfamiliar line and color. Gradually we grow used to them. The first vision has passed."

Mounting a Horse.

In mounting take the reins in the left hand. At the same time grasp a little mane halfway up the neck. Now turn the stirrup slightly toward you with the right hand and place the ball of the left foot in it. Grab the horn with the right hand and swing on. Don't pull yourself on, but swing on. Settle into the saddle easily; don't flop into it. If you want to get "your neck broke" some time mount by taking the horn in one hand and the cantle in the other, and the time will surely come when you will not be disappointed.

Just a word in regard to dismounting. First withdraw your feet from the stirrups to the ball. Take the horn in the right hand and swing off, letting the left foot slip easily and quickly from the stirrup. Remember this, for many a man has been dragged to death because his foot stuck in the stirrup. Your feet will nearly always come free if thrown from a horse, but the left one is prone to stick in dismounting unless the above precaution is observed.—Outing.

An Analysis of "Ain't"

"Ain't" is an improper abbreviation of "are not." British writers spell it "a'n't," which properly indicates its derivation. Americans make it an inclusive offense, using it for "am not" and "is not," as well as for "are not." It is unquestionably the worst instance of slovenliness in the common speech of today.

Yet it is by no means of universal or even of common use. It will slip occasionally from refined lips, always with a jar to the enunciator as well as to the hearer. But the habitual user of "ain'ts" is careless of refinement. He may be an excellent citizen who never beats his wife or kicks the cat. But there is likely to be something slipshod about him somewhere, for "ain't" is needless as well as cacophonous; it fills no void and supplies no need.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Mark Twain as "Attraction."

A girl who was a stranger to Mark Twain once found her way into his Bermuda home with the hope of getting a sight of the author. She came suddenly in contact with him and frankly explained her errand.

"Have you seen the crystal cave yet," he asked, "or the aquarium?"

"No; I came to see you first," she answered.

"Well, you shouldn't have seen me first," he answered. "I run in opposition to the crystal and the aquarium. But they're not shucks to me. I'm lots better. I give them their money's worth. But you should see them. Then you'll appreciate me."

This was said in his most earnest drawl and with only a sparkle of humor in his keen blue eyes.

The Real Thing.

Fred, aged three, had been a naughty boy, and his mother had punished him. He felt very much hurt and complained to his auntie about mamma's spanking him. Auntie said, "It is not you that mamma spanks, but a little devil inside of you who makes you do naughty things." After sitting very still for five minutes he said, "It beats all how it hurts me when that devil gets spanked"—Delineator.

A Great Copper Mine.

For nearly 700 years copper ore (chalcopyrite) has been taken regularly from a mine in the province of Dalecarlia, Sweden. The mine contains the largest copper ore deposit in Sweden and is supposed to be one of the greatest chalcopyrite properties in the world.

Our Trials.

"You know, my dear boy," said a sympathizing friend to a man in trouble, "that we really gain by our trials in life."

"That depends altogether on the kind of lawyer you get to conduct them," replied the sufferer.

Different Methods.

There are two different kinds of men. Give one a piece of rope and he will hang himself; give a similar piece to the other and he'll form a cordage trust. —Washington Star.

A Real Artist.

"Is Brushpen a good artist?"

"Is he good? Why, he not only can draw pictures that are good, but he can draw checks that are good."—Pittsburgh Post.

By medicine life may be prolonged, yet death will seize the doctor too.—Shakespeare.

Some Bird.

The roc, a fabulous bird often referred to in the "Arabian Nights," was believed to be of such enormous size and strength as to be able to carry even elephants in its talons.

System All Right.

"I used to think I would know just how to manage my wife when I got her."

"Has your system proved to be a failure?"

"No; the system is all right, so far as I know. She has never let me try it."—Stray Stories.

Four Counties Inn.

In the Four Counties inn, in England, it is possible to eat in Leicestershire, sleep in Staffordshire, drink in Warwickshire and smoke in Derbyshire without leaving the building.

Horses and Music.

The musical acuteness of horses is shown by the rapidity with which cavalry horses learn the significance of trumpet calls.

Friendship may and often does grow into love, but love never subsides into friendship.

The dead and injured are all from the northwest. The cause of the accident has not been ascertained.

The dead and injured were brought to Spokane. The dead are: Elton Fulmer, state chemist, Pullman, Wash.; I. J. Minnick, Deputy grain inspector, Spokane, Wash.; B. L. Berkey, Portland, Oregon; J. J. White, Spokane, Wash.; Lee M. Conroy, traveling passenger agent, Northern Pacific, Spokane.

MAINE MOOSE IS RAMPANT

National Committeeman Is for State Ticket from Top to Bottom.

Portland, Me., Feb. 21.—The Maine Bull Moose are rampant again. Halbert P. Gardner, national committeeman for this state, is on his way home from New York and has preceded his arrival with a "stand by, boys" letter to the faithful, in which he says that a state ticket from top to bottom should be put in the field at the coming election.

Mr. Gardner has been at national headquarters in New York for the last month and also attended the Chicago conference. His letter has gone out to 2,500 members of the old 1914 organization.

PERU IS POOR GOVERNMENT

Unable to Pay Its U. S. Envoy, He Hustles for Job.

Washington, Feb. 21.—Hard pressed for revenue because of the European war, the government of Peru has served notice on Federico Alonso Pezet, its minister to the United States, that it can no longer afford to pay his salary. The minister has been instructed to turn over the legation after March 1 to the charge d'affaires.

In the meantime having decided to remain in this country he is making arrangements to connect with some American business house with trade connections in South America.

BUSINESS MEN SEEK PEACE

Copenhagen Dispatch Says They Fear Total Ruin in Three Months.

London, Feb. 21.—The Copenhagen correspondent of the Daily Mail telegraphs that he learns from a trustworthy source that more than 500 prominent men, including heads of business houses, senators and shipowners of Hamburg, Luebeck and Bremen have petitioned the government to begin peace overtures with a view to ending the war within the next three months.

Otherwise, the Hansa Bund states, they will be totally ruined.

GENERAL LECKIE WOUNDED

He Is Second Canadian Brigadier Injured Within Week.

Ottawa, Ont., Feb. 21.—Word has been received that Brigadier General Leckie of Vancouver, commander of the Second Canadian brigade, was wounded in the fighting near Ypres.

This makes the second Canadian brigadier general to be wounded within a week, indicating that the fighting is of a heavy character.

Philadelphia, Feb. 21.—John T. Murphy, former state senator and Lieutenant of Wm. Flynn, announced his candidacy as a Roosevelt delegate to the Republican national covention.

Making Pastel Colors.

The lack of permanency of pastel pictures is largely due, according to Birge Harrison, to the bad quality of the materials employed. Unscrupulous manufacturers dip sticks of white chalk into liquid baths of brilliant but ephemeral dyes, and pictures produced with these soon fade. Writing in Art and Progress, Mr. Harrison says artists should make their own pastels, a process that is very easy.

"The materials used," he says, "are precipitated chalk mixed with the best dry powdered colors in the proportions necessary to produce the various tints desired. This impalpable powder is moistened to the consistency of a thick paste by the addition of an extremely dilute solution of gum tragacanth and water. It is then very thoroughly kneaded and finally pressed or rolled into sticks of the desired size."

Dogs in Moccasins.

After the first severe freeze at the beginning of winter a band of prospectors working in northern Canada found themselves on the wrong side of a lake over a hundred miles wide, on the other side of which was the winter headquarters.

They were without any means of transportation other than a boat in which was stored all their belongings and provisions. Hiring a halfbreed with his dog team, they put runners under the boat and made their way easily and safely across the smooth miles of frozen water, helping along the dogs by setting a sail on the boat. To protect the feet of the dogs from the hard surface of the ice small moccasins of buckskin, well padded, were provided for each.

Greece Only an Oligarchy.

Greece, as many people do not know, is a country managed by 500 families who hate one another like poison in true classic Greek fashion. The peasants, the hack drivers and the fishermen talk radical politics all day long, but when election day comes they vote for a member of one of these big aristocratic—namely, "best" in the Greek sense—families. A republic for Greece would mean anarchy, chaos.—World's Work.

LINCOLN WILL TELL ALL ABOUT ESCAPE

Spy, Held Incommunicado, Promises to Squeal.

New York, Feb. 21.—Ignatius T. L. Lincoln, benighted spy, rests in solitary confinement in the Raymond street jail, Brooklyn, thinking over the snappy things he wrote previous to his capture twitting the federal authorities about his own elusiveness.

He was held absolutely incommunicado. Orders were given by first Deputy Marshal Parry and J. A. Baker, acting head of the local office of the special investigators of the department of justice, not to permit him to receive or send any messages or to hold converse with anybody.

Federal agents under Mr. Baker are continuing their inquiry along lines that may bring further arrests in connection with Lincoln's escape and harboring in various places. The line of inquiry is directed in four different ways. First into the details of his escape; secondly, th epersons who gave him lodging or helped him during his freedom; thirdly, whether he had any direct communication with the newspaper that received letters from him and whether he received money from the editors; fourthly, whether any money from the publishers got into his hands after his escape through various mediums. Lincoln has announced that he is ready to tell all.

DR. HENRY B. FAVILL DEAD

Chicagoan Was One of Most Prominent Physicians of the Country.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—Dr. Henry B. Favill of 78 East Elm street, one of the most prominent physicians of the country, is dead at Springfield, Mass., the victim of his affection for and devotion to two of his dearest friends, [illegible] weeks ago John J. Herrick, a very close friend, died of pneumonia after Dr. Favill had tried in vain to save him. In another week C. L. Allen, whom also Dr. Favill was trying to save, died of the same disease. In waiting on these two friends and exposing himself at their funerals Dr. Favill's weakened system gave way and he, too, fell a victim.

Dr. Favill was a descendant on his mother's side of Returning Cloud, a famous Ottawa Indian chief of the time of Wolfe and Montcalm.

SINGLE STANDARD FAVORED

Punish Underclassmen for Taking Girls to Cafes After Party.

Iowa City, Ia., Feb. 21.—Fraternity men at the University of Iowa have declared against a double standard of social conduct at the university and have punished freshmen who escorted girls to cafes after a recent party. There is a university regulation forbidding girls to go to cafes after dances, but no such regulations for the men. Sixty-four girls have had their party privileges taken away from them for a month because of violations of this regulation.

Upper-class fraternity men decided that their brothers who were involved should be punished also. Voluntarily they took away the freshmen's party privileges for two weeks.

EX-JUDGE IS FOUND DYING

C. M. Barickman Expires Near Hotel in Chicago Loop.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—C. M. Barickman, an Austin attorney of North Waller avenue, a former judge of Livington county, Ill., with offices at 105 West Monroe street, was found unconscious in the street near the Morrison hotel and died a short time later at St. Luke's hospital.

Attorney Barickman was carried in to the hotel by two men who later disappeared, and he was taken to the hospital by the police.

Nonagenarian Is Dead.

Hillsdale, Ill., Feb. 21.—Mrs. Eliza Hodson, ninety-three years of age, resident of Jefferson township, Hillsdale county, for half a century, is dead.

OLD MINES MAY BE REOPENED

Increasing Demand for Copper May Result in Big Development.

Calumet, Feb. 21.—Because of the increasing demand for copper metal, due in large part to the war in Europe and the possibility of increased armament of this and other countries, together with the industrial revival throughout the United States, there seems splendid prospects right now of many old copper properties being reopened on the Keweenaw peninsula and the spending of large fortunes to develop copper lodes in grounds that have not, of late years at any rate, produced copper of commercial value. There are strong rumors to the effect that Oneco, Ojibwa,y Seneca, Gratoit, Cliff, Tremont-Devon and many others of the old prospects will resume development work.

Operations on properties adjoining several of these, development of commercial copper bearing ground in their territories and the general interest shown in copper shares are responsible for these stories in some part.

ICE BREAKUP BY APRIL 10

It Is Believed Navigation Will Open in Calumet Early.

Calumet, Feb. 21.—Because of the necessity of getting coal up to the copper and the iron ranges for the big mining corporations this spring, the winter supplies running low because of the unwonted activity in both industries, it is anticipated at Calumet that there will be a much earlier rush than usual at the opening of navigation of coal laden ships.

If the weather moderates sufficiently it is expected the first coal cargoes will reach Portage lake by April 10, somewhat earlier than any season in a number of years.

SLAVS CUT OFF FLEEING TURKS

40,000 Moslems Surrender in Drive on Mush.

RUSS SWEEPING ASIA MINOR

Entire Campaign of Ottomans in State of Disruption—Kaiser Is On Western Front—Teutons Hurry to Strike Blow to Influence Roumania, Slipping to Entente.

Petrograd, Feb. 21.—Grand Duke Nicholas, commander of the Russian forces in the Caucasus, has left Tiflis for Erzerum.

Petrograd, Feb. 21.—The capture of Mush and the remnants of the Turkish Thirty-fourth division strikingly illustrate the significance of the Russion victory in Armenia. It is no isolated incident, but merely a phase of the complete overthrow of the Ottoman plans in Asia Minor.

By occupying Mush the Russians apparently have cut connections between the Turkish center retreating from Erzerum and the Ottoman forces at Mosul on the Tigris.

The Turkish force at Mush and the town of Ahlab, which also surrendered, consisted of about one corps (40,000 men). Its task was to guard the northern approaches to Bitlis. The escaped force is retreating south, and probably will attempt to join the corps which has its base at Mosul.

Kaiser at Charleville.

Paris, Feb. 21.—The arrival of the kaiser last week at Charleville, in the French Ardennes, where the German general headquarters on the western front are located, coupled with the invaders' attack on the Yser, lends color to the belief [illegible] by all the French military critics that the Teutons are about to deliver a heavy blow in France.

Reports that the German crown prince has massed 100,000 reserves and a huge number of heavy guns to support an attack on Verdun are credited, but it is believed that this stroke will be in the nature of a big diversion while another great force attempts to blast its way through the French defenses.

Erzerum Hastens Teutons Plans.

The newspapers point out that the fall of Erzerum is likely to precipitate the plans of the Germans, who feel acutely the necessity of offsetting the political and moral effect of the Russion victory and checking Roumania's present headlong rush toward the allies' camp.

The latest unofficial information from the French front shows that the cannonade is general without being accentuated at any particular point except in Lower Alsace, where, however, no big drive is expected.

Germans Take and Lose Trench.

London, Feb. 21.—The Germans made another attempt to cross the Yser canal in the vicinity of Steenstrate north of Ypres. The attempt was preceded by a violent artillery bombardment. The assault resulted in the Germans settling foot in some 350 metres (395 yards), according to the German official statement, of British trenches. The French official communique issued later says that the Germans were immediately driven out again.

A number of heavy artillery engagements are reported from the region between the Meuse and the Moselle, and the district south of St. Mihiel. The French exploded two mines at Vauquois in the Argonne.

CHICAGO VERY POOR THIRD

New York Leads in Output of Women's Wearing Apparel.

Washington, Feb. 21.—Chicago figures importantly in the business output of the women's wear, which totaled in 1909, the date of the last census of this industry, $384,751,649. It is third in the list of cities with a total value of output of $15,677,000. New York, however, with a total output of $266,477,000, has nearly 70 per cent of the output of the United States. Philadelphia nearly doubles Chicago.

The states of New York, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Ohio are centers in the manufacture of women's wear.

FEELS BAD, SHOOTS MOTHER

Indiana Man Kills His Parent and Attempts Suicide.

Frankfort, Ind., Feb. 21.—Harry Oliver shot and killed his mother, Alice Oliver, and then attempted suicide by slashing his throat with a razor at the family home.

The tragedy was enacted as the family sat down to dinner. Oliver had been melancholy for months.

Russ Drop Bombs on Austrians.

Paris, Feb. 21.—L'Information prints a dispatch from Basel, giving Vienna newspapers as authority for the statement, that a large Russian aeroplane carrying four aviators dropped thirty bombs on Austrian staff headquarters.

Baking a Watch.

Only the best made chronometer would ever survive the tests made at the Royal observatory, Greenwich. Usually there are about 200 watches under examination for use in the royal navy. On certain occasions there is a complete trial of chronometers open to all makers who have sufficient confidence in their watches being able to withstand the severity of the tests. During the competition the watches are exposed to every possible variation of temperature. They are baked in furnaces sufficiently hot to cook a joint. In fact, so great is the heat that a badly made watch has been known to tumble to pieces during the baking test. The moment a watch is taken out of the oven it is plunged into mixtures registering 40 degrees of frost. To such perfection has the manufacture of some chronometers attained that even the most stringent tests fail to cause the slightest variation.—London Telegraph.

GERMAN AIRMEN IN BRITISH RAID

Two Towns Are Shelled in Two Attacks.

SUNDAY SERVICES BROKEN UP

Aviators Attack Lowestoft and Walmer Within an Hour—Two Men and One Boy Are Killed—Invaders Were Seaplanes—British Airmen Pursue Without Result.

London, Feb. 21.—"Te Deum laudamus! We praise Thee, Oh God," sang the congregation of a church at Walmer, a little town on the Kentish coast ten miles north of Dover, toward the close of the service. Suddenly a loud explosion just outside the edifice interrupted the singing of the hymn of thanksgiving and threw the congregation into a panic. Every window in the church was blown in.

"The Zeppelins."

"The [illegible]" was the cry among the church people as they rushed into the street. Soaring overhead were two German seaplanes, less than two-thirds of a mile high, dropping bombs on the town at intervals of a few minutes. Before the raiders turned back over the channel they had killed two men and a boy and wounded a British marine.

It was the second raid on the English coast in a day marked by an outburst of avticity on the part of the German airmen which covered territory from England to Russia.

British Statement.

The war office issued the following statement: "Four German seaplanes raided the east and southeast coasts about noon. The first raiders, two bi-[illegible] Lowestoft's at 10:55 o'clock, circled over the south side of the town for five minutes, dropped bombs and then rose to a great height and seemingly vanished.

"At 11:10 o'clock the two sea planes appeared again over the town and then vanished eastwards. Seventeen small high explosive bombs were dropped. There were no casualties. Considering damage was done to the outbuildings of a restaurant and two dwelling houses.

"A naval seapaine ascended at 11:05 o'clock and pursued the raiders without result.

"Meanwhile two other German seaplanes making for the Kentish coast first passed over a Kentish Knock light vessel and dropped bombs in the vicinity at 11:20 o'clock. The firt raider made straight for Walmer, reaching the town at 11:27 o'clock, fing at a height of less than 3,500 feet. The raider dropped six bombs and turned sharply back eastwards. Two bombs fell destroying roofs and breaking windows in the neighborhood, one fell close to a church blowing out the windows as the congregation was singing the te deum, the third bomb fell on a roadway running along the beach, killing one man, a civilian, and injuring one marine.

"The total casualties were two men and one boy killed and one marine injured."

Dunkirk Attacked.

Beside the raid on Kalmer and an attack on Lowestoft, on the Suffolk coast, one German flier dropped bombs on Dunkirk and on the French lines near Luneville, while other aeroplanes attacked Logoschin and Tarnopol, in the eastern war theater. Berlin tells of an air battle near Peronne in which two British fliers were killed.

British and Italian aviators were also active. The British airmen shelled the German aerodrome at Cambrai, France, during the night. A squadron of Italian Caproni battle planes raided Laibach, Austria, dropping several dozen bombs, one of which fell near a hospital. Both Vienna and Rome agree that one of the aeroplanes was shot down by the Austrians.

Bartholma and McCord were engaged in St. Louis for employment here by a representative of the foundry company and were sent to Detroit.

While working at the foundry Bartholma is said to have told fellow employees, the police say, that he knew the men who fired the Parliament building in Ottawa.

A Common Sense Decision

The Story of One Born to Society

By MARTHA V. MONROE

David Bartlett, from the day he began to talk, showed that he would be a stutterer. As soon as he grew old enough to be taught anything his parents made every effort to overcome a blemish that was sure to seriously interfere with his career. But despite the fact that they placed him under the care of various persons who pretended to be able to cure him, the defect remained.

The greater the loss from an imperfection the more aggravating the case. From early boyhood David gave promise of future prominence could he be freed from his unfortunate impediment. In schools he showed an originality that surprised his teachers. In college it was admitted that were he able to speak easily he would be a leader in debate. He made one attempt to address his fellow students, but so lamentable was his failure that he never tried again. On graduating he was assigned one of the principal parts because he was entitled to the honor, but the college authorities well knew that his defect would compel him to decline it.

By this time Bartlett was a man among men and received from them the forbearance and sympathy due him. In his childhood it had been different. Children who do not realize the misfortunes of others are cruel to one another. From the time David was old enough to have playmates he received now and again jests and laughter upon his misfortune. Boys are more unsparing of one another than girls, and, though David's immediate companions learned to pass his defect unnoticed, no sooner was he thrown in with a strange boy than his first failure of utterance was received with laughter.

This drove him from playmates of his own sex, and, being a boys' boy, he did not care to be relegated to the companionship of girls. There was one girl, however, whom he favored because she was not favored by girls of her own age. Mildred Swayne suffered from a misfortune similar to that of David Bartlett. She was born with a contraction of certain muscles of the face which, when she was pleased or amused, brought a contortion instead of a smile.

Those persons who have similar defects are apt to shun one another. The reason for this may be more easily understood than expressed. It is enough to say that it springs from sensitiveness. David must have overcome this sensitiveness so far as Mildred was concerned. At any rate, he rose above it and showed his sympathy for her by juvenile attention to her. He was not ashamed in children's gatherings to pair off with her, though he knew that his doing so subjected him and her to being considered two unfortunates whom others would not care to favor. Mildred, notwithstanding her boy friend's impediment, was very proud of his attentions and always stopped him for a chat when they met.

Nowhere do we find more pure selfishness than in that society which considers itself the elite and into which those who are without its pale are striving to enter. Favors are not bestowed simply from liking or admiration, but for an expected return, the returns usually being invitations. David Bartlett was not in a position at the age of twenty-two to entertain his friends. He was also handicapped by his speech impediment. Nothing remained but intellectual and moral worth, a very poor stock with which to shine in what is called society. David's parents had occupied a social position in their younger days and expected him to do the same. His manner would have entitled him to such even without his brilliancy, but he found that his inability to return favors gave those who were really his inferiors an advantage over him, and his defect of speech caused him to be shunned wherever it was possible without gross rudeness. Therefore, notwithstanding the desire of his mother that he should occupy that social position to which he was born, he one day resolved that he would not accept another invitation to a society function.

David disappeared from society without being missed. Indeed, his dropping out was rather a relief to ladies who were old friends of his mother and who felt obliged to invite him to their houses. This is not surprising. Charity there is in the world, but there is always a well defined dividing line between it and sacrifice. Soon after David began to decline invitations he disappeared from the scenes of his childhood and youth and was forgotten by all except his parents, a few intimate friends and Mildred Swayne, who, having finished her education for a teacher, entered upon her duties in a grammar school.

* * * * * * *

"Oh, heavens," exclaimed a girl at an evening social function, "there's that David Bartlett! I haven't met him anywhere in an age. I must slip out or I'll have to speak to him, and if I do I shall have to endure him for the whole evening unless some one comes up to take me away from him."

"It's two years since he left home. I understand that he has been cured of his stuttering."

"You don't mean it! How did he do that?"

"No one knows. Some say he cured himself. Some say he was cured by a process that he is pledged not to reveal. No one can get any information about the process except those who suffer from an impediment of speech. To such persons he will reveal his method, but to no one else."

David Bartlett had returned to his home cured of his defect. Occasionally he would pause for a moment while speaking and [illegible] some [illegible] formula, but even this was growing less and less frequent. He had been studying the profession of the law during his absence and soon after his return was admitted to the bar. Those society ladies who had known him before his departure did not long shun him, for he was admitted to be one of the most entertaining men in society.

While social position is gained or maintained by a rendering of what society demands, it is a mistake to suppose that its requirements are those things which can alone be bought with money. A society composed of those who have nothing but wealth to recommend them is very dull. The success of favorites in society has often been due to conversational powers. David Bartlett was full of ideas that he knew how to express in a manner to insure their appreciation. While he had suffered from his defect ladies had tried to get out of his way. After his cure many a woman, bored by a man who knew nothing out of the sphere of his occupation, on seeing Bartlett approach would draw him on with a smile in order to exchange him for her companion.

Bartlett entered the legal world as a junior partner of a law firm, but soon established a firm of which he was the head. His principal work was in court, where he was recognized as one of the best men at the bar to present a case, and his eloquence gained him an enviable reputation.

Naturally, from having been shunned, especially by those unmarried women who were seeking to make a marriage for an establishment, Bartlett came to be considered a catch. He was not only prominent, but making money. While he was not interested in punishing those who had shown the least consideration for him while he had suffered his impediment, it was but natural that he should feel no great affection for them. On his return to society he found a number of young women who had not found partners—at least partners such as they were looking for—and among these ladies were several who were not abashed at attempting to charm him. Not by word or deed did he indicate to such that he remembered their attempts to shun him when other and more desirable parties were at hand.

As Bartlett advanced in his profession and was known to be receiving large fees, so did the struggle on the part of a number of spinsters for his capture increase. Nor was this struggle confined to those who wished to wed him in order to be at the head of his fine home. Being a man naturally captivating to women, there were those who gave him their hearts without the asking.

Presently a rumor spread through the social world that he had surrendered. It was whispered that a certain widow who possessed a large fortune had agreed to unite her emoluments with the rising fortunes of the intellectual attorney. Then followed an admission on Bartlett's part that he had become engaged, but he did not name the lady. Society was agog to learn if the widow was to be the bride, and those women who had hoped for themselves tore the said widow, figuratively speaking, in pieces.

One day it was rumored in the social circle that Bartlett's cards were out. This was not considered probable, for no one of the elite had received them. But the suspense was soon ended, for the cards turned out to contain an announcement of the marriage of David Bartlett and Mildred Swayne.

Who was Mildred Swayne? Nobody knew. Then some one informed some one else that Mildred Swayne was a teacher. To this was in time added that she had suffered from a facial blemish that had been removed by surgery.

Bartlett was married—there could be no mistake about that—and since he had sent cards only to relatives and a few intimate friends—a very few of them in society—society could not call upon his wife, and he was no longer in the swim; he was a social suicide.

And so the waves of the social ocean closed over the talented Bartlett. As to his wife, she had never been in the swim. No one could understand why one with such a fine future before him could wreck it by taking a nobody for a wife. Bartlett thus stated the case to an intimate friend:

"Society was of no use to me. Nearly every unmarried woman in it was hunting for a man who could give her the means to keep up a fictitious appearance. I wished and needed a wife of a different kind. My interest in life is confined to my home and my profession. Why should I waste my time with people who care nothing about me and whom I care nothing about?

"I have married a woman with a heart that is overflowing with tenderness and sympathy, a woman who will be not only a true friend, but a congenial companion as well, a woman whose worth I can fully appreciate and who will be faithful unto death to the man into whose keeping she intrusted her future life. Oh, that more marriages were like ours!"

Thaws and Cold.

It is colder in a thaw than in a frost because when water freezes it parts with its heat to the air, which thus feels warmer. In a thaw heat is absorbed from the air.

Life In New York.

In commenting on the "spenders" of the Great White Way a writer in the American Magazine asks if the improvident habits of the average metropolitan are due to a shorter life.

"The grocer on the corner told my wife that he didn't try to save anything because 'we all die before we are sixty, anyway.' * * * What's the use?' he said. 'You never see many old people around. I won't live to be old, and neither will you.'

"That last statement stuck in my mind. It is a fact that in the streets of New York you see few people past sixty. The actual dangers connected with street traffic must keep the old indoors to a certain extent, or else it drives them away to the little towns. Anyway, I am sure you see a smaller proportion of old people in great cities than you see in small towns.

"Does this fact influence a good many, like the grocer, to spend all and to save nothing because of an unconsciously formed opinion that almost everybody works along and dies in the harness before sixty? Is this one reason why city people are more improvident and extravagant than country people?"

Strenuous Admiralty Law.

It was the early days of boat travel on the Ohio river when even passenger steamers stopped at landings on islands and mainlands for freight. We had made an island landing, and a wealthy passenger had left the boat to buy cigars at the island's tiny store. He bought $5 worth and presented a hundred dollar bill in payment, whereupon the storekeeper offered him $5 in change, asserting that he had received only $10. The customer returned to the boat and related his tale of woe to the captain, who at once went ashore and informed the storekeeper that unless the change was at once forthcoming he would hitch a cable around the store and drag it into the river.

The storekeeper still refused, and the captain departed for his boat. A cable was quickly passed around the little building, hitched to the vessel and full steam ordered. When the shack tottered upon its foundations, the frightened storekeeper appeared, the missing bills fluttering in his hand!—New York Post.

The Equinoctial Storm Fiction.

The widespread belief in the existence of an equinoctial storm and Indian summer comes, to a certain extent, under the head of popular superstitions. If the equinoctial storm is defined as a rainstorm, lasting at least three days, and [illegible] or three days of the 21st of September, then there is very seldom a year when several equinoctial storms do not occur. The reason for the belief in an equinoctial storm is probably the fact that about that time of the year the first storms of the winter type, with steadily falling precipitation, make their appearance. They stand in sharp contrast to the summer type with the sultry weather and thunder showers. Storms of the winter type can occur, however, during any month of the summer. The amount of precipitation near the 21st has been shown by averaging the observations at many stations to be no greater than before or after this date.—Willis Ishllester Milham in Meteorology.

Monster Petticoats.

During the reign of Charles I. the hoop petticoat was worn only by wives of the lower gentry and by the wives of the citizens. In the latter part of the reign of Queen Anne it rose again, this time in another form—that of an enormous hoop. This grew to such immense proportions that during the time of George I. and II. eight yards was considered the proper width.

These hoops had outstanding steel or whalebone foundations at the bottom of the skirt. In Elizabeth's time this whalebone had been used at the top, near the waist, enlarging the hips for several feet. Addison expressed himself about the subject as follows through his Sir Roger de Coverley:

"My great-great-grandmother has on a new fashioned petticoat, except that hers is gathered at the waist. My grandmother appears as if she stood in a large drum, whereas the ladies now walk as if they were in a gocart."

A Strange Rock Dweller.

One of the strangest creatures known to science is the pholas, or boring clam. When still very minute the animal bores into the sandstone ledges at extreme low water, by means of its sharp shell, which is replaced by secretions as it is worn away. It penetrates the rock to a depth of six or eight inches and hollows out its burrows as it increases in size. Shaped roughly like a top, it could not leave its rock dwelling even if it wished to do so. For food it depends on the animalcules that float in sea water, which it seizes by its long siphon, or tongue. The pholas is in great demand at the seaside resorts along the Pacific coast, for its meat is very tender and makes excellent soup. The clams are dislodged in great numbers from the ledges by the use of dynamite, although it is possible to obtain them with a pick or crowbar.—Exchange.

Mexico City Is Aged.

Mexico City is traditionally nearly 600 years old. It was founded when the Aztecs settled on an island near Lake Tezcoco. Cortez practically destroyed the city in 1521. From this time on there was hardly a break in the ordinary events until 1692, when there was a revolt against Spanish rule. Later it was the scene of many revolutions and much bloody fighting until the iron rule of Porfirio Diaz made revolutions for thirty years somewhat unprofitable ventures. In the war between the United States and Mexico the principal movement of the American troops was directed against Mexico City. After capturing the hill of Chapultepec by assault General Scott occupied the city Sept. 14, 1847.

Curious Request.

A doctor in the country received one day a letter from an old woman asking for a bottle of cough mixture for her husband, ending with the postscript:

"Pleese, sir, don't make it too strong, as the poor man has only got one leg."—London Tit-Bits.

Different From Her Ma.

He—Why is it that there's never a match in this house? She (curtly)—I can't make matches. He—That's strange. Your mother could.—Boston Transcript.

Doomed.

"I like to see a smart, well educated woman," said young De Sapp, "but I wouldn't want to marry one who knows more than I do."

"Too bad," rejoined Miss Swift. "I'm sorry to hear that you intend to remain a bachelor all your life."—Indianapolis Star.

COMMUNICATIONS

EDITOR HERALD:

You have invited the citizens of Tecumseh to express themselves in regard to the schools and the building of a central school building. I have no children to educate though my home is here and I am glad to see any improvements that will benefit and beautify our town.

It seems to me there should be a committee of business men chosen to decide and present plans and specifications of the cost of a central building and do away with most of the branch schools. We have contractors in our town who would figure on the same, giving cost so the voters would understand. I have heard many express themselves if they knew the cost they would support any reasonable amount, but until they did know would vote against it.

Southern Michigan is, about the most desirable locality in the States to live in taking everything in consideration, and Tecumseh one of the most desirable towns if not the best to live in and we should all be proud to back necessary improvements.

Why not put this thing before the people who pay the bills the same as an individual enterprise.

Living on Schedule.

The man who is living this life on schedule time deserves to be an object of pity. I know of one creature who is so precise in his appointments that he is actually living a month in advance of himself. You say to him, 'Whatchergonnado tomorrow noon, Bill?' and he'll consult his little vest pocket engagement book and inform you that he is filled up as far as next Wednesday at 10 p. m. (meaning engagements, of course). Then you say, "I wanted you to lunch with me tomorrow at 12." "Let me see," says he; "I have a fifteen minute canceled engagement at that time, so I'll accept your invitation. Meanwhile you'll excuse me, dear boy, for I have a directors' meeting on at 4:22 and leave for Goplunk, N. J., at 5:48, but I'll be on hand at 12 sharp." And he records it in his book. This schedule crank has everything prearranged except his funeral, and if he happens to have a previous engagement I'll wager he'll disappoint the mourners by postponing that.—Cartoons Magazine.

Using the Expression "I Think."

A man was referred to as one who in his conversation never says "I think" so and so. The "think" is a mere expletive. A positive, clear headed man says what he thinks without saying he thinks. Besides, when a person premises with an "I think" it weakens his assertion because thinking is by no means an assurance of truth. If one should say "I think it will rain tomorrow" the very expression carries a doubt because mere opinion is a lame matter, and the world is chock full of opinions. If, however, he should say "It will rain tomorrow" it carries some assurance even if it is, after all, an opinion. So the man referred to in the first place doesn't say "I think," for it is entirely superfluous, and he adds force and dignity to what he says in omitting it entirely. And then when one looks at the situation calmly he will conclude that "think" is much under a cloud since very few people think exactly alike. There are ten thousand instances of this character.—Ohio State Journal.

Beauty in the Mexican's Voice.

Next to the love of dress, I was most struck with the fineness of the voice and the beauty of intonations of both sexes (of the Mexicans). It is a pleasure simply to listen to the sound of the language before I could attach any meaning to it. They have a good deal of the creole drawl, but it is varied, with an occasional extreme rapidity of utterance, in which they seem to skip from consonant to consonant until, lighting upon a broad open vowel, they rest upon that to restore the balance of sound. A common bullock driver delivering a message seemed to speak like an ambassador at an audience. In fact, they sometimes appeared to me to be a people on whom a curse had fallen and stripped them of everything but their pride, their manner and their voices.—"Three Years Before the Mast" by R. H. Dana.

Curious Golf Shot.

The late lord chief justice, Lord Alverstone, being one of the judges at the Birmingham assizes, in the intervals of business had several rounds of golf on the Edgbaston links. On one of these occasions he was playing with the local professional and got rather badly bunkered at the second hole.

It was necessary, in order to get the ball out, to make it rise almost perpendicularly into the air, and for this purpose Lord Alverstone, or Sir Richard Webster, as he then was, took his niblick and made a mighty stroke. No conjurer on earth could have done a trick more neatly. The ball not only leaped into the air, but dropped as clean as a whistle into the judge's baggy right hand pocket!—London Mail.

The Word Tramway.

Tramway is the term applied in Great Britain to all kinds of street railroads, whether using horses, engines, a cable or electricity. The word tram originally meant a log or stump. The evolution of the word into modern English use is given as: End—fragment—stump—log—pole—bar—beam—rail. In the earliest forms of railroads the tracks consisted of trams of wood or flat stones, at a later period of wooden stringers covered with strap iron and lastly of iron rails.

WHY SHOULD I BUY OF TEMPLE THIS SPRING?

Every farmer knows that machinery, wagons, harness, etc., are higher this spring. Our selling prices have not raised, compared with present costs.

Every farmer knows that if you buy most of your goods from a few houses you can get a better deal than if you buy of everybody that comes along. Our policy for years has been to handle a few of the most popular lines of the best houses.

Every farmer knows that we thoroughly understand the lines we sell and by experience know how to set them up properly so as to save you annoyance when starting, in busy times.

Every farmer knows we carry in stock, repairs for most anything we sell; thus you are sure of being taken care of quickly.

Every farmer knows this would be impossible if we carried in stock a little of this and a little of that.

These are a few of the reasons why you should buy your spring machinery of Prosperity Day

1916 has given us an extra day. As Leap Year, it has added a day to February.

And so we have another day for work, another day for play.

Some one has suggested that we call this day, February 29, "Prosperity day."

Since prosperity is upon us, it's not a bad idea and each and every one of us can do our part to make it PROSPERITY DAY in fact, as well as in name.

Those of us who have savings accounts may add some amount to their balance.

Those who have no savings account should plan to start one upon this day—PROSPERITY DAY.

This strong savings bank invites every person who has not secured a savings book to call now.

By following these suggestions, you will properly observe and celebrate PROSPERITY DAY, and to your personal gain and advantage

And your growing bank account will help to make every day PROSPERITY DAY.

BEAKES GETS CREDIT FOR R. F. D. CHANGES

(By The Journal's Washington Bureau)

Washington, Feb. 19—Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Blakslee, in a letter to Chairman Moon of the House postoffice committee, gives Congressman Beakes of Michigan credit for the movement to readjust rural routes over the whole country and put them back nearer the basis they were three years ago. Mr. Moon read the letter to the house and had it inserted in the record to quiet the clamor of other congressman.

In the letter Mr. Moon stated that in Mr. Beakes' district 87 routes were discontinued at a saving of $40,000 and inconvenience to 450 families. At the instance of Mr. Beakes an inspector, after numerous complaints went over the routes and made two readjustments of the service. As a result it is said only 10 families in the district are now inconvenienced. "The identical treatment," continues the letter, "will be accorded to every postal patron in any congressional district who was in any way affected by the recent revision of the rural service."

MENS MEETING

The 8 o'clock mens meeting at the Parish House Sunday was well attended. Rev. F. Hewit gave a half hour talk taking for his theme the School question, the question of Public amusements and Associated charities.

Rev. Hewitt gave some very good reasons why in his judgement, a school house should be built in Tecumseh landed the spirit of the early residents of Tecumseh, who built such a fine building (for that day) to take care of the early needs of their town. If the same, loyality was exhibited to day our new school would be forth coming. He also spoke of the modern vocationa training which was being used in many schools of to day.

Amusements come in for his consideration. He thought that our town should furnish some kind of clean amusement for her young. "You have made the county dry and have taken away gambling devices and what have you given your town in their place?"

Associated Charities along the lines layed down by Rev. Hubert Wells was advocated with a trained worker in charge, Some local worker if an outside worker could not be practibally used.

At the close of Rev: Hewitts address F. S. Turner gave a five minute talk on the charity question. A discusssion followed.

For the first time in the history of the state the people will vote direct for the nomination and election of United States senator. The legislature has nothing to do with it any more.

Michigan is entitled to 39 delegates to the republican national convention in Chicago, besides the usual number of alternates. In the township spring elections, it is optional with the township committees to nominate by primary or by caucus.

And the fact of a general re-registration must not be forgotten. There is no separation now between the regristration does for all. When a voter registers once in the spring, that does for four years, unless the residence of the voter is changed in the meantime.

Gerald Kennedy, who has been "making weather" at Key West for nearly two years, has lately been transferred to Pensacola. His duties will be of larger scope including map drawing, direction of winds and drafting charts.

Floyd Williamson had on exhibition Saturday in the east window of the Williamson grocery store, a cock and three hens of the Black Langshan breed. The pen is valued at $25 and came from M. S. Barker of Thornton, Ind. They are of unusual size and black as crows with a most beautiful lustre. It was worth while to go down the street to look at them

W A Gregg of Polson, Montana, writes us renewing his subscription to the Herald and to let us know that he had not forgotten Tecumseh which still holds a warm place in his heart. He also sends a neat booklet of Polson and the surrounding country which is very interesting. He reports a very cold winter January 16 the mercury marked 16 below zero but now it is like spring. Mr. Gregg was a former resident in Tecumseh and his friends will be pleased to hear from him.

JOSEPH GREGG

Joseph Gregg who lived 1½ miles south of Tecumseh passed away suddenly Saturday night about 10:30.

He had been in town during the evening with his family to meet some friends. As the rig was crowded he walked home and expired almost immediately on entering the house.

Mr. Gregg was about to move his family from the farm into the village and had been getting the house ready to occupy.

He was born in Huron Co, O., Oct. 25, 1852 and came to Tecumseh about 8 years ago. He leaves his wife and four children Mrs. Russell Thurlby and Garnett, Guy and John to mourn his sudden taking away.

His funeral was held at the home at 1:30 today with burial in Brookside cemetery.

Spice box—Mrs. W. E Wilson.

Discussion, Preparedness lead by Dr Hartzog followed by L H McConnell, Rev. W A. Rex and W. E. Wilson.

OUR NEW "ZOO"

It is understood that we are to have a new "zoo" in town. Leon Rosacrans will be the head keeper and Clyde Barber his assistant. We also understand that Rudolph Heesen will carry water to the animals while John Gaston will be the chief whistler and peanut feeder.

It comes to us from authentic sources that this "zoo" will be erected on Dr. Hendershott's lawn All great things start from small beginnings and Mr. Rosecrans will start in with a pair of wolves.

These wolves have already arrived in town and were reported to have been seen on Dr. Hendershott's premises early yesterday morning. They have already proven an attraction, as our friend John was standing bareheaded outside his jewelry store yesterday morning with his eager gaze cast "westward ho" in an attempt to view the animals.

Beyond a doubt our State Fair will be held in Tecumseh next fall owing to the addition of this feature. Then Tecumseh will truly be "the biggest little town on earth."

This program followed the business meeting of the Post and Auxiliary.

At the business H. C. Daniels was elected and installed quarter master to fill vacancy.

THIS TIME IT WAS WOLVES—NOT MALLIARD DUCKS.

As two or three of our young business men were down to their work Monday morning they discovered two wolves (?) just back of the residence of Dr Hendershott arming themselves with some of the branches that the wind had blown from the trees, they proceeded cautiously crossing the street for safety.

On reaching a telephone they called up the Dr. who in a most emphatic manner told them to go———and reminded them of the fact that a year or so ago they had also had visions of Malliard ducks. No gun being handy this time, the dogs got away.

We understand one of the gentlemen was so agitated over the discovery that he telephoned his home, and gave orders that his little daughter should not go to school but later under proper escort she was permitted to go.

SEVERE ACCIDENT

Ernest Church Painfully Injured at the Electric Light Plant.

Ernest Church was quite seriously injured Saturday afternoon while making an adjustment to a water gauge which was attached to one of the high pressure boilers at the Electric Light plant. For some unknown reason the gauge bursted and with great force, sent particles of glass into his left eye, the force of the blow was sufficient to cut through the inside portion of the iris and a portion of the pupil. It was a deep cut and perforated the layers of the eye and made a slight opening into the cavity back of the eye.

A physician was called and two pieces of the glass was removed from the eye He was taken home and when seen by a Herald reporter Monday morning was resting comfortably.

It was first thought that the sight had been destroyed but as he is able to distinguish objects with the injured eye, strong hopes are entertained for saving the sight. He will be obliged to be confined to a dark room and kept quiet.

Later he may be taken to Ann Arbor for an ex-ray examination to discovery if any glass has entered the inner cavity. A nurse is in attendance that he may have constant care.

DOUBLY PROVEN

Tecumseh Readers Can No Longer Doubt the Evidence.

This Tecumseh citizen testified long ago.

Told of quick relief—of undoubted benefit.

The facts are now confirmed.

Such testimony is complete—the evidence conclusive.

It forms convincing proof of merit.

Mrs. C. Stevenson, Wyandotte, and Potawatamie Sts., Tecumseh, says: "The first symptom of kidney complaint in my case was a sharp shooting pain across the small of my back which made it almost impossible for me to lie down. Someone advised me to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial and I did, procuring my supply at C. A. Wright & Son's Drug store. After I had taken this remedy a short time the pains and aches left and gravel that had been a source of constant suffering no longer troubled me, in fact, I felt like a different person."

OVER FIVE YEARS LATER, Mrs Stevenson said: "I am always glad to speak a good word in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills. Whenever I feel the need of a kidney medicine, I take Doan's Kidney Pills and they always give me the best of relief."

First Wire Suspension Bridge.

The first wire suspension bridge in the United States if not in the world was thrown across the Schuylkill river near the falls of Schuylkill, in Philadelphia, in 1816. Its history is as follows: In 1809 Robert Kennedy and Conrad Carpenter built a chain bridge at the falls of Schuylkill, which broke down in 1811. Josiah White and Erskine Hazard, afterward prominent as pioneers in the anthracite coal trade of Pennsylvania, had erected a rolling mill and a wire factory in the neighborhood, and after the bridge fell they formed a new company, and another chain bridge was constructed in April, 1811, but this new bridge in turn gave way in 1816. White & Hazard then swung a wire suspension bridge across the river from an upper window of their factory to some large trees on the west bank, steps leading from the trees to the ground. This primitive bridge structure was intended for foot passengers only, and but eight persons were allowed to go upon the footway at one time. The bridge is said to have cost $125.—Exchange.

Career of the Levelers.

Levelers first appeared in Germany. Two men, Munzer and Storck, taught that distinctions of rank violate the rights of mankind. This was in the sixteenth century. At the head of 40,000 men Munzer commanded the sovereign princes of Germany and the magistrates of cities to resign. His followers ravaged the country until one of the German overlords defeated them in battle. Their leader was beheaded.

A party of Levelers appeared in England in 1647, where they became powerful in parliament. They determined to level all ranks and establish an equality of titles and estates throughout the kingdom. About this time Cromwell departed for Ireland. The Levelers raised mutinies in various quarters. Cromwell put them down in 1649 and imprisoned their leader.

A party of Levelers appeared in England during the French revolution. A "loyal association" was formed against them, and their efforts brought no results.—Kansas City Star.

Twelfth Century Football.

In the twelfth century football was a game for the streets. The chronicler of that period tells how after dinner the city youths "addressed themselves to football" and how the scholars of each school and the apprentices of particular trades would each have their peculiar ball. There were spectators, too, in those days, enthusiastic spectators. Fathers would come to watch their sons and "become as youthful as the youngest, their natural heat seeming to be revived at the sight of so much ability."

In later years there was a famous ball game played in Hyde park. In 1654, then, "there was a hurling of a great ball by fifty Cornish gentlemen on one side and fifty on the other; one party played in red caps, the other in white." And—here the historical value of the contest—Cromwell was a spectator and applauded the "great ability of body" displayed.

Sulphuric Acid Burns.

Burns from sulphuric acid are easily cured. Just remember that plain water—lots of it—must be poured on the victim of a sulphuric acid accident at once, even to throwing the party into the water if possible. This acid on the skin feels like fire. With water quickly applied in great quantity this acid is rendered harmless. Men have been burned with it repeatedly without harm through a knowledge of this proper antidote. If not treated promptly the most horrible disfigurements result. The police department of Paris exhibits wax figures of faces of victims of the foreign practice of throwing this acid in one's face. A prompt treatment of water would have rendered the acid harmless.

Mosquitoes In Bagdad.

A round the world electrical engineer tells this story:

"We ran up to Bagdad to put over a little deal with the pasha, a former government official who had been prominent in the days of Abdul Hamid. His palace was infested with mosquitoes, and we had to plan to give him relief.

"He lived in the usual Moorish house, with high walls, flat roof with parapets, few windows and open court. The old pasha looked exactly as if he had just stepped out of a Broadway musical comedy with his shining silk robes, turban and red shoes with upturned toes.

"In the palace garden was a stream with a fall of about ten feet. It would develop about one-fourth horsepower. We built a water mill, equipped it with a dynamo, wired the palace and started up some gigantic electric fans. These fans cooled the air and also blew through the rooms a narcotic sufficiently powerful to cause the mosquitoes to fall in a coma. All that remained was for the servants to go around and sweep them up in piles to be destroyed."—G. T. Hadley in World Outlook.

Fish Eating Cattle.

The use of fish as food for cattle is an idea more novel than agreeable According to Nature, however, it is a common practice in various parts of the world. In Shetland and Iceland the farmers feed dry salt fish to cattle, sheep and even to horses. Cecil Wood, describing experiments of this nature, mentions that certain special cattle, kept for display at the village festivals in Nandyal, in India, are fed with mutton and adds that it is a fairly common practice to make use of bandicoots by pounding them in a mortar and feeding them to cattle. In Mr. Wood's experiments two lots of heifers were fed on dried fish diet and normal diet respectively.

The animals took a little time to get used to the fish, but they ate it readily enough. At the end of six months the fish fed heifers showed an average increase in weight of fifty-four pounds as against seventy pounds for the normally fed animals.

Beauty Merely a Matter of Health.

Not long ago a woman said, "If I could afford to have a course of treatment in a beauty parlor I might do something for my appearance." She needed to be told that the daily bath, plain, nonpoisonous food, eight hours of sleep every night, a daily walk, sensible clothing and really good books would do more for her attractiveness than any beauty parlor could possibly do, writes Dr. Maude Kent in Good Health.

To have health means to live the daily life of work and play in a state of bodily ease, mental vigor and spiritual growth. We must consider health in this threefold aspect, for mere animal health is not desirable, nor a fine mind in a stunted, pain racked body, nor soulfulness that disregards the laws of the body and intellectual attainment. It is the all round person who is the telling, efficient force in the world, and the world greatly needs every human being developed to his greatest capacity.

Chemical Dangers.

A professor of a northern university who was as remarkable for his felicity in experimenting as Rouelle could be for his failures was once repeating an experiment with some combustible substance, when the mixture exploded, and the phial which he held in his hand blew into a hundred pieces. "Gentlemen," said the doctor to his pupils, with the most unaffected gravity, "I have made this experiment often with the very same phial and never knew it to break in my hands before." The simplicity of this rather superfluous assurance produced a general laugh, in which the learned professor, who instantly discovered the cause of it, joined most heartily.—Dr. E. L. H. in Medical Pickwick.

Going the Limit.

"Tell that fellow Gingerly not to call here any more," said paterfamilias savagely.

"What's the use, papa?" Evangeline asked.

"I say tell him not to call any more," repeated paterfamilias with increased anger.

"Why, papa, he calls seven times a week now. He can't call any more than that."—London Tit-Bits.

The Soft Answer.

He—Ugh! I'm going out of this, and you won't see me again until the day of judgment.

She (sweetly, getting the last word, as usual)—All right, dear, and if you aren't feeling in a better temper please let it be well on in the afternoon.—London Saturday Review.

Heard Out of Doors.

"He's hardly an impressive looking object."

"He may not be impressive looking, but he certainly has a striking forehead."—Boston Transcript.

HELM SAYS THAT TANLAC WILL HELP ANY ONE WHO IS WILLING TO GIVE IT A FAIR TRIAL

Charles Helm of 7, College avenue, Adrian, and who conducts the largest moving and draying business in that city, said a few days ago, that he had received much benefit from the use of Tanlac, the new medicine. This is Mr. Helm's statement

"My business kept me so rushed all the time, that I became completely run down and worn out. I lost every ounce of energy I had, and I did not feel fit for business or anything else. I suffered from kidney trouble which caused me to have severe backaches. Often I would find it impossible to do my work such as helping to lift heavy boxes when he had a moving job. I lost my appetite and was so nervous that I did not sleep well.

"I began to take Tanlac a short time ago, because it was recommended by friends, who had been helped by it. Can only say that I am certainly feeling fine now. My appetite is good, my head feels better and my backache is gone. Tanlac is a fine system builder and will help anyone who gives it a fair trial."

Tanlac may be obtained here at the store of B. J. Pulver.

The Worm Turned.

"You haven't done very well this month," said the boss. "Your orders were few and far between."

"I'm sorry," said the traveling salesman, "but"—

"I don't want excuses. I want orders."

Just then the door opened, and the secretary entered and passed in a card.

"Humph," said the boss, "James Henry, salesman for the General Products company! Doesn't he know I never see traveling men at this hour?"

"He says he is in a hurry to leave town and would like to explain his proposition to you. He will be brief."

"I can't see him now. I'm busy. Tell him to wait."

"When shall I tell him to call again?"

"Tell him to wait there and I'll see him in about an hour. Now, then, young man, why is it that you fell down this month?"

"Because all the business men I called on insisted on treating your salesman the way you treat theirs."—Exchange.

Changed His Mind.

When Charles B. Towns, author of "Habits That Handicap," first began his practice in curing drug victims he had great difficulty in securing patients in order to prove the efficacy of his cure. His claim to have discovered a cure for drugs was reverberating through the New York underworld; yet, though [illegible] volunteers were timid. [illegible] not knowing what else to do, Towns actually kidnaped a race track tout and put him through the treatment against his will. "When I get out of here and tell the boys what you've been doing to me," threatened the tout, "your life won't be worth 20 cents. They'll croak you in a minute." But five days later the tout told his friends quite another story. He sent, not gun men to kill, but confidence men to be healed, four of them. Towns had squared himself with the underworld as much by his courage as by his skill.

To Erect a Tent In Winter.

Instead of using a rope bridge, tents should be set in winter with a pole between two trees or supported on forked sticks, and the tapes along the ridge should be tied to this pole, says All Outdoors. If the tent has no tapes run the pole through the tent from end to end, and support it at each extremity with a forked pole. Better still are two forked poles at each end, the bottoms of which are spread far apart When the tent sags it can be tightened by drawing the bottom close together and thus raising the ridge. Poles spread apart in this way also add much to the stability of the tent in a wind. While this method requires five poles instead of three, it is nevertheless the best way to erect an A tent It will be difficult to drive stakes in winter, but logs, to which the ropes may be tied, will serve nearly as well.

The King is Dead, Long Live the King.

A biographer of Louis XIV. of France says his death was announced by the captain of the bodyguard from a window of the state apartment and that, "raising his staff of office above his head, he broke it in the center and, throwing the pieces among the crowd, exclaimed in a loud voice, 'Le roi est mort!' ('The king is dead!') Then seizing another staff he flourished it in the air, shouting, 'Vive le roi!' ('Long live the king!')" The phrase was used in announcing the death of other French kings and for the last time at the death of Louis XVIII. It is often quoted to signify the quickness with which official authority and popular admiration are transferred from a dead ruler to a living one.

The Judge's Hint.

A young Irish barrister began his speech to the court in these terms: "The eagle soaring high above the mists of the earth, winning its daring flight against a midday sun, until the contemplation becomes too dazzling for humanity, and mortal eyes gaze after it in vain!" Here the orator was noticed to falter and lose the thread of his speech. He sat down after some vain attempts to regain it. The judge then said, "The next time, sir, you bring an eagle into court I should recommend you to clip its wings." No doubt the hint was taken.—Westminster Gazette.

RUSS AT BITLIS; TURKS FLEEING

Advancing Slavs Occupying the Lake Van District.

TREBIZOND IS NEAR CAPTURE

Grand Duke's Forces Pressing Their Drive on Routed and Demoralized Moslems—Two Ottoman Corps on Way to Erzerum Hear of Its Fall and Turn Back.

LONDON, ENG. — The Russians have occupied the entire Lake Van district, the Turks retiring southward and even evacuating Bitlis, according to a Petrograd dispatch received in Rome and given out here by the wireless press.

On the other wing, according to the dispatch, the Russian advance guards have arrived within a shore distance of Trebizond on the Black sea coast.

Lake Van lies 100 miles southeast of Erzerum and Bitlis, a city of more than 25,000 population, is southwest of Lake Van, not more than ten miles from the nearest point on the lake shore. Bitlis is on the direct line of a force pushing from Lake Van toward Diarbekr, about 100 miles away, fifty miles beyond which city runs the Bagdad railway, possession of which by the Russians would cut Turkish communication with Syria and render hazardous the position of the Turkish forces facing the British down the Tigris in Mesopotamia and likewise the position of their forces in Persia.

Two Corps Turn Back.

PETROGRAD — A dispatch from Tiflis to the Boerse Gazette says that two Turkish army corps which were on their way to re-enforce Erzerum have turned back on heing informed that the fortress had fallen. The Russians are pressing the advantage [illegible] flanks. On the right, along the Black sea coast, by the co-operation of the sea and land forces, they are driving the Turks from one position after another to the east of Trebizond, and it is expected that active operations against that important seaport will not be long deferred.

Shore Batteries Destroyed.

In the last two days the Russians have occupied Witde (Widje) and pressed ten or twelve miles west. The fleet has destroyed in succession several shore batterie which might have been of assistance to the Turks, and by keeping well in advance of the land forces and by destroying bridges over several streams in the path of retreating Turks has rendered their retreat more difficult. The fleet has been working so close to the shore that the warships have been reached by rifle fire from the Turkish troops. On the other hand, the ships have spread confusion in the ranks of the Turks by dropping bombs among them.

On the left bank, after the occupation of Koph, the Russians pushed on to Mush and Achlat, the latter on the north shore of Lake Van. From Koph to Mush, sixty miles over mountain roads, they fought several battles and occupied Mush by storm.

Turks Fled Before Advance.

The Turks fled toward Diarbekr, the next objective of the Russian army. Once in possession of Diarbekr, it is only a day's march to the Bagdad railway, the last remaining communication into Syria.

The rapid Russian offensive beyond Erzerum, it is believed here, makes it probable that the retreat of the Turkish corps operating along the Black sea coast and of those troops which were active in the Mush district before the Russian occupation will be entirely cut off and that the main Turkish armies will be surrounded.

BRITISH REPULSED, BERLIN

Hand Grenade Attack on Yser Canal Fails—Quit Crater.

BERLIN — Repulse of a British hand grenade attack against the new German position on the Yser canal north of Ypres was announced by the German war office.

Admits Trying to Export Rubber to Germany as Baggage.

NEW YORK — Heinrich Bachmann, a Swiss, and Mrs. Elise Schroeder of Berlin pleaded guility to the indictment found against them last week charging them with attempting to export rubber from this country to Germany as personal baggage, in violation of the customs laws.

They were fined $200 each. Both said they would return to Germany.

Pay Tax or Work.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Constitutionality of the Florida law making it a criminal offense to refuse to work out taxes on the roads when summoned was upheld by the supreme court.

Mrs. Eliza Hodson, aged 93, resident of Jefferson township, Hillsdale county, for half a century, is dead.

Leo Valdas, 23, of Newaygo, locked himself in his granary and blew out his brains with a shotgun.

Calumet was chosen as the place for the Superior conference of the Augustana Synod at its closing session.

Mrs. N. C. Emerson, an old resident, is dead at Standish. She was born in 1843. Her husband and two children survive her.

H. Rogers, Saline, 60, stock buyer, for Sheriff H. G. Linderschmitt, committed suicide by shooting himself through the heart.

It is generally anticipated at Calumet there will be a much earlier rush than usual at the opening of navigation of coal laden ships.

ASK BRITAIN FOR MAIL CASE REPLY

U. S. Controversy Over Seizures in Acute Stage.

PROMPT SETTLEMENT WANTED

So Far Washington Has Had No Answer to Notes to London on Subject—Taking of Germans Off U. S. Steamer China in Asiatic Waters Rouses Ire.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Secretary of State Lansing announced in effect that the United States has asked Great Britain to answer forthwith this government's protest against her seizure of American mails in violation of The Hague rules and international law.

Ambassador Page, it was said, has been instructed also to get an answer on the protest of the United States against the application of the British "trading with the enemy act" as affecting the freedom of trade between the two countries.

Taking Off Germans Rouses Ire.

The forcible taking of German citizens from the American ship China in Asiatic waters, and a new message to the department from Ambassador Page indicating that trade with the United States in many articles can be conduced only under "special licenses" from the British government have added greatly to the irritation in administration circles against Great Britain.

Demands to be "Forcible."

It was disclosed that Ambassador Page is instructed to make a vigorous and "forcible" demand on the British foreign office to expedite the long delayed reply to the protest on the mails. His original instructions on this matter were that he should press vigorously for prompt action. This government, it is understood, has been disturbed by news that Great Britain has answered Holland in a most arbitrary manner, stating that seizures of mails are justifiable under her order in council.

The United States denies flatly this assumed right of Great Britain.

New Data Received.

Another official said that it was manifest now that the recent visit here of the United States minister to Holland, Dr. Henry Van Dyke, has enabled his government to make the new representations to Great Britain.

ASQUITH ASKS CREDIT VOTE $2,000,000,000

All European Belligerents Have Spent $40,000,000,000.

LONDON, ENG.—The government asked the house of commons to vote a new war credit of $2,100,000,000, which request, the house, in the committee of the whole, promptly complied with.

The voting of these credits, the prime minister stated, will raise England's total war expenditures to about $8,640,000,000.

According to unofficial estimates all belligerents in the European war have spent since the beginning of hostilities about $40,000,000,000.

Premier Asquith announced that England's total expenditures for 1915-16 to date were $6,677,000,000. This statement confirmed recent estimates made by London financiers.

Expenditures for the army and navy and for munitions manufacture and purchase from April 1, 1915, to Feb. 19, 1916, totaled $3,748,000,000. Premier Asquith stated. Loans to England's allies for that period totaled $800,000,000.

FOUR HURT; NONE SERIOUSLY

Engine, Tender and Baggage Car Topple on Monon in Indiana.

FRANKFORT, IND. — Four trainmen were injured slightly when the Hoosier Limited northbound passenger train on the Monon railroad, was wrecked here. The engine, tender and baggage car fell over.

A broken rod on the tender is thought to have caused the wreck.

Feels Bad, Shoots Mother.

FRANKFORT, IND. — Harry M. Oliver shot and killed his mother, Alice Oliver, and then attempted suicide by slashing his throat with a razor at the family home.

The tragedy was enacted as the family sat down to dinner. Oliver had been melancholy for months.

Auto Plunge Kills Grain Man.

KANSAS CITY — Erskine B. Russell, secretary of the Russell Grain company, a member of the board of trade and a prominent club man, was killed when the automobile he was driving plunged over a fifty-foot embankment in the south part of the city.

Logging in copper country was curtailed about 30 per cent since the first of the year, according to E. A. Hamar, manager of the Worcester Lumber company of Chassell. The snow is the cause.

Of a dozen "blind pig" cases in the Iron county court but one was acquitted. The cases are disposed of at the rate of two each day.

The body of C. M. Graves, Jackson, was found on the floor of his home by neighbors. Indications are that he had died from coal gas asphyxiation.

Temporarily insane, Bert Coffin, forty-five years old, a prosperous farmer, committed suicide by shooting himself in the mouth with a shotgun.

Members of the board of education at Battle Creek have ordered a free noon-day luncheon for poor children attending open air schools.

NEW BILL FOR ARMY INCREASE AGREED ON

House Committee Favors Federalizing the Militia.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A new army reorganization bill, federalizing the National Guard, increasing the regular army to 134,000 men, doubling the field artillery, increasing the engineers' corps by fifteen companies, creating four squadrons of air craft and an entirely new corps of cadets from colleges having military training, was agreed upon tentatively by the house military committee.

The National Guard provisions will be one of the most notable features. The committee agreed that congress has the constitutional right to take over the National Guard by legislative enactment and appropriation.

The provision for a corps of cadet officers from educational institutions having military training is expected to furnish 3,000 trained officers for use in emergency.

The McKellar bill providing federal co-operation in military training in the states also was voted favorably reported. It proposed government aid for one school in each state where a minimum of 300 students will receive military instruction.

BACHELORS OF 19 CALLED

LONDON, ENG.—A royal proclamation has been posted calling to the colors the recruits of class one under the military service act. They are to report before March 31.

The class mentioned comprises the youngest of the recruits available. They are the bachelors who had attained the age of eighteen on Aug. 15, 1915. It is believed that the majority of them have attained nineteen years and have thus become eligible for military service. This summons completes the calling up of the single men.

LONDON, ENG.—The Salonika correspondent of the Daily Mail, telegraphing under date of Feb. 19, says:

"An allied submarine entered the Dardanelles on Feb. 16, passed through the sea of Marmora and reached Constantinople, where, under the windows of the Sultan's palace, it torpedoed the tug Lerhom, which the Turks had seized at the beginning of hostilities. The submarine also sank six large sailing vessels laden with munitions. The terrific explosions caused panic in the capital."

LONDON, ENG. — The British steamship Comrie Castle, which went ashore last week on a reef off Mombasa, British East Africa, has been refloated.

Henry Ford is preparing to launch a country-wide campaign of newspaper and magazine advertising against the program for huge naval and military expenditures now before congress.

A GENERAL SURVEY OF THE WAR.

Thursday Feb. 17.—Petrograd estimates 100,000 prisoners taken at Erzerum and 1,000 cannon. As several hundred of these guns were only recently placed there from the Krupp works, they are of the latest pattern. The news of the fall of the great Turk fortress produced the greatest rejoicing in Petrograd since the capture of Premesl. It is the best news the allies have had in months.

Constantinople claims the British lost 2,000 killed and wounded in fighting west of Korna, near Batiha, in the lower Tigris region, and that the Russians lost 6,000 in the Caucasus.

Petrograd reports the "pulverization" of the port mining town of Zunguldik in Asia Minor by a hydroaeroplane raid. The coal mines, docks, buildings and railroad yards were wiped out, Petrograd claims.

Friday, Feb. 18.—The Russians continue their pursuit of the remnants of the Turkish army that fled Erzerum. A Bucharest dispatch says the Russians have captured Balburt, an ancient city northwest of Erzerum, and that beyond this place a battle is raging. All speculation for the present is the direction the Russ offensive now will take in Asia Minor.

On the Italian front Vienna reports a fortress shelled by Italians.

Paris reports the French made a gain at Artois by pressing forward into a German trench after a mine explosion had produced a huge crater.

Saturday, Feb. 19.—The Petrograd war office reports the capture of Mush, in Asiatic Turkey, lying eighty-three miles southeast of Erzerum, and Ahlata. The Russians took prisoner what remained of the Thirty-fourth Turkish division, with a large quantity of war supplies.

Russians troops are now being transported from Batum, where they have been held in readiness for several months. While the troop landing was being made Russians torpedo boats shelled the Black sea coast, sinking fifteen Turkish sailing ships near Trebizond.

The complete conquest [illegible] Kamerum, the German colony in equatorial Africa, is reported in London.

An attempt by British forces in Mesopotamia to cross the Tigris below Kut-el-Amara was repulsed after a battle of three hours, the Constantinople war office has announced. The British in their retreat were pursued to their second line of entrenchments.

Sunday, Feb. 20.—Four German Sea aeroplanes raided Lowestoft and Walmer of the east coast of England. Three people are reported killed. At Walmer the bomb explosion occured during church services and threw a congregation into a panic. German planes also dropped bombs on the eastern front and also Dunkirk on the west. British and Italian planes also bombarded towns, but the Italian plane was shot down in Austria.

The Russians continue to press the fleeing Turks in Asia Minor. The towns of Mush and Ahlab were occupied by the Russ, and at Mush an entire army corps, 40,000 men surrendered to the Slavs. Mush is southwest of Erzerum.

On the West front the Germans took an advanced British post north of Ypres of 350 yards. Paris says they were afterwards driven out, but London does not confirm it.

An attack on the French positions in the Artois was repulsed.

Orpet Held to Grand Jury.

CHICAGO, ILL. — William H. Orpet, Lake Forest boy and University of Wisconsin student, was held to the grand jury for the murder of Marian Lambert, eighteen year old high school girl found dead in Helm's woods a week ago.

Runs as Roosevelt Man.

PHILADELPHIA — John T. Murphy, former state senator and Lieutenant of Wm. Flynn, announced his candidacy as a Roosevelt delegate to the Republican national covention.

Mrs. F. May, a Kalamazoo woman, said to have at one time been a prominent resident of northern Indiana, where she was active in church and fraternal circles, was sentenced to serve sixty days in the county jail for running a "blind pig."

The telephone served a unique purpose at Manistique when L. C. Barnes of Escanaba entered a plea of guilty to a charge of hunting deer with dogs without leaving the confines of Delta county. Justice McKinney fixed his fine of $15, to be forwarded by telegraph.

Shortages of seed corn in the northern states are becoming more serious as the importance of the crop in this area increases. In 1903 the acreage of corn in the northern tier of states—New England, New York, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Montana, Idaho and Washington—was 6,716,152 acres. Last year it was 11,121,000.

Mrs. J. Potvin's son, Victor, aged [illegible], was burned in a fire which destroyed the Potvin home, three miles south of Ossineke.

Word is received of the death in Charlotte, N. C., of Mrs. Thomas Cornelison, wife of Rev. Thomas Cornelison, former pastor of Hastings Presbyterian church.

Brainard Dalton, killed by a passenger train, was the son of R. P. Dalton, former assistant superintendent of the Grand Trunk, with headquarters at Battle Creek.

The Menominee school board by a unanimous vote approved a plan to create a bond issue of $165,000 to be used in making extensive changes in school buildings there.

Dreaming she was being pursued and she and her baby were in danger of death, Mrs. Joseph Kliniwk held the child so closely in her arms that it was killed at Grand Rapids.

Authorities are informed by Secretary Lansing that John N. Dolkie, a native of Calumet, who has been detained by British authorities at Manchester, England, has been released.

The City of Sault Ste. Marie will have a new charter if a proposition calling for charter revision carries at the spring election in April, following action taken by the city council.

WHOSE FAULT IS IT?

A few years ago an election in this town or any other could not have been held without two or more tickets being placed in the field. How the times have changed. Today we find ourselves going to election with only one ticket up for the consideration of the voters.

Where are our Republicans, Democrats and Bull Moosers? Whatever the party may be called, we believe that it creates a better feeling and puts more "pep" into the election to have a little opposition. We have no fault to find with the men you have chosen to run your town affairs for the next year or two, they are tried men and have served you well, but it is our opinion that no community should go to the polls with only one ticket in the field.

It may be the same old thread bare excuse "Well what could we do, there wasn't any one else to vote for." Whose fault is it?

Don't neglect your privileges.

Vocational training is being advocated and is being adopted by many schools throughout the country. People in our town are giving it a good deal of thought. If you are going to make a business man of your boy or a farmer of him, you would not care to put him through some of the studies that he is required to take now. These changes could be made in our schools if proper room was provided. Why not have a building where we could make this change possible if we so desired?

Quite a number have written for us on the school question, but not one as yet has had the nerve to sign his name to his article. Don't be afraid to let your friends know how you stand on this question.

"Preparedness" is the cry of the hour in this country of ours. Now let us apply a little of it to our High School question here in Tecumseh.

We are not the only town who needs a new school. Look around you and see what other places are being forced to do

To Erect a Tent In Winter.

Instead of using a rope bridge, tents should be set in winter with a pole between two trees or supported on forked sticks, and the tapes along the ridge should be tied to this pole, says All Outdoors. If the tent has no tapes run the pole through the tent from end to end, and support it at each extremity with a forked pole. Better still are two forked poles at each end, the bottoms of which are spread far apart. When the tent sags it can be tightened by drawing the bottom close together and thus raising the ridge. Poles spread apart in this way also add much to the stability of the tent in a wind. While this method requires five poles instead of three, it is nevertheless the best way to erect an A tent. It will be difficult to drive stakes in winter, but logs, to which the ropes may be tied, will serve nearly as well.

The King Is Dead, Long Live the King.

A biographer of Louis XIV. of France says his death was announced by the captain of the bodyguard from a window of the state apartment and that, "raising his staff of office above his head, he broke it in the center and, throwing the pieces among the crowd, exclaimed in a loud voice, 'Le roi est mort!' ('The king is dead!') Then seizing another staff he flourished it in the air, shouting, 'Vive le roi!' ('Long live the king!')" The phrase was used in announcing the death of other French kings and for the last time at the death of Louis XVIII. It is often quoted to signify the quickness with which official authority and popular admiration are transferred from a dead ruler to a living one.

The Judge's Hint.

A young Irish barrister began his speech to the court in these terms: "The eagle soaring high above the mists of the earth, winning its daring flight against a midday sun, until the contemplation becomes too dazzling for humanity, and mortal eyes gaze after it in vain!" Here the orator was noticed to falter and lose the thread of his speech. He sat down after some vain attempts to regain it. The judge then said, "The next time, sir, you bring an eagle into court I should recommend you to clip its wings." No doubt the hint was taken.—Westminster Gazette.

BAD ACCIDENT

William Palman met with an unpleasant accident Wednesday afternoon while busily engaged in waiting on a customer. His son had opened up a trap door and Mr. Palman not knowing this stepped backward and fell down. His head and face were badly cut and his side severely strained necessitating his remaining home for a few days.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our neighbors and friends who so kindly assisted us during the illness and death of our father, C. Herring.

John Herring and family.

Changed His Mind.

When Charles B. Towns, author of "Habits That Handicap," first began his practice in curing drug victims he had great difficulty in securing patients in order to prove the efficacy of his cure. His claim to have discovered a cure for drugs was reverberating through the New York underworld; but, though speculation was lively, volunteers were timid. Finally, not knowing what else to do, Towns actually kidnaped a race track tout and put him through the treatment against his will. "When I get out of here and tell the boys what you've been doing to me," threatened the tout, "your life won't be worth 20 cents. They'll croak you in a minute." But five days later the tout told his friends quite another story. He sent, not gun men to kill, but confidence men to be healed, four of them. Towns had squared himself with the underworld as much by his courage as by his skill.

Mosquitoes In Bagdad.

A round the world electrical engineer tells this story:

"We ran up to Bagdad to put over a little deal with the pasha, a former government official who had been prominent in the days of Abdul Hamid. His palace was infested with mosquitoes, and we had to plan to give him relief.

"He lived in the usual Moorish house, with high walls, flat roof with parapets, few windows and open court. The old pasha looked exactly as if he had just stepped out of a Broadway musical comedy with his shining silk robes, turban and red shoes with upturned toes.

"In the palace garden was a stream with a fall of about ten feet. It would develop about one-fourth horsepower. We built a water mill, equipped it with a dynamo, wired the palace and started up some gigantic electric fans. These fans cooled the air and also blew through the rooms a narcotic sufficiently powerful to cause the mosquitoes to fall in a coma. All that remained was for the servants to go around and sweep them up in piles to be destroyed."—G. T. Hadley in World Outlook.

Fish Eating Cattle.

The use of fish as food for cattle is an idea more novel than agreeable. According to Nature, however, it is a common practice in various parts of the world. In Shetland and Iceland the farmers feed dry salt fish to cattle, sheep and even to horses. Cecil Wood, describing experiments of this nature, mentions that certain special cattle, kept for display at the village festivals in Nandyal, in India, are fed with mutton and adds that it is a fairly common practice to make use of bandicoots by pounding them in a mortar and feeding them to cattle. In Mr. Wood's experiments two lots of heifers were fed on dried fish diet and normal diet respectively.

The animals took a little time to get used to the fish, but they ate it readily enough. At the end of six months the fish fed heifers showed an average increase in weight of fifty-four pounds as against seventy pounds for the normally fed animals.

Beauty Merely a Matter of Health.

Not long ago a woman said, "If I could afford to have a course of treatment in a beauty parlor I might do something for my appearance." She needed to be told that the daily bath, plain, nonpoisonous food, eight hours of sleep every night, a daily walk, sensible clothing and really good books would do more for her attractiveness than any beauty parlor could possibly do, writes Dr. Maude Kent in Good Health.

To have health means to live the daily life of work and play in a state of bodily ease, mental vigor and spiritual growth. We must consider health in this threefold aspect, for mere animal health is not desirable, nor a fine mind in a stunted, pain racked body, nor soulfulness that disregards the laws of the body and intellectual attainment. It is the all round person who is the telling, efficient force in the world, and the world greatly needs every human being developed to his greatest capacity.

Chemical Dangers.

A professor of a northern university who was as remarkable for his felicity in experimenting as Rouelle could be for his failures was once repeating an experiment with some combustible substance, when the mixture exploded, and the phial which he held in his hand blew into a hundred pieces. "Gentlemen," said the doctor to his pupils, with the most unaffected gravity, "I have made this experiment often with the very same phial and never knew it to break in my hands before." The simplicity of this rather superfluous assurance produced a general laugh, in which the learned professor, who instantly discovered the cause of it, joined most heartily.—Dr. E. L. H. in Medical Pickwick.

First Wire Suspension Bridge.

The first wire suspension bridge in the United States if not in the world was thrown across the Schuylkill river near the falls of Schuylkill, in Philadelphia, in 1816. Its history is as follows: In 1809 Robert Kennedy and Conrad Carpenter built a chain bridge at the falls of Schuylkill, which broke down in 1811. Josiah White and Erskine Hazard, afterward prominent as pioneers in the anthracite coal trade of Pennsylvania, had erected a rolling mill and a wire factory in the neighborhood, and after the bridge fell they formed a new company, and another chain bridge was constructed in April, 1811, but this new bridge in turn gave way in 1816. White & Hazard then swung a wire suspension bridge across the river from an upper window of their factory to some large trees on the west bank, steps leading from the trees to the ground. This primitive bridge structure was intended for foot passengers only, and but eight persons were allowed to go upon the footway at one time. The bridge is said to have cost $125.—Exchange.

THAT SUNDAY SCHOOL PARTY

A George Washington party was given Tuesday night by the members of the Presbyterian Sunday school in the church parlors. The affair was certainly unique. Many of the members were dressed encostume, to represent books or famous characters. "Priscilla, the Puritan Maiden," "The Moon Woman," "Ben Hur," "Lavendar and Old Lace," "A Box of Orange Ribbon," "Minnehaha," "Betsy Ross" and "Hearts and Mask." Of course George Washington and several of his contemporaries were present

A fine program was given, after which ice cream and cake was served to the company.

The program was opened by a selection by the orchestra, who also responded to an encore.

Vocal solo—Mrs. E. C Heilman

"The making of the first Flag" was very prettily given by members of Mrs Bailey's class. Donald Brown was a typical George Washington and Miss Alice Hall made a dainty Betsy Ross, John Bell represented John Morse and George Becker, John Adams.

The orchestra then played "The Star Spangled banner," the audience singing the same with thrilling effect.

A few stunts by Leon McLachlin's class of boys came next illustrating towns and books which were very good.

Music by the orchestra followed.

The culminating event of the evening came next when "Susie's band," represented by the members of Miss Nannie Kyle's class made their appearance, Mrs. J. J Orr as "Susie" made a most energetic leader. Mrs. Fowler presided at the piano. The band were well equipped with instruments of their own manufacture which were most wonderful, and should be put in the museum. They (?) played a medley of national melodies with all their might, and were called back for an encore. The coarse comb was used at this time, and the music was quite thrilling.

A silver offering was taken.

WIT AND WISDOM

The Wit and Wisdom Club was very pleasantly entertained Monday evening at the home of Mr and Mrs. F. J Temple with a good attendance

After the business meeting F. J. Temple as leader announced the following program:

Piano selection—Mrs Ella Hodges.
Paper, Great Duties—F. S. Turner
Vocal solo—Miss Marion Rosecrans.

F. J. Temple then read a paper written by H. C. Conkling in Washington D. C. on "The Power and Influence of the Press." At his advanced age of 93 years, his paper was certainly fine and in his own hand writing.

Vocal Solo—John Keeney

Poem (selected) appropriate for the subject of the evening—Mrs. Albert Waring.

Reading—Miss Irene Conklin

Roll call: "Famous Teachers" was quite an interesting feature. Refreshments were then served and a social hour enjoyed.

VILLAGE CAUCUS

The following ticket was placed in nomination Tuesday night by the citizens caucus.

President—John R. Nyland
Clerk—Floyd Heesen
Treasure—Lynn Hardenburg
Assessor—Samuel Steele
Trustee for 1 year—Guy E. Nemire
" " 2 —Dr. E. E. Hendershot, Bert Lawrence, Faron S. Anderson.

The caucus was held at the council building at 7 o'clock and one of the biggest crowds which has attended a caucus in this town for years was in attendance.

President—John R. Nyland called the meeting to order and proceeded with the organization

E. C. Brown was chosen chairman, Leon Williamson clerk and Wm. Barrett and James Lowry tellers.

The only contest seemed to be over the nomination of clerk. Floyd G. Heesen and Dale Hodges were the contending parties. Nearly 200 votes were polled at the caucus.

TIPTON DOCTOR ASSAULTED

Dr. O. N. Rice Assailed While in Auto by Frank Bills of Birdsall.

Sunday while Dr. O. N. Rice of Tipton was sitting in his auto in front of the home of Will Derby where Mrs. Rice was making a call, Frank Bills of Birdsall drove up by the auto with a horse and buggy and calling him an automobile hog struck him across the head and face with his whip. Making his way from his auto to the buggy, the Dr. asked what he meant by the assault. For reply Bills again struck him, the second blow felling him to the ground in an unconscious condition.

Mrs. Rice seeing the trouble rushed from the house preventing further attack. A warrant was issued for the arrest of Mr. Bills on the charge of felonious assault. He was arrested by Deputy Pelham of Onsted and Sheriff Henig and was bound over to the Circuit Court.

FIRE

The whistle sounded the alarm for fire Wednesday afternoon and the fire department was soon on its way to the scene of action which proved to be a house owned by Isaac Sloan on South Ottawa and occupied by Mr. Poley and family. Fortunately the fire did not make much headway and was soon extinguished.

HENPECKED HENRY

It was Henpecked Henry at Bradleys Thursday night.

Henpecked Henry was supposed to be a retired banker from Kalamazoo who had taken a trip to Chicago, accompanied by his wife and daughter. The object of their visit was a shopping trip but for Henry it seemed to be for "a quiet little good time," and a chance to allude the ever ruling hand of his ever present wife.

The attraction drew a fair house.

THE GRIPPE EPIDEMIC

The world has been suffering this winter from another of the periodical out breaks of the grippe. It has raged not only in this country, but, the newspapers tell us, in Europe also. Now there are two things that are certainly true of grippe: It is perhaps the most contagious disease there is, and almost any precautions are justifiable to avoid it. Although it is very easy to catch it, there is no possible justification for believing, as some persons do, that because it is prevalent they must have it. For the sake of others, if not for our own sake, we ought to exercise the most anxious care to avoid having and spreading the disease.

Grippe is not only bad to have; it is often worse after we have had it—if an Hibernicism is permissible. It is one of those exasperating disorders that drag an endless train of troubles after it. It seems to be cured, its victims get up, stop taking medicine, and return to their normal occupations. Then months afterward they knowledge that they knowledge that they have never felt really well since the original attack. That is true of cases that did not seem especially severe at the time, as well as of those arlarming cases that are complicated with pneumenia or with serious ear or throat trouble. In fact, the more serious onsets are usually more carefully treated than the lighter ones, and it is often the people who will not take a week to get well who are later obliged to take a year.

We need not think that we must call on our friends who have the grippe. We do not think it unfeeling to avoid them when they have scarlet fever or smallpox, and the same rule is good with grippe. Teachers should avoid their sick pupils and sick parents should avoid their children; kissing ought to be practiced very sparingly in grippe times, for the disease is very frequently spread by means of kisses. The unguarded cough or sneeze is responsible for almost as many cases; that is why street cars, shops, and all crowded public places of danger. Unfortunately, many of us have not yet learned that we break the golden rule every time we sneeze without taking every precaution to keep it a strictly private matter.

What is best for a grippe patient is also best for his friends and the public generally—that he should stay quietly in his own home and, in most cases, in his own bed, until the worst is over.

That standard can be maintained only when there is a proper relation between earnings and expenses. In the correct solution of this problem the public and the railroads have a mutual interest—the prosperity of both is at stake.

DOUBLY PROVEN

Tecumseh Readers Can No Longer Doubt the Evidence.

This Tecumseh citizen testified long ago.

Told of quick relief—of undoubted benefit.

The facts are now confirmed.

Such testimony is complete—the evidence conclusive.

It forms convincing proof of merit.

Mrs. C. Stevenson, Wyandotte, and Potawatamie Sts., Tecumseh, says: "The first symptom of kidney complaint in my case was a sharp shooting pain across the small of my back which made it almost impossible for me to lie down. Someone advised me to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial and I did, procuring my supply at C. A. Wright & Son's Drug store. After I had taken this remedy a short time the pains and aches left and gravel that had been a sourse of constant suffering no longer troubled me, in fact, I felt like a different person."

OVER FIVE YEARS LATER, Mrs Stevenson said: "I am always glad to speak a good word in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills. Whenever I feel the need of a kidney medicine, I take Doan's Kidney Pills and they always give me the best of relief"

"Why Swear, Dear? Use 'Gets-It' for Corns!"

It's the New Plan. Simple. Sure as Fate. Applied in a Few Seconds.

"Why, John, I never knew you to use such language! I've told you several times it's no use to try those bandages, salves, tapes, plasters, and contraptions for corns. Here's some 'Gets-It', it's just wonderful how easy, 'clear and clean' it makes any corn come right off. Takes but a few seconds to apply. It dries at once. Put your sock on right over it,—there's nothing to stick or roll up, form a bundle of your toe, or press on the corn. It's painless, simple as rolling off a log. Now put away those knives, razors and scissors, use 'Gets-It' and you'll have a sweeter disposition and no more corns and calluses."

"You Wouldn't Lose Your Temper, John, If You Used 'Gets-It' for Those Corns!"

"Gets-It" is sold by druggists everywhere, 25c, a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Girls in Korea.

Girls in Korea have no names or what would be considered names in the western world. There are no Marys or Mabels or Ruths. The little ones are given pet names at their birth, and these they bear until they are ten years old, after which they are no longer used. After her tenth birthday the young woman is known as "Mr. Kim's daughter" or "Mr. Kim's girl baby." The latter title is considered the more honorable.

If there are several daughters in the family they are distinguished by such words as "big" (for the eldest), "second," "third," "fourth," etc. After marriage they are known by their husband's name and title, with the word "house" affixed. They may also be distinguished by the name of the place from which they came when marrying, as "Mrs. of the House of Kim, the young lady who came from Kong Jo."

Edison's Incandescent.

According to a friend, Thomas A. Edison is of the opinion that it was anger that first turned him toward inventing the incandescent light, reports the Newark News. How it happened is related by the friend, who says:

"That was, of course, in the early days, and Mr. Edison was then quite the inventor that one reads of—poor, enthusiastic, never sleeping. He lived in a small house, innocent of anything approaching a laboratory. Scientific devices were in every room, and all the money went for experiments. Then one day came the crisis in the guise of the collector for the gas company. He had been in the house often, but Edison, hardly heeding his calls, had waved him away, saying, 'Don't bother me!'

"On this last call the collector's instructions were peremptory. He must turn off the gas. He did so, and that act started Edison on the road to the incandescent light."

Saved the Scene.

John Galsworthy, the English playwright, tells of the wit of an actor named Littledale, who in one play had to leap into a river to escape a wild beast.

"The stage was so arranged that the river was invisible. Littledale's leap usually ended on a soft mattress in the wings, while a rock was dropped into a tub of water to create a splash. Everything went on all right at rehearsal, and the night of actual performance came. When poor Littledale jumped he fell eight feet and landed on an oaken floor with a crash.

"The audience set up a titter. But the heroic Littledale was quite equal to the occasion. 'Heavens,' he shouted, 'the water's frozen!'"

Much the Simpler Plan.

Mr. Newedd—Well, we are beginning housekeeping, and I presume the simplest plan will be for me to give you a regular amount every week for expenses. Just figure up what it will cost.

Mrs. Newedd—I could never do that in the world—so many things to count, you know—but let me see. Oh, I have it! I have thought of a much simpler plan.

"All right, my angel! What is it?"

"You figure up what it will cost you for car fare and lunches and give me the rest."—New York Weekly.

Florence Nightingale.

There is a story that after the return to England of the troops from the Crimea Lord Stratford at a dinner suggested that those present should write on a piece of paper the name of the person whose Crimean reputation would endure longest. When the votes came to be examined it was found that not a single soldier had received a vote. Every paper bore the same two words—Florence Nightingale.

DOUAUMONT IS HELD BY KAISER

Germans Beat Back French Attacks on Fort.

CLAIM 15,000 ARE PRISONERS

Five Assaults to Recapture Outlying Fort of Verdun Fail, Says Berlin—Teutons Claim Champneuville and Cote de Talou—Paris Denies Latter Point Taken.

London, Feb. 28.—The German assault on Verdun slackened somewhat in intensity over most of the line, which now lies directly under the guns of the forts. Narrowing their most desperate attacks to the short front between the Douarmont heights and the plateau north of the village of Vaux, to the east, the Germans here concentrated their efforts in a strong attack, but failed to gain ground. The position of Fort Douaumont—the French official communiques do not call it a fort, but a "position"—is still occupied by small enemy forces. The French are closing in on this position on three sides and announce that the German force is maintaining itself in the position only with difficulty.

Berlin, Feb. 28.—Five determined attempts made by French troops to recapture from the Germans Fort de Douaumont, one of the outlying Verdun fortifications, were repulsed with sanguinary losses, according to the official statement issued by the German headquarters staff. German troops, it was asserted, had stormed the fortified works of Hardamount, as well as the town of Champneuville and the Cote de Talou. The number of unwounded Frenchmen taken prisoners, it was added, totaled 15,000.

The text of the German official statement follows:

"Western theater: On various portions of the front there were intense artillery and mine battles.

"South of Ypres a British attack was repulsed.

French Attacks Repulsed.

"On the heights to the right of the Meuse the French attempted by attacks, repeated five times with fresh troops, to reconquer the armored fortress of Douaumont. They were repulsed with sanguinary losses.

"To the west of the fort our troops have taken Campneuville, the Cote De Talou and have advanced as far as Nave on the southern border of the wood northeast of Bras.

"To the east of the fort we took by storm the extended fortified works of Hardamon.

"In the Woevre plain vigorous fighting is taking place on the German frontier, the battles extending as far as the Cotes Lorraine.

Capture 15,000 French.

"According to information at present in hand, the number of unwounded prisoners amounts to nearly 15,000.

"In Flanders our aeroplane squadrons repeated their attacks on the camp of the enemy troops.

"A bomb attack on Metz by enemy aviators resulted in the injury or death of eight civilians and seven soldiers. Several houses were damaged.

"In the neighborhood of the fortress a French aeroplane was brought down in an aerial battle and by the bombardment of anti-aircraft guns. The occupants of the machine included two captains who were captured."

French Press Germans.

Paris, Feb. 28.—Except around Fort Douaumont the French war office reports some abatement of the German attacks to the north of Verdun. To the east and west of he Douaumont position the French troops are closely pressing the German detachments which were able to gain a footing in those sections, and which, the war office further reports, are maintaining themselves with difficulty.

The French deny that the Germans have occupied the Cote de Talou.

NOT JACK VILAS' AEROPLANE

Mysterious Craft Over Northern Wisconsin Munition Plants Unexplained.

Madison, Feb. 28.—Chairman James Navin of the conservation commission said that the mysterious aeroplane which is reported hovering over northern Wisconsin munition plants could not be that of Jack Vilas. Mr. Vilas, who owns a hydroaeroplane, did some work for the commission "spotting" forest fires last fall, but is spending the winter in the south.

"Mr. Vilas' machine is in storage at Trout lake," said Mr. Nevin.

Military Train Wrecked.

Rome, Feb. 28.—A military train bound for Florence to Rome was wrecked as it was entering the station at Cortona, 100 miles northwest of Rome. Twelve were killed and many were wounded. A number of the wounded are still pinned under an overturned car.

Austrians Possess Durazzo.

Vienna, Feb. 28.—Austro-Hungarian troops took full possession of the Albanian port of Durazzo Sunday morning, according to an official announcement.

Fifteen Years Chief, Quits.

Menominee, Feb. 28.—A. P. English, for fifteen years head of the police department, handed in his formal resignation to the Menominee councilmen, to take effect at once.

On Peace Bell Committee.

Marquette, Feb. 28.—Mayor Fred H. Begole has received notification that he has been named a member of the advisory board of the American peace bell committee.

Jitney Driver Loses License.

Pontiac, Feb. 28.—The first jitney driver to lose his license for refusing to carry fares at the rate prescribed was cut off because he refused to carry City Commissioner McLintock's wife and and she made a report to the officials.

LARGE BRITISH LINER IS SUNK

Maloja, Peninsular and Oriental Ship, Hits Mine.

GREAT LOSS OF LIFE, REPORT

Steamer Going to Rescue Also Hits Mine and Is Lost—Liner Was in Service Between London and Bombay—Carried 119 Passengers and Crew of 300.

London, Feb. 28.—The Majola was struck by a floating mine at 10:30 o'clock in the morning when midway between Dover and Folkestone, and sank within thirty minutes after her afterpart had been blown up in a terrific explosion. There were 119 passengers and a crew of about 300 aboard. Almost all of the passengers are reported saved.

At last accounts the number of dead was reported "more than forty." It is feared that the actual number of victims may be between 150 and 200. No Americans are believed to have been aboard.

The mine which caused the Majola's destruction is believed to have been one of the large nets spread by the British navy for the protection of England's coast against German naval raiders.

London, Feb. 28.—At least twenty-five lives were lost when the palatial steamship Maloja of the Peninsular and Oriental line was blown up by a mine two miles off Dover, according to an exchange telegraph company dispatch received here. The Maloja carried 119 passengers and a crew of about 300. She was bound from London to Bombay. The steamship Empress of Fort William, while attempting to rescue survivors from the Maloja, also struck a mine and sank an hour later. It [illegible] her crew was saved. Full details of the disaster have not been received but fears are entertained here that the loss of life will be considerable.

Within a few minutes after the big P. & O. steamship was known to be in distress rescue craft of all sorts put out to her aid. Dispatches from Dover received here by Lloyd agency say that this rescue fleet includes vessels of all descriptions even to war ships and launches.

Was 12,500 Ton Ship.

The Maloja was one of the newer vessels of the company of 12,500 tons gross and of the same line who owned the steamship Persia, torpedoed off the Island of Crete on Dec. 30, with the loss of 336 persons out of 450 on board.

Since the beginning of the war no passenger lists have been published in England of British vessels leaving or approaching her shores. The Maloja, it is feared, had a large number of passengers aboard, the passenger traffic between Australia and the various ports of call on the voyage being fairly heavy.

The Maloja was 504 feet in length and 34.4 feet in depth. She was built but five years ago and had twin screws and three decks. When the Persia was sunk there were two Americans among her passengers—Robert N. McNeeley, American consul at Aden, and Charles H. Grant of Boston. Mr. Grant was saved but McNeeley was among those who perished.

Following the sinking of the Persia the United States instructed its consular agents to procure all information possible from the few survivers.

Recalls Persia Demands.

Berlin denied that a German submarine made the attack, Vienna making a similar denial. Later the question was raised whether a submersible flying the Turkish flag was responsible.

Twenty-five Bodies Washed Ashore.

London, Feb. 28.—Twenty-five bodies have been washed ashore from the spot where the Steamship Ma'oja was sunk by a mine. It is believed there were no Americans among the victims.

MOVE HOUSES OVER THE ICE

One Goes Through, Then the Industry Changes Methods.

Manitowoc, Feb. 28.—They are moving houses over the ice at Two Rivers. Three had been moved over the ice without mishap, and the contractors were congratulating themselves, for it was a great saving, and it would be impossible to move the houses over the bridge, on account of their width and heighth.

Then something went wrong. One was being moved and the weight was too much. The ice cracked, then gave way and the house sank from sight into the water. The horses and men were quite a distance away at the time and were not drawn into the river.

British Rout Turks in Africa.

London, Feb. 28.—A Turkish column was attacked and routed by South African troops at Agagia, Egypt, according to a British official statement, [illegible] adds that the fleeing Tur[illegible]ing pursued.

SUBSEA CAMPAIGN TO START MARCH 1

Will Not Halt for Discussion With America.

Washington, Feb. 28.—Count von Bernstorff has received from his government an otuline of Germany's position regarding her announced intention of torpedoing all armed enemy ships without warning after Feb. 29.

This outline he will present to Secretary of State Lansing within the next two days. He will arrange for an appointment as soon as he has received certain additional data being sent from Berlin.

As hitherto forecasted the memorandum may open the way for a discussion of the whole question of the distinction between merchant ships armed for defense and those armed for offense, but contrary to expectations of the state department and the embassy, the communication does not offer to suspend the operation of the new submarine campaign pending this discussion. The campaign will begin as scheduled on March 1. Thereafter, unless the entente powers give solemn assurances that the guns on their merchant men will not be used offensively against submarines, all persons whether American or whether other nationality who travel on armed ships belonging to any of the countries now at war with Germany, will do so at their peril.

OPPOSE JOINING LABOR UNION

Cold Reception of Project by New York Teachers Indicated.

New York, Feb. 28.—Present indications point to a cold reception on the part of the teachers of New York City on the proposition to organize them into a labor union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Only one of the fifty odd associations of teachers and principals has [illegible] all—the Teachers' league, which originated the movement in this city—and most of the other associations connected with the public school system are too deeply interested in pending and proposed legislation affecting their welfare to precipitate a discussion of a union among them similar to a labor union.

WILSON WILL SEEK TEST IN CONGRESS

Wants Every Member Put on Record on Liners.

Washington, Feb. 28.—A situation of extreme gravity for the Democratic party has developed as a result of the recent flurry in congress in connection with the President's policy toward the Teutonic powers.

Mr. Wilson is highly indignant, according to his advisers, not so much because of the political effect of the criticism to which he has been subjected by members of his own party but because of the international consequences flowing from evidences of division in the American government.

The President believes that politically he derived personal benefit from the strong stand he took against the men who sought to jam through congress a resolution forbidding American travel on belligerent armed merchantmen. So strong is this belief, which is shared by his political advisers, that it is known the administration is giving serious consideration to the idea of forcing a test in the house on the very question which provoked the eruption.

In other words, the Democratic representatives may be compelled to go on record by their votes for or against the President on the armed merchantman issue.

COMMUNICATIONS

EDITOR HERALD:

I saw in your editorial that you have received several communications on the school house building question but not one of those communications bore the name of the writer. Now if you care to publish one from one who dares to affix his signature, place this in the columns of PUSHERS.

While I am not a heavy tax payer, yet I do appreciate the growth and prosperity of our beloved Tecumseh. We have many splendid systems in operation now: the sewerage, electric light system, water works, all tend to make our corporation desirable for resident purposes; well lighted streets, stores and homes. And will anybody who pays taxes on these up-to-date conveniences be willing to give them up? I say NO.

Well, now, what's the matter with Tecumseh, anyway? I believe there is no place in Lenawee county where real estate is so cheap as right here in Tecumseh and "Why is it?" is the much agitated question.

First of all and of ALL IMPORTANCE is our public School Building. Is it adequate to the demands? Is it SAFE to house your rising generations. The BLASTS that come from the governor down to many public speakers is enough to dishearten the would be foreign pupils from attending our public schools so they are drifting away to towns that have the vim, energy and ente[illegible] in touch with education and a safe place to educate.

Hudson and Blissfield have completed new and up-to-date public school buildings. Those corporations do not fear the taxation for that purpose and now many other towns are reaping their reward by large increase of foreign students and gaining a reputation that boosts the towns and places real estate on a fair basis and a name beyond value for the young and rising generation. Therefore what better legacy can men of means and those who pay taxes leave to their loved ones than a safe structure, a new up-to-date school building here in Tecumseh.

To the committee on structure and building I would advise this: Leave out the word "toward" and place before the voters a STATED price that your school building must cost including heating plant and all other necessary conveniences pertaining thereto, say $60,000 or $65,000 and I believe either amount will be adopted and carried by a large majority. But when you place that word "toward" in who knows where your expense will end.

Yours truly,
H. W. STEVENS.

No More Backache No More Misery

If you suffer with pains in your back and sides or have any signs of kidney or bladder trouble such as rheumatic pains, puffy swellings under the eyes or in the feet and ankles, if you are nervous, tired and run down, or bothered with urinary disorders, Solvax will quickly and surely relieve you of your misery.

Solvax is the most potent remedy yet devised for ridding the system of uric acid and driving out all the poisonous impurities which cause such troubles. It neutralizes, dissolves and makes the kidneys sift out all the uric acid and poisons left by the blood and renders the kidneys and urinary organs clean, vigorous and healthy.

C. A. Wright & Son, the popular druggists, says that no medicine ought to be paid for unless it does the user some good. They therefore sell Solvax under a positive guarantee to quickly relieve the worst cases of kidney trouble or refund the money. Try Solvax today and if you cannot see and feel a decided change for the better just go to C. A. Wright & Son and tell them you want your money back and they will return it without question. This is the strongest argument that can be offered in behalf of any medicine.

GALEN S. ROSS

At the Baptist Church Sunday Evening

The audience room of the Baptist church was well filled at the 5 o'clock service Sunday when Galen S. Ross, ex-blue jacket gave his story of his life and experience as a U. S. Marine.

His story was most interesting as he told of his training, making ready for service and many other facts about our great navy of floating forts.

He told the story of the ditty box a box some 10x12x8 which was all that was allowed them in which to keep their personal belongings, the clothes provided being kept in bags.

On entering the service $60 worth of clothing is given each one. In speaking of "leave to go ashore," he said there were two ways to choose, one led to bad company and the other to the Seaman's Y. M. C. A. building the gift of Helen Gould, now Mrs. Shepherd where every thing was for good instead of evil. These buildings are now to be found at most of the important ports of entry throughout the United States. Another item of interest he mentioned was the fact, that no liquor was allowed on shipboard and the middies of today had a better chance to make good than those of years ago.

Mr. Ross is a young man and since leaving the service has finished his education graduating from a Y. M. C. A. college. He is an old Lenawee Co boy, his home being near Morenci.

He is in the employ of the Cleveland Lyceum bureau as a lecturer.

A pleasing incident of the meeting was when Dr Hartzog seeing Chas. Barry in the audience escorted him to the platform and pointing to the two, introduced them as the old and the new navy, Mr Barry having seen service years ago as a U. S. Marine and had travelled the seven seas.

"The United States Marine Corps is unique in all branches of the American services, in having a distinctive marching song that is as swingy, and catchy, as many of the foreign marching songs. True, West Point has its Benny Havens song and the Seventh Cavalry marches to the inspiring tune of Garry Owen, but the "Hall's of Montezuma" is sung by all who wear the Marine's uniform. One [illegible] the song—a favorite one—runs:

Our flag's unfurled to every breeze,
From dawn to setting sun,
We have fought in every clime and place,
Where we could take a gun:
In the snow of far off Northern lands
And in sunny tropic scenes,
You will find us always on the job,
The United States Marines."

THE BATTLE CRY OF PEACE COMING TO THE BRADLEY

One of the Big Feature Pictures Now Touring the Country.

Ed L. Mark manager of the Bradley [illegible] for showing on the screen at the Bradley opera house next week Monday and Tuesday, March 6 and 7, one of the big feature films, "The Birth of a Nation" class, entitled "The Battle Cry of Peace." This picture was recently presented in Chicago and Tecumseh people may gather something of its character from the following article appearing in the Chicago American.

They saw sixteen-inch shells crash into the heart of Manhatten Island and—

They believe the capture of Greater New York would only be a matter of a few hours.

They saw the American fleet destroyed, by a fleet of twice its size and many times its power, and——

They are convinced our shores are unguarded.

They saw a foreign foe, efficient, deadly—march with brutal and amazing power through familiar streets, and——

They know we are unprepared.

They saw Americans lined against a wall like tenpins, and they saw a swivel gun make its sickening "strike," and—

They became champions of the cause for battleships—more battleships.

They saw the hand of the invading beast at the throats of women and——

They hearkened to "the battle cry of peace."

That was the name of the propuction—"The Battle Cry of Peace"—and a shrill and terrible cry it was. It is still ringing in the ears of those who gripped the arms of their seats last night at the Olympic Theatre and watched with eyes that grew dry in their sockets the ferociously significant handwriting on the wall.

Written by a Naval Man.

"The Battle Cry of Peace" was written by Commodore J. Stuart Blackton, after he had read Hudson Maxim's 'Defenseless America". The book burned its way into his soul and he took a still mightier torch and is burning the same message into the minds and hearts of Americans.

The message is one that has been heard before—"Prepare!" But this time its true meaning came with [illegible] that struck at the throat and at the pit of the stomach and at the heart itself.

"Peace," said Blackton, when he appeared before the curtain between the two "acts," "should be spelled in only one way and that phonetically—'P-o-w-e-r.'"

America is fox-trotting and motoring and dining and joking and playing with pacifism when the play begins. The key note of this happy-go-lucky, ostrich-wise period is sounded in a pretty peace meeting in Harmony Hall.

And the first shell from the invading fleet came bursting through the walls of Harmony Hall and ushed in pandemonium and death with a violence that made the women cover their faces with their hands.

The fleet drops its steel rain of death in the heart of the careless town. It sinks the American fleet as it hurries north from Hampton Roads. It lands swift, silent armies in gray swarms. They fill the streets. They kill men. The women——

Over the spires of the town swarms of aeroplanes buzz like poisonous flies dropping death and destruction into the welter of humanity beneath. There is death painted gloriously on large canvas, there is death cut cameo-like so that it sticks in the brain. And through this grand orgy of death there sounds with the insistence of tom tom—"Prepare! Prepare! Prepare!"

It is propaganda, but the propaganda of Tocsin, the propaganda of the Fiery Cross, the propaganda of the bugle, the propaganda of the scream for Help" tearing through darkness.

The orchestra played with cunning on the feelings of an already overwrought audience. It stirred to frenzy, panic—and finally a desire for definite, immediate, decisive action.

"Prepare."

The foe sweeps on. There is a last stand. The brave little army digs itself in. You feel they may turn the tide. The forlorn hope is destroyed with one blow. The nation's capitol is shown a smoking ruin. America is a slave in the power of a Beast Man, armed with a knotted club.

That is one way. The other—you see the spirit of '76 stalk from the familiar picture. You see Washington and Lincoln and Grant. You see a million soldiers spring from the smoking land. And then the whole tremendous, fearful spectacle resolves itself into a great cry——

"Prepare."

And you leave the theatre ready to give all of your little mite toward the building of battleships to fend off such a foe."

"LES MISERABLES"

"Les Miserables," Victor Hugo's great humanity drama, is booked for one performance at the Bradley Opera House, next Friday, March 3rd. "Les Miserables" is the greatest film production ever brought into Tecumseh and consists of eleven magnificent parts (or reels). There is only one larger [illegible] in [illegible] and that is "The Birth of a Nation" which is in 12 parts, one reel more than "Les Miserables."

"Les Miserables" was staged in France in a most lavish manner, costing over $50,000 to produce. The cast partly of which were loaned by Sarah Bernhardt for this one production is of the finest kind of photography and and handsomely tinted.

Owing to the great length of "Les Miserables" but one performance will be given in Tecumseh, starting at 8:15. Doors will be open at 7:30. It is safe to say that if you miss "Les Miserables" that you will never have another chance of seeing as great and as interesting a production on in your home town. "Les Miserables" played to capacity houses in Detroit for weeks last season. In fact when it was presented at the Grand Circus theatre the crowds were so great that a smaller theatre near by was rented to take care of the overflow and as soon as one of the reels was shwn in the big theatre it was sent over to the smaller house making it possible to show the same production to two different audiences in two theatres on the same evening. Of course we do not expect to have to do anything like that here but merely cite the incident to show how this big production draws in cities near here.

If you are awakened by the hoarse brassy cough that means croup, give Foley's Honey and Tar Compound at once. It will ease the little sufferers quickly, cut the thick choking phlegm, and soon they will have easy breathing and peaceful quiet sleep.

Coffin Pasties.

Mince pies now are generally round, but there was a time when they were of a long, coffin shape and were, in fact, often referred to as "coffin pasties." But this somewhat grewsome name and shape do not appear to have detracted from their popularity. Scogin, for instance, in the edition of his "Jests" published in 1626, is reported to have said on his deathbed, "Masters, I tell you all that stand about mee, if I might live to eate a Christmasse pye I care not if I dye by and by after; for Christmasse pyes be good meat."—London Chronicle.

"Am I as dear to you as I was during our courtship, darling?" queried the bride of six short months.

"Much dearer," briefly answered the worried freight payer of the combine as he proceeded to audit the latest crop of monthly bills.—Indianapolis Star.

WHY PRINCE ALBERT WINS

Patented Process [illegible] Responsible for Its International Popularity.

Smokers so much appreciate the flavor and coolness and aroma of Prince Albert pipe and cigarette tobacco that they often marvel that this one brand could be so different from all others.

The answer to this question is to be found on the reverse of every Prince Albert package, where you will read: "Process Patented July 30, 1907." That tells the whole story. Prince Albert is made by a patented process that cuts out the bite and parch, which makes the tobacco so mighty agreeable and satisfying to men of every taste of every civilized nation on the globe.

Smokers should realize that this patented process cost three years' continuous work and study and a fortune in money to perfect. But the result has proven to be worth all that was expended upon it, because it has set free men who believe they never could enjoy a pipe or a makin's cigarette.

Prince Albert makes it possible for every man to smoke a pipe or to roll his own cigarettes. And, no matter how tender the tongue, Prince Albert cannot bite or parch. That is cut out by the patented process, leaving for the smoker only the joys of the fragrant tobacco.

It is a fact that since Prince Albert "arrived" just about 6 years ago, it has made three men smoke pipes where one smoked a pipe before!

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

STEEL
SPREADER

Is without question the best and strongest constructed spreader sold today. It is light in weight, is built more like a steel bridge; has not a weak point. This we know as in over three car loads we have not had $2.00 in breakage.

It will spread 10 ft. wide and do perfect work even in corn stalks and sheep manure, you can spread 5 ft. wide if you wish or as wide as 12 ft.

In order for you to fully realize what this machine will do you will have to talk with a user.

It is a fact that today there is not a spreader sold in the same class with it.

The price and terms are reasonable.

All spreaders are or will be around 10% higher this spring. We bought a big stock last fall, to get the benefit of present prices you must buy at once.

JAMAICA GINGER IS BOOZE SUBSTITUTE

Price Soars from 15 to 50 Cents Per Ounce.

Pontiac, Feb. 28.—Local druggists say there is an epidemic of essence of jamaica ginger drinking in the city and they are barely able to keep pace with the demand.

While it formerly sold for 15 cents an ounce it now brings 50, and men who are unable to secure liquor buy it greedily at this price. More arrests were made last Sunday for drunkenness than any Sunday since the city went dry.

Most of the liquor which got men into trouble is said by the officers to have been brought out from Detroit.

BACKACHE IS DISCOURAGING

But Not so Bad If You Know How to Reach the Cause.

Nothing more discouraging than a constant backache. Lame when you awaken, pains pierce you when you bend or lift. It's hard to work or to rest. Backache often indicates bad kidneys. Tecumseh people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Read this case.

[illegible] Witherell, W. Potawatomie St., Tecumseh, says: "I had acute pains across the small of my back and in my hips. Often, after stooping, a sharp twinge darted through my loins obliging me to lie down. I was laid up in bed for several days and I believe that the trouble was caused by excessive stooping. When I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills, I got a supply at Wright & Son's Drug Store and a few boxes restored me to good health. Since then, whenever I have felt in need of a kidney medicine, I have taken Doan's Kidney Pills and the results have been very pleasing." AGAIN PRAISES DOAN'S AFTER A LAPSE OF MORE THAN FIVE YEARS. Mr. Witherell said: I have had no reason to change my high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills, which I expressed some years ago."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills the same that Mr. Witherell had. Foster-Milburn Co, Props. Buffalo, N. Y. adv

A LITERARY RIDDLE.

Why Does a Woman Write Differently From a Man?

Why is it that you can always tell a story written by a man from one written by a woman? I saw the thing put to a rather severe test within the last month, with results that were startling.

Ten men and women, all of whom do considerable novel reading, had had dinner together. One of the men asked the question I put at the top of these paragraphs. He was in his own home and went to some trouble to prove that the sex of authors is an easy thing to determine.

Giving to each of the nine others a pencil and piece of paper, the host proceeded to read extracts from twenty different books and magazines, selecting parts in which proper names would not identify the story. As he read each person wrote down his guess as to whether the author was a man or a woman.

Of the 180 answers made by the nine persons to the twenty tests all but eight were correct. As he kept the books from which he read concealed it was impossible to get aid with the eye.

But, although everybody guessed right almost every time, no one could still give a good definition of the conundrum, Why does a woman write differently from a man?—Philadelphia Ledger.

INFLAMMABLE BOMBS.

Substances Used In the Making of These Deadly Explosives.

The incendiary bomb used by the Zeppelin aircraft, as a rule, is conical, of ten inch diameter at the base, wrapped round with tarred rope and having a metal handle at the apex. The base is a flat cup, into which a pierced metal funnel is fitted, having the ignition device and handle fitted at the top.

The funnel is generally filled with thermit. The latter, upon ignition, generates intense heat and by the time of the concussion has taken the form of molten metal, having the extraordinary high temperature of 5,000 degrees F. The molten metal is spread by the concussion.

Outside the funnel is a padding of a highly inflammable or resinous material, bound on with an inflammable form of rope. The resinous material creates a pungent smoke.

There is generally some melted white phosphorus in the bottom of the cap, which develops nauseous fumes. In some cases celluloid clippings are added, and occasionally a small quantity of gasoline.—Philadelphia Press.

Buildings.

Buildings are contrivances which surround trouble, despair, pleasure, entertainment, business, indolence and plumbing.

Buildings are built with brick, mortar, cement, wood, steel and mortgages. It also takes sand to build buildings, but they should not be built on sand.

Some buildings are public and some are private. Public buildings are usually very imposing, and usually the public has been imposed upon to build them. Private buildings are frequently private in name only, especially if occupied by several inquisitive women. Such buildings are made up of a large number of stories and most of them are without foundation.

Rats, mice, fires, earthquakes and rent collectors are buildings' worst enemies.—Judge.

Venison.

The prime joint of venison is undoubtedly the haunch, though a shoulder or neck of venison properly cooked is a very toothsome dish. The loin is best cut up into chops and cutlets, the breast being only suitable for soups, ragouts and pies.

GEORGE ENGLE SETS VALUE ON TANLAC

Would not take $100 and be back where he was before using medicine

Declaring that Tanlac, the premier preparation, had completely relieved him of stomach trouble and also improved his health, George Engle, of Union City, recently said that he would not take $100 for the medicine, and be back where he was before using it. This is the statement he made.

"I think that Tanlac is the finest medicine in the world. I used it for stomach trouble and found complete relief in a short time. It is the first medicine I have ever found that would help me. My stomach got all out of order following an attack of grippe, and I suffered from sour stomach, indigestion and other disorders.

"I began to use Tanlac and soon was in good condition again. I feel better in evero way and am not troubled with my stomach any more at all. I eat well and sleep fine. I can't praise Tanlac enough."

Tanlac is proving of exceptional value in all cases of stomach and liver trouble as well as being a powerful tonic for general run-down systems.

Tanlac may be obtained here at the store of B. J. Pulver. adv

Long Days on Uranus.

Uranus can be claimed for a British planet. It was discovered at Bath in 1781 by the elder Sir William Herschel, the musician who became private astronomer to George III. Uranus is so distant from us and has an atmosphere so dense that little is known about the rotation, position of the axis or number of the satellites. But the inhabitants, if they exist, may console themselves for living in a temperature approaching zero with the fact that they can seldom be dunned for income tax, because their year contains more than 30,000 days.—London Mail.

The Bull of Perillus.

Perillus of Athens is said to have invented for Phalaris, tyrant of Agrigentum, 570 B. C., a brazen bull which opened on the side to admit victims who were to be roasted by the fire which was built underneath. The dying groans of the sufferers resembled closely the roaring of a mad bull. Phalaris greatly admired the invention and by way of test roasted the inventor first. Later the populace rose in rebellion and burned Phalaris.

His Elaborate Efforts.

"One should beware of beginning his speech in too loud a voice," said Grout. "If you start off with a yell, when the time comes to roar denunciation or shout hosannas you will have no wind left with which to be emphatic. I once knew a man whose wife exhibited more than 300 love letters in court, which he had written her during a brief courtship of eleven weeks. He often wrote her six or more in one day, and his shortest epistle contained four pages. And yet before they had been married two months he had slapped her jaws so far around that when she wanted to talk into the telephone she had to back up to it. His excuse was that he had exhausted his affection in the course of the correspondence."—Kansas City Star.

Robbery!

He was old, gray, unkempt, unshaven and tottering. His toes protruded from his shoes. He crawled up to an old well curb by an ancient homestead and clung there exhausted. Suddenly a man in furs dashed angrily forward.

"Hey, gimme them rings!" he shouted.

The old man removed three diamond rings from his fingers and gave them to the brute.

"All right. Now go on!" he ordered to a man turning a handle. "How'd you s'pose them rings would look on the screen, you poor idiot? You're supposed to be broke!"

A Useless Advertisement.

An old man, well past sixty, entered the publication offices of the Book and Life and asked to be directed to the lost and found counter. At the proper department, he requested the insertion of the following "liner ad.:"

LOST—About forty years ago—an opportunity. It is probably worthless now, but I will reward the honest finder who brings it to me, as I am curious to know what it might have done for me had I not been careless with it.

The clerk read the advertisement and then looked pityingly at the old man.

"We'll insert your ad.," he said, "but it is my duty to inform you that there is hardly any use in putting it in. We have no records of any lost opportunities ever having been found."

The old man thought for a few minutes, then he said:

"Well, insert it anyhow. People will read it and start to thinking."

Then he went away.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Cross Eyed Mentally.

Do you ever start to say something and find yourself using the word you hadn't the faintest idea of using? Just a little cross eyed mentally, aren't you? Did you ever mean to jam your foot on the accelerator and slam it down on the brake instead? Have you ever put salt twice on the same plateful of food when one of the applications should have been pepper? Did you ever laugh at the wrong time at the theater, or sneeze unnecessarily at a funeral, or fall to sleep quietly in church, or solicitously inquire where So-and-so is nowadays when the poor chap has been dead six months? Sure you have. Everybody does it. We're all just a bit mentally cross eyed sometimes, and we don't look where it seems that we are looking. What we really need to look out for is not doing queer things too often. If we do there's no telling what may happen to us. We may get into the papers!—Springfield Union.

Men Who Wear Feathers.

Among the strange tribes of men about whom little is known are the Chamacocos of the region about the upper Paraguay river.

Although the Chamacocos wear but little clothing, they excel in the art of making personal adornments from the feathers of birds. Their country abounds with birds of the most beautiful plumage, including parrots, toucans and trogons, whose feathers are dazzling in color; rheas with gray plumes, musk ducks of a glossy black color, egrets with feathers of pure white and spoonbills of a delicate pink.

All this wealth of color and graceful plumage is combined by the Chamacocos in a most artistic manner. Some of these savages walk their forest glades in colors more brilliant, if less ample, than any woman's dressmaker could produce.—Washington Star.

Ralston Smiles

Intuitively, we are prone, to let Old Well-Enough alone, when garments that we've tried before count up a fairly decent store. For instance, have you not a pair, of shoes by which you stoutly swear—companions—chums—throughout each day, that take you safely on your way?

You draw 'em on and mutter;—"Gee, they're just the proper 'last' for me. No pinch, no hurt, no wee regret,—long months of wear—they're bully yet!" And underneath your bed at night, you tuck them with a warm delight.

The man who buys a Ralston Shoe, is paying for a COMRADE, too—a "pal" to comfort and condole, a chum, high on the Honor Roll. You'll see him line 'em up and grin, and say:—"Old Ralston friends—YOU win. Should old acquaintance be forgot? Well —rather not—well—rather NOT!"

MILLION DOLLAR THEFT IS TRIED

New York Gang is Reported to Have Taken Large Sum.

TAKE MONEY IN MAIL POUCHES

Cash Was on Way to Bank—One Pouch Contained Over $200,000, Report—Deed Committed Last Saturday—Gang Contemplated on Getting Huge Sum.

NEW YORK, N. Y. — It became known here that a daring attempt to steal a sum estimated at $1,000,000, consigned to New York banks, had been made on Saturday morning by burglars who broke into a United States mail van while it was on a ferry in transit from the Jersey Central railroad. It was admitted by postal inspectors that several other packages not consigned to banks had been taken.

One Pouch Contained $200,000.

It was said that four money pouches were stolen and, according to reports from other sources, one of them contained $200,000. One of the pouches came from Washington and is believed to have contained a large amount of currency from the treasury department.

The postoffice inspectors who have been detailed to the case admitted that the thieves had secured several packages other than those ocnsigned to the banks, but they professed ignorance as to the extent of the booty. They also refused to make any statement as to how the robbery was perpetrated.

In many respects the theft has proved one of the most mysterious the postal authorities have had to contend with in many years.

Essential Facts.

The essential details as outlined by the authorities are as follows:

Baltimore & Ohio train No. 520 left Washington Friday night at 8 o'clock arriving at Jersey City at 5:26 o'clock Saturday morning. On board were six registered mail pouches in charge of J. H. McCall of Baltimore. Three pouches contained Baltimore mail; three contained Washington mail.

Locked in Truck.

At Jersey City the registered mail was placed and locked in a screened truck of the Postal Transfer Service, Inc., after being checked off, to be taken to Manhattan. The truck in charge of McCall and a chauffeur by the name of O'Hara left Jersey City on the ferryboat Wilkesbarre at 3:10 a. m., arriving at the new postoffice, Thirty-first street and Eighth avenue, at 3:45 a. m.

In checking out the six registered pouches at the new postoffice the loss of four of the pouches was discovered while the truck was en route from Jersey City to this place of final checking.

Only One Had Key.

McCall was presumably the only man who held a key to the mail wagon lock. The screens and lock were both found intact. The two most important pouches, one from the Riggs bank in Washington and the other from the treasury department, were not taken. Unofficial sources estimate that these two pouches contained mail valued at $1,000,000.

FRENCH THROW BACK GERMANS

Teutonic Assault on Verdun Meets Sharp Check.

GERMANS GAIN IN CHAMPAGNE

Nearly Mile of French Trenches and 1,000 Prisoners Taken—Paris Announces Repulse of Attack at Eix, on Woevre Plain, and Around Vaux—Berlin Admits Advance Halted.

LONDON, ENG.—Fighting hand-to-hand in the trenches before the forts of Verdun, while a furious bombardment by the German siege guns and the French batteries sought to check the movement of reinforcements from either side, the French in the afternoon checked the German drive upon the great fortress.

This development of what is now admitted to be the bloodiest battle of the entire war is revealed in the midnight communique from Paris, supplemented by the afternoon official statement and certain admissions made in the headquarters report from Berlin.

The French, spurred to a frenzy by the terrible losses sustained in both men and position in the eight days' battle, literally hurled the advancing Germans from trenches they captured, battling with bayonets, hand grenades and in some cases even with clubbed guns.

Checked at Vaux.

The check to the German advance appears to have been most decisive in the region around Vaux, where the Teuton advance near Maranville gravely imperiled six more of the Verdun forts.

In this section the Germans battled so fiercely to make good their footing that the railroad station at Eix changed hands seven times and the streets of the village were piled with dead when the French finally made good their position. A fortified hill in the same sector of the front was stormed again and again by the Germans, who were thrown back by the French bayonets and cut to pieces by rifle and machine gun fire until bodies lay in windrows on the slope of the hill.

While official and unofficial advices from Paris indicate that the French have at last found their feet and recovered from the first reeling smash of the furious German onslaughts for Verdun, the official announcement from Berlin of the extension of the great offensive to the Champagne front, with the capture of nearly a mile of French positions there, gives new importance to the campaign.

Admits Loss of Champagne.

Paris admits the losses of a front in Champagne, where the Germans have captured the Navarin farm, with more than 1,000 prisoners and considerable booty. In some quarters this extension of the Teuton action is interpreted to mean that the battle will soon assume the same violence at other portions of the front that has made the Woevre plain and the heights around Verdun the bloodiest battlefield in history.

ARMAMENT MUST BE PROVED, BERLIN

Von Bernstorff Presents Memorandum to Lansing.

WASHINGTON — German submarine commanders have been instructed not to sink without warning any enemy merchant ships unless the presence of armament on board such vessels "is proved."

Such information it is authoritatively stated was contained in the memorandum laid before Secretary Lansing by Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, in response to inquiries of the American government concerning the new submarine campaign of the central powers which begins at midnight.

Austria is prepared to stand by the same assurances. Secretary Lansing was so informed by Baron Zwiedinek, the Austrian charge d'affaires.

According to authoritive sources Count von Bernstorff was directed in part to say: "No enemy merchantman is to be torpedoed without warning unless the presence of armament on board of such vessel is proved."

A GENERAL SURVEY OF THE WAR.

Thursday, Feb. 24.—Indications are that the French have checked the crown prince's onslaught around Verdun.

The French statement says the artillery duel continues north of Verdun, but there were no infantry attacks. Between the Meuse and Ornes several furious German attacks occurred but the front was unbroken.

Paris admits a retreat of its army on the ten-mile front between Samogneux and Ornes to positions in the rear of those towns, the capture of which is formally announced by Berlin. The German statement also claims the capture of Haumont, Brabant, Beaumont and Herbebois.

Berlin claims a gain of five miles on a ten-mile front. Paris says the German losses have been enormous, the charges being in close formation, at places ten deep.

The Germans at the most advanced point are within six miles of Verdun.

Friday, Feb. 25.—The German offensive against the French lines about Verdun continues with "undiminished ferocity." The battle concentrated about a strongly fortified position held by the French on Pepper Hill (LaCote Du Poivre) which lies near the right bank of the Meuse four and a half miles north of Verdun. The Germans attacked the hill several times with unprecedented sacrifice of human life, but Paris declares the attacks were unsuccessful. In La Vauche woods the Germans also hurled great forces at the French trenches without avail.

The gains reported by Berlin up to this time the attacks seem checked included six additional towns, and 7,000 more prisoners making the total prisoners 10,000.

The French have begun a counter offensive in the Champaigne and the Argonne.

Saturday, Feb. 26.—The German attack on the great French fortress of Verdun has been widened in scope, with the capture of Douaumont, one of [illegible] several other strong positions, according to an official report from Berlin.

Paris makes no mention of Douaumont, other than to say that sanguinary fighting is in progress there; thus failing to concede the fall of the fort.

Berlin says Douaumont fort was taken in a great infantry attack.

German infantry has pushed down the Meuse, gained the hills southwest of Louvemont, not more than four miles from the fortress, and carried fortified positions to the east.

While this was going on the Germans in the Woevre were assailing the French lines on the eastern side of the salient.

Sunday, Feb. 27.—That the Germans made more gains in the battle at Verdun was reported officially by Berlin and admitted by Paris.

The Berlin statement says five determined attempts made by French troops to recapture Fort Douaumont, one of the outlying Verdun fortifications, were repulsed with sanguinary losses. German troops, it was asserted, had stormed the fortified works of Hardaumont, as well as the town of Chamneuville and the Cote de Talou.

The number of unwounded Frenchmen taken prisoners, it was added, totaled 15,000.

Paris denies that the Germans occupied Cote de Talou.

It also reports that "the cruiser Caroline and the destroyers Eden and Nith were sunk. The Caroline sank in six minutes, thirty-one members of the crew being killed, fifty-eight wounded and forty-seven drowned."

LONDON — A Berlin dispatch on Feb. 19 said that the three warships mentioned had been sunk during the Zeppelin raid. This was denied by the British government, which stated that neither the Caroline nor any other British warship was struck by a bomb.

COMMUNICATIONS

EDITOR HERALD:
Dear Sir:

In view of the agitation there is against the proposed addition to our taxes by the building of a new school house, I wish to say that whatever the cost may be, we owe it to the children. Their health and their future well being to make a sacrifice in order to fit them physically and mentally for their future careers.

At the same time, the widespread dissatisfaction with the high taxes, we pay in Tecumseh, is entirely justified. Personally, I have paid taxes in many lands, and states, but never so high, for so small a return as here.

What have we to show, for what we pay? We have no paved streets, no public buildings that will pass muster, no town hall, no parks that are kept in order, a school house that is not recognized by the Universities.

"Pretty town!", the politicians tell us, when they come for the votes of the half of us, who are citizens

Heaven grew the foliage that makes the town pretty, man has done little

At the Chautauqua in 1914, Mr. Davis told us, that we received but forty cents value on every dollar of taxes spent. If that is the case, it is high time the taxpayers got together and devised some means to remedy this state of affairs.

If a person is sick, a physician is called in, or a surgeon to cut out the [illegible] growth. We are sick municipally, and we need an expert to tell us how to get well

Other towns have adopted commission government, or have hired city managers why can we not do the same?

We are proposing to spend $60,000.00 to $75,000.00 on a new school house, which we sorely need, it would be economy to hire a city manager, who would see that we get a day's work for every day's wages paid, and that we received a dollar's value, for every dollar spent in material, and who would purchase in the cheapest market, without fear or favor.

There is a chance to waste ten times what an expert man will cost, in the building of a school house, if we only receive forty cents value on every dollar spent.

Big business firms get sick too, and call in experts to tell them where the leak is, and so should we.

Scene from Klaw & Erlanger's big scenic production "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" at the Bradley Opera House, next Wednesday, March 8

"THE TRAIL OF THE LONESOME PINE"

Wednesday Evening March 8.

Manager Marks of the Bradley Opera House informs us that on next Wednesday, March 8, he is to have for the first time in Tecumseh, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" by John Fox, Jr., and made into a play by Eugene Walters The piece is presented by Gaskell and MacVitty by special arrangement of Klaw and Erlanger.

To the casual observer of things theatrical, surely this is a combination very hard to beat John Fox, Jr., author, who also gave us "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," both books having had a most phenomenal sale ranging into the millions.

Eugene Walters, who made a new era in thing theatrical with his two first pieces "Paid in Full" and "The Wolf" two of the greatest dramatic successes ever produced.

Klaw and Erlanger, who are to the Theatrical business of the world what "John D." is to the Standard Oil, and lastly Gaskell and MacVitty, to whom we are indebted for our very best book dramatizations seen here in the last five years.

We are assured "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" is the crowning effort of theirs and the scenic embellishments the same as seen during the long run at the New Amsterdam Theatre, New York City.

The electrical effects for "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" are said to be out of the ordinary for a road company to carry. They carry their complete electrical effects including colored lights and dimmers.

Seats for "Trail of the Lonesome Pine" will be on sale at Hay's Bakery (Phone 99) commencing Tuesday morning The prices are within reach of all, 50, 75 and $1.00 on the first floor. Gallery 25c, first two rows reserved at 50c.

A BIG SUCCESS

Tecumseh High School Juniors at the Opera House Wednesday Evening.

The Juniors of Tecumseh high school gave a double attraction at the Opera house Wednesday evening, and was rewarded for their efforts with a crowded house.

Tecumseh has never lacked in dramatic ability, and this fact was emphasized by the wonderful display of talent by the Juniors. Very seldom has any troupe given to the public more than one attraction for an evening, but our Juniors were more considerate and gave two "A Proposal under Difficulties", came first, the cast of characters being taken by Lester Waring as Bob Yardsley, suitor to Miss Andrews; Jack Barlow, Leon Waldron; Dorothy Andrews, Zorah Dickinson; Jennie, the maid, Fern Murphy. Scene, a fashionable drawing room in New York.

The little play showed how a fellow can get in wrong by reciting his love making speech before the maid, This band of four actors were exceptionally good in their several parts. Fern Murphy, as lady's maid was great and handled her part like a professional.

"The Merchant of Venice Up-to-date" in five acts was next presented. It surely was brought down to date, also to the Tecumseh high school. The immortal Shakespeare would have been proud of the band of Juniors who protrayed his wonderful production, the "Merhant of Venice."

"The Merchant of Venice Up-to-date" brought in some amusing situations, the piece being somewhat re-arranged by Miss Pavey, who supervised it.

Portia, a rich heiress, was taken by Doris Kloffenstein, Nerissa, her friend, by Musa Rice. Bassanio, the suitor of Portia, was taken by Harold Lowery, who certainly did full justice to the part Shylock, a wealthy gambler, was protrayed in a most realistic manner by Ralph Cuthbert. Ralph had the house with him from the time he made his first appearance and was after his pound of flesh as only Shylock would have proceeded to get it Jessica, ward of Shylock, was taken by Lillian Kennedy, Launcelot Gobbo, Shylock's servant by Seymour Babcock, and here again in his various stunts, was shown a bit of real acting.

The rest of the cast was, Fred Rentschler, Duke of Tecumseh; Antonio Capt. football team; Tubal, Capt. of Belmont team; Prof. Ex-Ray, Leon Waldron; Policeman, Lester Waring; Miss Threedier, Clara Bancrosf; Polly, a maid, Zelah Dickinson; Mrs. Gobbo Lucile Conlin; Football players, Junior boys.

Musical numbers were interspersed throughout the evening by the high school quartett, Messrs. Lowery, Comfort, Waring, and VanValkenburg, and solos by Lester Waring, Harold Lowery and Lillian Kennedy, Miss Doris Kloffenstein at the piano. Burton Garlinghouse presided at the piano for the overture and during the intermissions, and proved himself an artist of merit The class cleared $94 00.

CANTATA

Vested Choir of Christ Church Adrian at St. Peter's Church Thursday Evening.

The members of the vested choir of Christ's church Adrian were entertained by the ladies of St. Peter's church on their arrival Thursday afternoon

Promptly at 7:30 the Rector began the services with evening prayer after which the choir presented the Canta ta "Bethlehem."

There are times when words fail and technical terms are of no avail in expressing one's opinion of an event and surely this is one. The whole evening was one of exquisite enjoyment as the beautiful story of Bethlehem was given.

One could almost see the little village and the star that rested over the place where the young child was laid, Each number was given with the spirit and understanding of the theme and the audience was carried with the singer as he or she took up the story

The church and parish house were filled to their capacity with a most appreciative crowd of people who have to thank St. Peter's church for this fine musical treat.

It will spread 10 ft. wide and do perfect work even in corn stalks and sheep manure, you can spread 5 ft. wide if you wish or as wide as 12 ft.

In order for you to fully realize what this machine will do you will have to talk with a user.

It is a fact that today there is not a spreader sold in the same class with it.

The price and terms are reasonable.

ADRIAN OPERA HOUSE CROWDED

Patriotic Spirit Given Impetus by "Battle Cry of Peace."

(Taken from the "Adrian Telegram")

One of the most striking patriotic demonstrations witnessed in Adrian in recent years took place last night at the Croswell when the spectacular moving picture play "The Battle Cry of Peace" was shown before a packed house which included various local military or patriotic organizations.

This was one of the strongest arguments for preparedness that could be made. The various episodes and the connected narrative have been prepared by Commodore J. Stuart Blackton, from the book of Hudson Maxim, "Defenseless America."

All the incidents, not to say terrible events, are perfectly possible, whatever may be their probability. Mr Blackton has laid in colors with a lavish hand and made them impressive. It begins with a photo-picture of a lecture by Hiran Maxim on the lack of military and naval protection in this country and in this scene the story also begins. A typical young American, John Harrison, is one of the listeners and is so impressed by the truth of the speakers statement that he tells his friends and family what he has heard. They scoff at his ideas, especially the father of his sweetheart, a railway magnate.

There are foreign spies at work who advocate peace at any price, and meetings are held in which the white dove is conspicuous. All the time the enemies of the nation are plotting and finally, with scarcely a moment's warning a foreign fleet appears off New York, and without further preliminaries begins to bombard the city. The troops are landed. The railroad magnate is shot as a sniper and the young man is also wounded. The invading hosts destroy private property, outrage women and pillage and slaughter relentlessly.

The young American in endeavoring to save his sweetheart from the assaults of a brutal officer, is bayoneted. The mother having shot her younger sister and the girl herself goes raving mad. There are harrowing sights in some of the scenes, for the acting is realistic. There is nothing, however, that has not been exactly duplicated many times in the present war, and not a single incident so terrible but that it has been surpassed in terror by the actual events of the present war

In the supposed naval encounter off Sandy Hook, the immense battleships are seen to list and sink and smaller crafts are blown to the atoms by a torpedo. The frightful effect of bombs dropped from aeroplanes, scattering death and destruction in the streets is also strikingly portrayed.

Another scene shows a head-on collision between two railroad trains and the effect of exploding shells on buildings and the firing of the huge disappearing guns in the coast defenses, are wonderfully interesting. Very little in the way of text is shown on the screen, so continuous is the thread of the narrative maintained by the films

Charles Richman is the hero and he is excellent in the exciting situations as well as in portraying the various and many emotions which he is called upon to express. Others were Louise Beaudet, Norma Talmadge, Harold Hurbert, Lucille Hammill, and in the impersonation of historical and allegorical characters were Lionel Braham, Thais Lawton, E. M. Holland, Joseph Kilgour, W. J. Ferguson and Wm. Humphrey. Captain Jack Crawford, the poet scout, appeared in his own person (in the picture of course) and made a stirring address on patriotism and devotion to country and also read some of his own poems. His appearance and efforts brought forth a round of applause. "The Battle Cry of Peace" will be presented at the Bradley Opera House, Tecumseh; next Monday and Tuesday, March 6 and 7, seats at Hay's Saturday morning.

Gwendolin's Failing

How a New Year Resolution Was Kept

By F. A. MITCHEL

Miss Gwendolin Caruthers was a bankrupt in flirtation. During her summer outing she had become involved with three suitors; two more had been added in the autumn, and the Christmas holidays had increased the total by one more. Of those two were serious, three were semi-serious, and one was to be counted a credit instead of a debit, for the gentleman had not been brought to a proposal.

Now, considering the fact that Miss Caruthers had but one heart for the five or six suitors, her assets and liabilities may be said to be as one to half a dozen. Notwithstanding this distressing condition of her heart affairs, at a party congregated to see the old year out and the new year in she yielded to the temptation to take position in a window seat behind a curtain with still another young man and then and there deliberately drew him into a proposal.

Miss Caruthers' disposition to go heart hunting had been noticed by both her father and mother and had given them great concern.

"She's not only declining desirable parties," said her mother, "but driving away other desirable young men who do not dare trust her."

"Too bad!" said her father. "The day may come when she has passed the mating age and will be forced into enduring spinsterhood."

It was a great relief, therefore, when Gwendolin astonished her father and mother by coming down to breakfast with them at 9 o'clock New Year's morning and announcing to them that she had made a New Year's resolution not to incur any more heart liabilities during the year she was entering upon. In other words, she would not act toward any young man in an encouraging manner.

"Good for you, Gwen!" exclaimed her father, taking her in his arms. "If you assure me one year from today that you have kept your resolution I'll give you an automobile."

"Done!" cried Gwen, kissing him first on one cheek and then on the other.

[illegible] father, holding her off and looking her in the eye.

"But what?"

"There must of course be an exception."

"I see; the exception is an acception."

"You mean an acceptance. If you accept a man and marry him that won't count."

"Suppose I accept him and don't marry him?"

"That will count."

Gwen gave her father another kiss and sat down to breakfast. She dismissed the matter of her newly made resolution from her mind, for she only realized its importance in relieving her from having to make excuses to rejected suitors and had no doubt whatever of keeping it.

Unfortunately there was just one weak spot in Gwen's resolution. In the list of men who had become entangled with her during the past year mention has been made of one whom she had been unable to bring to his knees. This was George Underwood, a young man much engrossed in business and so steady on his pins, to use a slangy phrase, that it was very difficult for any one to bowl him over. He was not a woman's man, never danced, and, as for an affair of hearts, it had not occurred to him that it could be played as a game.

Gwen had tackled him just as she had tackled the others, not having looked upon any of them as a probable husband. Underwood's attention was not easily secured, and when it was secured there was no favorable response to Gwen's advances. In vain she had endeavored to batter down that indifference which stood between her and his heart. When trying to secure an entrance she would be miffed at a commonplace remark about the weather or some other event equally far distant from what was uppermost in her mind. The consequence was that when she made her resolution on that New Year's morning she had but one regret—she would be obliged to leave Underwood unfinished.

Mr. Underwood was in control of a large business that brought him often in contact with Mr. Caruthers. Occasionally he had come into the latter's home of an evening to talk over some business enterprise, and Gwen had lain in wait for him as he was about to depart. He was past thirty and was beginning to consider himself too old for girls still in their teens. Consequently when Gwen wished to hold him for the rest of the evening she was obliged to resort to subterfuge. She would ask for his opinion on some matter upon which she was in doubt or beg him to help her out for the rest of the evening at a game of cribbage. Once she asked him to play at "hearts" with her in a tone that would have made any other man suspicious of her at once; but, whether Underwood understood her or not, he gave no responsive sign.

Gwen never saw Underwood, who eschewed social functions, except on these visits to her father. The first time the former called after the resolution she locked herself in her room. One would have supposed that instead of his having cause to be afraid of her it was she who was afraid of him. At his second call, during which an important business matter kept him with her father till 10 o'clock, on hearing him in the hall about to take his departure she went down on purpose to see if he showed any disappointment at not having seen her at the time of his last call. The business matter he had been discussing engrossed his attention, and he went out with simply a "Good evening."

"Papa," said Gwen to her father the next morning at breakfast, "I am thinking of making one exception in my New Year resolution. In case I do how about the car?"

"The only exception, so far as the car is concerned, is marriage."

Gwen pouted. It was evident that marriage was not to be considered in the case to which she referred.

Mr. Underwood did not have occasion to call on Mr. Caruthers again for six months. Then he came intending to remain only long enough to secure the latter's signature to a document.

While the two men were talking in Mr. Caruthers' smoking den Gwen was waiting in the drawing room for them to end their conference, for she desired to speak with Underwood before he left the house. In this instance the meeting was unusually prolonged, and every now and again Gwen noticed that the words were spoken in a low voice, for the door of the smoking room was but partly closed, and when they were uttered in an ordinary tone she could hear something of what was said. What she was waiting for was to ask Mr. Underwood what kind of car she should select, for New Year's day was approaching, and she was anticipating her promised reward.

[illegible] was great risk in consulting the only man who was likely to make her break her resolution upon the character of the prize she was to win by keeping it. Underwood seemed to be oblivious to her having any other intention than what appeared on the surface. It is not to be asserted that Gwen did have any other intention. It is quite likely that if she had she would not admit it to herself.

This was in November, and but six or seven weeks remained for Gwen to keep her resolution and win the car. Therefore it is not surprising that she should be thinking about what kind of car she would ask her father to buy for her. Underwood gave her the points pro and con of different cars and recommended a make that he used himself as one very easily handled. Would she like to try his car? She thought she would, but feared for her resolution. However, the time was so nearly up that she concluded to venture.

The afternoon appointed for the drive Indian summer weather prevailed, and there was a genial languor in the air. Gwen had been "good" for ten months. With so indifferent a person she did not think it dangerous to put out a feeler. For the first time she received a response. She tried hard to stop, but the ruling passion was too strong for her. She went further and was met halfway. Presently Mr. Underwood, not waiting for a new advance, plunged into violent lovemaking, followed by a declaration.

New Year's morning came round, and Mr. Caruthers said to his daughter, "Well, Gwen, can you assure me that you have done nothing during the past year to draw any man into a proposal?"

Gwen looked first at the ceiling, then at the floor, then out of the window, but made no reply.

"You don't mean, sweetheart," continued the parent, "that you have lost your car?"

"I don't know."

"If you have I'm very sorry. I have put aside $5,000 for the purpose."

"Five thousand!"

"Yes."

Gwen was silent for awhile, then said, "I'm afraid, papa, that in order to win I'll have to get married."

"Don't do that unless you can give the man you marry your heart."

"I'm not quite certain about that."

"Whom have you drawn into your net?"

"George Underwood—only I fancy he drew me into his net."

"George is a splendid fellow."

"And the car he uses is a splendid car."

"What do you mean by that?"

"Why, you see, papa, when the end of my probation was coming and I was thinking what kind of car I should have I asked Mr. Underwood the kind he would recommend. He recommended one he used himself and offered to take me out in it. I just thought I would try him a little teeny weeny bit. Giving him an inch, he took an ell."

The father burst into a laugh and, taking his daughter in his arms, hugged her.

"Well, sweetheart," he said, "what are you going to do?"

"I can't possibly give up the auto."

"How about marrying George?"

"Oh, I suppose I'll have to swallow him."

"Good! When you make up your mind tell him so, and I'll order the car."

"I've told him already."

There was another kiss, and the parent went away to telephone his congratulations to Underwood. Desiring the young man for a son-in-law and having been asked by him for permission to pay his addresses to Gwen, Underwood had been apprised of the situation and enabled to take advantage of it.

And now an excellent husband and a numerous progeny have removed all temptation from Mrs. Underwood to flirt, and she is narrowly watching her oldest daughter, fearing that she may inherit her mother's delinquency.

Discovery of human bones in the cellar of the old Rector farm home, six miles south of Benton Harbor, and the signed confessions of Toefell Zdrowski and Alek Mitelsky that Tony Grinewitski, aged Pole, whose body was unearthed, had been murdered there last October, have convinced Berrien county authorities that the Rector place will prove to be a second "Guiness murder farm."

C. M. GILBERT

THE FIRST SKYSCRAPER.

It Was Designed by a Savoy Architect Three Centuries Ago.

Credit for the first skyscraper built in this country is generally conceded to Chicago. It was built in the "loop district" of that city in 1886, from plans by Holabird & Roche. The first example of lofty building in New York city was the structure at 50 Broadway, designed by Bradford Lee Gilbert in 1888. A few years later both these wonders became insignificant and practically forgotten because they were so greatly outdone by succeeding skyscrapers. But these were not the initial efforts, for a skyscraper was designed nearly three centuries ago, many generations before the discovery of the steel cage system of this day.

Jacques Perret, an architect of Chambery, Savoy, is the accredited author of plans for an eleven story building, 361 feet in height, which must have had twice the space between floors, for today eleven stories are crowded within a height of 150 feet. Perret's building was planned to be 166 feet long and 140 feet wide, with supporting walls twelve feet thick at the base.

While never executed, the project of Perret in many ways was a remarkable prophetic vision. Evidently it was intended for dwelling purposes, for in describing the project he wrote, "This great and excellent edifice can accommodate comfortably 500 people."—New York Post.

INDELIBLE MARKING.

Advantages of Using Just Ordinary Blueprint Solution.

There are many occasions upon which it is necessary to mark linen or wearing apparel indelibly with one's name and address, yet the ink sold for this purpose is not always convenient to use or attractive in appearance, says the American Boy.

A very good substitute is the ordinary blueprint powder, sold by any photographic dealer, a thick solution being made and used just as the ordinary ink would be. Instead of fixing this by the use of a hot iron, it is made permanent simply by washing in several changes of cold water. When thoroughly fixed the writing will appear in a very pretty shade of blue. Should you prefer, a rubber stamp may be used instead of a pen. In this case a little glycerine should be mixed with the solution, which should be spread upon a clean cloth or blotter. This is then used as an inking pad for the stamp.

Aside from its convenience marking with blue print solution has the advantage that traces of the writing or any stains caused by it may be removed if desired by the application of a solution of tannin.

MINIMUM WAGE LAW IS DECLARED INVALID

Measure Had Been Adopted by Large Majority.

Detroit, Mar. 6.—Judge Frank William Davis, of Ionia, decided in an opinion received in the office of County Clerk Farrell, that the charter amendment providing for a minimum wage and an eight-hour day for city employes and adopted by an overwhelming majority April 10, 1915, is null and void because of two errors made in its submission to the voters.

The two errors which the corporation counsel pointed out and on which the court based its decision are the facts that it was not laid on the common council table thirty days and was submitted to the voters. This, Judge Davis held, is required by law.

In order to test the soundness of the amendment and to force the city to pay the minimum wage, August Summerfield, a street cleaner in the employ of the D. P. W., brought suit against the city, claiming back wages under the minimum wage amendment. The expenses of the case were paid by the Detroit Federation of Labor.

Burial Customs of the Hittites.

Although the tombs of the necropolis had been rifled at an early date, a great deal that is new was learned about the burial customs of the Hittites. Graceful vases, simple in design and undecorated, held the ashes of the cremated body, together with any trinkets the person was wearing at the time of death. A small vase about a foot high was inclosed in a footed vessel of cylindrical shape, which was beautifully decorated in patterns like those of Crete and Cyprus. Around the middle vessel were grouped various dishes containing burial gifts of oil, most of them plain, but some of beautiful shape and as thin as modern china, though unglazed. It can well be seen that these two vessels would protect the ashes from dampness from below, but as both were open at the top there was a large cover, like an enormous bowl, inverted over the other two vessels.—Christian Herald.

Modern Efficiency.

BERLIN IS CALM OVER U. S. SENATE ACTION

"Attack In Self-Defense" Term New Coined Word.

Berlin, Mar. 6.—The news of the United States senate's action in tabling the Gore resolution was received calmly in official and other circles here. Opinions are divided as to whether or not this preliminary outcome of the discussion in the American senate is favorable to Germany. Many are inclined to reject the theory that it can be considered in the light of a censure of President Wilson.

It is asserted in Berlin official circles that Germany cannot accept what is termed "a new term coined in English destruction," reading "attack in self defense." It is argued that such an attack is just as much a departure from the existing international law as would be, in the opinion of President Wilson, a warning of American citizens not to use armed merchantmen. It is pointed out that Great Britain gave the American government explicit assurances that British vessels were and would be armed "for defense only" and would never be for attack.

GERMAN-AMERICANS STIRRED

Meeting to Urge Wilson to Stand Against Central Powers Enrages.

New York, Mar. 6.—German-Americans were aroused by the announcement of the call for the meeting under the auspices of the American Rights' committee in Carnegie hall to urge the administration to come out against the central powers. Alphonse G. Koelbe and Henry Wiesmann, both leaders in the pro-German circles, made statements giving their views and in reply Major George Haven Putnam, chairman of the American Rights' committee, said that it did not make any difference what the pro-Germans thought, that every citizen was entitled to an expression of his own opinion.

Mr. Koelbe said he welcomed the stand taken by the members of the committee.

ROUMANIA LOVES GERMANY

But, O You Coveted Territory of Hungary, Kaiser's Ally.

Bucharest, Mar. 6.—"We could fight Germany with regret; Austria with indifference, and Hungary with the keenest satisfaction," said M. Filipesco, leader of the Roumanian conservatives and former minister of war, to the correspondent of the Associated Press.

He expressed the opinion that there is no ill feeling against Germany and that Austria is disliked solely because it is linked with Hungarians, who are hated on account of the alleged ill-treatment of the Roumanians living in Transylvania and Benat.

FIRE HITS MICHIGAN SCHOOL

State Agricultural Institution at Lansing Has $200,000 Fire.

Lansing, Mich., Mar. 6.—Fire destroyed the engineering building of the Michigan Agricultural college, causing a loss of $200,000. Practically all the mechanical, electrical and physical laboratory equipment was burned.

The students' fire department, assisted by city apparatus, saved the men's dormitory and other near-by buildings after a hard struggle.

Three Killed in Wreck.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Mar. 6.—Three persons are reported killed and several injured in a rear-end collision on the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha railroad near Mountain Lake, Minn.

OBJECT TO INCORPORATION

Taxpayers of Copper City Fear Their Rates Would Be Increased.

Calumet, Mar. 6.—Taking the stand that the incorporation of Copper City as a village will mean a considerable addition to their taxes, some twenty-five or more residents of the location have prepared a petition, which is to be presented to the county board of supervisors, protesting against the proposed incorporation. It is probable that the petition for the incorporation of the location as a village and that in opposition to such action will be presented to the county board at its coming meeting for the month of March.

General Manager of Phone Company Resigns His Job.

Detroit, Mar. 6.—Arthur von Schlegell, general manager of the Michigan State Telephone company, has resigned that position to become vice-president of the Hupp Motor Car corporation, but will not sever his connection with the telephone company. Brothers Have Fire Penchant, Charge.

Allegan, Mar. 6.—Frank and Edward Hapeman, brothers, of Ganges township, were arrested on charges of arson. Edward is charged with burning a fish shanty, in January, and Frank is charged with burning a canning factory.

Excitement.

People who easily get excited don't usually live nearly so long as people who keep calm. Excitement, in fact, wastes the vitality and affects one's health to a very great extent. This is true, too, of all who seek excitement, whether physical or mental. Excitement makes the pulse beat above the ordinary rate, and one's reserve of energy is used up so much the quicker. Occasional excitement, however, is very good for one's health, especially where the pulse is slow, but the natural condition of the body should be one of calmness and regularity.

RAIDER MOEWE IN GERMAN PORT

Raider Said to Have Taken Fifteen Enemy Ships.

BOAT'S MINES SUNK WARSHIP

German Official Report Claims Vessel Took Prizes Into Neutral Ports or Sunk Them—Reaches Home With $250,000 In Gold—Also Has Over 400 Prisoners.

Berlin, Mar. 6.—A storm of enthusiasm such as was equalled only in the case of the famous Emden greeted an announcement of the admiralty that the now equally famous Moewe, the German raider which since the beginning of the year has held mysterious sway on the high seas, notably in mid-Atlantic, had arrived "in a German port." She brought with her, according to the announcement 1,000,000 marks in gold bars ($250,000) and 402 prisoners, taken from a total number of fifteen allied vessels—with the exception of one French and one Belgian, all British—aggregating a tonnage of nearly 60,000 tons.

Of these fifteen vessels, the majority were sunk, the admiralty says, while "a small part were sent as prizes to neutral ports."

Says Moewe Mines Sank Battleship.

The Moewe, according to the statement, not only wrought havoc on allied maritime commerce by sinking or capturing nearly everything that came into its path, but was also engaged on her "successful cruise lasting several months" in sowing mines along what is described as "the enemy coast." It was one of the Moewe's mines, the admiralty avers, which caused the sinking on Jan. 9 last of the British dreadnaught Edward VII, from which every one of the 777 men aboard was saved by British rescue vessels.

The home port into which the German raider finally brought her prisoners and booty is not designated by the admiralty, nor is it believed that it will be made known. This leads to the belief here that other raiders are expected to return from sea roving trips. Some here even believe the port in question may be the base for a number of similar other enterprises.

Moewe Not a Warship.

The theory that the Moewe is a warship is dispelled by the official announcement through the fact that it is not designated as an "S. M. S." but simply as "the Moewe." The commander is Count Von Dohna-Schlodein, a captain lieutenant in the imperial navy.

German Official Report.

Berlin, Mar. 6.—Official announcement was made here that the German cruiser Moewe arrived in "some" German port. She had on board a large number of British prisoners and $250,000 in gold bars.

The announcement says fifteen vessels were sunk by the Moewe which also laid mines at several points. One of these mines, it is stated, sank the British battleship King Edward VII. The statement says:

"The naval general staff states that the Moewe, commander Burgrave Count Dohna-Schlodien, after a successful cruise lasting several months, arrived today at some port with four British officers, twenty-nine British marines and sailors, 266 men of crews of enemy steamers, among them 103 Indians, as prisoners and 1,000,000 marks in gold bars.

"The vessel brought up the following enemy steamers, the greater part of which were sunk and a small part of which were sent as prizes to neutral ports:

"The British steamships Corbridge, 3,687 tons; Author, 3,496 tons; Trader, 3,608 tons; Ariadne, 2,035 tons; Dromonby, 3,627 tons; Farringford, 3,146 tons; Clan MacTavish, 5,816 tons; Appam, 7,781 tons; Western, 3,300 tons; Herare, 3,335 tons; Flamenco, 4,628 tons; Saxon Prince, 3,471 tons; the British sailing vessel Edinburgh, 1,473 tons; the French steamer Maroni, 3,109 tons and the Belgian steamship Luxerbourg, 4,322 tons.

"At several points on enemy coast the Moewe also laid out mines to which, among others, the Battleship King Edward VII. fell victim."

Historic Rose Tree.

The most venerable rose tree in existence is said to bloom against the ancient church of Hildesheim, in Germany. Notwithstanding the many parties which at different times have been in the ascendancy, they all seem to have respected and tended the rose tree, which, it is said, was planted by Charlemagne. The trunk is now almost as big as a man's body. There are five principal limbs trained against the church, the tree being protected by iron railings inclosing an area of about twenty-six square feet. The German soldiers in early ages tended the tree; Catholics and Protestants, in turn masters of the town, drained the ground; the soldiers of Turenne fastened up the branches with clamps, and those of Napoleon, a century and a half later, erected the railings.

GERMANS AGAIN LOSE AT VERDUN

All Attacks on French Positions Are Beaten Back.

ALSO ADMIT LOSS IN LORRAINE

Berlin Reports French Fire Compelled Kaiser's Men to Withdraw from Thiaville Trenches Taken February 28—Paris Reports Foe's Infantry Attacks Suffered Heavily.

Paris, Mar. 6.—Another attempt by the crown prince's army to break through the French line near Douaumont, north of Verdun, was made but the line held and the Germans fell back to their own trenches under the fire of the French artillery. Sunday morning a German force attacked in the woods just east of Vacerauville, a little to the west of the line against which the assault of the night before was directed, but with no more success.

German Attack Repulsed.

In the contest for the possession of Verdun the operations have narrowed for the time being to the short sector about the plateau of Douaumont. The Germans concentrated their artillery fire Saturday on the restricted front between the Haudromont wood and Douaumont village. The bombardment was very violent. After great quantities of heavy shells had been thrown, the German infantry made its charge at 6 o'clock at night. The attacking waves at once were brought under the barrage fire of the French guns, with which machine guns and rifle firing co-operated, and were unable to reach the French trenches. At the village of Douaumont itself, where the Germans hold the village proper and the French are entrenched in the southern outskirts, fighting of considerable liveliness lasted well into the night without changing the situation.

The German artillery continued its firing with some intensity throughout the night on the whole front east of the Moewe and west of the river at Lemort Homme and Cote de L'Oie.

Shift Attack, Repulsed.

Early Sunday morning the bombardment increased in violence along the whole of this front, especially on the sector which had been the scene of the earlier attack. But the attack was not repeated here. Instead the Germans shifted their assaulting columns to the west, and sought to make an opening through the woods east of Vacherauville. Here again they were completely repulsed.

German troops being brought up to the fighting front were brought under the fire of the French artillery to the north of Vacherauville and near Louvemont, northwest of Douaumont.

No infantry action is reported from the Woevre, but the artillery of both sides was very active about Fresnes and east of Haudemont.

The French artillery conducted a heavy bombardment all night and during the day of the German positions near the Binarville road, north of La Harazee, and at the Haute Chavauchee, in the Argonne.

Germans Give Up Trenches.

The German official statement announces the evacuation by the German troops of the trenches captured by them in the French near the forest of Thiaville, northeast of Badonviller, in Lorraine, on Feb. 28. The evacuation was ordered to avoid unnecessary losses under the concentrated fire of the French artillery.

German statement.

Berlin, Mar. 6.—The statement issued by the German war office says:

"Western front: Toward evening a lively artillery fire of the enemy developed at several points on the front. Between the Meuse and the Moselle French artillery continues very active, especially in the region of Douaumont, which at times was bombarded with great violence. There was no lively infantry fighting.

"To avoid unnecessary losses, we evacuated yesterday the trenches we captured from the French on Feb. 28 near the forest of Thiaville, northeast of Badonviller, before the concentrated fire of the enemy against these positions.

"Eastern front: In the neighborhood of Illoukst, an attack planned by the Russians, following some mining operations against our positions, could not be carried out. Advances by reconnoitering parties of the enemy at other points were repulsed.

"Balkan front: There is nothing to report."

ROMANCE OF THE BAHAMAS.

Life In Nassau Was Once a "Purple Princely Thing."

During the American war between the states Nassau of the Bahamas was very much on the tongues of men, as the devil-may-care emporium of contraband cotton, whereby hangs many a dashing sea story, some of which you can still hear from the lips of the men who took part in them.

The whole history of the Bahamas, since Columbus made his first landfall in the western seas on Watling's island, has been a fantastic record of desperate opportunism. The prose of "legitimate" business has seldom dulled the edge of precarious prosperity on these derelict islands, whose very existence still seems at the grudging mercy of the sea.

Buccaneering, wrecking and blockade running—no more tedious employ than these masculine professions occupied the Bahamians for generations, and so long as there were merchantmen to be boarded or scuttled, rich cargoes to be harvested from the white fanged reefs or cotton to be run to Wilmington at a profit of $100,000 the trip life in Nassau was a purple princely thing, and even the shoeblacks in Bay street played pitch and toss with gold.—Richard Le Gallienne in Harper's Magazine.

GREAT SALT LAKE.

Its Water Is Saline Simply Because It Has No Outlet.

Great Salt lake has no outlet. The Jordan river, which enters it from the south, is the outlet of Utah lake. Bear river, coming from the north, carries the outflow from Bear lake. The waters of Utah and Bear lakes and of Jordan and Bear rivers are fresh, and so is the water of Weber river, the third great tributary of Great Salt lake, but the lake into which the three rivers flow is saline. It is saline because it has no outlet.

The fresh waters of the rivers contain some saline matter, but the quantity is too small to be discovered by taste.

As stated by the chemist, in parts per million, the quantity seems minute, but when account is taken of the total volume of water brought by the streams to the lake in a year their burden of saline matter is found to be really great, amounting annually to more than 500,000 tons.

Year by year and century by century the water which they pour into the lake is evaporated, but the dissolved solids cannot escape in that way and therefore remain.

They have accumulated until the lake water is approximately saturated, holding nearly as much mineral matter as it can retain in solution. The lake contains over 5,000,000,000 tons of common salt and 900,000,000 tons of glauber salt (sodium sulphate) as well as other mineral matter.—New York Telegram.

COMMUNICATIONS

EDITOR HERALD:
Dear Sir:

In pointing out the many improvements that are needed to make Tecumseh an up-to-date progressive community, I do not think that anyone means to cast any reflection whatever on the men at the head of the village.

We all know the gentlemen composing the council, and have the highest respect for them personally, but they are all busy men, who have to look after their own affairs. They give their time and serve the people without pay; it would be too much to expect them to neglect their own avocations, in order to devote their entire time to looking after the interests of a public, which is usually ungrateful.

In referring to this and other towns, under council government, I mean the system, not the individuals.

The laborer is worthy of his hire, and if we want expert management in this village, we will have to pay for it, we cannot expect anyone to give valuable service for nothing.

In the meantime we are paying high taxes, without enough to show for them, and the only consolation given us, when we complain is, "Next year they will be still higher."

For this reason property is nearly unsaleable at anything like its value, and desirable people are not anxious to come and live in a town where taxes are high, and they [illegible] corresponding advantages for themselves, or their children.

The only way to attract people who will be a valuable addition to the town is to make the town desirable. What parent or guardian, who had any choice, would select a village with a school not recognized by a University and give his or her children a handicap for life, as long as there is any other place to go to?

AND WE NEED THE EXPERT MANAGER BEFORE WE BUILD THE SCHOOL.

No price within our means is too high to pay for a building, which will contribute to the health and education of the coming generation, but every dollar WASTED is too much.

In a future issue, with your permission, I will attempt to show the relative taxation of other towns that have something to show for the money expended, as compared with Tecumseh which has little to show for the EXCESS.

ADVERTISING TECUMSEH

I often hear people say that they do not believe in advertizing. Now it doesn't make any difference whether a man believes in advertising or not; he is, nevertheless, an advertiser. Every man or woman is an advertiser. The expression on your face is an advertisement—your dress, your manner, your store front, window trims, your clerks, your clothes, your SCHOOL HOUSE, etc.

All these things have an influence on the minds of the people with whom you come in contact. Everything you do is an advertisement.

The only question we have to decide is whether we are going to let the other towns and cities get ahead with new school houses and other improvements to entice the people away, old as well as the young. Let us keep up to the slogan, "Tecumseh, the biggest little town on earth."

MOSES AND SANITATION.

Ancient Laws as Effective as Modern Rules of Hygiene.

There has been gathered a collection of facts to prove that the sanitary laws of Moses were not only on a line with the modern rules of hygiene, but in some cases in advance of them.

The Jew, thousands of years before Christ, settling in a semitropical country, was forbidden to eat pork or shellfish, and milk was designated as a source of contagion. In the Talmud a method of slaughtering animals was prescribed which is acknowledged today in our markets as the most sanitary.

Five thousand years before Koch gave to the world the results of his researches in bacteriology the Mosaic law pointed out the danger to man from tuberculosis in cattle, but did not forbid infected poultry as food. It was only a few years ago that German specialists discovered that fowl tuberculosis was harmless to man.

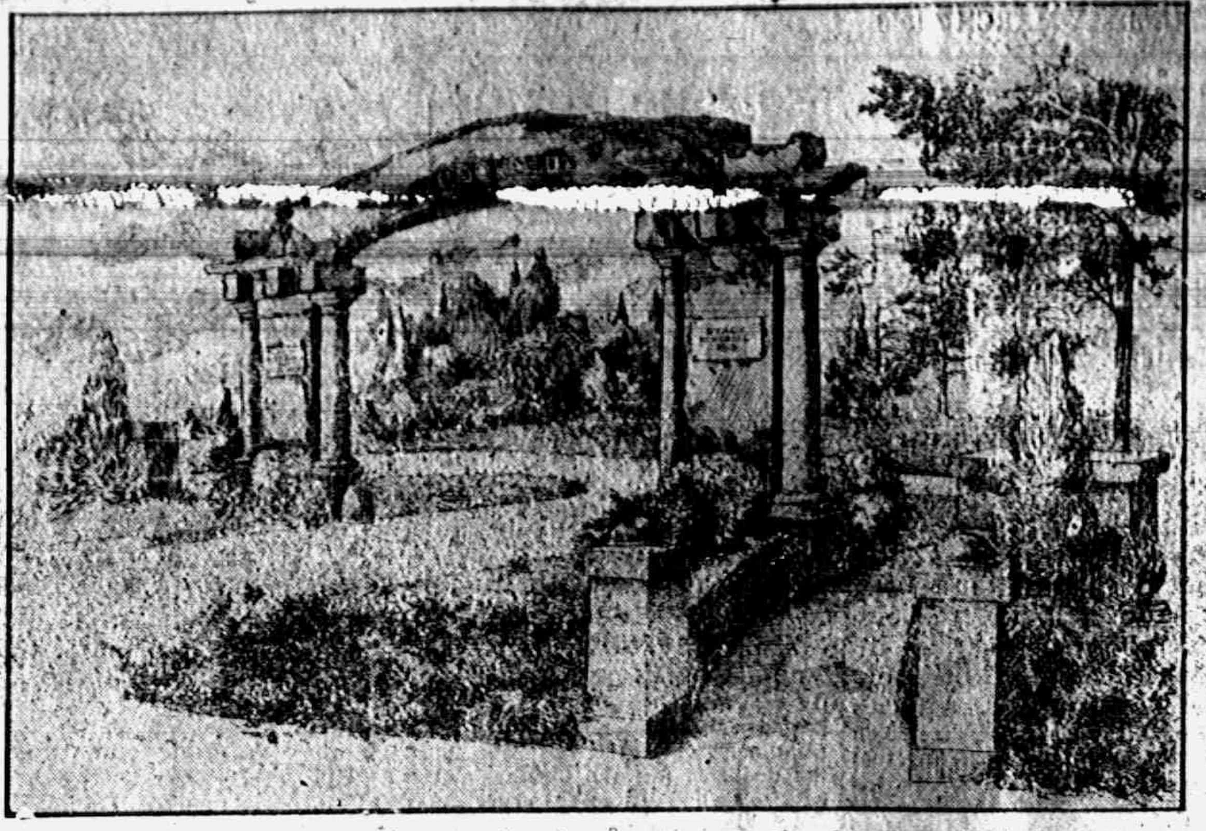
The Mosaic law also enforced the isolation of patients with contagious diseases and the burial of the dead outside all cities. These hints the Gentile world did not fully accept until a century or two ago.

The wise lawgiver prescribed not only fasting at certain periods of the year, but the removal of all families in summer out to camps, where for a time they could live close to nature. Many of the laws of Moses were prescriptions intended for the health of both mind and body.—Boston Transcript.

Japanese Needlewomen.

The daughters of the land of flowers sometimes curiously reverse European methods. They needle their thread instead of threading their needles, and instead of running their needle through the cloth they hold it still and run the cloth upon it. An English lady long resident in Tokyo once wrote to a friend that the impulse of her Japanese maids is always to sew on cuff frills and other similar things topsy turvy and inside out.

STACY MEMORIAL ARCH



RESOLUTIONS PASSED BY THE CEMETERY BOARD

The work on the new approach to our cemetery is now completed, except for the shrubs and flowers that will be put out in the spring, and the completed work is certainly a thing of beauty and will be a lasting memorial of the giver.

Now, it becomes our duty as representatives of the people of Tecumseh to express our appreciation of the kind and loving heart that conceived and made possible this approach that beautifies our silent city of the dead.

Others have left gifts to towns and cities for schools and colleges, but she carrying out the sentiment of herself, and her husband who had passed on before bequeathed the memorial arch, which will stand for ages as a tribute of her love for Tecumseh and its people.

Therefore, we, in the name of the people of our village would extend our heartfelt thanks to Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Turner, who have so faithfully carried out the work of their sister Mrs. Gertrude A. Stacy, and we will ever hold in loving remembrance of her, whose last thought was for the good of Tecumseh.

And we here present a copy of this appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Turner and to the Tecumseh Herald for publication.

Chinese Architecture.

The monuments of China are among the most conspicuous in the world. Interpreted broadly they range from a coin or an oracle bone to the Great wall. China has more than 2,000 important specimens of the pagoda, an original form of tower architecture unsurpassed for beauty by any similar kind of structure. The Porcelain tower at Nanking deserved to be ranged with the wonders of the world, and for reasons which made it the superior of the so called seven wonders. Chinese sculpture has never been surpassed, and there is no evidence in mundane art to show that it ever will be. There is a single fragment in the Metropolitan museum in New York—a stone head of the Tang period—whose grandeur of plastic mastery since its appearance has conferred distinction upon the sculpture of the world.—Journal of the American Asiatic Association.

His College Handicap.

"I remember when it was really a disadvantage to have had a technical mining education," said John Hays Hammond. "I remember going to one of the large mining magnates of the day in California, who had got his information and experience by hard knocks, and asking for a job. He said: 'There is one serious objection to you. You have been at Freiburg, and you know you have to unlearn a good deal when you get into active practice.' I am sorry to say there is a great deal of truth in that too. 'Well,' I said, 'I will tell you in confidence, but do not repeat this to my poor father, who has made every sacrifice to send me abroad for a mining education—I did not learn a confounded thing at Freiburg.' Then he said, 'I will take you.' And that was the first job I ever got."

The Inns of Chancery.

Most of the old inns of chancery are no more. Clement's inn, where Falstaff and Shallow "heard the chimes at midnight;" New inn, of which Sir Thomas More was a member; Lyon's inn, where Cobe once taught the students; Furnival's inn, where Charles Dickens lived; Thavies inn, which was one of the earliest of all the legal settlements in London; Barnard's inn, where Lord Chief Justice Holt was among the "principals"—all these historic places have "in the change and chance of time" disappeared from view. Staple inn remains in its ancient state by the good will of the insurance company that purchased it a number of years ago.—London Law Journal.

Good Reason.

In his book about his distinguished father the son of Louis Agassiz tells a story that relates to the life of the great scientist in America. A few years before his death he came into his house in Cambridge delighted with an occurrence he had just seen in Boston. A carriage pushing through the crowd had knocked down a woman. Her escort proceeded to pummel the driver. "But why," asked the listener, "didn't the owner come to his driver's assistance?" "Oh," exclaimed Agassiz, "I was holding him."

Wasted Apology.

"One day," says a London journalist, "the late Walter Emanuel called on me and chatted delightfully. After half an hour the humorist said he must go and apologized for having wasted so much valuable time.

"'Don't mention it,' I rushed to reply. 'It has been a pleasure.'

"'Oh, it's not your valuable time I'm thinking of!' said Mr. Emanuel as he picked up his hat. 'It's mine!'" Exchange.

REPORTER ON 73RD BIRTHDAY

Tecumseh, Mich., March 2.— Woman's ability to cope with the stronger sex in occupational work is being given a strong argument in the activities of Miss Lucy Train, who has just passed her 73rd birthday.

Many men consider that such an age is sufficient to justify retirement, but the anniversary found Miss Train following the pursuit in which she has engaged for the past seven years, that of reporter for the Tecumseh Herald. During that time she has come to be a familiar figure at every incoming train, and has faithfully aided in writing the history of Tecumseh affairs.

When Miss Train entered the work of reporting she had already fulfilled a term of service which many others consider a life work, have spent 40 years of her life behind counters of local merchantile firms where she became one of [illegible] best known clerks.

We print the above article which appeared in a recent issue of the Adrian Telegram refering to one who has been in the employ of the Tecumseh Herald for the past seven years and who has worked faithfully and well for its best interests.

"A Shine in Every Drop"

NO EXCUSE FOR "AIN'T."

It Is About the Worst Contraction In the English Language.

"Ain't" is an improper abbreviation of "are not." British writers spell it "a'n't," which properly indicates its derivation. Americans make it an inclusive offense, using it for "am not" and "is not," as well as for "are not." It is unquestionably the worst instance of slovenliness in the common speech of today.

Yet it is by no means of universal or even common use. It will slip occasionally from refined lips, always with a jar to the enunciator, as well as to the hearer. But the habitual user of "ain'ts" is careless of refinement. He may be an excellent citizen who never beats his wife nor kicks the cat. But there is likely to be something slipshod about him somewhere. For "ain't" is needless, as well as cacophonous. It fills no void and supplies no need.

English observers complain superciliously of the laxness of American speech. American observers who have listened to the marvels of Lancashire, Yorkshire, Devonshire and other shire dialects are inclined to resent any assumption of British superiority. But it is none the less desirable to eliminate our own linguistic sins, and of these "ain't" is the most deplorable.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Awkward.

A visitor to a hospital for soldiers was surprised to hear one of the patients being addressed by the nurses by his Christian name, it being customary to address patients by their surnames only. Upon inquiry as to why this distinction was accorded to the particular soldier referred to the reply received was:

"Well, we can't very well call him by his surname."

"But why not?" queried the somewhat astonished visitor.

"You see," was the overwhelming answer, "his surname is Love, and it's rather awkward."—London Tit-Bits.

Academic Dress.

Academic dress is a sort of scholar's badge consisting of gowns, hoods and caps, copied or adapted from styles long prevalent in England, the combination of articles being so arranged as to indicate the degree or academic status of the wearer. The code was formulated by an intercollegiate college commission chartered by the University of New York and has been adopted in many American colleges. There are three distinct types of gowns and hoods—the bachelor's, the master's and the doctor's. The bachelor's gown is most commonly worn and has long pointed sleeves; the master's gown has long closed sleeves with a slit through which the forearm protrudes; the doctor's gown has velvet bars on round open sleeves and velvet facings down the front. Caps worn with such gowns are the regulation mortar boards with black silk tassels.—Philadelphia Press.

Scene from Klaw & Erlangers big scenic production "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" at the Bradley Opera House, Wednesday, March 8.

"THE TRAIL OF THE LONESOME PINE"

At last we are to see "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," the dramatization of John Fox, Jr.'s extremely popular novel by Eugene Walter. The play has been one of the most successful produced in years and has long runs in Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Chicago. Messrs. Gaskill and MacVitty the producers, have promised a lavish scenic production, in fact it will be here exactly as seen at the New Amsterdam Theatre in New York City, (New York's most expensive Theatre), where the lavishness of its scenery and the tense drama of the play enthralled thousands of playgoers for months. "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" will be the attraction at the Bradley Opera House on next Wednesday, March 8.

We wish to call especial attention to the fact that this company carry their own electrical effects, which include some very fine and novel changes. "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" is an exceptionally fine drama, dealing with the more rugged side of the world in fact a play of real life, more like "The Wolf" which Eugene Walter also dramatized. The scenic production is somewhat on the same order, wonderful settings and electrical effects which make it one of the best plays from a scenic standpoint that has been at the Bradley this season

Here are two items as they appeared in our published statement of December 31, 1915, as called for by the State Banking Department.

Notice that for every dollar deposited in our savings-books we have fifty cents invested in bonds and mortgages.

About twenty-five per cent. of these investments are bonds and they are the obligation of cities which have pledged their property as security.

The remaining seventy-five per cent. are mortgages, farm-mortgages almost without exception, mortgages upon the productive lands of Lenawee county.

The total value of these mortgaged lands would far exceed three hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

This is part of the security which stands behind the savings you deposit in this old savings bank.

ARTILLERY-MAN IN TOWN

Capt. Lewis of the U. S. Artillery and now stationed at Lansing was in town Sunday and Monday being sent out by the government to speak on the vital issues of the day, the need of our army and navy.

He spoke before the Men's class and later at the morning service at the Presbyterian church. In the afternoon he gave a talk at the parish house, to the Men's class there being 100 men present. His theme was Preparedness which he presented in a very interesting manner. Monday forenoon he visited the high school and spoke to the pupils on "Lincoln" the talk was very much enjoyed by all.

Monday afternoon he was busy decorating a number of windows on the street, with off hand sketches of leading men and events in the interest of the film pictures shown Monday and Tuesday, "The Battle Cry of Peace."

"THE BATTLE CRY OF PEACE"

"The Battle Cry of Peace" is the great spectacular picture play produced at the Bradley Opera house last evening. No doubt the house will be packed tonight as those who saw the pictures are enthusiastically advertising them today.

This play is being shown under the full authority of the government, and is the most striking appeal for preparedness that has yet been given to the people of this country. Certainly Tecumseh people have never yet had the opportunity of witnessing so strong a production. One forgets his surroundings entirely and imagines himself actually engaged in the terrible strife that is being pictured before him.

The picture opens with America in all her glory, her wealth, her great cities, her homes, her industries and her farms. It then pictures Hudson Maxim giving a lecture on the lack of Naval and Military protection in this country He produces facts and figures showing how utterly incapable we are to protect ourselves in the case of foreign invasion,

There is a story woven in which shows a young American, who has become enthused over the lecture. He returns home and tells his family and the family of his sweetheart of the things he has heard, but they scoff at his story. The father of his sweetheart is a railroad magnate and an advocate of peace.

Quietly, while this is happening, the enemies of the nation are at work. Spies are abroad even in the home of the railroad magnate. War has been declared, the invading armies are seen approaching New York, Our Navy such as can be found, is to scatter and destroy them, but instead it is totally annihilated.

Our coast artillery is shown in action, but on account of the enemies longer range, they are not able to reach them. The enemy on the other hand, shell and destroy our forts, also destroy property in New York, and aeroplanes are in the air dealing destruction. Finally the enemy land, and are seen driving the people from New York, and all is confusion and dismay.

The railroad magnate and the young American are shot for sniping. The young American after a miraculous escape is bayoneted for protecting his sweetheart from the assault of a brutal officer. Later the mother shoots her two daughters rather than have them fall into the hands of these vile men and later is seen raving over the bodies of her loved ones.

Meanwhile the conquering army advances and seizes Washington and the capitol buildings are seen in ruins.

There is nothing seen in this picture but what is a reality in Europe where these horrors are being enacted. The last tableau showing Columbia in shackles and her final victory was wonderful.

DEMOCRAT CAUCUS

NOTICE: The Democrats of the township of Tecumseh will meet in caucus at the council building in the village of Tecumseh, Lenawee County, State of Michigan, on March 10, 1916, at 7 o'clock in the evening of said day for the purpose of nominating candidates for the township offices for the ensuing year. Dated this fourth day of March, 1916.

THE COMMITTEE

"THE BATTLE CRY OF PEACE"

"I visited the Olympic Theatre to view "The Battle Cry of Peace" thinking that I was to see the ordinary photo-play which has engaged the attention of the theatre going public these years past. I was astounded when I saw the magnitude of the photo-spectacle by Commodore Blackton and amazed when I realized the extent to which the movie camera can be put for the education of our people. I do not think there is now in existence a stronger plea to the patriotic feelings of our men and women than "The Battle Cry of Peace." I do not believe a decade of development on the part of men engaged in this wonderful industry can develope a stronger or sterner argument in behalf of our country's welfare than that which has been given us by Commodore Blackton in his remarkable photo-spectacle.

"The Battle Cry of Peace" teaches us patriotism, urges us on to patriotic doings, calls on us to heed the warning that our country needs us, needs us badly, needs every able-bodied man and every red-blooded patriot, to be prepared to meet the threatening foe.

Commodore Blackton has written a lesson that no true American can fail to heed. He has written himself into the list of America's truly patriotic citizens. I would urge every man, woman and child who can do so to see 'The Battle Cry of Peace'"—William Hale Thompson, Mayor of Chicago.

If you did not see this big production at the Opera House last night, don't miss it tonight, your last opportunity.

TECUMSEH RIFLE CLUB

The Young Men's Club of Tecumseh are the first to start the ball rolling in the preparedness campaign in Tecumseh.

They have organized what is to be known as the Tecumseh Rifle Club, an organization affiliated with, and governed by the rules of the National Rifle Association.

A petition for charter has been forwarded to Washington with a list of over twenty names as charter members.

The National Rifle Association and associated clubs were made possible by an Act of Congress for the purpose of the promotion of rifle practice in the United States.

The United States Government helps us as much as possible in these affairs, furnishing all supplies at army cost, and also furnishing one rifle free to each five charter members, After conducting tests prepared by the National Rifle Association all members qualifying as sharpshooters or expert marksmen receive free rifles.

The officers who have been elected for the Tecumseh Rifle Club until the next annual meeting next January are as follows:

Pres.—E. C. Hellman
Vice Pres —Allan McNeil
Secretary—Harry Wells
Treasurer—E. E. Berry
Executive Officer—D. J. Hodges

SPECIAL MEETINGS

Sunday night after the union service at the M. E. church there was a meeting of most of the church boards and pastors of the village and it was decided to hold a three weeks series of inspirational and revival services at the Methodist, Presbyterian and Baptist churches. The meeting was an enthusiastic one and every attendant pledged himself to assist in every way possible.

Next Sunday evening the union meeting will be held at the Baptist church with Rev. Jennings to give the sermon.

On the 19 at the Presbyterian church will be held a big union meeting and some one from an outside church will preach.

Then on the 20th and 21st the services will be held at the same church.

Rev. C B. Hawkins of Holloway church will have charge of the singing. He has been trained to lead evangelistic singing at the Moody Institute and is a great power in this line so this will be a big feature of the meetings. Special hymn books with old hymns have been ordered.

The meetings are to continue each night for three weeks excepting Saturday night beginning the 19th.

Laundry Marks in Europe.

Laundry marks vary greatly in Europe. Those used in Britain consist of certain small letters or figures stitched in red thread. Not all continental laundries are so considerate. In some parts of France linen is defaced by having the whole name and address of the laundry stamped upon it and an additional geometrical design to indicate the owner.

In Bavaria every piece has a number stamped on in large characters. In other parts of Germany a small cotton label is attached by means of a waterproof (hot) adhesive. In Bulgaria each laundry has a large number of stamps engraved with designs, and in Russia the laundries mark linen with threads worked in arrow shapes.

In some Russian towns the police periodically issue regulations for laundries, while in Odessa books of marks are furnished annually to the laundry proprietors, and these marks and no others may be used. By this system criminals and revolutionary agitators are often traced.—London Mail.

The Bulldog.

The bulldog, unlike the majority of dogs, very seldom barks. In fact, owing to the construction of his throat his attempts at barking are more like a burlesque of the real thing. He wades into a fight without any vocal warning, and the only sound he emits is his heavy breathing. His courage is astonishing, and the largeness of his opponent never acts as a deterrent when hostilities are imminent. Still, as he is not a quarrelsome dog, he very rarely indulges in street brawls, and, as he is exceedingly good natured, it takes a lot to rouse him.

The modern bulldog is undoubtedly a different looking animal from his bullfighting ancestors. The most conspicuous "improvements" introduced by the present day "fancy" are largeness of head, width of chest, heaviness of bone and more typical tail.

What the Peruvians Believed.

A unique idea of the future state was that of the ancient Peruvians. As the disembodied soul winged its way to eternity it encountered two rocks, upon one of which it must needs rest. The choice was determined by the morality of the life in the flesh. If it rested upon the left hand rock it was instantly translated to "Po," or oblivion, a state analogous to the Nirvana of the orient. If through early misdeeds, however, the unhappy spirit was guided to the right hand rock it entered into a purgatorial hell where fiends grated away the flesh from all the bones in succession, after which the skeleton was reclothed and sent back to earth for another try. There was no haste about this grating process. It took something over 10,000 years.

Antiquity of Soap.

In spite of the antiquity of soap, as evidenced by a soap shop still to be seen in the ruins of Pompeii, the chemistry of soapmaking was not understood by us until about a century ago. Since then soap and armaments have become intimately associated with each other. For a long time soapmakers made no profit out of their "lyes." Now they extract from these byproducts glycerin, which, besides being a drug, food and "toilet requisite," enters into the manufacture of nitroglycerin and is the basis of dynamite and other high explosives.—London Spectator.

Mucilage to Stick on Tin.

Whosoever has tried to stick a paper label on a piece of tin knows how difficult it is. Here, however, is a recipe for a mucilage especially designed for this purpose and published by Nature: In 150 cubic centimeters of boiling water dissolve twenty grams of gum tragacanth and add a paste made of sixty grams of flour and ten grams of dextrine dissolved in forty cubic centimeters of water. Dilute the whole with 200 cubic centimeters of boiling water and add ten grams of glycerin and ten grams of salicylic acid. Boil for five minutes, stirring constantly.

Cutting Up Old Furs.

There is a knack of cutting up old furs with which all women are not familiar. The pelt should be turned wrong side up and the skin slowly and carefully cut with a sharp penknife, the blade penetrating the skin only and not touching the long hairs. Cutting fur with scissors destroys the beauty of the hair and wastes much of the pelt that might be saved by the penknife process.

For the Visitors.

In full view of the crowd in a very busy street two vendors of berries were busy with piles of thin wooden boxes, each scantily filled with immature fruit. Emptying box after box, the vendors deftly punched up one layer of the box bottom to a sharp angle pointed in the middle, propped it there with paper and then refilled the receptacle, taking great care that the finest and freshest looking berries should make a showy top covering.

One of the spectators grew indignant. "How in the world," he demanded, "do you expect to sell your wares when you openly show that they are not what they seem to be?"

"Aw, gwan!" said the vendor addressed. "This is New York, and there are more trains coming with more people."—Everybody's.

GAINED 17 POUNDS BY USING TANLAC

Decatur Man Tells Of Most Profitable Experience With the Remedy.

After gaining 17 pounds, while taking the Tanlac treatment, Charles Labadie, a prominent and highly respected Decatur, Michigan man, states that the "Master Medicine" is possessed of exceptional merit, and says that all should try it. While talking with friends recently, he said:

"I suffered from a nervous breakdown and for more than a year was in extremely poor health. I tried various remedies, but got no help until I began using Tanlac not long ago. As I say, my general condition was bad. I could not sleep well, had very little appetite and poor digestion. I lost much weight.

"My daughter in Battle Creek had gained much relief from using Tanlac, so I decided to try it. I began to mend as soon as I started taking the medicine. I gained in weight. I regained my appetite and energy. I eat anything I have the slightest desire for now, and am still hungry all the time. I sleep fine. Tanlac is certainly all right."

Now Laugh!

Smile.

Don't think about it.

Probably won't happen that way, anyway.

And, if it does, 'twon't be as bad as you fear.

There's the real trouble—being afraid.

We take a little trouble about the size of a gnat and look at it through the magnifying glass of fear until it looks as big as an elephant.

Then we are afraid of our own creation.

Thing to do is to squash it while it is still no more than a gnat.

We don't hate squirmy things because of what we know they will do to us, but because of what we fear they might. Our reason tells us they are harmless, but our fear contradicts.

Men are just as bad.

No need to tell a woman in what way.

Smile.

There's so much joy for the least of us,
There's so little pain for the most of us,
It seems funny to me that any of us
Can't smile all the time at the rest of us.

Now laugh!—Los Angeles Times.

First Steam Press.

On Nov. 29, 1814, a newspaper for the first time was printed by steam. Although the application of steam power to printing machinery had been successfully experimented with some years previously, the hostility of the working printers rendered it unadvisable for the masters to introduce such a startling innovation into their printing houses. Toward the end of 1814, however, the growing circulation of the Times made a change of some kind necessary, and in the face of fierce opposition the second John Walter set up a steam printing press. So on the morning of Nov. 29 the leading article of the Times announced to its readers that they held in their hands that day a copy of the first newspaper to be printed by steam.—London Answers.

Wood Engraving.

It is still a mystery whether wood engraving came to Europe from the east or was rediscovered by some European artificer. There is a like uncertainty regarding the precise date of the first European woodcut. It is only known that European wood engraving was going on as early as the first quarter of the fifteenth century. It has been proved that a woodcut in the Paris library was printed in 1406. The very earliest wood engraving consisted of outlines and white spaces with smaller black spaces, but shading is rare.

Woeful Lack.

"Although Chugson has had a car for almost six months, he still seems to think a pedestrian has some rights."

"How do you account for that attitude?"

"It's very peculiar. It certainly shows a woeful lack of self confidence."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Gagadig Gigadab.

There was a quaint old man in Manchester, England, who for many years went by the unique name of Gagadig Gigadab. His original name was John Smith, and for many years he brooded over the possibilities of mistaken identity involved in it. The name figured frequently in criminal records, and he became abnormally apprehensive lest he might be confused with some of the bad John Smiths. At last what he feared so much actually happened. One morning the papers reported the arrest of an accountant in a bank for embezzlement, and through some blunder of the reporter the identity of the embezzler was confused with the subject of this article, who was also a bank accountant. Then and there he determined to assume a name like unto no other ever borne by mortal man. And in Gagadig Gigadab most people will agree that he succeeded in so doing.

Dangers of Draft

Drafts feel best when we are hot and perspiring, just when they are most dangerous and the result is neuralgia, stiff neck, sore muscles or sometimes an attack of rheumatism. In such cases apply Sloan's Liniment. It stimulates circulation to the sore and painful part. The blood flows freely and in a short time the stiffness and pain leaves. Those suffering from neuralgia or neuralgic headache will find one or two applications of Sloan's Liniment will give grateful relief. The agonizing pain gives way to a tingling sensation of comfort and warmth and quiet rest and sleep is possible. Good for neuritis, too. Price 25c at your druggist's. adv

Be Sure You Get This Old Reliable Cough Medicine

Imitations always follow the trail of success. Hundreds of imitations have come and gone since FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND began, 40 years ago, to loosen the grip of coughs and colds.

Be sure you get the genuine

Foley's Honey and Tar Compound

And avoid the names that sound like it.

Here are three easy ways to tell the genuine. 1st—The name of "Foley's" 2nd—The yellow package. 3rd—The Beehive on the yellow package. You cannot get a substitute to do for you what FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND will do—for coughs, colds, croup, bronchial and lagrippe coughs, throat and lung trouble. Buy it of your druggist and be safe

A Strange Experience

Was It Coincidence or Supernatural?

By F. A. MITCHEL.

I am a doctor. One night I was called up to attend a woman who had suddenly been taken ill. My horse had gone lame the day before, so I was obliged to walk. I passed over the mile that separated me from the patient with her husband and was well satisfied to have his company, for, though a part of the way lay through a village, even this was unlighted. Not a person did we meet on the way, and scarcely a word could I draw from my companion, who was much distressed about his wife.

I asked him what he supposed to be his wife's ailment. This time I received a response, but not one that would help me in deciding upon any treatment. He told me that her trouble was mental; that she had worried herself into a breaking down of the system. They had but one child, a daughter, who, being grown, had left them. The mother not only grieved for the absent one, but had become convinced that she was in danger.

I asked the man if his wife had any reason to suspect such a condition, and he told me that so far as he knew she had not. But he added that she had given evidence of seeing beyond the limits of what could be discerned by the senses; that she had known without being informed of happenings many miles distant from her. Years before a son had left them for the sea. One night the mother awakened her husband and told him that their boy was struggling in the water, then that he was dead. A month later news came that the vessel in which the young man sailed had been wrecked. All this looked to me as if I would meet a hopeless case.

And as soon as I stepped into the sickroom and saw her I knew that she was in a critical condition. But the case was not hopeless, and I worked with all the ingenuity I possessed to save her. My efforts were in vain. An hour after my arrival she died.

It is questionable if any medical man ever gets used to losing a patient. At least I never get used to it. We are intrusted with the whole responsibility of the life of the invalid. When our efforts are successful we feel a pleasurable sensation; when the patient dies on our hands we are apt to feel that had we adopted another line of treatment the result might have been different.

I left the stricken household to walk home alone. Above, the stars were shining just as calmly, as silently as before I had entered the house where lay the invalid. I wondered if a power to bridge the vast distance between them and us had been given the disembodied spirit. The planet Jupiter stood high in the east. Had the woman been borne to a vision that could take in the planet's immensity? Could she move with the instantaneous rapidity of electricity, and was she already passing the far distant Neptune on into the great vacuum that separates our sun from other fixed stars?

I was passing through the village and at this moment was before the only church it contained. Suddenly the stillness was broken by a clang. I started as if a clap of thunder instead of a village clock had struck upon my sense of hearing. Stopping, I looked up to note whence the sound came, and some moments passed before I realized that what had startled me came from the striking of a metal clapper on a metal bell. I waited for the next stroke, but it did not come. The clock had struck one hour after midnight.

I passed on, but in a moment turned for a glance at the quaint little building, deserted except when services were held in it, while every other house in the village contained human beings. The church and spire being white, I could easily distinguish them in the gloom.

Is that a ray of light glimmering through the slats of the great arched window?

Impossible! The church is the last place in the village to be lighted at such an hour.

Nevertheless, there is a glimmer that can only come from an artificial light.

Had I been superstitious there would have been something uncanny in seeing light in a church when all the houses where people lived were dark. But with me the discovery had a contrary effect. The loneliness by which I had been surrounded was broken. There was light, and light at that time of night meant human beings. I felt that there were persons in the church, and I felt, too, their companionship.

I confess curiosity was the chief motive power that induced me to turn, retrace my steps, go up on to the little pillared porch before the tower and listen. I thought I could hear voices within. Turning the knob, I found the door unlocked, opened it and entered a vestibule. A screen stood between me and the body of the church, and, stepping to its side, the interior was revealed to me.

At the other end of the building were three persons. One of them faced me and was evidently waiting. The other two were a man and a woman. The man was talking earnestly to the woman, evidently trying to persuade her to do something, which I judged was to consent to a marriage then and there. Taking her by the hand, he attempted to draw her to stand before the other man, whom I surmised to be a clergyman. But she resisted.

In the clergyman I recognized a person who had long been familiar to me, and I knew he was not a clergyman. I could not understand the situation. In the olden time mock marriages were used to entrap innocent girls, but in these days we seldom hear of them. Nevertheless I suspected that these men were trying to practice a deception on this woman.

She turned away from them and started down the aisle. The man who was persuading her caught her and drew her back, pouring pleading words into her ear. This time he tried a little force, urging her up before the supposed clergyman, whom I heard say harshly:

"I am tired of this vacillation. If you are going to marry this man let us proceed with the ceremony; if not let us go."

At the same time the would be groom changed his manner from persuasion to something resembling severity, and I could see that they were trying to influence the girl to do that which she felt she ought not to do. In this way she was induced to stand before the clergyman, and he began the marriage service. But he had spoken only a few words when she broke away from them and ran like a deer down the aisle. The groom ran after her, but she had got the start of him, and the distance was short. She ran into my arms. Whether it was the shock at finding a man where she had supposed there was no one or she believed she had been headed off in her flight I know not, but she gave a shriek.

"Fear nothing," I said to her. "I am a friend, a protector."

This reassured her, and she clung to me.

The would be groom came up and, looking at me, angrily asked, "Who are you, and what are you doing here?"

"Who I am," I replied, "does not matter, and what I am doing here is self evident. Just at present I am keeping this girl from an imposition. I don't know who you are, but I do know that the man who is playing parson is a livery stable keeper from whom I have occasionally hired a horse."

Before I had finished the liveryman disappeared through a door back of the pulpit. The other stood, evidently uncertain what to do. The girl, who had received from me information which astonished her, turned upon the man from whom she had escaped like a fury. He took the dressing she gave him with bowed head. She finished in tears:

"If I have done wrong it has been through love of you."

"Don't you believe that story," I said to the girl. "A man who loves a woman does not try to draw her into a mock marriage."

I saw by the man's appearance, his manner and his dress that he was what we call high bred, and it was plain that he had no intention of marrying the girl. But I saw no advantage in discussing the matter further.

"Will you come with me?" I asked her.

"Or me?" said the other, with a pleading look.

There was evidence of the man's power over her, for she hesitated a moment, then put her arm through mine, and I led her away. Leaving the man in the church, we stepped out into the night.

There were the same stars in the heavens that I had seen but a few minutes before, but I looked up at them with a different feeling. Then there was mingled with the awe I felt in their solemn grandeur a sense of my human insignificance, uselessness. Now there was in me the consciousness that I had saved a fellow being from wreck.

There was another feeling. I could not get rid of an impression that the spirit of the woman I had seen pass from life to eternity might have had something to do with my having passed the church in time to save a soul, though I had failed in saving a life.

"Where shall I take you?" I asked the girl.

"Home."

Instead of going in the direction I would go she turned and walked the other way. As we proceeded she gave me her story in brief. She had been to the city studying art. There she had met the man from whom I had saved her. He had courted her, but she had suspected him. To get rid of his influence she had started for home. He had taken the same train and played his game so well that he persuaded her to go back with him as his wife. The rest I knew.

We were walking over the same road I had traversed in going to see my patient. Then I had had a companion, a man suffering from anxiety. Now my companion was a girl who had barely escaped a great evil. Somewhere down in me was a glimmering sensation that all these happenings were parts of a connected story. I looked up again at the stars, wondering if they knew what was but a faint impression to me.

The house where lay my last patient was on the road we were traversing. When we reached it the girl stopped.

"This is"—

I gasped.

"Home. I have come back to my father and mother."

For the first time in my life I shirked a professional duty. I should have prepared this girl for what she was to meet. I could not bring myself to do so. I took her hand, kissed it and with a "God bless you," sobbed rather than spoken, turned away.

Serious Obstacle.

"Has your boy started in business yet?"

"No. He's been out of college over a year now, but he's still looking around."

"Why don't you take him in with you?"

"Well, to tell the truth, he's got his heart set on a job that pays at least $10,000 a year, and I don't make that much myself."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

By Way of Contrast.

"There is one good thing about buying a really handsome and expensive dress," said Mrs. Bunting to Mrs. Larkin.

"What is that?"

"Why, you feel as though you really ought to buy another not quite so good to save your best one."—Puck.

Sympathy.

Husband—Oh, there's that confounded rheumatism again! Wife—I'm so sorry. I wanted to go shopping tomorrow, and your rheumatism is always a sign of rain. Isn't it provoking!

Not For His Business.

"But they say," remarked the patron, "he has a good head for business."

"Nonsense!" replied the barber. "Why, he's absolutely bald."

Heredity.

"Does goat's milk make good butter?" "It does if it takes after the goat."—Boston Transcript.

THE BACKWARD CHILD

By Chas W. Kollock.

The following has been sent in to us by a reader of the Herald with the request that we print it. Taken from the Michigan Farmer issue of Feb 26 1916.

The Backward Child may not, at first thought, seem to be a serious problem among the many that confront us today. What is really meant by the Backward Child? It means a child who has begun to attend school, who fails to learn as other children do and at the end of the term is turned back to repeat the course. They are usually regarded as mentally deficient and undoubtedly are physically affected or diseased. This does not seem to impress us as a very serious affair, but let us look more closely into the matter and learn the results. There are in this country twenty millions of school children, ten millions of whom have ear, nose and throat troubles and [illegible] millions suffer from affections of the eyes. There are three hundred thousand blind persons in the United States whom it costs the country fifteen million dollars a year to support. At least 20 per cent. of these have lost their eyes from ophthalmia neonatorum which should had the proper preventive treatment been used or had they been promptly and properly treated after infection, have resulted in a negligible per cent of blindness. There are among the twenty million school children about three million who are called "repeaters," that is, those who remain in one room at school term after term. These "repeaters" cost the country about one million dollars a year extra to try to educate them, and then failis the more common result. These children are to often supposed to be mentally deficient when, on the contrary, they are physically defective or diseased. In reality only about three per cent are mentally defective, and [illegible] spent in trying to teach them is often wasted as the true cause of the trouble is not detected. It would certainly take but a small portion of the one million dollars that are spent in trying to educate them to use in finding the real causes of their backwardness, when the truly defective, and the money spent in trying to teach them if often wasted as the true cause of the trouble is not detected. It would certainly take but a small portion of the one million dollars that are spent in trying to educate them to use in finding the real causes of their backwardness, when the truly defective could be placed in the schools for defectives only, and where, in many instances, they are educated and trained to be not only self-supporting but useful citizens.

The medical inspection of schools should begin in selecting the locations for the schools. The buildings should be on high ground where the drainage is good and surroundings are healthy. They should be away from excessive noises, have plenty of air and sunlight and ample playgrounds. Schoolhouses should be planned by architects who make a specialty of such work and such matters as light, ventilation, heating, plumbing, desks, blackboards, wall, books, bathing facilities, has especially the drinking water should receive most careful attention. The teachers, as well as the children, should be examined to learn if there health is good, if they have chronic affections which may be contagious or infectious and whether, as far as can be acertained, they are mentally and morally fit to teach. School nurses to aid in inspection may be of great assistance and it would indeed be a real advance to have a competent trained nurse in attendance at every school, not only to look after the many physical ailments of the pupils but to teach them many simple things about injuries, caring for the injured, etc—Journal of the South Carolina Medical Association,

Caffeine, the active principle of coffee, was discovered by Runge in 1820. In a pure state it takes the form of long silky needles. In ordinary coffee it is present to the extent of about 1 per cent, but Java coffee contains 4.4 and Martinique has as much as 6.4.

Why Mosquitoes Like Blood.

The fact that mosquitoes so continually harass rich blooded creatures is due to the fact that they cannot lay eggs without the albuminous food which is thus obtained. In tropical countries the greatest enemy of the mallaria bearing mosquito is a species of bat which is protected from the insect's bite by its strangely shaped hairs.

The bat is very swift of flight, and the mosquitoes, especially those which have already made a supper of blood, are their ideal food.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

JUST SOME RANDOM THOUGHTS

EDITOR HERALD:

Say, have you discovered that the coming village election occurs on the 13th day of the month? It surely does and it makes me feel quite anxious about the success of the Citizen's ticket. Elroy Zimmerman tells me that the signs of the zodiac indicate that the whole bunch of candidates on that ticket will be elected. Now, Elroy is generally quite reliable, but maybe he has been and gone and bought a second hand zodiac that is so nearly worn out that it is not reliable.

But I sure hope he is right about it because it worries me and I have troubles of my own these days. People are falling over themselves to join the [illegible] and they come so fast that I can hardly keep track of 'em all and when I add the Citizens ticket and the new school house to my burdens it makes it mighty strenuous for me.

But, Mr. Editor, after seeing the "Battle Cry of Peace", I am glad that I live in the United States—the best country the sun shines upon today, I am glad that I live in Michigan, the best state in the Union. I am glad that I live in Lenawee county, the best county in the State of Michigan. I am glad that I live in Brownville, the most favored spot in all the fair land of Lenawee. I am glad that I live on west Brown street, the one spot in all Brownville where life is worth living. Some very execellent people live in Brownville—also a few of the other kind. Some especially bright and capable pupils attend the Brownville school—also a few of the other kind. But I have the best neighbors anybody ever had. I should be completely lost if I lived where I couldn't swap yarns with Art Brazee or go fishing with John Sherman. I wouldn't trade my Brownville home for a whole block over in that young upstart of a suburb of Brownville which is called Tecumseh—not if I had to go over there to live.

So much for loyalty to one's home.

How is it with you gentle reader? Are you having trouble with your neighbors and all the time wishing you lived somewhere else? Then it is high time you moved. Are you telling everyone you meet that "back there in Podunk, where I used to live, they done things different than what they do in this here sleepy, dead, old town"

Then my dear Sir or Madam, you owe it to yourself, your family, and especially to the town you now live in to GO BACK TO PODUNK AND GO QUICK.

Really, Mr. Editor, I meant to say something about the new school house but the girls at the Herald office are catching cold, standing around with nothing to do, and the call comes over the wire for "copy". Next week I will try to give you the boundaries of the school district, and tell you what I think about a school house—and some other things.

C. H. SNEDECOR.

O. E. S.

Despite the wind and storm of last evening about two hundred and fifty were at the Masonic Temple for the entertainment. The star of the evening was May Noble who in her impersonations of child life kept the audience in peals of laughter. Mrs. R. S. Moore gave a character song wearing for the occasion Mrs. J. F. Hicks' green wedding gown. She also gave a flag song using our flag as she sang. Both numbers were heartily encored. The ladies quartette, Mesdames Hodges, Meade and Rosacrans and Miss Caldwell, were at their best as was also the men's quartette. The evening was certainly a great success in every respect.

PERILOUS ATHLETICS.

Sport That Wrecks the Heart an Evil to Be Avoided.

"No one will gainsay the value and pleasure of outdoor exercise graduated to suit the needs of every individual throughout life," says the Journal of the American Medical Association, "but the species of overdoing called for in the intense competition of the great contests of our schools and colleges can no longer be defended by platitudes regarding the alleged psychologic value of its competitive features. The time has come when statistics regarding latent athletic injuries must be reckoned with and the lives of our youths safeguarded by making a distinction between sane sport and insane participation in the intolerable strain of competitive games of the extreme type."

The same paper says the authorities of colleges need to be reminded in an emphatic way, in the words of Dr. R. N. Wilson of Philadelphia, that "no form of athletic event is sane that demands of the participants the semiconscious state of heart exhaustion at its conclusion."

And it denounces the daredevil forms of "sport" that depend for their thrill on nearest possible approach to death by the actors in them, such, for example, as "looping the loop" in an aeroplane or driving a motorcar a hundred miles an hour. Such, it says, are not sport, but degeneracy.

A Strange Situation.

"Humor is a very funny thing," said Binks.

"It ought to be," said the philosopher.

"Oh, I don't mean that way," said Binks. "I mean that it is a strange thing. Now, I can't speak French, but I can always understand a French joke, and I can speak English, but I'm blessed if I can see an English joke."

"Most people are," said the philosopher.

"Are what?" said Binks.

"Blessed if they can see an English joke," said the philosopher. "It is a sign of an unusually keen vision."

Selfishness.

The selfish man suffers more from his selfishness than he from whom that selfishness withholds some important benefit.—Emerson.

Regrets.

For all we know, the gaudy butterfly may have moments in which it regrets the fine times it had as a caterpillar.—Puck.

Simplicity Wins Over Expense

Sometimes, as most Michigan horseowners know, a simple liniment may cure an external ill, whereas an expensive treatment may fail. For instance, James Miller of Pottstown, Pa., cured a horse of pollevil with three bottles of Hanford's Balsam of Myrrh. He says: "The veterinarians had been trying to cure the horse for seven years."

JOLLY 16

The Jolly 16 met at the Barrett tea room Friday evening where they entertained their husbands and friends. A seven o'clock dinner was served, after which the company played progressive pedro with 7 tables of players. Mrs. Oscar Lidke and Fred Rector were given first prizes and Mrs. Fred Aldrich and E. C. Brown the consolation.

F[illegible] Imagina[illegible]

There is a story of a man who was tied up in a dark room and informed that he was to be put to death by bleeding. His tormentors made a small incision in his neck and arranged for a stream of lukewarm water to trickle down his back for fifteen minutes. At the end of fifteen minutes the man died of exhaustion. He had not lost a drop of blood, but he thought he had. Such is the power of suggestion.—London Saturday Review.

Disraeli's Humor.

I was introduced by particular request to Mrs. Wyndham Lewis, a pretty little woman, a flirt and a rattle—indeed, gifted with a volubility I should think unequaled and of which I can convey no idea. She told me she liked "silent, melancholy men." I answered that I had no doubt of it.—Letter of Benjamin Disraeli to His Sister.

Failure or neglect to obey instructions and properly safeguard the buildings, will place the responsibility on the shoulders of those in charge of the property," said Winship.

AN AUTOMATIC BOOKKEEPER

New Burroughs Bookkeeper Installed by the Lilley State Bank.

The first of the month the Lilley State Bank put in operation a Burroughs Adding-Subtracting Machine for use on their books. This machine is one of the marvels of the business world of to-day and its installation will greatly simplify the work of keeping the Bank books.

One should see the Burroughs in operation to fully appreciate what a wonderful thing it is. It automatically prints dates, subtracts checks, adds deposits and computes new balances, all in one movement of the carriage across the page, and with a speed that seems incredible. That is to say, the machine not only posts figures to the ledger page, but computes balances automatically as the posting is done.

It is impossible for the Burroughs to make a mistake, its "steel brains" are mathematically error-proof. Despressing the keys puts the figures into it and touching the bar adds or subtracts the figures and puts them in even rows. It matters not how fast you feed the figures into it, the machine never gets tired, never lets errors creep in through "brain fag." It has just as lively an appetite for large numbers as for small.

The only time that the machine balks is when you have an overdraft and then it warns the operator by simply refusing to figure any more without the "subtract" lever being held down, that your account is overdrawn, and thereupon proceeds to print a red "OD" signal after the amount you need to get square with the bank.

In addition to posting the ledgers, the Burroughs makes out monthly statements for depositors. These statements are an exact duplicate of the ledger sheets, showing a list of all checks and deposits of the customer, together with the balance he has at the end of the month. Each account is kept in balance all of the time, a statement is ready for him at the end of the month or at any time he wants one on five minutes notice. Moreover he does not have to bother with bringing in his pass book to be balanced.

This system is similiar to that now being used by the most progressive banks in the country and marks another step in the Lilley State Bank's effort to give the most complete and satisfactory service to its depositors. The bank management invites the public to call and see the new Burroughs in operation.

AT THE OPERA HOUSE

"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" was presented at the Opera house Wednesday evening to a good house. The story had to do with life on the mountains of Virginia, with their feuds and fighting instincts, their hatred of strangers, with their guns ever ready at the least provocation. The characters were all well taken. Beth Merrill as June, a wild flower, was true to nature, and Jack Hale as taken by Dave Henderson, was fine. Arthur Verner as Bob Berkley, proved an able assistant and faithful friend. Uncle Billy, Jud Tolfivar and Old Hon were typical [illegible] with their love of kin, their moonshine whiskey, their old clay pipe, and their many peculiarities.

The scenic effect was wonderful, the many glorious lights on the mountains changing from red to gold, from blue to grey, now mellow, now intense, being most realistic.

EXCITING RUNAWAY

An exciting runaway occurred Thursday afternoon about 5:30. Tom Conlin of Tipton had just driven up to the Globe Mill and had left his team to go into the mill when they started to run. He jumped for the wagon but missed it. The team continued up the hill and when they reached the VanDuser corner ran up on the sidewalk. Here the wagon separated and the rear part of it was left standing on the sidewalk. The team with the front of the wagon dashed up the street and across the Root property. They were caught by Wesley Clark and John Mahaney. The team was uninjured but the wagon was demolished and Mr. Conlin had to borrow a wagon with which to drive home

DON'T GIVE UP

Discouraged Citizens Will Find Comfort in the Experience of a Tecumseh Woman.

Experience is the modern instructor.

Profit by the experience of others. It may save your life.

The experience of friends and neighbors.

The testimony of Tecumseh people.

Will bring renewed encouragement.

Here is a case in point.

Mrs. George Burroughs, W. Potawatamie St, says: My whole body ached and my strength and energy left me. Knowing several people in Tecumseh who had been helped by Doan's Kidney Pills, I got a supply at this remedy at Wright & Son's Drug Store and began using them. In a few weeks, I improved in every way and the pains and aches were a thing of the past." DOAN'S MADE A CURE NEARLY THREE YEARS LATER, Mrs. Burroughs added: "I cheerfully endorse Doan's Kidney again for the benefit they brought me has been permanent.

If You Fell Off the Earth.

After you have learned that the earth is spinning through space like a great top and that we are all living on the outside of this top you probably wonder where we would all go if we fell off. The earth itself has enough power of attraction to keep everything on its surface from falling off.

Now, just imagine that this power of attraction stopped altogether. If that happened and you were indoors your head would hit the ceiling. If you were out of doors you would go straight up into the sky for a long time, and gradually you would begin to move slower and slower and slower, for the resistance of the air would retard you. At last you would come to a stop, and there you would stay. And very cold you would find it.

If the air did not resist, with the least little jump you would go sailing off into space. That is the only way you could fall off the earth, when the earth's attraction stopped and when the air did not resist.—Exchange.

Drills Tiny Holes.

Making an adding machine required the drilling of ten holes in a steel plate a thirty-second of an inch thick, each hole to be accurate to a thousandth of an inch, yet no bigger than a pin in diameter. Such a problem stopped the manufacture of the machine on a commercial basis until the inventor of the calculator could invent a means of solving it.

The machine devised stands but twelve inches high. The drill which was built carries ten spindles, each holding a drill of No. 6 Morse gauge, which is about the size of a pin of ordinary use. Each little sliver of steel that does the work is driven by a belt operating through a cam head and therefore works at the same speed as that of its neighbors.

The actual drilling requires ten seconds.—Illustrated World.

Two Coyotes.

"We watched two coyotes in captivity the other day," said a man interested in humane work. "They were of the same age, of the same parentage on both sides. They have been nearly a year confined in the cage. One of them, the male, is as restless a creature as one might ever see, almost never quiet, hurrying back and forth with rapid steps from one end of the cage to the other, apparently never free from fear, the eye restless and wild. The other, the female, is as gentle as a dog, likes to lean against the bars and be petted, is without fear, a restful, and one might imagine, a contented animal. Here is the old question of heredity. Families of humans present the same problem."—Detroit Free Press.

Turks' Names For Greeks.

The Turks have definite names for the Greeks who inhabit Ottoman territory and for those who are their own masters. The latter are Yunan and their country Yunanistan—names derived from "Ionia"—while the Greeks and Turks are Rum. By origin this is simply "Romans" and is an inheritance from the Byzantine days, when the inhabitants of Constantinople, the new Rome, were called Romaioi, while the provincials were known as Helladikoi. "Rum" was the conquering Turks' name for the Byzantine empire. It survives in Roumelia, while the popular Greek language of the present day is still known as Romaic. But every Greek, in Greece or in Turkey, calls himself a Hellene.—London Spectator.

A Mistake Somewhere.

A helpful friend recently requested us to write a funny piece about a game we used to play in boyhood's glad days called "hiding in the barn." He alleged that part of the gang hid and the rest searched for them, and when they were found all hands jumped and yelled most gleefully. This, be tried to remind us, was very, very funny. Either our memory is failing or we have lost our sense of humor, for as we recollect it our father did the hiding and we jumped and yelled. And it does not seem amusing to us even yet.—Kansas City Star.

ONCE A SOVEREIGN STATE.

Now Noli Is Simply a Fishing Village With a Past.

One of the oddest and quaintest little independent states that ever existed in Europe—the tiny republic of Noli, founded before Rome and maintaining its liberty for many centuries until Napoleon swept away its privileges—is today merely a fishing village near Genoa, but it is full of reminders of its former greatness and affords a wonderful glimpse of mediaeval times. Destroyed by the Carthaginians in 217 B. C., and who knows how often by subsequent marauders, there seemed no limit to her powers of recovery.

This quaint little fishing village maintained itself as a sovereign state for centuries, took a prominent part in the quarrels of Guelphs and Ghibellines, sent doughty warriors to the Crusades, commanded the interest of emperors and popes and only succumbed at last to the armies of Napoleon. Dante clambered hither over terrible hills on hands and knees and revenged himself by consigning Noli to his "Purgatory."

Everybody is rich in this poor man's paradise, says the Wide World Magazine. During the anchovy months it is not rare for the 120 boats to earn $4,000 in a night, or $75,000 in a season. Through fish alone a man earns far more than a clerk, besides which he has no "appearances" to keep up. Under these happy conditions he soon acquires land and houses, which afford a steady revenue while he sleeps or fishes. The earth here has only to be scratched in order to bring forth wealth, so rich is the soil and so abundant the water.

Setting Her Right.

Aunt Rachel—I see you've patched it up with Archie and he's coming here again oftener than ever. He's asked you to marry him fifty times, hasn't he? Miss Mandy—Oh, dear, no, aunty, but I suppose he has asked me fifty times to marry him.

"Corns All Gone! Let's ALL Kick!"

Isn't it wonderful what a difference just a little "Gets-It" makes,—on corns and calluses? It's always night somewhere in the world, with many folks humped up with cork-screwed faces, gouging, picking, drilling out their corns, making packages of their toes with plasters, bandages, tape and contraptions,—and the "holler" in their corns goes on forever! Don't you do it. Use "Gets-It," it's marvelous, simple, never fails. Apply it in 2 seconds. Nothing to stick to the stocking, hurt or irritate the toe. Pain stops. Corn comes "clean off" quick. It's one of the gems of the world. Try it—you'll kick—from joy. For corns, calluses, warts, bunions.

"Whee! I Don't Care! I Got Rid of My Corns With 'Gets-It'!"

"Gets-It" is sold everywhere, 25c a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.

TRICKY AND A BLUFFER.

The Spreading Adder Will Fool You If You Don't Know Him.

He's a sly creature, this snake. When he's discovered and trapped he'll make such a hullabaloo about it, with his hissing and contortions, that if you're not wise to the fact that he's only bluffing you're sure to be frightened. If you're acquainted with him, however, and refuse to run, he'll give one final twist and roll over on his back, just as though he had made up his mind to die and save you the trouble of killing him. But don't be fooled. He's only playing possum. He's the spreading adder.

His tricks have resulted in all sorts of wild stories about him. Many people believe he's poisonous, because he spreads his head out flat and hisses when he's disturbed. As a matter of fact, he couldn't hurt you if you picked him up by the head. He's only bluffing when he hisses.

Then there's another story about the spreading adder to the effect that he will bite himself and fall over dead. This belief comes from his habit of playing possum when he sees he's cornered and can't escape.

The spreading adder is about thirty inches long, a reddish brown and blotched and spotted. He lives in dry woods and on sandy hillsides and eats toads and insects. He's also called the blowing viper or the hognosed adder.—Philadelphia North American.

HAS TO SPLIT HIS TIPS.

Not All the Money the Waiter Gets Goes Into His Pocket.

Don't think the waiters are getting rich. They might if they could keep all their tips, but—

Comes a waiter of twenty years' service who says the man who does the serving is lucky if he gets 25 per cent of his tip money.

"We wouldn't complain much if we were allowed to keep our tips," he said, "but the waiter is by necessity the best tipper in the world. He has to split his tips at least five ways. The head waiter gets his, the captain has his hand out, and the 'scrub' waiter and cook are next in line.

"If the waiter keeps all the money the captain will soon get wise to him, and he will get no more 'live ones' steered up to his table. If the cook is neglected the waiter might get his orders cold from the kitchen. If he doesn't cross the palm of the head waiter with silver once in awhile he will be looking for another job.

"The popular idea that all waiters are rich is 'all wrong.' The average waiter gets about $6 or $8 a week, and some of them get less. The man that leaves a quarter in the tray is really giving the waiter about 6 cents."—Chicago Tribune.

Letters and Postage Stamps.

"Strange ideas some people have about postage," said the clerk who opens the mail. "Yes. See this letter here with three one-cent stamps on it and stamped 1 cent due? That's a case in point. The writer of that letter thought that perhaps it weighed a little over an ounce, a little more than would go for 2 cents, and so he put on a little more postage—1 cent more—which he thought would cover it, when the fact is that it required an additional two cent stamp. Of course you know that letter postage is not fractional, but that it goes in multiples of two. If a letter weighs ever so little over an ounce it requires an additional two cent stamp. But not everybody seems to know this, and so we sometimes get letters like this one with a little more postage for a little more weight."—New York Sun.

Jenkins' Ear.

There was a war known as "the war of Jenkins' ear." It came about in the following way: In the year 1731 an English merchant vessel was boarded by a Spanish guardship, and the captain, one Robert Jenkins, was most cruelly used, one of his ears being torn off in the scrimmage. Obtaining no redress by appealing to his government, he appeared before parliament in 1738, when the convention of the Pardo was so excitedly discussed that war followed. Jenkins' story was verified by the admiralty records so recently as 1899.—Exchange.

Definition of an Ohm.

An ohm, as defined by the international congress on electrical units and standards, is the resistance offered to the passage of an electric current by a column of mercury of uniform cross section having a mass of 223.0248 grains and a height of 41.8503 inches at the temperature of melting ice.

In the bureau of standards at Washington are four standard ohms so perfectly made and kept that when tested recently their average deviation from their mean value was less than .00001 ohm.

Music and Dancing.

It does not follow that in order to write successful dance music a person must be an expert dancer. It is said that, though Johann Strauss and his family wrote dance music for three or four generations, not one of them could dance a step.

SCARLET FEVER IN MICHIGAN SPREADS

Western Michigan Conditions Laid to Poor Regulations.

Lansing, Mar. 13.—With practically double the number of cases of scarlet fever in Michigan now as at this time last year, state health officials are beginning to fear a general epidemic.

Plans to compel complete isolation of cases have been sent to different parts of the state.

The first two months of 1916, there were reported to the state board 1,183 cases. During the same period of 1915 there were but 503 reported.

While the great majority of the cases now have come from the western side of the state, almost the entire state shows a high increase. Escanaba in January and February reported 20 cases, as against none in 1915; the city of Jackson has 56, as opposed to 10 last year; Adrian township, Lenawee county, reports 31, as against one last year, while Saginaw has 30, with but 19 the year before.

Muskegon Fears Plotters.

Muskegon, Mar. 13.—L. E. Bradley, secretary of the Muskegon Employes' association, appealed to Prosecuting Attorney Harris E. Galpin and Sheriff Fred J. Collins to name more armed deputy sheriffs to thwart attacks which, it is feared, will be made on local munitions plants.

Was Martha Washington's Descendant.

Detroit, Mar. 13.—Mrs. Henry Plassa, wife of Henry Plassa, a former city assessor, died in a local hospital following an operation. Mrs. Plassa was the great great granddaughter of Martha Washington.

He who feedeth the hungry refresheth his own soul; thus saith wisdom.—Nietzsche.

Coroners in England.

In early times the coroner in England was a revenue officer of the crown, and his business was to find out the criminals, extort their confessions and confiscate their goods to the crown. From records it appeared that King Alfred had a predilection for hanging his coroners because they did what was unjust.

BRITISH SUPPLY SHIP SUNK IN NORTH SEA

Two Officers and Twelve Men Are Reported Lost.

London, Mar. 13.—The British admiralty announces that the mercantile fleet auxiliary ship Fauvette has been mined off the east coast and sunk. The casualties were two officers and twelve men.

The steamship Fauvette of British registry was of 2,644 tons, built in 1912, and owned by the General Steam Navigation company, Ltd., of London. She was 315 feet long, 43 feet on the beam, with a draught of 18 feet.

BANK THWARTS BOLD FRAUD

Woman With Draft for $700 Flees as Status of Paper Is Probed.

Indianapolis, Mar. 13.—Thomas H. Kaylor, assistant cashier of the Indiana National bank, and C. L. Hunt, cashier of the Hunter bank at Brownsburg, Ind., thwarted what they believe to have been a confidence game played by a man and woman. The climax came when a woman about twenty years old presented to Mr. Kaylor a draft for $700 drawn by the Brownsburg bank. She represented herself to be Mrs. Homer Girt, but a telephone call to Brownsburg disclosed that Mrs. Girt was dead. The woman disappeared while the telephone call was being made.

The draft had been issued to a man representing himself as an attorney for Girt and was on the strength of an order sent the bank by Preston Smith, who owed Girt $700 on a note. The alleged attorney told Smith Girt was in jail at Indianapolis and needed the money.

URGE WILSON TO ADVISE SOLONS

Congress Thinks It Should Be Consulted.

DOUBT AUTHORITY TO INVADE

It Is Reported Many Representatives Hold President Can Not Enter Mexico if Country Resists Without Approval of Lawmakers—Carranza Proposal Also Needs Approval.

Washington, Mar. 13.—President Wilson is seriously considering the advisability of calling out five regiments of National Guard cavalry to go to the border to do patrol duty there in place of the regular soldiers who are being sent into Mexico in pursuit of Villa. In case the President calls on the National Guard cavalry, regiments from New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Ohio and Illinois all regarded as "crack" regiments will be chosen for patrol duty at the beginning. In all likelihood infantry regiments in Texas, New Mexico and Arizona will be called on also. Each of these states has a complete regiment of infantry ready for service. Texas in addition to the regiment of infantry has three troops of cavalry it can furnish. There are approximately sixty-five men in each troop.

Washington, Mar. 13.—President Wilson may be urged by congressional leaders to appear before congress and explain his Mexican plans.

Several leaders have voiced the belief the President should take congress into his confidence. The growth of this opinion was accepted as evidence that apprehension is felt by congressional leaders over the outcome of the Funston expedition into Mexico to "get Villa."

Congress Aid Necessary.

Two reasons were advanced for the belief the President should fully advise congress as to his plans. First, it was held that congress as the only body authorized to declare war, would have to act if the Mexican forces joined in defense against the invading army. In such case, it is urged, the President would have stronger support in carrying out any move necessary if he were to take congress into his confidence in this preliminary step.

Second, there are strong arguments that the President has no authority, without approval of the senate, to enter into any reciprocal arrangement by which the United States troops may enter Mexico to pursue bandits, and Mexican troops may enter the United States similarly if necessity arises.

Believed Treaty Needed.

Members of congress opposed to the reciprocal arrangement, or to any deal with Carranza, took the position that the President has no authority to authorize an armed force of another country to enter American territory in order to pursue outlaws and criminals, but that this must be arranged by treaty process.

Think President Has Authority.

The tentative position of the administration is strongly against this view. The administration believes the President has full authority to enter into an arrangement by which Carranza troops may follow a "hot trail" into the United States where necessary to pursue bandits.

The "hot trail" theory is the one urged by the United States to support its plan for sending a punitive expedition into Mexico to catch Villa and the bandit horde that has been terrorizing the American citizens on the border.

LIGHT BRIGADE HERO DIES

Illinoisan Is Believed Last Survivor of Famous British Regiment.

Joliet, Ill., Mar. 13.—William Roberts, eighty-six years old, believed to be the last of the survivors of the Twelfth Royal Lancers, the heroes of Tennyson's poem, "Charge of the Light Brigade," died here of old age.

He was one of the "noble six hundred," but missed the gallant charge at the battle of Balaklava when sent as a special courier to another division.

Not An Epicure.

One afternoon a sad eyed hobo rambled up the garden walk of a suburban home and meekfully tapped on the back door.

"Lady," said he in a tearful voice to the woman who answered his knock, "I hain't had a thing to eat since last week. If you would only give me some bread or"—

"Mary," suddenly interjected the woman, addressing some invisible person, "bring Towser out here at once."

"All right, dear lady," said the hobo in a resigned voice; "even dog meat is better than starvin' to death."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

U. S. NOT GOING INTO MEXICO HALF COCKED

Task Ahead Arduous One, Says General Funston.

San Antonio, Tex., Mar. 13.—"We do not ourselves know just when the expedition that will search for Francisco Villa will start into Mexico, although of course, it will be soon.

"It will go forward just as soon as a sufficient number of men with an adequate commissariat can be organized. It will not be held back however, until all the troops now ordered to the border have arrived."

This was the statement of Major General Frederick Funston while he was outlining at Fort Sam Houston, southern department headquarters, as closely as military expediency would permit the command that will be directed against the former rebel leader.

He added: "There is no use going at this thing half cocked. The task ahead of us will be a long and arduous one."

BORDER MUST BE FIRMLY GUARDED

Troops Will Not Invade Mexico at Once.

FEAR IS FELT FOR COLONISTS

Two Regiments at El Paso Entraining—Troops from All Parts of Country Being Pushed Toward Mexico—Carranza Commander Refuses Troops to Move Mormons Periled by Villa.

El Paso, Tex., Mar. 13.—Three developments have brought the border situation to a crucial point and revived the fear of a general Mexican uprising that followed the Columbus raid last week. They are:

First—Continued raids and outrages by Villa and his bandits, both in the Casas Grandes country and east in the Torreon district, have shown the United States military authorities that the Carranza government either will not or cannot check the activities of the "scourage of the border."

Second—Refusal of General Gabriel Gavira, in command of the Carranza forces at Juarez, to send troops to Casas Grandes, where 500 Mormons are cut off from all aid and threatened with death at the hands of the retreating Villa bands, and reports from Americans aboard a train arriving in Juarez of insults from Carranza officers, have given General Pershing and the military leaders at Fort Bliss grave apprehension that Carranza will, after all, unite with Villa against the Americans in case of an invasion by American troops.

Third—The report that American troops were to move from Fort Bliss through Juarez as one of three columns of a punitive expedition to get Villa, has brought evident unrest in the Mexican colony of 30,000 in El Paso, and a general uprising is feared simultaneously with the crossing of the first American troops over the international bridge.

Pershing Lines Up Scouts.

El Paso, Mar. 13.—General J. J. Pershing spent the afternoon in conference with a number of cowboys who have worked on the various big ranches in Northern Mexico. Bishop Hurst, representing the Mormon colonists in Northern Mexico, also admits that he is gathering a number of young Mormons, familiar with northern Mexico, for use as scouts for the United States.

This, and the packing of the Sixth and Sixteent infantry regiments in Camp Cotton, in the southern part of El Paso, were the only indications of preparations for an invasion of Mexico.

In El Paso all the railroads are busy "spotting" cars for the American troops. Practically all wholesale grocery houses were kept busy supplying provisions to the quartermasters of the government. There was a general switching of troops guarding El Paso.

Border Must First Be Secure.

Mayor Lea was in consulation with General Pershing and also had wire communication with Washington relative to the protection of El Paso. The mayor was assured that El Paso would not be left without ample protection which leads to the belief that no expedition into Mexico will be attempted until all troops now reported moving in this direction from interior United States points have reached the border. It is also generally admitted that even without considering the necessity for border protection the forces now on the border are not of sufficient strength to warrant the United States expedition in crossing the line at once. There is also a belief, which not only maintains in civilian circles but extends to military circles that the United States is in no hurry to rush an expedition into Mexico until the attitude of Carranza and his chiefs and men is more thoroughly understood by the United States.

Takes Time to Invade Mexico.

An officer talking of the situation said: "The United States is not ready to go in yet. It takes time to get provisions, transportation and other things ready. The troops here on the border could have marched into Mexico on three hours' notice without much inconvenience but railroad equipment had to be secured and a means of taking baggage and commissaries had to be secured. The army, though it has been on duty on the border for five years, is not supplied with the proper equipment for a campaign. The troops are supplied with everything for border guard duty, but not for an expedition, and it may require days to get everything ready."

Stockton Bates Is Dead.

Philadelphia, Mar. 13.—Stockton Bates, known in all parts of America and Great Britain for his Masonic connections, died at his home, 7441 Devon street, Mount Airy. He was secretary of the Grand Royal Arch chapter of Pennsylvania, and president of the Masonic home.

Joffre Presides Over War Council.

Paris, Mar. 13.—General Joffre, commander in chief of the French armies, presided over the council of war of the entente allies which reassembled at the French army headquarters.

Laughter.

Laughter begins either with the mouth or the eyes. Then come the other muscular groups, and then come the vocal expressions of laughter, such as brays, cackles, sniggers, simpers, giggles, snorts, grunts, foghorn rumbles, yells, shrieks, guffaws, trills, chuckles, sniffles and all sorts of peculiar bird notes and musical sounds.—Exchange.

No One to Do It.

"You say you have three small children. Can't you find work?"

The man with the three days' beard and the ragged trousers wiped away a tear.

"Alas, mum," he said, "it wouldn't be any good. They ain't old enough to work yet."

TWO FACED JANUS.

He Was the Ancient Sun God as Well as the God of War.

Poor old Janus! Do you know how shamefully posterity has maligned him? You have heard all your life that January was named for the Roman god Janus and that Janus was the god of war, hence the first month of the year must be turbulent. Or perhaps you have gone deeper into the significance of the first month's name and have been told that it was given the honor of heralding that gory god because he had two faces one looking into the past and the other looking into the future, as the first month of the year naturally would do. But through it all you have held rigidly before you the fact that he was the patron, the devotee, perhaps even the instigator of war.

As a matter of history, Janus was a venerable and thoroughly established deity before the little band of Trojans carried eastern culture to Italy, when the primitive Italians had not begun to suspect that war was an institution which called for a "goat." War needed no justification or excuse. Men fought because that seemed the only thing to do. As for Janus, he was their greatest sun god. He presided over the rising and setting of the sun, and hence he was the god who looked after the propitious beginnings and happy endings of all undertakings. He was represented with two faces, which looked to the east and the west. His temple in Rome was closed only in time of peace, and as there seldom was peace it was usually open. Hence he was called the god of war.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

TRIBUTE TO THE MULE.

With All His Faults He Is a More or Less Noble Character.

The mule is singularly free from the ills to which horseflesh is heir. He has more days' work in him in 365 consecutive days than any farm animal or farm engine. He requires less feed when at work than any horse that can approach his capacity, for when he is idle he can forage successfully where the draft horse finds the picking too slim. He takes pot luck with any owner cheerfully and keeps fit upon it.

In peace the mule is man's most faithful servant, although the gentlest of his kind is not entirely free from original sin and the oldest may experience unaccountable sporadic outbreaks of devilment.

In war the mule retains his character as a hard toiler, a good scout and a homely figure about whom the poets and painters at the front do not grow enthusiastic. Although he is unsung when living and not greatly honored, he is not unwept when at thirty or beyond he lies down, sighs peacefully rather than regretfully and gives up his Spartan spirit.

If there is a hereafter for animals the mules' paradise is a series of Elysian fields with fences that only a good jumper can clear, with colts to chase, with something alive and preferably two legged to kick and with plenty of rough, plain victuals and a few goats to play with in sportive moods and negro drivers not brutal, yet not too indulgent, for human companionship.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Portuguese and Codfish.

It is an interesting fact that the fishermen of northern Portugal started and developed the fishing industry on the "banks" off the northern coast of America, and, though they now send fewer ships, their taste for salt cod from Newfoundland is unabated—in fact, it is a national Portuguese dainty. It is found in every little grocery shop, hard and brown as a board. A number of Portuguese have made their homes on the islands to the south of the mainland of Massachusetts, and there the dark eyes of the Iberian maiden, raven locks and a certain picturesque element in dress are not infrequent. This connection with Portugal dates back many years, the ships of Marthas Vineyard bridging the distance over sea and returning with Portuguese crews.—Exchange.

Royal Nicknames.

Louis XIV. was "Le Grand Monarque." His court was the model for European princes.

Louis Philippe was the "Citizen King;" at one time he was "King Smith," the name he assumed when he escaped from France.

Mary, queen of Scots, was the "White Queen."

Mary of Modena, wife of James II., was the "Queen of Tears."

The "Nine Days' Queen" was Lady Jane Grey.

Christian III. of Denmark was the "Father" of his people.

Could Eat as Well as Write.

Dr. Johnson was a great tea drinker. It is stated that he would drink thirty or forty cups of tea during an evening! Yet he lived to a fair age and apparently suffered no very ill effects from his great thirst for tea. He was one of the most notable of feeders and ate his food in what we should now think rather a piggish fashion, making great grunts and groans of satisfaction or enjoyment the while and going the round of the menu very thoroughly.

Charles Reade, the famous novelist, is reported to have been one of the strangest feeders on record. A contemporary, writing of his meals at the Garrick club, says: "He took a cauliflower, flanked by a jug of cream, as his first course, and a great salad to follow, washed down by curious drinks of the shandygaff order. He would drink coffee associated with sweets, black pudding and toasted cheese, to the amazement of any onlooker."

Another Reason.

"They call her the human graphophone."

"Just because she buzzes a bit?"

"It's on account of the airs she puts on."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

COMMUNICATIONS

LETTER FROM H. C. CONKLING

4512 9th St. N. W.
Washington, March 6th, 1916.

EDITOR TECUMSEH HERALD,
Dear Sir:

The City of Washington is experiencing a calamity which has never visited it before. There has been a rumor for some time that there was a good deal of dissatisfaction among the conductors and motormen of all the trolley lines of the city, and they demand larger pay and shorter hours of service.

Last Saturday night at 12 o'clock the storm broke and nearly every car was deserted by its crew and thousands who usually use the cars were obliged to take to the sidewalks if they reached their homes. A few cars were kept running, but very few as volunteer crews could be obtained.

Yesterday was a very quiet Sunday throughout the city and the congregations of most of the churches were much smaller than usual. The railroad officials and the strikers were all yesterday and until 3 o'clock this morning in conference, but the strife has not yet been settled though the morning papers have notices from the railroad managers that they will have cars running by 6 o'clock this morning sufficient to take care of all passengers who wish to ride.

The hoodlums of the street take the opportunity to aid the strikers by throwing stones at the few cars running and two women were hurt by stones thrown through the windows.

As the President's request for a vote of confidence from congress on his policy in regard to the sinking of merchant ships, which will take place tomorrow in the House of Representives, if the strike is not settled today a great many people will be unable to get to the capitol.

The Senate chamber was crowded to its utmost capacity last week when the vote was taken there for the same purpose.

H. C. CONKLING.

WHAT ADDISON IS DOING

Addison, March 11.—Owing to the yearly increase of students in the high school, it was decided at the last board meeting to employ an extra teacher the [illegible] room will be finished off in the basement. It has been impossible to seat all the students in the two class rooms without being compelled to sit two in a seat and a number would have to sit in the grammar room. There has been as many as 40 students in one class this year, and it was thought advisable to divide up the classes or accept only a limited number of foreign students each year. It is possible that in the near future a domestic science course will be introduced here and a teacher employed especially to teach it.—Adrian Telegram.

The above shows what Addison is doing in school work. Also she is beginning to see the need of modern methods which have been taught in city schools for some years.

Are we going to be behind the little town of Addison? It is impossible to use any of the modern methods in our schools for lack of facilities. That is one reason for a new school building, that we may be able to teach modern methods when the time arrives to put them in force.

Some say the present building was good enough for our grandfathers and ought to be good enough for us. When our High School was built sixty years ago, it was one of forty in the United States. High schools were something new; they had been building them less than twenty years at that time. Does it look as if our grandfathers were behind their times?

Compare our telephones, electric lights, water system and sewer with what they had. It is in educational matters that we are behind; we haven't the enterprise our grandfathers had.

We need the modern school improvements as much as we need our modern conveniences. Let every voter in Tecumseh become a BOOSTER, let each voter consider himself a committee of one to talk to others and explain the necessity of being as up-to-date as our grandfathers were when they built the present building, sixty years ago.

India's Hoarded Gold.

For many years London has been steadily drained of her gold by India. In ten years India has absorbed from circulation 150,000,000 gold sovereigns and hoarded them away. The coolie has learned that silver rupees are a poor investment, especially if he melts them into anklets or a nose ring for his wife, as over 30 per cent of the silver is lost in the melting pot, while the gold sovereign preserves its value whether he keeps it as a coin or melts it. When a coolie collects 15 rupees which he finds to be temporarily surplus he buys a sovereign with it. He has come to understand the wisdom of hoarding away only the gold coin, which he knows he can always realize on at its original value.

African Fashion Notes.

The prettiest dress of the Mpongwe woman is a cloth drawn up under the arms, a scarf on the shoulders and a handkerchief folded over the coiled hair in a high stiff fold set well up on the head, rather like a child's idea of a crown. There is a great fancy for purples and lavenders set off with shades of rose and red and a sudden keen note of gilt. With black there will be a touch of most delicious bright green. A cloth and a scarf worn by a woman of beautiful gesture—and a Gabonnaise is always that—have a certain mutable charm; the movements of the body, the wind that blows from the sea—these renew and display the folds of the garment so that the eye is intrigued.—Atlantic.

Great Knowledge.

"Does he know anything about a car?"

"He certainly does. He knows how to sell it after it gets worn out."—Puck.

Without kind offices and useful services, wherever the power and opportunity occur, love would be a hollow pretense.—Coleridge.

Scene from "The Folly Burlesquers" at the Bradley Opera House, Thursday night, March 16.

"THE FOLLY BURLESQUERS"

In presenting "The Folly Burlesquers" at the Bradley Opera House, Thursday, March 16th, the management wishes to state that he saw the show at Battle Creek Sunday afternoon and that it is a burlesque show in every sense of the word, right off the city circuit, playing four performances in Battle Creek, four in Lansing and the following Saturday and Sunday after the Tecumseh engagement they play two nights and two matinees in Fort Wayne. The show is the same as you would see at the Empire, in Toledo, with the usual German comedians, the usual chorus and all the usual flourishes that go with all burlesque shows. The management wishes to announce these facts so that patrons of the Bradley will know exactly the character of the entertainment.

The cast includes Richy W. Craig the popular German comedian and Miss Dorothy Blodgett, the American beauty supported by a company of 25. The special acts include "The Berlins" undoubtly the best comedy pair on wheels on the stage today. A complete car load of scenery is carried for the production.

The prices for this engagement are 25c, 50c, 75c and a few at $1.00.

Don'ts For Poets.

Arthur Guiterman in a recent interview gave a list of negative commandments for would be poets. "Don't think of yourself as a poet and dress the part," he says. "Don't frequent exclusively the company of writers. Don't complain of lack of appreciation. (In the long run no really good published work can escape appreciation) Don't speak of poetic license or believe that there is any such thing. Don't use 'e'er' for 'ever,' 'o'er' for 'over,' 'when as' or 'what time' for 'when' or any of the 'poetical' commonplaces of the past. Don't say 'did go' for 'went,' even if you need an extra syllable. Don't—don't write hymns to the great god Pan. He is dead; let him rest in peace! Don't write what everybody else is writing."—Kansas City Star.

Our Navy a Century Ago.

One hundred years ago the naval force of the United States on the Atlantic coast consisted of thirty-three vessels, twenty-seven of which were in commission. Among them were a dozen great ships, first class frigates and sloops of war, some of them carrying as many as seventy-four guns each. They were all sailing vessels. The era of the steam warship, however, was close at hand. With the aid of an appropriation from congress there was now nearing completion a "floating steam battery," designed by Robert Fulton. This ship, which was launched a few months later, was the first steam war vessel ever built and was destined to revolutionize the methods of naval warfare throughout the world.—Exchange.

The Old Greek Cuirass.

The Greeks had a cuirass made of linen or woolen fibers which was impenetrable to the sharpest darts or spears. That, by the way, is one of the discoveries that have not been rediscovered, for we do not know the secret of its manufacture.

MRS. EVA L. BOYCE

Death has been busy of late calling one here, one there, and March 8 at 1:30 a. m., Mrs. Eva L. Boyce, aged 60 years, was called from her earthly home, where to mortal-ken she was so much needed, to the home beyond.

The funeral services were held Friday p. m, March 10, conducted by her pastor Rev. W. A. Rex, who spoke words of comfort, taking as the text Rev 22:14. Mrs. Mills and Mrs. Camburn, members of her S. S. class, sang "Jesus Lover of my Soul" and "Asleep in Jesus."

The casket was laden and surrounded by a wealth of beautiful flowers, the silent tribute of friends to the memory of one they loved. A large concourse of relatives and friends attended the funeral, showing by their presence love and sympathy to those left to mourn.

Eva A. Limbarker was married to John T. Boyce April 12, 1882. To them was born one daughter Mildred, who was a successful teacher in Detroit until three weeks ago when she was called home on account of the failing health of her mother. After the home-coming of Mildred, Mrs Boyce failed rapidly, in spite of the best medical attention and the constant ministrations of loving hands and hearts. Knowing that the malady was incurable, it was merciful when the poor tired body was at rest from pain and suffering.

She was of a quiet, very unassuming nature, never intruding, but by her amiable fine Christian character, endeared herself to all who knew her with enduring affection. She was a true and honored wife, a devoted mother, a faithful and dutiful daughter, a loyal friend, and a conscientious member of the Presbyterian church with which she united in 1895. Her aged mother, Mrs. Cleveland aged 80 years has been a member of the home circle for fifteen years, since the death of her husband.

To her the death of Mrs. Boyce is very sad as she was both a daughter and constant companion, but to her and the sorrowing husband and daughter are left blessed memories that rest as a benediction upon them and of her surely can be said, "Blessed are those who do His commandments, that they may have a right to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates into the city," Rev 22 14.

A South American Hobo.

Santiago, capital of Chile, is the home of the roto Chileno, or broken Chilean, most picturesque and unique of hoboes. The name is a byword in South America, and as far as that continent is concerned he is a unique type. We find rich people everywhere and poor people everywhere, but in no other South American country but Chile do we find this good natured, serviceable, deceitful, ragged, drunken, criminal species of tramp. He earns a livelihood by begging, doing odd jobs and thieving. The last is his mainstay. In his hands stealing has become a fine art. The Chileans have a saying that he will steal your socks without touching your boots. A long, jointed wire with a hook at the end is his favorite tool. If a window on the street is left unguarded he will with this simple contrivance successfully remove from the interior everything but the heavy furniture.—New York Independent.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Josephine Daisher Celebrates 8th Birthday Saturday March 11, 1916.

Such a beautiful birthday party,
  We had the other day,
Josephine Daisher was hostess
  And everything pleasant and gay.

There were twenty-four of us together,
  And we had such a jolly good time
I couldn't tell half we were doing
  And make it all come into rhyme

We had games and they gave out some prizes,
  Mary Barrett had first one, a plate
And Dorothy Bly had the second,
  Some candy, I'm pleased to relate.

And then such a lunch as they served us,
  Three courses I'm sure, if not four,
And such a big cake for the birthday
  I never had witnessed before.

And souvenirs many and fancy
  They gave to each one that was there.
'Twas the jolliest birthday, I tell you,
  And the merriest crowd that was there,

And Josephine was such a lady,
  So loving and kind to us all,
We wish she may have many birthdays
Wherever her future may fall.

FROM THE BATTLE FIELDS OF EUROPE.

Jones & Sons had on exhibition in the east window of their store Saturday a number of relics from the German battlefields. Could we know the history of those who wore these garments we could trace many a heart ache and broken home and as we look at the weapons of distruction we wonder how the ingenuity of man could conceive of things so horrible.

Gastons' for St. Patrick's souvenirs. adv

Last Friday being Mrs. Elroy Zimmerman's birthday, about 25 of her friends and neighbors dropped in upon her with well laden baskets and helped her to celebrate the event in good style Social visiting and pedro furnished the amusements. As they left for their homes they extended best wishes for many happy returns of the day.

MRS. WARREN L. JONES.

Mrs. Velina Hall—Jones passed away at her home in Ridgeway Sunday at 12 o'clock noon after a lingering illness from a general break down

Her funeral was held this Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock sun time with burial at Tecumseh. Her husband, and daughter May and her sister Miss Ella Hall of Brooklyn N. Y., and relatives and friends are left to mourn her loss.

OUR CHURCHES

Our churches will unite in a special effort. Next Sunday will be the beginning. Each church will conduct its own services in the morning and in the evening the union service at the Presbyterian church.

Let each church count those in attendance at the morning service and Sunday school and report to the writer in the evening. We will then sum up the total attendance and announce it at that service. Don't guess at it but make an honest report—church people ought to be honest, you know.

The services during the week time will be held at 7:15; Monday and Tuesday evenings at the Presbyterian church, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings at the Methodist church. No meeting on Saturday evening. W. B. Hartzog.

First prize, $100 in gold—R. F. DeSpelder, 113 Blackford avenue, Evansville, Ind

Second prize, $50 in gold—Clarence V. Franks, box 89, Owensboro, Ky.

Third prize, $25 in gold—Miss Edythe Seiler, 1210 Walnut street, Evansville, Ind.

Fourth prize, $15 in gold—George F. Renking, 1415 Upper Second street, Evansville, Ind.

Fifth prize, $10 in gold—Elizabeth Winslow, 19 Chandler avenue, Evansville, Ind.

Awards in The Courier's ad-writing contest were announced yesterday by the judges. The winner of first prize is R. F. DeSpelder, 113 Blackford avenue, whose set of sixty advertisements written for as many firms were given fourteen "firsts". In the contest, nearly 300 amateur ad-writers took part, making a total of 18,000 advertisements penned.

The advertisements were submitted to the various firms for which they were written and graded by these firms. The grading was by per cent, the best ad getting 100 per cent, the next best 90 per cent, and so on until the ten best were selected. These awards were reported to the judges of the contest as a whole: William Walker, advertising manager of The Andres company; John J. Becker, manager of the Schultz Cloak House and R. S. Fahrner or DeJong's.

In winning first prize, DeSpelder had 1,500 points. The contest was close. Several of the writers developed considerable aptitude for framing catchy ads. In submitting their award, the judges added the following in writing:

We, the undersigned a committee selected to award the prizes in The Courier ad-writing contest, make the following awards. We desire to express our approval of the impartial and fair manner in which this contest has been conducted.

Persimmons as Food.

The only fruit, says a bulletin of the department of agriculture, which equals the persimmon in its value as a food is the date. Nevertheless many persons with fine persimmon trees in their possession are allowing the fruit to go to waste, either through ignorance of the many uses to which it may be put or through prejudice. There is a saying in the persimmon country that persimmons are "good for dogs, hogs and 'possums." This, however, is declared to be a gross injustice to a very valuable product.

One reason for the neglect of this fruit is the mistaken idea that persimmons are unfit to eat until they have been touched by frost. As a matter of fact, much of the best fruit is lost every year because it ripens and falls to the ground, where, not being touched by frost, it is left to rot. Such persimmons as are not edible before frost comes are a late variety of the fruit, and the reason that they pucker the mouth is because they have not yet ripened. In general, the best fruit is that which ripens just before the leaves fall.

The Word "Derrick."

The word "derrick" for a machine used to lift heavy weights is curiously derived from a London hangman in the beginning of the seventeenth century whose name was Theodoric and who is often mentioned in old plays. "He rides circuit with the devil, and Derrick must be his host and Tyborne the inn at which he will light" occurs in "The Bellman of London," published in 1616. The name thus corrupted came afterward to be applied by an easy transition to the gallows and later still to any frame or contrivance resembling it in shape.

SOME GOOD ADVICE

Strengthened by Tecumseh Experiences.

Kidney disease is to dangerous to neglect. At the first sign of backache headache, dizziness or urinary disorders, you should give the weakened kidneys prompt attention. Eat little meat, take things easier and use a reliable kidney tonic. There's no other kidney medicine so well recommended as Doan's Kidney Pills. Tecumseh people rely on them. Here's one of the many statements from Tecumseh people.

W. W. Shurtz, Kilbuck St., Tecumseh, says: "I have taken Doan's Kidney Pills at different times during the past ten years and they have always given me relief from distressing symptoms of kidney complaint. I have procured my supply of Doan's Kidney Pills from Wright and Son's Drug Store and my experience has been so satisfactory that I willing give this public account of it."

OVER TWO YEARS LATER, Mr. Shurtz added: "I willingly re-endorse Doan's Kidney Pills. I have found the medicine acts just as represented."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills the same that Mr. Shurtz had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props. Buffalo, N. Y. adv

SWAYED BY THE WEATHER.

Some Persons Are Greatly Influenced by Climatic Conditions.

Weather influences on man may be roughly divided into two classes—viz, those which are direct and obvious and those which are the more or less indirect and obscure. The influences belonging to the second class have been during the past decade or so the subject of immense research.

Some persons are pronounced "meteoropaths," abnormally subject to "weather neuroses." Friedrich Nietzsche was one par excellence. Such persons, as a rule, are more specifically "cyclonopaths." The passage of cyclonic depressions accompanied by certain characteristic types of weather is reflected in their sensation and in the mode of operation of their bodily and mental functions.

The gross change of barometric pressure pertaining to a cyclone, or "low," is not in itself an important factor in producing these manifestations since it never exceeds that experienced in the ascent (without the effort of climbing) of a good sized hill. Indeed, many "lows" do not expose us to greater pressure of changes in the course of twenty-four hours than we experience in a couple of minutes in riding to the top of an average office building.—Baltimore American.

A GREAT DESTROYER.

One That Is Actively at Work Every Minute of the Day.

I am more powerful than the combined armies of the world. I have destroyed more men than all the wars of the world. I am more deadly than bullets, and I have wrecked more homes than the mightiest of siege guns. I steal in the United States alone more than $300,000,000 each year. I spare no one, and I find my victims among rich and poor alike.

The young and old, the strong and weak, widows and orphans, know me. I loom up to such proportions that I cast my shadows over every field of labor from the turning of the grindstone to the moving of every railroad train. I massacre thousands on thousands of wage earners in a year. I lurk in unseen places and do most of my work silently. You are warned against me, but you heed not. I am relentless.

I am everywhere, in the home, on the streets, in the factory, at railroad crossings, on the seas. I bring sickness, degradation and death, and yet few seek to avoid me. I destroy, crush or maim. I give nothing, but take all. I am your worst enemy. I am Carelessness.—Holyoke Transcript.

Nations That Left No Sign.

There are two great nations of antiquity whose inscriptions cannot yet be read—the Etruscans and the Hittites. The Etruscans occupied a part of Italy corresponding roughly to what is now known as Tuscany. The Hittites at one time occupied a part of Palestine and united with the Canaanites to resist the invasion by the Israelites under Joshua. The Etruscan and Hittite inscriptions have thus far resisted the attempts of scholars to decipher them, though no one knows when some one may stumble on a bilingual inscription which will serve as a key, just as the Rosetta stone, discovered in Egypt in 1799, served as a key to the Egyptian hieroglyphics. In the new world the so called Maya inscriptions, found on the ruins in Yucatan, are also a puzzle to scientists.—Christian Herald.

Somewhat Confusing.

"And how is grannie, Brian?" asked the kind friend.

"Oh, she's better," replied Brian. "The day before yesterday the doctor said that she might get up the day after tomorrow, and yesterday was tomorrow, and today is the day after tomorrow. So she's up today!"

Luminescent Illumination.

There are several substances that become luminescent after long exposure to the rays of the sun, although none of them emits a brilliant light. It is believed that this luminescence could be greatly increased if the problem were investigated with as much care as that given to the development of the incandescent gas mantle. It has been suggested that if a luminescent paint were spread on buildings exposed to brilliant sunshine they would give off stored sunlight during the night and thus preserve one element of the radiant energy of the sun. One authority remarks, "The general use of such a paint would enable the more powerful methods of artificial illumination to be limited to special locations and confine the use of existing systems to indoor service and to spots where little daylight penetrates."—Washington Star.

MAN AND HIS WIFE PRAISE TANLAC

Both have used medicine and both have been greatly benefited.

Eugene Cagney, a prominent farmer, living on North Allegan Road, Allegan, is very enthusiastic about Tanlac. The reason for this is that he and his wife have both used the medicine and have been greatly benefited by it. Not long ago he said:

Tanlac has given me relief from indigestion and stomach disorders and, that too, in a very short time. Both my wife and I used the remedy and both can speak of it in the highest terms. We consider Tanlac the finest stomach remedy ever made."

Tanlac is a wonderful aid in restoring indigestion. The medicine, which is entirely vegetable in composition containing no harmful drugs or minerals, stimulates the digestive and assimilative organs, thus permitting the stomach to thoroughly digest the food. The blood is therefore enriched and the whole system is invigorated.

Tanlac may be obtained here at the store of B. J. Pulver.

Remembering Faces.

Hotel clerks have a way of recognizing guests as soon as they sign a register. The most successful hotel keepers have to have this power of remembering the faces of their guests and all about them or they would soon lose their custom by the mistakes they would make.

Bank cashiers carry in their memories the faces and signature of most of the customers of the bank.

Detectives, too, get into the habit of remembering the faces of every one with whom they have to deal, whether criminals or not.

"I don't think I have ever forgotten a customer," a clerk in one of the big safe deposits recently said. "There are hundreds of safe deposit boxes rented in our vaults, and I can generally remember, without referring to our books, the name, number and password of each customer."—Exchange.

Charley Horse.

"Charley horse," dreaded by ball players, is an ailment consisting of displacement and stricture of the muscles of the leg, often the sartorial muscle. The trouble is commonly brought about, not by running, but by quick stopping at bases. The player who "stops on his feet" is almost certain to acquire the ailment in a short time. The overworked muscle, slipping out of place, knots itself into a great lump and exerts pressure on the surrounding muscles, producing lameness.

Massaging will bring the muscle back to place, but the trouble returns at the next serious strain.

When you see a player make a long slide which appears unnecessary, the reason is that he prefers to scrape off a little skin rather than take chances on "horsing" himself by stopping standing up.—Exchange.

A GENERAL SURVEY OF THE WAR.

Thursday, Mar. 9.—Further progress for the French in the Corbeaux wood is reported in the official statement issued by the war office as well as a German repulse along the front from Douaumont to Vaux.

Berlin reported the capture of Vaux in the day statement, but the night French communique, admitting the Germans entered the village, reported that they were quickly repulsed. Paris claims gains at numerous points along the front.

Petrograd claims the Germans have ordered all Teutons to leave Czernowitz, capital of Buckowina, and that they are removing all German property, anticipating an advance by Russians.

As a result of the seizure of German ships in Portuguese waters, Germany has declared war on that country.

Friday, Mar. 10.—Paris admits that German attackers retook part of the Corbeaux Wood west of the Meuse. Germans report the capture of Ablain Wood and the ridge west of Douaumont. Berlin admits the French have retaken part of the village of Vaux and hold it firmly.

A British torpedo boat destroyer and a torpedo boat were sunk by mines. Forty-five were drowned. The French steamer Louisiane was sunk near Havre supposedly by a submarine. A Swedish steamer in the North sea was sunk by a mine.

Constantinople reports 2,000 British slain in the recent British advance toward Kut-el-Amara.

The Russians have landed a large force in the neighborhood of Trebizond on the Black sea. Teuton consuls have turned their affairs over to the U. S. consulate.

Saturday, Mar. 11.—Saxon regiments at a point near Reims have captured positions over a front claimed by Berlin to be about two-thirds of a mile deep, along 1,400 yards of front, with several guns and more than 700 prisoners were taken.

Berlin announces that the French have been cleared from Corbeaux [illegible] Cumieres woods, west of the Meuse. The official French statement says the Germans captured part of the town of Vaux, northeast of Verdun, but were unable to reach the fortress of that name.

The Portuguese cabinet has resigned to give way to a national defense cabinet. Parliament has authorized the government to take measures necessitated by Germany's declaration of war. It was made known by the foreign minister of the retiring cabinet that Portugal's seizure of German merchantmen which led to Germany's declaration, was made at the request of Great Britain.

Sunday, March 12—An assault by the French infantry in massed formation, northwest of Verdun, was repulsed with heavy losses, according to the official statement issued by the German War Office.

German attacks preceeded by artillery bombardments, succeeded in capturing a small trench to the north of the Verdun sector on the west bank of the meuse.

J. P. Osborne, United Statets consul at Havre, France, in his report to Washington on the sinking of the Norwegian bark Silius, is understood to bring out clearly that the Silius was torpedoed by a submarine. Seven Americans were on board.

Stockton Bates Is Dead.

PHILADELPHIA — Stockton Bates, known in all parts of America and Great Britain for his Masonic connections, died at his home, 1441 Devon street, Mount Airy. He was secretary of the Grand Royal Arch chapter of Pennsylvania, and president of the Masonic home.

Light Brigade Hero Dies.

JOLIET, ILL. — William Roberts, eighty-six years old, believed to be the last of the survivors of the Twelfth Royal Lancers, the heroes of Tennyson's poem, "Charge of the Light Brigade," died here of old age.

Diphtheria discovered at Reed City in the family of Dr. Durham caused the marriage of their eldest daughter, Georgia, to J. Russell, of Detroit, to be postponed for one week.

Paul Mastij, of Norway, Mich., a native of Galicia, aged thirty-five years, is dead at the Swift hospital, after having been an inmate of that institution for nearly a decade with a broken back.

Mrs. L. Ducharme, a Bay City mother, heroically rescued her three-year-old daughter, when her home caught fire, by crawling through the smoke-filled house and groping her way to the child.

Christopher Krafiset, of Zilwaukee, in Saginaw county, committed suicide by placing the muzzle of a shotgun at his head and firing the shot which carried the top of his head away by pressing the trigger with a stick.

Winning Both Ways.

The Zulu young lady, when suitors are not forthcoming, takes the matter in hand herself. She leaves home, takes a discreet friend of her own sex and presents herself at the home of her favored swain. If he regards her with satisfaction his parents receive her as his future bride. Should he, however, be unwilling to accept her he makes her a handsome present instead.

Remedy For Anger.

The greatest remedy for anger is delay. Beg anger to grant you this at the first, not in order that it may pardon the offense, but that it may form a right judgment about it. If it delays it will come to an end. Do not attempt to quell it all at once, for its first impulses are fierce. By plucking away its parts we shall remove the whole. We are made angry by some things which we learn at second hand and by some things which we ourselves hear or see. Now, we ought to be slow to believe what is told us. • • • If you were about to give sentence in court about ever so small a sum of money you would take nothing as proved without a witness, and a witness would count for nothing except on his oath. You would allow both sides to be heard; you would allow them time.—Seneca.

PREPAREDNESS BEING URGED BY SENATORS

General Invasion of Mexico May Be Inevitable.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—All indications in Washington point to the fact that the administration and congress are expecting trouble from the Carranzistas. Should these expectations be realized it is admitted that a general invasion of Mexico is inevitable. With these possibilities in view President Wilson had a long conference with Speaker Clark and Majority Leader Kitchin of the house at which he strongly urged that the preparedness legislation of the administration be put through without delay.

In the senate Senators Chamberlain of Oregon and Borah of Idaho made speeches in which they warned the country to expect grave trouble in Mexico. Senator Chamberlain declared he would not be surprised if Villa were acclaimed as a national hero for his attack on Columbus and that 50,000 Mexicans rallied to his standard to repel the American forces. Senator Borah reminded the senate that it was impossible to predict the consequences of the move against Villa and declared that if Carranza or his followers opposed the American expedition the U. S. would need a force of 50,000 men in Mexico and 100,000 more to guard the border. Both senators strongly urged that no time be lost in acting on preparedness legislation.

WAR MIGHT DO HIM GOOD

Thinks America a Sort of International Cross Roads.

PITTSBURGH, PA.—Attorney M. J. Brennen, already slated as one of the Wilson organization candiates for delegate at large from Pennsylvania to the Democratic national convention at St. Louis, it developed, presided at a Robert Emmett birthday meeting of the Clan Na Gael of Western Pennsylvania Sunday night, and led in the denunciation of England, the praise of Germany and condemnation of her traducers, and the glorifying of the title "hyphenated Americans." One of the resolutions read:

"We denounce the know nothing propaganda against hyphenated Americans, and we affirm that attacks on foreign-born citizens are inspired by sinister forces and influences which seek to align this country on the side of England in the European war."

Carranza to Lean On Obregon and Aguilar.

FOREIGNERS ARE IN FLIGHT

People Are Fleeing Settlements About El Paso—Fear Uprising of Mexicans on U. S. Side of Border—Police Rounding Up Villista General and "Vagging" Them.

MEXICO CITY — General Alvaro Obregon has been appointed minister of war, and General Candido Aguilar minister of foreign affairs in the new Mexican cabinet. Many foreigners are leaving the city and there is an undercurrent of excitement among all classes.

EL PASO, Tex., — Villa has taken a sudden twist to the eastward, according to a report received by General Cavira at Juarez. This move apparently takes Villa away from the territory where it was supposed he would seek refuge and north of where the concentration of the American troops has been heaviest.

People Flee Settlements.

People living in outlying settlements above and below El Paso are hurrying into the city for protection The majority of citizens living in the valley here are Mexicans and in some sections the Americans have received the word that certain Mexicans have been circulating among the others suggestions of a new uprising. There are not enough American troops to guard El Paso and also police the smaller settlements in the county.

Arrest Former Villistas.

The El Paso police continued their campaign against former officers and friends of Villa. Several men including many former prominent Villa colonels and [illegible] been arrested as vagrants and are being held in the city jail. Among them is Carlos Jarauguia, the man who aided Villa to escape from Mexico City when placed in prison by Huerta, and who was rewarded by Villa when the latter came into power. General Manuel Medinaveta and Pascual Tostado, former Villa presidents at Torreon, are among the other prominent prisoners in jail.

Mexicans Hold Up Americans.

News reached El Paso of the capture by Mexican bandits in Chihuahua, south of Alpine, Texas, of an American and prominent Mexican who had gone in after cattle. The American is said to be Juan Bilboa and the Mexican Juan Castillion, former jefe politico at Torreon, a very wealthy Mexican. It is said $14,000 has been demanded for the release of Bilboa and $15,000 for the release of the Mexican.

As a Southern Pacific passenger train came into El Paso from the east it was fired upon at Belen, fifteen miles east of El Paso, by a Mexican Belen is a mile from the international line and the man is supposed to be a Mexican residing on this side of the river.

Armed Mexicans, supposed to be Villistas, held up T. B. Cunningham, secret service agent for the El Paso and Southwestern railroad, with another American H. P. Hanson, and O. L. Hartley, traveling in two automobiles near Lanark, N. M., about dusk Sunday night. The Americans were forced to abandon their machines but succeeded in getting away and reached El Paso.

MANITOBA GOES DRY BY VOTE OF 2 TO 1

All Canada Except Quebec to Fall Into Line.

WINNIPEG, MAN. — Manitoba went dry by a two to one vote and redeemed the pledge of Premier Norris, elected last year, that at the earliest day possible he would submit a prohibition measure with no war time limitations in the duration of its force.

Winnipeg carried the measure by nearly 3 to 1. The measure is for straight prohibition and goes into effect automatically with refusals to renew licenses.

New Brunswick and Ontario will shortly introduce straight prohibition measures and it is quite probable that by July all of Canada except a part of Quebec will be dry.

U. S. IN ACCORD WITH CARRANZA

First Chief Gets Reciprocal Rights Over Line.

LANSING REASSURES MEXICO

Secretary of State Issues Note Reiterating That President Has No Other End in View Than a Punitive Expedition—Situation With Mexico Grows Favorable.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The United States accepted General Carranza's proposal for a reciprocal arrangement by which either his troops or American troops may pursue bandits on either side of the border. A note of acceptance was sent forward to General Carranza at Queretaro.

Later Secretary Lansing announced that the United States had reached an agreement with General Carranza and had placed its note of acceptance and the supplementary statement explaining its purpose in the hands of Elesio Arredondo, General Carranza's ambassador here.

Lansing's Statement.

Then Secretary Lansing issued this statement:

"In order to remove any misapprehension that may exist either in the United States or Mexico, the President has authorized me to give in his name the public assurance that the military operations now in contemplation by this government will be scrupulously confined to the object already announced, and that in no circumstances will they be suffered to infringe in any degree upon the sovereignty of Mexico or develop into intervention of any kind in the internal affairs of our sister republic. On the contrary, what is now being done is deliberately intended to preclude the possibility of intervention."

The only congressional development in the situation was a declaration in the Senate by Senator Borah that all other legislation should be put aside by Congress and the national preparedness program taken up immediately to meet any contingency to which the sending of troops across the border might lead.

Funston Gets President's Note.

The message to Carranza and the accompanying statement were forwarded immediately to General Funston. This action was intended to give Funston notification that the diplomatic obstacles to his expedition had been overcome and that he was free to launch it at once.

Agreement Now in Force.

Secretary Lansing made it plain that the United States understands the reciprocal arrangement is now complete and in force and that United States troops may begin their punitive expedition without further interchange of views between the two governments.

Whether Carranza will be satisfied with the acceptance given by the United States remains to be seen. It is not a direct response to the proponal he made.

Literally Carranza's proposal was for a reciprocal arrangement by which his troops might pursue the "horde led by Francisco Villa" into the United States.

By the reciprocal arrangement the United States agrees to permit Carranza troops to enter the United States in pursuit of bandits who leave American soil to attack Mexican towns and then cross back into the United States.

In other words, Carranza wants to chase Mexican bandits over American soil, while the United States agrees only to permit him to pursue American bandits who commit depredations on the Mexican side.

Expedition Only Start, Say Officers.

Whether Carranza accepts or rejects the reciprocal proposal, however, the final plans have been made by the war department for the start of Funston's expedition.

Officers of the war college expressed the conviction that the present expedition is only a beginning. They are utterly unconvinced that it will be possible to confine the expedition to a mere man hunt for Villa.

War college experts who have had a leading part in planning the line of campaign necessary for the pacification of Mexico are preparing for a struggle that may last four years.

They cannot be convinced that once into Mexico there can be any stop short of complete pacification.

$20,000 REWARD FOR VILLA

APPRECIATE THE CHURCH

I picked up a Toledo paper the other day and read the following: "All the big things which make this old world fit to live in have been brought about by the church."

This raises the question, "Is the church worth while." Long ago Lord McCaulay the celebrated English historian wrote, "The church is the chief instrument that has made for mans progress, knowledge and culture" Gladstone said "In the most tumultuous period of my public life, I never permitted any event to keep me from my place of worship in the house of God on the Sabbath day."

Here are some reasons why the church is worth while

The church holds forth a message that brings us into fellowship with the divine Father, through Jesus Christ.

The church is a place of worship and religious instruction

The church is a good place to get good ideas of life.

The church is a place to find good associations.

The church affords an opportunity to be useful.

The church is the inspirer of many good movements in the interest of humanity.

The church is an organized effort to spread the knowledge of God in the world.

HUNTER'S READ

A letter to W. L. Coller from Commissioner W. R. Oates:

Dear Sir;

Replying to your letter of recent date, will say that there is nothing in the law to prevent the use of rifles or guns for target practice. This is not a gun license, it is a hunting license and there is nothing in the law which would prevent the use of a small caliber gun

Yours truly

W. R. Oates Com.,

PROMINENT TOLEDO PREACHER COMING SUNDAY NIGHT.

Rev. D. H. Johnston.

The local ministers have been looking about for some time to get some man above the ordinary to start the series of union services which begin Sunday night. They feel highly gratified in having secured for this purpose, Rev. D. H. Johnston, minister of the Rosewood Presbyterian Church.

This is one of the new and up-to-date churches of Toledo, as well as one of the most rapidly growing of all the churches. This has largely come about thru the efforts of Rev. Johnston who has been pastor here for five years.

Rev, Johnston is one of the prominent young men in the Presbyterian church. He has served a term on General Assembly's Judicial Commission, and has just finished his term as Moderator of Ohio Synod, the third largest in America. He also enjoys the distinction of being the youngest Moderator, ever elected in Ohio, being only seven years in the ministry when elected This union service will be at the Presbyterian church at 7:15.

His subject Sunday night, will be "The Imperative Need of the Hour."

Certainly the coming of such a visitor ought to mean "standing room only" Sunday night. He is also lecturer on Presbyterian Polity at Oberlin

THE PRICE OF GASOLINE

Gasoline prices have been going up fast.

Some people may think that this affects only the owners of automobiles, but, as a matter of fact, so wide is the use of gasoline in the business world that the increased prices will add to the high cost of living for everybody.

Many excuses have been given for the raise—for instance, the increased use of autos and farm tractors. The war has also proved the usual handy excuse. As a matter of fact, the United States is exporting nearly five or six times as much as it did five years ago.

However, it is impossible to accept these excuses at their face value in view of the fact that the market value of the stocks of thirty-eight oil corporations has increased remarkably in the last six months. Profits and dividends have in some instances increased as much as 100 per cent.

Another rather suspicious circumstance is the fact that 15 per cent of the total production of crude oil in 1914, about 45,000,000 barrels, went into storage, and that there are now 200,000,000 barrels in storage. About 21 per cent of this is gasoline

Obviously the relation of supply to demand has not been such as to boost the price of gasoline.

What—or perhaps who—has raised the price?

The government has started an investigation to find out, and it is an investigation in which everybody, whether the owner of an automobile or not, is vitally interested.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

Sunday March 19 has been designated as Go To Church Sunday. On that day we will begin a series of interdenominational meetings. If you will all make up your minds to go to church that Sunday, it will encourage your pastors, and give the meetings a mighty impetus. Your pastors have always stood ready to help the diversified interests of the town, now is the time to show your appreciation.

It is two much to ask that you help make this a record breaking day. Put forth a special effort to have the largest audiences at the Sunday morning service, and to have the largest Sunday school attendance of the year.

Count the attendance at the public service and Sunday school and when we come together at the Presbyterian church for the union service, we will add up the results and announce the same publically.

FATAL ACCIDENT

Conrad Huntly a twelve year old boy living at the home of Wm. German near Pentecost was instantly killed Thursday morning in a runaway.

He had been with Roy German to carry the milk to a milk station just east of Pentecost. Coming home Conrad was left to drive the team while Roy walked behind with a friend, suddenly the horses started on a run and the boy was unable to control them and the men could not catch them.

Just in front of the German home the boy was thrown out, his back and one leg broken. Death was instantaneous. The body was taken to Oconto, Wis., this morning for burial.

Miss Mary Hoemer of Laporte, Ind., visited her uncle and cousin S. P. Hosmer and Asenath this week.

Have you taken in the pretty seaside window at Will Coller's store? To be sure the weather here is rather cold for bathing at the beach, but one can look forward to warm weather and think what good times are ahead. Will has paid a good deal of attention to window trimming and has had some very attractive displays. This last one is perhaps one of the most expensive window trims ever seen here.

The Folly Burlesquers were presented at Bradley's Thursday night to a good sized audience, the gallery being packed. The chorus work was well received and they were called upon to respond to many encores. "Fan, Fan, Fan," "The Pigeon Walk." "My Town is Just as Good as Your Town" and many others were rendered. The work of Dorothy Blodgett and Richy W. Craig were well received. Among the vaudeville features between acts that deserve special mention were Miss Carlton in her operatic selections and "The Berlins," the wonders on wheels. The acts were certainly the best of anything in their line ever seen here.

TECUMSEH BANKS SHOW A SPLENDID INCREASE IN BUSINESS

Attention is called to the authorized statements made by our two local Banks, which are printed else where in this issue of the Herald. These statements are issued under calls from the Commissioner of the State Banking Department and give an itemized account of the business as shown by the books of the Banks at the close of business March 7th.

As the business done by the banks is about the best barometer to indicates the business of the community, these statements are very gratifing and show a very healthy increase in business since their last statement, December 31st.

The total assets of our two banks total a little less than $1,000,000 00, or to be exact $987,015.89 which is an increase of $42,064.27 over their last statement issued last December. Both Banks are making records, the assets of the Tecumseh State Savings Bank have reached a total of $510,295.97 which is a high water mark. The saving deposits of the Lilley State Bank, which total $308,166.57 is the high water mark in their savings department. From a suming up of these reports it would indicate that business conditions in Tecumseh are unusually good.

We congratulate our local banks on the excellent showing they have made.

The Supremacy of Peruna as a Household Remedy
44 Years of Leadership

Returned to His Work.

Mr. Julien Gondeau, Erwinville, La., suffered with catarrh of the stomach. He did not know what his trouble was. He was unable to work. Could hardly eat anything. After taking Peruna a short time he is now in perfect health. He says: "I am now doing all my work. I am confident that any one suffering as I was could be cured by Peruna."

Every Change of Weather.

Mr. F. Arnold, Westerly, R. I., contracted a severe cold. The cold settled in his side and produced a condition that was thought to be pleurisy. Every change of weather would bring a return of his trouble. After taking Peruna all his ailments have vanished.

Pain in the Stomach.

Mr. Henry Knock, Box 820, No. 1118 S. Vista Ave., Janesville, Wis., writes: "I wrote you about four weeks ago that I had a pain in my stomach. I followed your advice, and used three bottles of your Peruna, and I am all right now. I am very thankful for your advice and your medicine."

A Housewife Restored.

Mrs. R. W. Copelan, Box 22, Greensboro, Ga., suffered several years with catarrh of the stomach. She was in such poor health she could not attend to her household duties at all. Peruna was recommended by neighbors. She was induced to begin the use of Peruna. She says: "After taking five bottles of Peruna I am happy to say that I am entirely cured. My indigestion is entirely gone."

Once a Chronic Invalid.

Mrs. F. Riker, 503 Grant Ave., East Cedar Falls, Iowa, was once a chronic invalid. Four different doctors had been consulted without avail. She had taken five different medicines that had been recommended, without improvement. Peruna was tried and the good result was prompt and lasting.

Expresses Her Gratitude.

Mrs. Samuel Ruth, 535 Union Ave., Lebanon, Pa., is able to say positively that she has been cured by Peruna. She can scarcely find words to express her gratitude for her recovery. For many years she had been a semi-invalid from chronic catarrh.

Three substantial men, heads of families, made efficient once more by Peruna. Three housewives restored to their families. These are only samples of what Peruna is doing every day, everywhere. Surely, this is a splendid work. Anything that conserves family life and makes the home more desirable and comfortable, nourishes the heart root of civilization. Peruna is a great civilizer.

SOME GOOD ADVICE

Strengthened by Tecumseh Experiences.

Kidney disease is to dangerous to neglect, At the first sign of backache headache, dizziness or urinary disorders, you should give the weakened kidneys prompt attention. Eat little meat, take things easier and use a reliable kidney tonic. There's no other kidney medicine so well recommended as Doan's Kidney Pills Tecumseh people rely on them. Here's one of the many statements from Tecumseh people.

W. W. Shurtz, Kilbuck St., Tecumseh, says: "I have taken Doan's Kidney Pills at different times during the past ten years and they have always given me relief from distressing symptoms of kidney complaint. I have procured my supply of Doan's Kidney Pills from Wright and Son's Drug Store and my experience has been so satisfactory that I willing give this public account of it."

OVER TWO YEARS LATER, Mr. Shurtz added: "I willingly re-endorse Doan's Kidney Pills, I have found the medicine acts just as represented."

SWANS TAUGHT TO SWIM.

The Black Necked Variety Are Afraid of Water When Young.

You're acquainted with the proverbial phrase, "Like a duck takes to the water." That may apply all right to ducks, but there are some water birds which have to be taught to swim, just as we do. They hate the water at first just as much as a boy hates the bathtub. One of these birds, which takes swimming lessons from its parents, is the black necked swan.

The swan babies are called cygnets. They are hatched in an elaborate nest which the parent swan builds along the edge of a pool. The little cygnets are able to walk and run as soon as they are out of their shells, but they can't swim.

So the mother swan takes them for a little ferry ride. She puts them on her back and starts out across the pond. The baby swans, frightened at first, soon get used to seeing water all around them.

One day the mother swan turns her long neck and gives her babies a gentle push into the water. Such a scramble and splash! The babies flounder around and try their best to get back on their mother's dry feathers. Finally they learn that their feet are webbed paddles, given to them for swimming purposes, and they are able to glide over the water as gracefully and as easily as their parents.—Philadelphia North American.

Walter Was Puzzled.

This is a true story. Little Walter, whose father is a professor in a middle west university, was scrutinizing his parents closely and said: "Father, you have such heavy eyebrows, and mother has hardly any. What are eyebrows for?" The father replied, impromptu, "Why, eyebrows are—er—eyebrows are to keep the perspiration from getting into people's eyes when they work hard." "But, father," protested Walter, "I don't see how that can be, for mother's would need to be many times heavier than yours." And father was lost in thought.—Christian Register.

Structures Bordering Lake and Navigable Streams May Come Down.

Muskegon, Mar. 20.—Announcement received of the investigation by the war department concerning the erection of various structures along the shore line of Lake Michigan and in navigable streams in this part of the state has caused much interest in western Michigan and letters are pouring in from this vicinity to Major F. W. Alstaetter, United States district engineer in Grand Rapids, inquiring whether it is necessary to obtain a permit from the government for erection of a mere boathouse on Muskegon river, or other nearby navigable streams.

If Muskegon people are held strictly to the rule, it is estimated not less than 1,000 boathouses will have to be removed.

BRITISH SHOOT ONE AIR RAIDER

Three Towns Attacked, 9 People Killed, 31 Injured.

48 BOMBS HURLED ON KENT

For First Time British Aviators Appear Able to Get Foe's Birdmen Who Drop Bombs—Paris Reports Great Aeroplane Battle About Verdun—Seven Planes Are Brought Down.

London, Mar. 20.—For the first time definitely reported in the course of the war, German aerial raiders paid with their lives for an attack upon the coast of England. A daylight raid which was one of the most spectacular yet made upon England gave the British aerial defense corps the opportunity for which it has waited, and a single British aviator pursued one of the raiders thirty miles to sea, and, after a fifteen-minute battle, single-handed, brought down one of the German machines. The observer was killed and the pilot is presumed to have lost his life.

Four German aeroplanes appeared above the Kentish coast, leaving a trail of forty-eight bombs, many persons killed and wounded and numerous ruined buildings in their wake before being driven away.

Though the death list Sunday was only nine persons killed and thirty-one injured, considerably less than on several previous raids, the attack was one of the most serious of the war. The admiralty admits the raid and though giving no definite estimates of the damage done indicates from the points of attack mentioned that it may have been serious.

British Official Report.

London, Mar. 20.—The war office issued the following statement:

"Four German seaplanes bombarded East Kent today. They appeared over Dover, flying at a height of between 5,000 to 6,000 feet. One machine dropped six bombs on the harbor and then went northwest, throwing bombs on the town. The other, after passing over Dover, appeared over Deal and dropped several bombs. A second pair bombarded Ramsgate. One went west and the other north, pursued by a British aeroplane. One machine dropped bombs on Margate. A second appeared over Westgate, where our aeroplanes pursued it. No bombs were dropped.

The casualties so far are: Nine killed and 31 injured. As far as can be ascertained, 488 bombs were dropped. One bomb fell on the Canadian hospital at Ramsgate, causing damage but no casualties. Material damage was done to several houses. Flight Commander Bonne pursued the raider for thirty miles over the sea where after an action lasting a quarter of an hour the raider was forced to descend. The observer was killed.

Seven Planes Brought Down.

Paris, Mar. 20.—The war office told of one of the greatest aerial battles of the war in its afternoon report, which says: "In Verdun region one of our aeroplanes brought down a German machine which landed within our lines near Mont-Seville.

"Five of our double-motor aeroplanes bombarded the German balloon station at Metz, the ammunition depots near Chauteau Salins and the aerodrome at Dieuze. Thirty shells of large calibre were dropped during the course of this expedition of which twenty fell on the station at Metz.

"One of our groups of bombing aeroplanes, composed of twenty-three machines, dropped seventy-two shells on the aviation camp at Habsheim and the freight station at Mulhouse. Enemy aeroplanes pursuing our airmen engaged them in an aerial battle during which one French machine and one German machine were forced to descend by their reciprocal machine gun fire. Two other German aeroplanes fell in flames and three of ours were seriously damaged and were obliged to descend in enemy territory."

AMERICANS ARE SLAIN BY VILLA

All Found Along His Retreat Are Killed.

U. S. 110 MILES IN MEXICO

Position of U. S. Flying Squadron Not Permitted by Censor to Be Sent—Bandits Whereabouts Are Located—Appears About Day Ahead of His Pursuers.

Columbus, N. M. (by wireless from Mexico), March 20.—Reports reaching here said that Francisco Villa and his outlaw band had raided the American colonies in the vicinity of his mountain retreats and killed the residents. The American troops marched more than 110 miles into Mexico, the time consumed being forty-two hours. The columns of the punitive expedition under General Pershing reached (name of town deleted by censor) Sunday, and the disposition of troops began for the task of running down Villa.

On Hot Villa Trail.

The bandit chief passed through only a few days ago and the latest information concerning his present whereabouts gave his location as the ranch of Candelerio Hernandez, one of his lieutenants in the Columbus raid. General Pershing personally led the flying column, in which every man was mounted, and which pressed through a section of Mexico where water is scarce. It was almost record time for so large a body of men. Only a few cavalry horses and mules were lost. The men reached their camp thirsty and hungry but otherwise in good condition and eager for the pursuit of Villa.

Railroad Is Important.

Columbus, N. M., Mar. 20.—Owing to the great distance already penetrated by the cavalry and mountain artillery, [illegible] being made, it is believed that it will become necessary to send food supplies south by train from El Paso and Juarez if the railroad can be kept open. It is understood that the Carranza forces will have no objections to the American forces being supplied in this manner. It will greatly relieve General Pershing's problem of keeping his command supplied with provisions.

Many Mexicans Were Killed.

Reports continue to be brought back to Columbus of the large number of dead Mexicans found along the line of march by the American troops the first few hours of their march into Mexico. The total death toll of Villistas as a result of the raid on Columbus is now said to be at least 200, according to best estimates.

Pershing Divides Forces.

El Paso, Tex., Mar. 20.—General John J. Pershing, commanding the American expedition into Mexico, has divided his forces in the hope of catching Villa between them, according to information reaching here.

Early in the morning Pershing is said to have left Casas Grandes for the south, Sunday night he is supposed to have camped in the mountains south of Pearson.

The column under command of Colonel Dodd was sent southeast through Chocolate Pass, it is reported, and is following the trail which the Carranzistas declare Villa took in his retreat south.

General Pershing's plan is to march south parallel with the Mexican Northwestern railroad, hoping to meet or overtake the bandit leader who has passed through the continental divide over the Babicora trail from Las Cruces, where he was reported Saturday. Colonel Dodd is expected to keep on the trail of the bandit and his men either through the continental divide or south from Las Cruces, through Namiquipa towards Guerrero.

Think Villa at Babicora Ranch.

The best information obtainable is that Villa is in the vicinity of the Babicora ranch, having passed through the mountains forming the continental divide, without molestation by the Carranza troops.

In his haste Villa is reported to have abandoned Pablo Lopez, one of his lieutenants, wounded in the raid on Columbus, N. M., at El Valle, when he passed through that place. Lopez was the man who commanded the Mexican force which massacred eighteen Americans at Santa Ysabel in January.

Villa Abandons Lopez.

The news of the abandoning of Lopez by Villa was received in Juarez by General Gavira. The message added about twenty other wounded were abandoned by Villa, to enable him to make better progress in his retreat.

YES, MICHIGAN WILL ELECT U. S. SENATOR

But Secretary of State Vaughn Has Just Heard It.

Washington, Mar. 20.—Coleman C. Vaughn, secretary of state for the state of Michigan, has recently learned that Michigan is to elect a United States senator next November. There is documentary evidence on file here to the effect that Mr. Vaughn did not know of this fact, at least two days ago.

Recently, in compliance with the direct election of senators law, J. M. Baker, secretary of the United States senate, sent out letters to the proper officials in all states asking them if there was to be a senatorial election in their states this fall, and if so to make sure that the law is complied with. There is to be an election in Michigan, as Senator Townsend's term expires next March, and his successor will be chosen in November. Here is the reply Vaughn sent to Baker:

"Dear Sir—Respecting yours of March 1, I beg to say that no election for United States senator takes place in Michigan this year.

PAIGE

The Standard of Value and Quality

Approved—by Thousands of Users

As we remarked several weeks ago—

"The Paige 'Six 46' is a good car — not merely because we say so — but because it's owners have definitely established this goodness in the grueling tests of more than a full year's road work."

If you stop and consider the matter for one minute, you will agree that no automobile can be termed a success until it has been tried and approved by owners.

Factory tests are all right — and very necessary so far as they go.

But a car only proves itself under the strain and stress of day in and day out service.

So, there is one little point that it may be well for you to bear in mind.

This year there are a number of "experimental" six cylinder cars on the market.

These cars, with their new "theories" and new engineering features, may — in time — prove altogether practical in every way.

But until that time comes—until these sixes have been thoroughly "tried out" in the hands of users—the prudent man will be inclined to buy the car with a tangible record of accomplishment behind it.

The Paige "Six 46" is an eminently safe automobile investment.

OUR SCHOOL QUESTION

You have a friend who works in some of the shops, clerks in one of the stores or has some such position here in Tecumseh. He has his home nearly paid for, or expects to in a few years; he enjoys his flowers, his nicely clipped lawn and thrifty vegetable garden. He has one to three children and takes pride in seeing them go to school comfortably well-clothed.

In fact your friend's hope for the future is to provide well for his children. He looks ahead with pleasure to their graduating from High School, perhaps going to college. In the matter of education, he wants the best, and is willing to pay for it for his children's sake.

Your friend reads letters from people in other towns and cities, or reads the newspapers and gets the new school ideas, how much more the young people learn now, how much more interesting is their work, and how many more stay in school than used to

It gets your friend to thinking about the prospects for his children's education Then he thinks what will happen if fire starts in the present school building, after visiting the old school-house he actually dreads to hear the fire-bell ring He reads of awful accidents in school buildings built like ours, and it makes him almost dread to send his children to school He also realizes the defective heating and the unsatisfactory sanitary arrangements; when he asks what his children are studying he finds little change since he left school. He reads how attendance has increased in schools that have introduced the new methods and he wonders if there isn't something in it.

He comes home and gets to thinking as a great many others have done. He sees the announcement that there is to be an election to vote for a modern school building, not three stories. but two, with the very latest fire-proof features, and the best heating, ventilating, and sanitary conditions

He thinks, "Will this make my taxes much higher?" He finds out that it will cost him a trifle more a year, but he sees that for his money he will get not only a new building, but an up-to-date school course, which at present is impossible, owing to lack of facilties.

Now we will suppose that enough people who have no children, or who care more for their few cents a year than for the lives of the children, get together and vote down the new building, what next?

In no sense is it practicable to repair the old building, the state would not allow us to build an undersized building nor one not fully fire proof and sanitary for the children.

The State Superintendent of Instruction can turn the key in the door and say, "We will have no more school in Tecumseh in the present building and no more primary school money either."

Do you really realize the amount of the primary money coming to us each year? Realize the loss of it?

Tecumseh, without a High School Building, think of it!

Tecumseh, who has held her head so high all these years, possibly cut off from the University list for want of a new building Think of all the little towns around us with new buildings and on the University list and we cut out entirely. Do you want this to come to pass? No: Then let each and every one of us get busy and make it a part of our business to support the school board and the committee of citizens who have had many meetings, conferring with architects, and reviewing plans of other towns the size of Tecumseh.

A general plan has been worked out, which has been submitted to the School Board, together with recommendations for a call for a special election for the purpose of bonding the School District for a new building The action of the School Board with details etc, will soon be published

In the meantime, talk with your friends, who are voters, talk at the shop, talk at the store, at the lodge, at the card club, at the church, at the sewing circle, and the missionary societies so that the election may result favorably. Boost.

Survival of the Fittest Among Birds.

The struggle of life among the birds and other wild creatures is so severe that the feeble and malformed, or the handicapped in any way, quickly drop out. Probably none of them ever dies from old age. They are cut off in their prime. A weeding out process goes on from the time they leave the nest. A full measure of life, the perfection of every quill and feather and unerring instinct carry them along. They are always in the enemy's country; they are always on the firing line; eternal vigilance and ceaseless activity are the price of life with them. The natural length of life of our smaller birds is calculated to be eight or ten years, but probably not one in a thousand reaches that age. Not half a dozen times in my life have I found the body of a dead bird that did not show some marks of violence.—John Burroughs in Harper's Magazine.

O. W. BEST ARTISTS

Presbyterian Church, Friday Evening, March 17.

The last of the Best entertainments was given at the Presbyterian church, Friday evening, when a program of unusual merit was given by Alberto Salvi, Harpist, Marguerite Austin, violinist, Minne Ransom, soprano.

This was Miss Austin's second appearance before a Tecumseh audience, and so well was her work received a year ago, that when she appeared, she was met by a burst of applause. She has a most fascinating manner, and gave a number of delightful selections. She is without doubt, the best lady violinist that has yet appeared in Tecumseh. She responded to several encores in a charming manner.

Alberto Salvi is a harpist of unusual ability, and gave some very difficult numbers, which captivated his hearers who called him back repeatedly, they simply could not get enough of his music.

Minne Ransom, the third member of the troupe was possessed of a fine soprano voice, and sang some very fine numbers. She came in for her share of applause, being called back several times This was a well balanced company, and perhaps the best of the Series Both Salvi and Mrs. Ransom gave several numbers of their own composition

Rev. Rex, in announcing the program for the evening, stated that the attendance had been about the same as last year, but the expenses had been greater and the ladies of the Guild found them selves short about $9 However. they were bound to give their patrons the worth of their money, and would put on a fourth number by local talent The date has not been decided Those holding season tickets will have the privilege of hearing this extra entertainment without further cost.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

The table was very nicely decorated with green carnations and shamrock and lighted with green tapers. Two large birthday cakes added much to the pleasure of the children place cards with green flags and small green baskets were at each plate. The teachers of George and Teresa, Misses Fay and Scarlett were present and enjoyed the good time with the happy company.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

Sunday was "Go to Church Sunday" in Tecumseh as had been announced Every one was urged 'to go to church' somewhere on that day.

All of the churches report a good attendance at the morning service. A union service was held in the evening at the Presbyterian church. Rev. E. H. Johnson pastor of the Rosewood Presbyterian church of Toledo gave the sermon.

Before the preaching, announcement was made by Dr. Hartzog of the attendance at the various churches. A total attendance of 816 and the Sunday School attendance 733. This would indicate that about one-fourth of the population of Tecumseh attended Church Sunday.

Rev. Johnson took for his subject, "The Needs of the hour" and it was an appeal to Church members to do their part in making the coming revival meetings a success. He was a forceful speaker and gave a fine discourse Rev. Hawkins of Holloway had charge of the singing and sung a solo during the meeting.

He will take charge of the music during the meetings. This was the opening meeting of a series to be held in the down town Churches during the ensuing three weeks. The meetings for this week are: Monday and Tuesday night in the Presbyterian church, Dr Hartzog preached last night and Rev. S J. Hall of Morenci will preach tonight, Wednesday, D. H. [illegible] LEAMAN HEARD FROM

Mrs. Gill received a letter last week, from Miss Florence Leaman, who left a few weeks ago, for her home in England. From the very start, her trip had been an eventful one. When she reached St. Johns, she found the boat was a week or ten days late, and had to tarry there at the hotel.

The trip was of twelve days duration, and from the very first, Miss Leaman was ill, and only one day of the trip was she able to be on deck. Storms and high winds prevailed most of the time. As they reached the danger zone in the evening, every port hole was covered with blankets, and not a light was seen on deck. Later a Man of War boat escorted them in, so they were all right at last.

The letter was written aboard ship, and was mailed in landing, after passing through the hands of the censor, whose mark appeared on the envelope. Miss Leaman wishes to be remembered to her many friends, and says in conclusion "It will be a long time before I cross the Atlantic again, and never again alone."

BUSINESS CHANGE

Another business change is soon to take place on our street, when H D. Gill transfers his bakery business to Mrs. Gill's father S. Nivison of Adrian, to take effect the last of the month.

For the past two years Mr. Gill has run this business and has given to his customers, an unusually good line of baked goods, which with the courteous treatment has made Gills bakery a success.

A son of Mr Nevison has been here for a number of weeks assisting in the baking so we are assured of its continuing the same.

Mr. Gill and family expect to move to Orellia Canada in the near future, It is with regret that we hear this, but their many friends will join with the Herald in wishing them good luck in their new home.

The Reuss Henrys.

For 700 years every prince of the house of Reuss has been christened Henry, with a distinguishing numeral, but the task of identifying them is rendered doubly difficult owing to the existence of two branches, each of which has a different system of numeration. The elder line begins the numbering anew after each batch of 100 Henrys, whereas the younger line goes by the centuries, numbering its princes as they are born from I. upward through each complete hundred years. The territories of the two branches comprise little more than 400 square miles, divided into Reuss-Schleiz-Gera and Reuss-Greiz. For centuries the Montenegro of the Germanic countries, both branches joined the German confederation in 1815, but the elder line (Reuss-Greiz) sided with Austria in 1866, and the principality narrowly escaped being incorporated with Prussia.—Westminster Gazette.

GIFT TO THE LIBRARY

Prof. Fred H. Hillman of Washington D. C has presented to the Tecumseh library a case containing a collection of butterflies, moths, beetles, dragonflies, and many other varieties of insect life all beautifully mounted and catalogued. The collection is enclosed in a dust proof case.

This collection will be of great value to students of insect life as well to Tecumseh people in general. We suggest that a metal plate be secured with the name of the donor and the date it was given, engraved upon it and that the plate be attached to the case. The cost of a small plate would be nominal and it would tend to keep the donors name fresh in the minds of the people for years to come.

About Plows.

GALE Two Wheel Sulky.

Is very simply but strongly built, light in draft, very few joints or toggle, therefore making it a long-life, simple plow that any boy can operate, getting into corners and doing much work which is impossible with many other riding plows.

Our sale on these plows has been good, owners much pleased with them and so tell their friends, therefore still more sales.

GALE HAND PLOWS

We really believe the line of Gale Hand Plows are just a little better than any other line we know of. We carry several styles in stock for certain purposes. We also sell other plows but our choice is with the Gale and believe yours will be the same after you use one of the newer makes.

How a Machine Does Our Bookkeeping

A short time ago we installed a remarkable machine in our Accounting Department—a machine which adds and subtracts, tells the date, keeps our books and gets out monthly statements. It does all this work much faster than any bookkeeper could, and has never been known to make a mistake.

The installation of this Burroughs Bookkeeping Machine means that our accounts will be handled just as rapidly and accurately as those of the largest and most up-to-date banks in the country.

Insures Accuracy

The fact that our figure work is done on a Burroughs is a guarantee to our customers of absolute accuracy in the handling of their accounts. The machine method of ledger posting makes it impossible for a mistake to get past unnoticed. This accuracy insurance alone is important enough to you and to us to justify to the use of the machine method, but there are many other advantage.

Better Service to you

The Burroughs will handle our figure work in about half the time formerly needed. This gives us more time for other things—time to improve the service in every department of the bank.

Come in and see our machine bookkeeping system in operation. We will be glad to show you how the machine makes entries in our books, how it automatically adds in one column, subtracts in another and so on and how it makes mistakes impossible. You will be welcome any time.

We don't want you to think of this bank just as a place to deposit your money, although of course we are glad to have you keep as large a balance with us as possible. It is our desire to render our patrons every service and accommodation that can be reasonably expected from us.

Talk over your business problems with us. It is part of our work to study business and financial conditions, and it may be that we can suggest some ideas that you will find worth while. Please feel free to consult us at any time.

OUR SCHOOL QUESTION

You have a friend who works in some of the shops, clerks in one of the stores or has some such position here in Tecumseh. He has his home nearly paid for, or expects to in a few years. He enjoys his flowers, his nicely clipped lawn and thrifty vegetable garden. He has one to three children and takes pride in seeing them go to school comfortably well-clothed.

In fact your friend's hope for the future is to provide well for his children. He looks ahead with pleasure to their graduating from High School, perhaps going to college. In the matter of education, he wants the best, and is willing to pay for it for his children's sake.

Your friend reads letters from people in other towns and cities, or reads the newspapers and gets the new school ideas, how much more the young people learn now, how much more interesting is their work, and how many more stay in school than used to.

It gets your friend to thinking about the prospects for his children's education. Then he thinks what will happen if fire starts in the present school building, after visiting the old school-house he actually dreads to hear the fire-bell ring. He reads of awful accidents in school buildings built like ours, and it makes him almost dread to send his children to school. He also realizes the defective heating and the unsatisfactory sanitary arrangements; when he asks what his children are studying he finds little change since he left school. He reads how attendance has increased in schools that have introduced the [illegible] isn't something in it.

He comes home and gets to thinking as a great many others have done. He sees the announcement that there is to be an election to vote for a modern school building, not three stories, but two, with the very latest fire-proof features, and the best heating, ventilating, and sanitary conditions.

He thinks, "Will this make my taxes much higher?" He finds out that it will cost him a trifle more a year, but he sees that for his money he will get not only a new building, but an up-to-date school course, which at present is impossible, owing to lack of facilties.

Now we will suppose that enough people who have no children, or who care more for their few cents a year than for the lives of the children, get together and vote down the new building, what next?

In no sense is it practicable to repair the old building, the state would not allow us to build an undersized building nor one not fully fire proof and sanitary for the children.

The State Superintendent of Instruction can turn the key in the door and say, "We will have no more school in Tecumseh in the present building and no more primary school money either."

Do you really realize the amount of the primary money coming to us each year? Realize the loss of it?

Tecumseh, without a High School Building, think of it!

Tecumseh, who has held her head so high all these years, possibly cut off from the University list for want of a new building. Think of all the little towns around us with new buildings and on the University list and we cut out entirely. Do you want this to come to pass? No; Then let each and every one of us get busy and make it a part of our business to support the school board and the committee of citizens who have had many meetings, conferring with architects, and reviewing plans of other towns the size of Tecumseh.

A general plan has been worked out, which has been submitted to the School Board, together with recommendations for a call for a special election for the purpose of bonding the School District for a new building. The action of the School Board with details etc., will soon be published.

In the meantime, talk with your friends, who are voters, talk at the shop, talk at the store, at the lodge, at the card club, at the church, at the sewing circle, and the missionary societies so that the election may result favorably. Boost.

Survival of the Fittest Among Birds.

The struggle of life among the birds and other wild creatures is so severe that the feeble and malformed, or the handicapped in any way, quickly drop out. Probably none of them ever dies from old age. They are cut off in their prime. A weeding out process goes on from the time they leave the nest. A full measure of life, the perfection of every quill and feather and unerring instinct carry them along. They are always in the enemy's country; they are always on the firing line; eternal vigilance and ceaseless activity are the price of life with them. The natural length of life of our smaller birds is calculated to be eight or ten years, but probably not one in a thousand reaches that age. Not half a dozen times in my life have I found the body of a dead bird that did not show some marks of violence.—John Burroughs in Harper's Magazine.

O. W. BEST ARTISTS

Presbyterian Church, Friday Evening, March 17.

The last of the Best entertainments was given at the Presbyterian church, Friday evening, when a program of unusual merit was given by Alberto Salvi, Harpist, Marguerite Austin, violinist, Minne Ransom, soprano.

This was Miss Austin's second appearance before a Tecumseh audience, and so well was her work received a year ago, that when she appeared, she was met by a burst of applause. She has a most fascinating manner, and gave a number of delightful selections. She is without doubt, the best lady violinist that has yet appeared in Tecumseh. She responded to several encores in a charming manner.

Alberto Salvi is a harpist of unusual ability, and gave some very difficult numbers, which captivated his hearers who called him back repeatedly, they simply could not get enough of his music.

Minne Ransom, the third member of the troupe was possessed of a fine soprano voice, and sang some very fine numbers. She came in for her share of applause, being called back several times. This was a well balanced company, and perhaps the best of the Series. Both Salvi and Mrs. Ransom gave several numbers of their own composition.

Rev. Rex, in announcing the program for the evening, stated that the attendance had been about the same as last year, but the expenses had been greater and the ladies of the Guild found themselves short about $9. However, they were bound to give their patrons the worth of their money, and would put on a fourth number by local talent. The date has not been decided. Those holding season tickets will have the privilege of hearing this extra entertainment without further cost.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Friday March 17 was the birthday of Mrs. F. D. Rector as well as St. Patrick and while others were paying due homage to the patron saint of Ireland sixteen of her Sunday School class met to honor her.

Instead of shamrock the ladies presented Mrs. Rector with a beautiful Azalia much to her delight. Well laden baskets, later provided a fine pot [illegible] green.

The afternoon was spent in a social manner. As the guests departed for their homes they, one in all extended their best wishes for many happy returns of the day.

PLEASANT PARTY

George and Teresa Deery celebrated their birthdays with a party Friday afternoon from 3:30 to 6:30. One birthday is the 13th of March and the other the 23, so they celebrated midway between.

There were twenty-four lads and lasses present, it is needless to say that a merry time was enjoyed by all. Games and music filled the time until the supper call was given, when a two course supper was served.

The table was very nicely decorated with green carnations and shamrock and lighted with green tapers. Two large birthday cakes added much to the pleasure of the children place cards with green flags and small green baskets were at each plate. The teachers of George and Teresa, Misses Fay and Scarlett were present and enjoyed the good time with the happy company.

MONDAY CLUB

Regular meeting of the Monday Club at the usual time and place with an unusually good attendance. Meeting called to order by the president, Mrs. J. D. Shull. After the routine business the program was given with Mrs. R. B. Gillespie as leader. A paper on Modern Pottery was given by Mrs. Charles Burridge, followed by Mrs. Chas. Williamson with a paper on Sculptors. Mrs. G. R. Newsome gave a paper on "The Graphic Arts." At the next meeting, Mrs. R. T. Richardson from Melbourne, Australia, will be present, and will speak to the ladies on suffrage.

CO-OPERATIVE BANQUET

Tuesday March 28, 1916

Invitations have been issued by the Tecumseh Co-operative Association to their stock holders and ladies, to attend the annual banquet of the association to be held in the Association hall, Tuesday March 28 at 12 o'clock noon. A good program has been arranged. John C. Ketcham, Master of the State Grange will be the principal speaker.

JOLLY 16

The members of the Jolly 16 were very pleasantly entertained Friday at the home of Mrs. Wm. Powell. Ten games of progressive pedro were played. The first prize was given to Mrs. Guy E. Belding, Mrs. Floyd Freeman the second, and Mrs. Wm. Chiverall had the consolation. A two course dinner was served at the close of the games. St. Patrick decorations were used on the tables and elsewhere.

GRANGERS ATTENTION

No Grange meeting. No oyster next Saturday. Our good sisters have wisely concluded to postpone our oyster dinner for one week because of the Co-operative banquet to be given on the 28. It would make it very strenuous only one working day between the two functions. So brother let us possess our souls and our appetites in patience until Saturday April 1.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

Sunday was "Go to Church Sunday" in Tecumseh as had been announced. Every one was urged 'to go to church' somewhere on that day.

All of the churches report a good attendance at the morning service. A union service was held in the evening at the Presbyterian church. Rev. E. H. Johnson pastor of the Rosewood Presbyterian church of Toledo gave the sermon.

Before the preaching, announcement was made by Dr. Hartzog of the attendance at the various churches. A total attendance of 816 and the Sunday School attendance 733. This would indicate that about one-fourth of the population of Tecumseh attended Church Sunday.

Rev. Johnson took for his subject, "The Needs of the hour" and it was an appeal to Church members to do their part in making the coming revival meetings a success. He was a forceful speaker and gave a fine discourse. Rev. Hawkins of Holloway had charge of the singing and sung a solo during the meeting.

He will take charge of the music during the meetings. This was the opening meeting of a series to be held in the down town Churches during the ensuing three weeks. The meetings for this week are: Monday and Tuesday night in the Presbyterian church, Dr. Hartzog preached last night and Rev. S. J. Hall of Morenci will preach tonight, Wednesday, D. H. Ramsdell of Ann Arbor; Thursday, Rev. J. S. Priestley of Dundee; Friday, O. J. Lyon of Clinton at the M. E. church.

MRS. WILLIAM S. PENTECOST

Mrs. Jennie Pentecost passed away at her home on Pottawatamie street Sunday, at 5 o'clock a. m., after a lingering illness of two years, from heart trouble, at the age of 59 years. Most of her married life was spent in Tipton. The last year and a half she has resided in Tecumseh. She leaves her husband and four children, Mrs. E. H. Stafford of Adrian, Mrs. C. H. Beebe of Tecumseh, Miss Muriel Pentecost at home, and C. J. Pentecost of Onsted.

The funeral services will be held at the home Wednesday morning at 11:30 o'clock, Rev. W. A. Rex officiating. The burial will be in the cemetery of her old home town Tipton.

MRS. LEAMAN HEARD FROM

Mrs. Gill received a letter last week, from Miss Florence Leaman, who left a few weeks ago, for her home in England. From the very start, her trip had been an eventful one. When she reached St. Johns, she found the boat was a week or ten days late, and had to tarry there at the hotel.

The trip was of twelve days duration, and from the very first, Miss Leaman was ill, and only one day of the trip was she able to be on deck. Storms and high winds prevailed most of the time. As they reached the danger zone in the evening, every port hole was covered with blankets, and not a light was seen on deck. Later a Man of War boat escorted them in, so they were all right at last.

The letter was written aboard ship, and was mailed in landing, after passing through the hands of the censor, whose mark appeared on the envelope. Miss Leaman wishes to be remembered to her many friends, and says in conclusion "It will be a long time before I cross the Atlantic again, and never again alone."

MRS. CHAS. WOODCOX

Seretta Woodcox passed away at 1 o'clock a. m. Monday, having been confined to her bed for many months, the immediate cause of her death being paralysis. A husband and four boys and three daughters survive her. The funeral will be held at the house Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, with burial in Brookside.

BUSINESS CHANGE

Another business change is soon to take place on our street, when H. D. Gill transfers his bakery business to Mrs. Gill's father S. Nivison of Adrian, to take effect the last of the month.

For the past two years Mr. Gill has run this business and has given to his customers, an unusually good line of baked goods, which with the courteous treatment has made Gills bakery a success.

A son of Mr. Nevison has been here for a number of weeks assisting in the baking so we are assured of its continuing the same.

Mr. Gill and family expect to move to Orellia Canada in the near future. It is with regret that we hear this, but their many friends will join with the Herald in wishing them good luck in their new home.

The Reuss Henrys.

For 700 years every prince of the house of Reuss has been christened Henry, with a distinguishing numeral, but the task of identifying them is rendered doubly difficult owing to the existence of two branches, each of which has a different system of numeration. The elder line begins the numbering anew after each batch of 100 Henrys, whereas the younger line goes by the centuries, numbering its princes as they are born from I. upward through each complete hundred years. The territories of the two branches comprise little more than 400 square miles, divided into Reuss-Schleiz-Gera and Reuss-Greiz. For centuries the Montenegro of the Germanic countries, both branches joined the German confederation in 1815, but the elder line (Reuss-Greiz) sided with Austria in 1866, and the principality narrowly escaped being incorporated with Prussia.—Westminster Gazette.

GIFT TO THE LIBRARY

Prof. Fred H. Hillman of Washington D. C. has presented to the Tecumseh library a case containing a collection of butterflies, moths, beetles, dragonflies, and many other varieties of insect life all beautifully mounted and catalogued. The collection is enclosed in a dust proof case.

This collection will be of great value to students of insect life as well to Tecumseh people in general. We suggest that a metal plate be secured with the name of the donor and the date it was given, engraved upon it and that the plate be attached to the case. The cost of a small plate would be nominal and it would tend to keep the donors name fresh in the minds of the people for years to come.

About Plows.

GALE Two Wheel Sulky.

Is very simply but strongly built, light in draft, very few joints or toggle, therefore making it a long-life, simple plow that any boy can operate, getting into corners and doing much work which is impossible with many other riding plows.

Our sale on these plows has been good, owners much pleased with them and so tell their friends, therefore still more sales.

GALE HAND PLOWS

We really believe the line of Gale Hand Plows are just a little better than any other line we know of. We carry several styles in stock for certain purposes. We also sell other plows but our choice is with the Gale and believe yours will be the same after you use one of the newer makes.

How a Machine Does Our Bookkeeping

A short time ago we installed a remarkable machine in our Accounting Department—a machine which adds and subtracts, tells the date, keeps our books and gets out monthly statements. It does all this work much faster than any bookkeeper could, and has never been known to make a mistake.

The installation of this Burroughs Bookkeeping Machine means that our accounts will be handled just as rapidly and accurately as those of the largest and most up-to-date banks in the country.

Insures Accuracy

The fact that our figure work is done on a Burroughs is a guarantee to our customers of absolute accuracy in the handling of their accounts. The machine method of ledger posting makes it impossible for a mistake to get past unnoticed. This accuracy insurance alone is important enough to you and to us to justify to the use of the machine method, but there are many other advantage.

Better Service to you

The Burroughs will handle our figure work in about half the time formerly needed. This gives us more time for other things—time to improve the service in every department of the bank.

Come in and see our machine bookkeeping system in operation. We will be glad to show you how the machine makes entries in our books, how it automatically adds in one column, subtracts in another and so on and how it makes mistakes impossible. You will be welcome any time.

We don't want you to think of this bank just as a place to deposit your money, although of course we are glad to have you keep as large a balance with us as possible. It is our desire to render our patrons every service and accommodation that can be reasonably expected from us.

Talk over your business problems with us. It is part of our work to study business and financial conditions, and it may be that we can suggest some ideas that you will find worth while. Please feel free to consult us at any time.

London, Mar. 20.—The French torpedo boat, Renaudin, and the Austrian hospital ship, Elektra, have been torpedoed by submarines in the Adriatic, according to official announcements given out in Paris and Berlin.

According to the statement by the French admiralty three officers, including the commander and his second in command, and forty-four of the crew, were lost when the torpedo boat was sunk. Two officers and thirty-four of the crew were saved by a French torpedo boat which was accompanying the Renaudin.

The Trans-Ocean News bureau of Berlin transmits an official report from Vienna saying that the hospital ship Elektra, of the Austrian Red Cross, was stranded after having been torpedoed, thus preventing great loss of life. Only one sailor was drowned, and two Red Cross nurses were severely wounded.

The Measure.

The ancient judge sat before the scales of worth.

"Bring forth the royal treasure!" he cried, and the hurrying slaves poured into the huge pans sacks of golden metal, caskets of sparkling gems until it seemed as if all the wealth of earth were there. Yet the balance never stirred.

"Let the learning of the ages be added," came the order, and tons upon tons of the wisdom of sages, philosophers, scientists and poets was heaped upon the pile. And still the great arm of the scales remained high in air.

"Add now the men of power and high position," said the judge, "and the scale will fall." But all in vain.

"But what is on the other side that outweighs all these?" asked one.

"It is character," said the judge.—Postal.

LONDON'S BRIDGES.

The First of These Historic Structures Named a Juvenile Game.

Can you remember when you were a little tyke and played "London bridge is falling down" during recess or at children's parties when the girls were not too much dressed up? The game always ended with a vigorous pull of the opposing sides, with the result that usually both forces went down in the dust. Did you know that that childish game was one of the genuine antiques and that it could trace its origin to a real historic fact? The first bridge over the Thames, at the headwaters of navigation, about half a mile above the Tower, was so old that the story of its construction is lost in a maze of myths. Its fall, however, is a matter of record. It happened on the 16th of November, 1019, and it was the result of the most devastating storm and the most terrific and sudden flood that London had ever seen.

That first bridge was entirely of wood. It was not rebuilt for almost a century, and the second bridge consisted of stone arches, resting on deep piling. It was forty feet wide and almost a thousand feet long. Houses were built along the bridge, also resting on piling, until the bridge looked like a city street. These buildings were swept away by fire in 1666. In the middle of the bridge was a draw, with a tower, on which were exhibited the heads of Englishmen who were executed for treason against the kings of England. The present London bridge was begun in 1824, a little way above the old one, and it is of such massive construction that there is little danger of its ever "falling down."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

TACT AND A SPEECH.

Why Disraeli Changed His Mind About Speaking In French.

In Lord Redesdale's "Memoirs" there are some stories of Lord Beaconsfield. The following is particularly characteristic:

"There was one amusing incident in connection with the Berlin congress. One day it was announced that on the morrow Lord Beaconsfield was to address the assembled statesmen and that he would speak in French. Lord Odo Russell, who was a master of tongues, heard this with no little alarm, for it was well known that Lord Beaconsfield's French was very much of the Stratford-atte-Bowe type. Lord Odo, always clever, went to him and adroitly turned the conversation on to the next day's conference. Lord Beaconsfield announced his intention of speaking.

"'In what language do you propose to speak?' asked Lord Odo.

"'In French,' was the answer.

"'I am afraid that will be a very great disappointment to the colleagues,' said Lord Odo. 'You see, they know that they have here in you the greatest living master of English oratory, and of course they are longing to hear you.'

"The great man smiled his pleasure, and the speech was delivered in English. Lord Odo was wont to declare that he never knew whether Lord Beaconsfield took the hint or accepted the compliment."

Henpecked Sparrows.

Female sparrows are especially tyrannical toward their partners, especially at nest building time, when they frequently attack their husbands fiercely on account of their laziness. At such times the female voice can always be detected, both louder and shriller than that of her mate, as she pecks and tousles him until he beats an ignominious retreat. Hen blackbirds and thrushes are often very overbearing and even spiteful toward their mates when their houses are in course of construction.

ANCIENT FLOATING PALACE.

The Wonderful Ship Built For Hiero, King of Syracuse.

The antiquity of ships may not be gauged, for in Genesis it is recorded that ships were even old on the Mediterranean in the days of Jacob. Fully 1830 years before Christ, Ammon built long and tall ships with sails on the Red sea. Ninety years later the ship Argo was built, "the first Greek vessel which ventured to pass through the sea without sight of land, being guided only by the stars."

The wonderful vessel built for Hiero, king of Syracuse, excited curiosity and wonder. The craft was constructed under the direction of the celebrated mathematician, Archimedes, by a shipbuilder at Corinth, from wood cut on Mount Etna. Her decks were paved with small and odd tiles, on which were depicted with wonderful art scenes from Homer's "Iliad."

On the upper deck was a gymnasium containing gardens planted with many kinds of shrubs, with walks between them overshadowed by vines and ivy, the roots of which were nourished in moistened earth. Near this apartment was a dining room dedicated to Venus, paved with agates and precious stones. The walls and ceiling were of cypress, and the doors of ivory.—Argonaut.

Pure Drinking Water.

The geologic resource of greatest value to the health of communities is a supply of pure drinking water. It is generally recognized that a number of diseases, prominent among which are typhoid fever and amoebic dysentery—a disease more common in tropical climates, but found also in the United States—are contracted through contaminated water or contaminated food. Therefore a supply of pure water will eliminate one of the sources of such infection.

It is highly desirable to obtain supplies of domestic water from sources other than the shallow wells, some of them open, that are found near many houses. The water obtained from deep wells has percolated through sands and other material for so great a distance that its impurities have been removed by filtration, and it possesses a sanitary value that cannot well be overestimated, for such water is free from the bacteria causing typhoid fever and the protozoa causing amoebic dysentery, and its use obviates the necessity for shallow wells that may serve as a breeding place for Anopheles, the mosquito to which malarial infections is due.—Geological Survey Bulletin.

Washington at Night.

Night life comes on swiftly when it gets [illegible]ton is a beautiful girl drawing a black velvet, jewel bespangled cloak over white shoulders. The streets are lighted with dull bronze, rather low lamps; artistically perfect lamps that hold dull white, glowing globes. The lamps are very close together. They are the pearls that the girl winds about her throat and in her dusky hair.

The White House stands out, glimmering boldly against the black of the foliage, its lighted windows dimmed with tightly drawn curtains. What of national portent may not have happened behind those same curtained windows! Perhaps fear has grappled with bravery behind the shelter of the friendly walls; perhaps hatred and love have clashed. Perhaps cowards have become strong, and surely strong men have wept. Characters and homes and nations have been molded behind those friendly blinds.—Margaret E. Sangster, Jr., in Christian Herald.

The Jumping Frog Story.

It was in the Angel Camp bar that Mark Twain heard from an ex-pilot called Ben Coon the jumping frog story. Clemens related it to Artemus Ward, who urged him to write it, to be included in a book that Ward was publishing. Clemens dallied and sent it to the publishers too late, but they handed it over to a dying paper called the Saturday Press, which gladly gave it pride of place in its columns on Nov. 18, 1865. Professor Sidgwick synopsized it in Greek form for his book "Greek Prose Composition," and thus arose the legend that the jumping frog story originated in ancient Greece, a legend in which Clemens himself believed till Professor Sidgwick undeceived him in 1899 by telling him that the Greek version was merely a translation of Clemens' own work.

How Jefferson Dressed.

In dress President Jefferson was governed by comfort rather than by elegance. "Pride costs more than hunger, thirst and cold," he used to say, and as he lived in an epoch that witnessed a mighty revolution in men's clothing as well as in men's government, monarchy's queues and velvets giving way to short hair and the useful, ungainly pantaloon, only the watchfulness of his body servant saved him from unbelievable anachronisms of costume. Indeed, in later life at Monticello, where this democrat ruled absolute king, he often wore the garments of several different periods together, like superimposed geological strata or the historic remains in the Roman forum.—Century.

Bazaars In Asia.

Streets in the bazaar districts of Asiatic cities are only eight to ten feet wide. The larger shops are eight by ten and the smaller ones five by six feet, with one side giving directly on the street. In each bazaar is a khan for every ten or twelve shops. These khans are two stories high, with an open court in the center and rooms on the four sides, all opening into the court. A door leads from the open court into the street. Rooms are let to different storekeepers for storage purposes.

Wifely Optimism.

Husband—When I see all these bills I am tired of life. Do you think the time will ever come when we shall be out of debt? Wife (cheerfully)—Why not, darling? You know that you are carrying an exceptionally large life insurance.

Left Handed Revenge.

Officer—Your honor, this chauffeur ran his car into th' show windy av a millinery store. Judge—What millinery store? Officer—Mme. de Stickum's. Judge—Discharged. That's where my wife buys her hats.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Considerate.

"The most considerate wife I ever heard of," said the philosopher, "was a woman who used to date all her letters a week or so ahead to allow her husband time to post them."

Advice.

First Senior—I'm going to marry a poor girl and settle down. Second Senior—Better marry a rich girl and settle up.—Yale Record.

No Laws Delay Here.

In Perak, in the Malay peninsula, lawyers find no business, for a modified form of trial by ordeal decides all disputes. In place of the legal practitioner the pleader is a native boy who is assigned to one or the other of the sides and is given a bamboo tube, in which is sealed the pleading of the person or party whom he represents. When all is ready two stakes are driven into the bed of a stream, and by aid of a bamboo pole the heads of the two boys are submerged at the same time. By grasping the stakes they are enabled to remain under water for quite awhile after their natural inclination would bring them to the surface, but at last one of them gives in and, releasing his hold of the stake, comes to the air. He is immediately seized, and the tube he holds is cast aside. The other lad is led ashore, his tube opened, and the document contained therein stands as the decision in the case.

The Expanding Stone.

In the rock of St. Gowan's chapel, in Wales, was a natural cavity upon which the name of the "expanding stone" was bestowed by popular tradition, because the strange fancy prevailed that this stone automatically adapted itself to the size of any one who entered the cavity.

The legend ran, as quoted by Mr. George F. Kunz in "The Magic of Jewels and Charms," that once, during the pagan persecutions, when a fugitive Christian, hotly pursued, reached this rock it opened up of its own accord so that he could slip into it and then closed about him so as to hide him effectually from his enemies. This expanding stone was believed to manifest its magic power by bringing to pass the wish expressed by any one who entered it, provided he did not change his wish while he turned around within it.

Three Towns Attacked, 9 People Killed, 31 Injured.

48 BOMBS HURLED ON KENT

For First Time British Aviators Appear Able to Get Foe's Birdmen Who Drop Bombs—Paris Reports Great Aeroplane Battle About Verdun—Seven Planes Are Brought Down.

LONDON, ENG. — For the first time definitely reported in the course of the war, German aerial raiders paid with their lives for an attack upon the coast of England. A daylight raid which was one of the most spectacular yet made upon England gave the British aerial defense corps the opportunity for which it has waited, and a single British aviator pursued one of the raiders thirty miles to sea, and, after a fifteen-minute battle, single-handed, brought down one of the German machines. The observer was killed and the pilot is presumed to have lost his life.

Four German aeroplanes appeared above the Kentish coast, leaving a trail of forty-eight bombs, many persons killed and wounded and numerous ruined buildings in their wake before being driven away.

Though the death list Sunday was only nine persons killed and thirty-one injured, considerably less than on several previous raids, the attack was one of the most serious of the war. The admiralty admits the raid and though giving no definite estimates of the damage done indicates from the pointe [illegible] it may have been serious.

British Official Report.

LONDON, ENG. — The war office issued the following statement:

"Four German seaplanes bombarded East Kent today. They appeared over Dover, flying at a height of between 5,000 to 6,000 feet. One machine dropped six bombs on the harbor and then went northwest, throwing bombs on the town. The other, after passing over Dover, appeared over Deal and dropped several bombs. A second pair bombarded Ramsgate. One went west and the other north, pursued by a British aeroplane. One machine dropped bombs on Margate. A second appeared over Westgate, where our aeroplanes pursued it. No bombs were dropped.

The casualties so far are: Nine killed and 31 injured. As far as can be ascertained, 488 bombs were dropped. One bomb fell on the Canadian hospital at Ramsgate, causing damage but no casualties. Material damage was done to several houses. Flight Commander Bonne pursued the raider for thirty miles over the sea where after an action lasting a quarter of an hour the raider was forced to descend. The observer was killed.

Seven Planes Brought Down.

PARIS. — The war office told of one of the greatest aerial battles of the war in its afternoon report, which says: "In Verdun region one of our aeroplanes brought down a German machine which landed within our lines near Mont-Seville.

"Five of our double-motor aeroplanes bombarded the German balloon station at Metz, the ammunition depots near Chateau Salins and the aerodrome at Dieuze. Thirty shells of large calibre were dropped during the course of this expedition of which twenty fell on the station at Metz.

"One of our groups of bombing aeroplanes, composed of twenty-three machines, dropped seventy-two shells on the aviation camp at Habsheim and the freight station at Mulhouse. Enemy aeroplanes pursuing our airmen engaged them in an aerial battle during which one French machine and one German machine were forced to descend by their reciprocal machine gun fire. Two other German aeroplanes fell in flames and three of ours were seriously damaged and were obliged to descend in enemy territory."

The other three distilleries are located near Lexington.

Stanley O'Mara, residing south of Soo, has been arrested by Sheriff Bone and Deputy Sayors, on suspicion of having drowned his two young sons in a well February 19.

A GENERAL SURVEY OF THE WAR.

Wednesday, Mar. 16—The latest assault by the German infantry, between Bethincourt and Cumieres, west of the Meuse, resulted in the winning of important positions, but by counter attacks the French succeeded in retaking a portion of the ground, and according to the French official statement hold Bethincourt, the height of Le Mort Homme and the village of Cumieres and the southern boundary of Cumieres wood all positions of great strategic importance.

Advices from Petrograd describe remarkable progress in Persia of the Russian troops, who are moving swiftly over difficult roads and in the face of considerable opposition, toward the Mesopotamian frontier, where shortly they expect to be in touch with the British forces at Kut-el-Amara and the relieving columns under Generals Lake and Aylmer.

Thursday, March 16—There is a wide divergence in the reports of the fighting about Verdun from Paris and Berlin. The Paris report, several hours later than Berlin's, says another strong German attack was delivered against the French positions at Le Mort Homme (Dead Man Hill), in the Verdun region, but the assaulting forces were driven back in the direction of the Corbeaux wood, with heavy losses.

Berlin reports that the French made heavy attacks against German positions on Dead Man Hill, northwest of Verdun, but the assaults have been repulsed, the war office announced. The situation on the rest of the Verdun front is unchanged.

Vienna claims a general Italian attack in the Isonzo district was repulsed.

Friday, March 17—Although reports from Berlin and Paris are contradictory regarding the figthing about Dead Man Mill, the fact that the French hold Bethinourt supports the Paris report that the first named position is in French hands, otherwise Bethincourt would be untenable.

The campaign in the third stage [illegible] Verdun situation and army experts believe the great drive near the end. Germans attacked Vaux and Douaumont in massed formations, Paris says, but were repulsed.

The sinking of the Dutch liner Tubantia and the French liner Fabre, without warning, with Americans on board will be probed at Washington and may bring on another subsea crisis. The resignation of Von Tripitz, Germany's great naval head, is taken to mean that the kaiser has decided to modify the submarine warfare.

Constantinople reports that the British at Kut-el-Amara have been defeated and are retreating.

Saturday, Mar. 18.—The German offensive in the Verdun region, now nearing the end of the fourth week, has again slackened decidedly, both Paris and Berlin reporting the continued absence of infantry operations by either side.

Numerous raids by French aviators are reported by the Paris war office, the points bombardedd including the railway stations of Conflans and Metz.

The capture of an Italian position north of the Tolmino bridgehead on the Isonzo front with 449 prisoners is reported in the Austro-Hungarian headquarters statement from Vienna.

In Arabia the British report a defeat for a Turkish force which attacked an outpost near Anen.

One Man Hangs Three Juries.

TOLEDO, OHIO.—F. K. Wells, a watchman and the juryman who alone was responsible for disagreement in the bribery trial of former Mayor Carl H. Keller, was dismissed from further duty in common pleas court. The Keller jury was the third disagreemnt credited to Wells at this term of court.

A. C. McCall, of Flint, former sheriff and former mayor, who retired as chief of police two years ago after six years in the police department, died suddenly while attending a performance at the Orpheum motion picture theater.

Al. White and Minnie Decker, who eloped from Battle Creek and were married March 5, were arrested at Walkerville and brought back on charges of misrepresenting their ages, which they gave as twenty and eighteen years.

Although he had led his boy to school at Flint, with a rope, Peter La Rocque couldn't keep him there, he told Justice Torrey in police court when being tried under the truancy law. He also tried to pay the boy to attend school.

For the first time in over thirty years the ballot at Lansing this year will not contain the name of Gottlieb Berner as a candidate for constable, owing to a stroke of paralysis. During thirty years he never made an arrest.

Word has been received by Kalamazoo friends of the escape of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Fritts, former Kalamazoo residents, from Chihuahua, Mexico. Mr. Fritts, a former school teacher here, has been in the Congregational missionary in Mexico.

The sale of the D. D. Aitken farm near Flint, Mich., of 125 acres at the north city limits to a local real estate firm is announced. The Aitken farm, which contained a model dairy, was noted throughout the state. The purchase price is given as $100,000.

AMERICANS ARE SLAIN BY VILLA

All Found Along His Retreat Are Killed.

U. S. 110 MILES IN MEXICO

Position of U. S. Flying Squadron Not Permitted by Censor to Be Sent—Bandits Whereabouts Are Located—Appears About Day Ahead of His Pursuers.

COLUMBUS, N. M. (by wireless Mexico. — Reports reaching here said that Francisco Villa and his outlaw band had raided the American colonies in the vicinity of his mountain retreats and killed the residents. The American troops marched more than 110 miles into Mexico, the time consumed being forty-two hours. The columns of the punitive expedition under General Pershing reached (name of town deleted by censor) Sunday, and the disposition of troops began for the task of running down Villa.

On Hot Villa Trail.

The bandit chief passed through only a few days ago and the latest information concerning his present whereabouts gave his location as the ranch of Candelerio Hernandez, one of his lieutenants in the Columbus raid. General Pershing personally led the flying column, in which every man was mounted, and which pressed through a section of Mexico where water is scarce. It was almost record time for so large a body of men. Only a few cavalry horses and mules were lost. The men reached their camp thirsty and hungry but otherwise in good condition and eager for the pursuit of Villa.

Railroad Is Important.

COLUMBUS, N. M. — Owing to the great distance already penetrated by the cavalry and mountain artillery, by means of the forced marches now being made, it is believed that it will become necessary to send food supplies south by train from El Paso and Juarez if the railroad can be kept open. It is understood that the Carranza forces will have no objections to the American forces being supplied in this manner. It will greatly relieve General Pershing's problem of keeping his command supplied with provisions.

Many Mexicans Were Killed.

Reports continue to be brought back to Columbus of the large number of dead Mexicans found along the line of march by the American troops the first few hours of their march into Mexico. The total death toll of Villistas as a result of the raid on Columbus is now said to be at least 200, according to best estimates.

Pershing Divides Forces.

EL PASO, TEXAS. — General John J. Pershing, commanding the American expedition into Mexico, has divided his forces in the hope of catching Villa between them, according to information reaching here.

Early in the morning Pershing is said to have left Casas Grandes for the south, Sunday night he is supposed to have camped in the mountains south of Pearson.

The column under command of Colonel Dodd was sent southeast through Chocolate Pass, it is reported, and is following the trail which the Carranzistas declare Villa took in his retreat south.

General Pershing's plan is to march south parallel with the Mexican Northwestern railroad, hoping to meet or overtake the bandit leader who has passed through the continental divide over the Babicora trail from Las Cruces, where he was reported Saturday. Colonel Dodd is expected to keep on the trail of the bandit and his men either through the continental divide or south from Las Cruces, through Namiquipa towards Guerrero.

Think Villa at Babicora Ranch.

The best information obtainable is that Villa is in the vicinity of the Babicora ranch, having passed through the mountains forming the continental divide, without molestation by the Carranza troops.

In his haste Villa is reported to have abandoned Pablo Lopez, one of his lieutenants, wounded in the raid on Columbus, N. M., at El Valle, when he passed through that place. Lopez was the man who commanded the Mexican force which massacred eighteen Americans at Santa Ysabel in January.

Villa Abandons Lopez.

The news of the abandoning of Lopez by Villa was received in Juarez by General Gavira. The message added about twenty other wounded were abandoned by Villa, to enable him to make better progress in his retreat.

Invitation Won't Be Withdrawn.

CHICAGO, ILL. — Members of the Executive Committee of the Illinois State Bar association here decided not to withdraw the invitation extended to Theodore Roosevelt to address the body in Chicago, April 29.

Maude Adams' Mother Dead.

Salt Lake City, Utah.—Mrs. Annie Adams Kiskadden, mother of Maude Adams, died here. Miss Adams was at the bedside.

S. D. Pepper, judge advocate Michigan National Guard, made an important ruling for militiamen, holding that the members of the militia, while on "actual service" other than riot duty, come within the Michigan workmen's compensation laws and that the state liable for compensation to them for injuries, or to their dependents in case death resulting from injuries.

Before the same altar where Helen Walton, of Sturgis, Mich., radiant and hopeful, plighted her troth to Dickinson H. Bishop, of Dowagiac, Michigan's youngest millionaire, four years ago, the cold and silent form of Helen Walton Bishop was brought Friday afternoon for the reading of the burial service of the Episcopal church by the Rev. Frederick Paterson, the preacher who officiated at the wedding.

A TALK ON PLAY

Play contributes to human progress. We all feel that there is something wrong with the child who does not know how to play. A child's play is as serious to him as your work is to you. When your boy is so busy with his play that he does not hear you call him to dinner, it shows that he has one of the most valuable traits, the power of concentration. If you could bring that same trait to bear on his arithmetic lesson he would soon be the head of his class. But since you can't, better he should develop it in play than not at all.

Many fear that play will weaken the capacity of the child for work, and make it less possible to harness activity and direct it toward definite ends. This fear is groundless because in many cases play lends itself to definite ends much better than work.

A child's play is not always pursued just for the fun of it; play is often painful, Boxing, wrestling, rowing, racing, football, and nearly all hardy games are accompanied by pain. Play courts the difficult and heroic, not necessarily the soft and easy.

Contrary to the idea of many, play can be taught. The effort of learning a a new game does not seem like work to the child because he enjoys it. It has been said: "The measure of the value of play is the amount of work there is in it; and the measure of the value of work is the amount of play there is in it. The learning of a difficult game may not have as much practical value for the child as the mastering of long division, but who will say it does not develop his brain as much.

Boys will throw things; they have the chasing instinct; the collecting instinct, such as marbles, stamps, bugs, eggs, etc.; the constructive instinct. Every healthy boy wants to build something, a hut, a house or a boat Give him a place and an opportunity for these things and he will not be always in trouble over doing them at the wrong time and place.

Play has a definite, positive effect on moral training. If a boy grows up alone at the age of sports and games and does not learns to play baseball, nor skaking, nor fishing, nor hunting, he will be sedentary to the end of his days, and lose one of the most favorable opportunities for developing a spirit of healthful competition, of courage, fairness, loyaltyand sacrifice

When we see what a power we have in our hands for training our children through their play we can only wonder at the way we have wasted it. Anyone who lives near our branch schools or has children attending them knows how much of the children's playtime goes to the roughest kind of play with out any meaning or purpose back of it. The old fashioned games that most of us remember taught speed, quick wit, fairness, and a certain amount of team, work. There is nothing better for a boy or girl than hearty play at such games, or the modern substitutes for them and there is nothing but demoralization in the rough aimless play and worse than unprofitable conversation that now take up more than half the children's playtime. What is needed is supervision of the children's play by someone who understands them and can enter into their spirit. This is nothing new in city schools. It presents difficulties in our system of schools which would be done away with by one central building.

For the older children in spring and fall their play should be out-of-doors on the playground or athletic field. In planing for a new school building, this has been taken into consideration as much as the building itself

Every boy should become interested in baseball, tennis runnning jumping, etc. Girls should play tennis and out-of-door basket-ball etc. for those not prepared to enter the more strenuous games

During the winter months, of course, the greater part of such training must be carried on indoors. It should consist of class drill, basket ball, etc

Where in Tecumseh's schools is there a playroom for the winter months?

In the proposed new school building the larger part of the basement will be used for the purpose of supervised play under the direction of the teachers.

"OH THE SNOW, THE BEAUTIFUL SNOW"

Imagine the surprise and consternation of the people when they awakened Wednesday morning to find a heavy fall of snow on the ground and more coming. Snow shovels, snow plows and vigorous language could be heard all over the village, but the work had to be repeated several times before the storm abated A heavy thunder storm in the night was repeated in a milder form in the morning

March 15. 1912, witnessed a like storm. Joseph H. Smith had several pictures of his home and other places taken that day, on exhibition at the bank Wednesday.

Said one of those who were shovelling for dear life, 'That fellow who wrote the poem on 'The Beautiful Snow' never had to shovel it, or he would have written in a different vein"

It is to be hoped that the Lion that rules part of the month of March will now retire to his den and take a rest.

MAT KINNEY NOW BOOSTS TANLAC.

Decatur Man Tells Friends All About His Relief From Stomach Ills.

Mat Kinney, of Decatur, Michigan, a widely known farmer of that section takes pleasure these days in telling his friends how use of Tanlac, the 'Master Medicine", has given him relief from stomach trouble. A few days ago he made the following statement:

"For a long time I suffered from stomach trouble and flatulency and could get no permanent relief. I would always suffer from gas, after eating! Severe pains in my stomach would cause me much trouble. I had a fine appetite but my digestion was extremely poor. I suffered from malnutrition

"Tanlac was recommended to me and I began its use. To date I feel very much relieved I do not bloat any more. I suffer no more from gas or sour stomach I seem to have more energy and am feeling fine. Tanlac is the first medicine to help me and I can praise it highly." Tanlac may be obtained here at the store of B. J. Pulver,

The Seal's Sense of Smell.

The sense of smell possessed by the seals is very strong and will invariably wake them out of a sound sleep even if you come upon them ever so quietly to the windward, and you will alarm them in this way much more thoroughly, though you be a half mile distant, than if you came up carelessly from the leeward and even walked in among them, they seeming to feel that you are not different from one of their own species until they smell you. The chief attraction in these animals is their large, handsome eyes, which indicate great intelligence. They are a deep bluish black, with a soft, glistening appearance, and the pupil, like the cat's, is capable of great dilation and contraction.

Wheat and Flour.

It takes about four and a half bushels of wheat to make a barrel of flour, but different wheats vary from this estimate. A hard wheat produces more flour to the bushel than a soft wheat. Generally speaking, a bushel of wheat will yield from 70 to 75 per cent of flour of different grades, distributed about as follows: Patent flour, 55 to 60 per cent; bakers' flour, 8 to 10 per cent; red dog, 5 per cent, making approximately 70 to 75 per cent of flour and leaving 25 to 30 per cent of feedstuff—that is bran, shorts etc.—Philadelphia Press.

Inducements to Matrimony.

There prevails in some parts of Brittany a curious marriage custom. On certain fete days the marriageable girls appear in red petticoats, with white or yellow borders around them. The number of borders denotes the portion the father is willing to give his daughter. Each white band denotes [illegible] francs per annum; each yellow [illegible] represents 1,000 francs a year.

Tunnels.

A New York newspaper remarks that "ferries come and ferries go, bridges rise and bridges fall, but tunnels last forever." There is a scientific truth in the observation. Of all works of man earthworks, plain earth mounds sodded over, are about the most enduring. A properly constructed tunnel is essentially a work in earth and so almost as permanent as the great globe itself.—[illegible]

Reptiles Are Shortsighted.

According to a naturalist, serpents, in spite of their reputation for alertness, are very shortsighted. Some of them cannot see more than a yard or two in front of them. Other reptiles are similarly deficient in sense of vision, and the authority asserts that a crocodile cannot see a man at a greater distance than six times its own length. In respect of hearing, many reptiles are even more deficient than in sight. Some serpents are deaf, the boa, it is said, being unable to hear any sound. The term "deaf adder" consequently expresses a fact. In one respect some reptiles show singular acuteness. They have an unerring instinct for water and in dry weather will travel straight to it, even when they are at such long distances that the mystery is how they could possibly become aware of its locality.

JOHN E. MURPHY'S NEW PERCHERON STALLION

The Percheron stallion, Harry 97405, by S. F. Anderson, [illegible] of Michigan's leading breeders of pure bred Percheron horses) was foaled April 6, 1912.

This horse has a showing record equalled by no other Percheron of his age in Michigan. Was shown at the leading state fairs of Michigan and Ohio in 1913 as a yearling, winning first at Marshall, Grand Rapids, Detroit and Adrian and second at Toledo. In 1914 as a 2-year-old he won 4th at the Forest City Fair, Cleveland, and the Ohio State Fair, Columbus, and first at the Michigan State Fair, Detroit. He was never shown without strong competition.

His dam Mineola was first in her class at the Chicago International Stock Show in December, 1908,

His color is black with a few gray hairs mixed through his coat and he weighs about 1800 lbs. He is recorded in the Percheron Society of America and his number is 97405. He has been examined by Dr. Judson Black, secretary of the Michigan State Veterinary Board and received a pure-bred license governed by the laws of the State of Michigan

Harry 97405 will make the season of 1916 at my barn on Tecumseh—Clinton road, 2½ miles north of Tecumseh.

His pedigree and license will be printed on hand bills later, or for further particulars enquire of owner.

Good Judgement and Intelligent Action Save Thumb.

Some Michigan people know what to do when they get a cut or a bruise. Others are panic stricken over external hurts which could be held by a simple liniment as in the case of Mr L. H. SOME RECORD

We hear a good deal these days of public officials tiring of service after a year or two in office The wear and tear of office is too much for them. In the case of Johnathon H Green of Raisin it has been different. Mr. Green is proud of a record of 57 years of continuous service as a director on school district No. 6. He was first elected in 1859 and a great deal of this time he has served as a moderator, being moderator at the present.

Mr. Green bought his farm in Raisin in the spring of 1852 and has since this time made his home there. He is in his 88 year, hale and hearty and writes a good hand without the use of glasses.

A WORTHY AMBITION

Last Sunday there were 816 at the church services in the morning and 738 at the several Sunday-schools. That was a splendid record. Can we beat it next Sunday? The pastors have agreed to try it. Will the people help and make it 1000?

Do as you did last Sunday—faithfully count your audience at the preaching service and at the Sunday-school and 'phone the result to W. B. Hartzog. He will report the result at the union service at 7 o'clock. Everybody be a booster, it is a splendid ambition.

The union service at the Baptist church will be addressed by Rev. E. B. Latham, pastor of the Congregational church, Clinton. Mr. Latham is a sweet spirited and greatly beloved minister. Don't fail to hear his message. If the audience is too large for the church we will have an overflow meeting addressed by one of the pastors at the Presbyterian chapel.

On Monday evening at 7:15, Rev. Fred A. Perry of the College Church, Adrian, will speak at the Baptist church and on Tuesday evening Dr. J. W. Hoyt of the First Baptist church of Jackson will be the speaker.

MILLINERY OPENINGS

The weather man was quite obliging Thursday afternoon, bringing with him a lot of bright sunshine, which he distributed quite lavishly after the dash of zero weather that greeted us in the morning, so the opening day of our milliners was quite a pleasant one.

MISS GRACE GILLESPIE

The store of Miss Gillespie was very neat in its appointments, and her showing of goods was fine. Chic hats, nobby hats, high hats, large and small hats, sober and subdued ones, in all the numerous styles that are effective this spring, with beautiful flowers, gay ribbons, jet and fancy ornaments, made a bewildering display. Call and see for yourself, Miss Gillespie will be pleased to meet you.

MISS ALICE OWENS

The millinery parlors of Miss Alice Owens presented a cozy appearance on its opening day. Plants and ferns were used in decorations, and the display of goods was very effective. That hats have a tendency upwards, was shown by the quaint style of trimmings. Flowers were used in profusion, and the pretty ribbons, gauzy laces, and dainty ornaments, were blended in a charming manner. You have only to suggest your choice and nimble fingers will soon have it in readiness.

RESEARCH CIRCLE

The ladies of the Research Circle were very pleasantly entertained Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. E. N. Satterthwaite at her home on north Union street. A short business session was followed by the election of officers.

We are in receipt of a copy of the Midland Sun of March 9th, an industrial number. The chief industry is that of The Dow Chemical Co. In March, 1910, this company employed 295 men, today it employs 1225 men. In our last issue we announced that Leon McLachlin had just taken a position with this company which makes it more interesting to us. The Sun is full of illustrations of the works, the principal business places, churches and residences of Midland and is very interesting.

Miss Spring Style Makes Her Entry In Tecumseh Wednesday Afternoon.

RECEPTION BY THE WEBSTER ANDERSON CO. AND MISS MYRTLE FOSTER

Miss Spring Style arrived at the Webster Anderson Co's store Wednesday afternoon and was received in the east room which had been decorated for the occasion.

She was represented by Misses Elloise and Genevieve Bolen of Grand Rapids and the Misses Ione Sisson, Hazel Stahler and Philamena Vriken.

In the children's department the little Misses Mary Eleanor Anderson, Esther Brewer, Catherine Heesen and Barbara Williamson were the charming representatives.

The display of spring coats, snappy suits, enchanting evening gowns delightful dinner dresses, handsome house gowns and such an alluring display of millinery.

The young ladies who acted as models assumed the different costumes, and walked up and down the room for the inspection of the guests. A most elegant line was displayed in each department assuring the public that spring style had come to stay.

The window displays were just up to date. The shimmering silks, the dainty laces, the toilet accessories and the jaunty hats drew the attention of the passerby who finally went inside to be further delighted with the spring attractions

This is a new inovation for Tecumseh, but the Anderson Co. store is abreast with the times and spare no pains to make everything pleasant and interesting to their patrons.

TECUMSEH EVIDENCE FOR TECUMSEH PEOPLE

The Statements of Tecumseh Residents Are Surely More Reliable Than Those of Utter Strangers

Home testimony is real proof.

Public statements of Tecumseh people carry real weight.

What a friend or neighbor says compels respect.

The word of one whose home is far away invites your doubts.

Here's a Tecumseh Statement.

And it's for Tecumseh people's benefit.

Such evidence is convincing.

That's the kind of proof that backs Doan's Kidney Pills.

A. C. Aylesworth, W. Chicago, St., Tecumseh, says: "About four years ago, I had an acute attack of lumbago and my kidneys were disordered. I, at length heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and procuring a supply at C. A. Wright & Son's Drug store, I began using them. In a short time I was relieved I have had no return attack of the trouble. I hope other kidney sufferers will read my statement and be led to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial."

Why Have Corns At All When "Gets-It" Removes Them the New, Dead-Sure Way?

salves, and tapes, bandages, and plasters that make corns pop-eyed have only made your corns grow faster, just hold your heart a moment and figure this: Put two drops of "Gets-It" on the corn. It dries at once. You can put your shoe and stocking on right over it. The corn is doomed. It makes the corn come off clear and clean. It's the new, easy way. Nothing to stick or press on the corn. You can wear smaller shoes. You'll be a joy-walker. No pain, no trouble. Accept no substitutes.

"Gets-It" is sold by druggists everywhere, 25c a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Sold in Tecumseh and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by B. J. Pulver. adv

Nothing we gave her seemed to help her, until one day Mrs. Neibert asked me to try Vinol, and now she is hungry all the time, her cough is gone, she is stouter and has a more healthy color. Freeman the Historian.

It was an English bishop who, when the historian Freeman had worn out his patience with his rudeness, introduced him to a waiting audience as "the distinguished scholar that so admirably describes and illustrates the savagery of our ancestors."

About a week ago word was received by Port Huron papers that "Reide Andrews," of Port Huron, had been killed in action "somewhere in France." Andrews turns out to be Harold Thibodeau.

Mrs. Henry Plassa, of Detroit, and the wife of Henry Plassa, a former city assesor, died in a local hospital following an operation. Mrs. Plassa was the great great granddaughter of Martha Washington.

George Serr, prominent farmer of near Corunna and former supervisor of Venice township, waived examination when arraigned on the charge of selling diseased meat to Corunna markets.

Charles Walton, a Pontiac man, injured in the Grand Trunk yards, died at his home. The body was taken to Port Huron, his former home by relatives. He is the third railroad victim in his family.

Paradoxical.

"There was a funny thing about that counterfeit note charge."

"What was it?"

SPECIALISTS IN CHINA.

They Know to a Nicety Just Where Their Work Begins and Ends.

The Englishman knows how to serve, and he knows how to be served, says Isaac Taylor Headland in "Home Life In China," but in the matter of service and serving even the Englishman must take a second place, for the Chinaman has specialized service such as has never been done in Great Britain.

We sometimes think we are specialists in the west. We have our eye specialists, a kind of servant, of course, although I simply use them to illustrate what I wish to say here, but they often combine with the treatment of the eye that of the ear, the nose and the throat. They have not got down to a last analysis of specializing as the Chinese doctor has.

A man had been shot with an arrow, the head of which was buried in the flesh. He tried to pull it out, but the skin had closed over the head, and he was not able to do so. He went to a physician to get him to remove it. The doctor promptly sawed the shaft off close to the skin and then demanded his fee. "But," said the sufferer, "the head of the arrow is still inside."

"Quite right," said the doctor. "I am a specialist. I deal only with outside diseases. If you want the head taken out you will have to go to another specialist who cares for inside ailments."

WON BY DARING WIT.

Story of Czar Paul, His Sacred Snuffbox and a Wager.

Czar Paul's snuffbox was as sacred as the imperial crown itself. No one was allowed to touch it. Kapioff wagered that he would take a pinch out of it.

One morning he walked up to the table which stood near the bed on which the czar still reclined and boldly took from it the majestic snuffbox. Opening it noisily, he inserted his fingers, and, while Paul I. was watching him, in stupefaction at such audacity, he sniffed up the fragrant powder with evident satisfaction.

"What are you doing there, you rogue?" exclaimed the czar excitedly.

"Having a pinch of snuff, sire. I have now been on duty for eight hours, and, feeling drowsy, I thought it would keep me awake, for I would rather break the rules of etiquette than neglect my duty."

Paul burst out laughing and merely replied:

"That's right enough, my lad, but as the snuffbox is not large enough for both of us you can keep it for yourself."

Such a family cough syrup is Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. This standard medicine has been on the market for years and in many sections was found in every home in the days when doctors were not so handy and when money was scarcer.

Postmen In Faroff Days.

Postmen have a very respectable antiquity. They were known, the Sunday at Home points out, in the faroff days of King Hezekiah's reign, some 700 years before Christ. In the thirtieth chapter of the second book of Chronicles we read that "the posts went with the letters throughout all Israel and Judah," and, further, that "the posts passed from city to city through the country of Ephraim and Manasseh." The postman of old was a swift runner, who received the letter from the sender's hand and carried it direct to the person to whom it was addressed.
